The editor of The Beekeepers' Review gives this plan by the use of the bee escape. He says: Frank Coverdale writes me that he has prevented after swarming by hiving the swarm on the old stand, then placing the old hive by its side, with its entrance near that of the newly hived swarm. The old hive is then closed, except that a bee escape is placed in the entrance on the side next to the new hive. Of course every bee that leaves the old hive never gets back, but finds its way into the new swarm. All of the working force and all of the young bees when they come out to play are thrown into the new swarm. In seven or eight days the old hive can be given a new stand, the same as in the Heddon plan, but it will be completely robbed of all the bees except the young, downy, just hatched ones, which is not the case with the Heddon plan, and after swarming will positively be prevented in every case.

If no increase is desired, the escape can be left in place for a longer period—21 days if the weather is warm, or if it is cool it may be taken away at the end of two weeks. When the bees have all hatched out, the few remaining may be shaken off in front of the new swarm and the honey extracted from the combs, or they can be used in any way thought best, or the matter may simply be carried to such an extent that the old colony will be so weakened that not only will it not swarm, but it will not be sufficiently populous for winter, but will still be able to care for and protect the combs until fall, when the two colonies may be united, the better queen being preserved.

Rules For Applying Fertilizers.

George B. Watson, in a report on fertilizers incorporated in a bulletin issued by the Cornell station, offers these general rules in applying plant food under ordinary conditions:

Reclaimed low land rich in vegetable matter is likely to be rich in nitrogen, but deficient in phosphoric acid. Well drained high land, particularly on exposed locations, is more likely to be deficient in nitrogen than phosphoric acid. Where crops have made a small growth of leaf or stalk under otherwise favorable conditions, nitrogen is likely to be deficient in the soil. A large yield of plump, bright grain from a small or moderate growth of straw or stalks would indicate an abundance of phosphoric acid and potash and a deficient amount of nitrogen. An abnormal growth of leaf or stalk with a small yield of light grain would indicate an abundance of nitrogen and an insufficient amount of phosphoric acid and potash. As a rule, plants having the greatest leaf development require the most potash.

Farm manures that have been well cared for contain about twice as much nitrogen as phosphoric acid, and consequently land that has received recent liberal applications of barn manures is not likely to be deficient in nitrogen. High grade fertilizers generally give more plant food for their cost than those of low grade. Pure sodium nitrate (Chili saltpeter) in 100 pounds contains 16.5 pounds of nitrogen. Pure ammonium sulphate in 100 pounds contains 21.2 pounds of nitrogen. Pure chloride or muriate of potash in 100 pounds contains 63.5 pounds of actual potash. Pure sulphate of potash in 100 pounds contains 54 pounds of actual potash. Kainit should contain in 100 pounds about 12.5 of potash. The best results from sodium nitrate are secured by frequent applications of small amounts on the growing crop as a top dressing.

The Decay of Winter Sports In Canada.

The average inhabitant of the "States" in going to Canada in the winter time expects, I have no doubt, to see the streets and hillsides covered with snowshoes and toboggans. He may be surprised to learn that there is but one really good toboggan slide in Canada, and that is at Montreal, while snowshoers are numbered now by tens where formerly they were counted by hundreds. It is simple enough to understand what has brought about this change in what is usually accepted as the typical Canadian winter sport.

A few years ago, when tobogganing and snow shoeing flourished purely for the great sport furnished, the professional impresario, aided by the hotel proprietor, conceived the idea of booming Montreal and incidentally enriching themselves by holding winter carnivals, the main expenses of which were borne by Montreal merchants. For a time they drew largely, and Canada was literally alive with snowshoes and toboggans, but anon they palled, and the last much advertised "carnival" was highly uninteresting from a spectator's point of view.—Harper's Weekly.

The Andalusians belong to the Spanish family, all of which are great layers of eggs, large for so small fowls. Their plumage is slaty blue, from light blue to very dark blue, approaching black.

Keep the chickens growing. Feed is the keynote, the most important point.

Fresh grass in abundance is an important item where good, strong chicks are desired, and grass is cheaper than grain.

Separate the pullets from the cockerels just as soon as the sexes can be clearly distinguished.

Provide shelter from rain and sun.

"They used to tell me when I was a boy," said a middle aged man, "that if I would hold up to my ear a seashell of a certain kind I would hear in it the murmuring of the sea. I have tried it many times, and it never failed.

"Now comes my son, a boy of 12, who holds up a tumbler at the dinner table and says:

"'Pop, do you want to hear the sea murmur?'

"And [illegible] yes, and then he holds the mouth of [illegible] tumbler to his ear, and I do likewise [illegible] mine, and bless my heart! there's the murmur, sure enough.

"And then the boy goes on to talk about sound waves and to tell me just what makes the sound in the tumbler and all that sort of thing. And I say to myself it's a fine thing, no doubt, the advanced education that the boys of the present generation are getting, and yet I am not altogether pleased to have one of the pleasantest of old fancies disposed of so summarily. I like tumblers well enough to drink out of, but I think I'd rather have my sea murmurings out of a seashell."—New York Sun.

The Monkey's Thumb.

Here is a little bit of natural history which must be remembered about monkeys. All the monkeys of the old world have some kind of a thumb. As Mr. St. George Mivart, a great zoologist writes, "Any old world monkey with a rudimentary thumb (that is, a thumb even if imperfect) is superior in that respect to an American monkey." In fact the American monkey has no thumb at all. Nature compensates in a measure for this defect in our new world monkey by giving him a wonderful tail. This American monkey tail is prehensile. It answers almost the purpose of a fifth limb. A South American monkey gives his tail a single hitch around the limb of a tree, and there he hangs quite comfortably, independent of hands or feet.—Harper's Young People.

THE NAVAHOE'S OCEAN PASSAGE.

The Navahoe has arrived at the Isle of Wight after a passage of twenty-nine days, which is eight and a half days [illegible] made by the [illegible] in the fall of 1886, when she [illegible] to England. The Navahoe encountered [illegible] days of rough weather and proved a good [illegible] which the English yacht Queen [illegible] did not. The latter yacht had such [illegible] that her sailing master does not want to re-cross the Atlantic in her. Under favorable breezes the Navahoe made 238 and 254 knots on different [illegible] was a [illegible] over ten knots an hour, with favoring winds. Her racing spars have arrived in England, and when she is in racing trim the English people will have a chance to decide whether she is a match for the Valkyrie, Satanita, or the Britannia.

It is claimed that these English yachts sailed over a fifty mile course recently in about [illegible] and one-quarter hours. This is an average of over fifteen knots an hour, and it will take a wonderful [illegible] to beat the time of these English flyers.

The Puritan and Genesta made less than ten knots in their day; and the best time of the Volunteer and Thistle only a little over the [illegible].

The Dauntless in her great ocean race once made thirteen and two-thirds knots an hour for twenty-four hours, in a gale of wind.

It is well that the Navahoe has her record yet to make. She is to sail in every race open to her, and there is no doubt she will make a good record. She will have a struggle to beat these crack boats as the English claim to have pitted against her, and if the Navahoe comes off the victor she will tell well for the judgment and genius of her American designer.

HEROIC FIREMEN.

The destruction of the lives of forty firemen by the burning of the cold storage building on the Chicago fair grounds on Monday makes that calamity the most heart-rending of any that has occurred for the past fifteen years.

Such a story of valor and sacrifice brings home to all of us the dangers which firemen are called upon to face for the protection of private property, and the heroism and personal sacrifices which these men display [illegible] in the service of the public.

The million and a half dollars worth of property lost is as nothing compared to this cost in human life. And it is to be hoped Chicago will not forget these heroes when she is making up her list of pensioners. No soldier's widow ever more deserved a pension than the wives and the families dependent upon these cremated men who in battling fire for the protection of the people lost their own lives.

Such events as these ought to quicken the public appreciation of the services constantly rendered by the firemen in every city.

STORRS COLLEGE.

The Storrs Agricultural college will in future admit young women; and with five new departments has widened its usefulness for the special work for which it was founded.

The new organization of the institution contemplates the teaching of horticulture, veterinary science, domestic science, higher English and wood and iron work. The domestic science department is to be taught by a young woman graduated by a western agricultural college; and all the new departments will be in the hands of capable teachers.

The course will cover four or five years, as a student may elect, and the practical branches taught will make the purpose of the institution complete.

It is gratifying to see this advance made for the improvement of this eastern Connecticut institution. We hope this college will be made a model among the colleges of its class, and that eastern Connecticut will have reason to be proud that it is located within her borders.

THE ROOT BEER SEASON.

The Hartford Courant has been looking into the root beer business of that city. This is the time of year people drink fancy drinks, and it is interesting to note the amount of root beer that is drunk in the section of country served by three Hartford firms. In the past fifteen years the sale of one kind of this beer has increased from less than a thousand bottles in a season to nearly three millions a year; and each bottle makes five gallons of drinkable beer. This means fourteen and a half million gallons drunk of one brand.

The three Hartford houses last year sold over five and a half millions of bottles, which would have made nearly twenty-nine millions of gallons of root beer. Carrying out the account The Courant says: "Each bottle retails for twenty cents, so there were paid out in 1892 for these three kinds of root beer $1,152,000. Counting five gallons to the bottle and sixteen glasses to the gallon, it is found that the people who got their root beer from Hartford drunk in 1892 460,844,480 glasses of this temperance beverage, which is seven glasses for every man woman and child in the country."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

At the Sandwich Islands questionable stories are called "Nordhoffs!"

The New Haven Register thinks the new board of state prison directors has made a mistake in requesting Gen. Chamberlin to resign, and would like to see the old warden reinstated.

Senator Hawley says: "To me the present financial situation is the most extraordinary one of the subdivision of parties that has come up since I have known anything of politics."

Many newspapers are condemning the silver dollar who do not refuse to take it for advertising at its face value, and who offer it to their men as the equivalent of gold. How mad they would be if their employes took them at their word and refused to accept silver money at other than bullion rates!

The condition at Mecca is said to be much worse than reported. The number of deaths are twice the number officially announced. In the Valley of Mouna it is impossible to bury the dead, and the road between Mecca and Mouna is strewn with the bodies of pilgrims left lying where they died.

Since 1888 there have been released in the Hudson river about twenty-five million salmon fry and the salmon have begun to return. The first salmon known to rise to a fly on the Hudson was recently caught by H. S. Miller with red [illegible] line after a battle lasting half a hour. Salmon are said to be seen by the score lying in the pools, and there is a prospect of excellent fishing there.

A new naval department order was issued by Secretary Herbert Monday, which [illegible] enlisted men in the navy to secure a discharge after three months of service, by paying 25 per cent. of their yearly pay. Then, month by month, the rate will be raised by stages of five per cent. During the fourteenth month the maximum price of purchasable discharge will rule, and then by stages of five per cent. reductions from that standard the price will decrease till during the thirty-fourth month any enlisted man can be discharged for the asking. This is a way of allowing men who are sick of the service to get out of it, and the service will undoubtedly be benefited by it.

Now Dr. McGlynn is in the Catholic fold and Bishop Corrigan seems to be in a fair way of getting out of it, by being worse by Satolli than McGlynn did by him. The doctor said Monday: "The doctrines I have taught have been examined by Mgr. Satolli and four other theologians, and they found there was nothing in them contrary to the teachings of the Catholic church. All of my speeches during the last few years were but thirty disguised sermons. I always tried to put into them a religious spirit. When I was restored to the church I was not compelled to make retractions of these teachings. When I received an invitation to speak at the World's fair I had no hesitancy in accepting. In fact, I was glad to get an opportunity to expound Christ's teaching there."

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

The Cause of the Panic.

An administration organ in this city remarks that "our own financial earthquake has had a plain and unmistakable cause, and we are fortunate indeed that it is thus unmistakable." This free trade journal tells the truth. The cause of the recent panic in commercial and industrial circles is beyond question. It is a cause that began to operate from the hour at which it was known that Grover Cleveland had been elected on the Chicago platform and that a congress pledged to overthrow all protection as "unconstitutional" had been elected with him.—[New York Press.

Make a Note of It.

If the repeal of the silver purchase law is defeated at all it will be defeated by democratic votes.—[Toledo Commercial.

A Tough Pull.

If an election was to be held tomorrow Illinois would give 20,000 republican majority. Pulling down the flag and pulling out bomb throwers are not popular in Illinois.—[Chicago Inter Ocean.

He Can't Afford to Talk.

Secretary Carlisle appears to place all the stress of an old timed politician on the value of silence. There is reason to believe that he is wise in pursuing this policy. A man whose cabinet career has been, from the start, a conspicuous and lamentable failure cannot afford to do much talking.—[Kennebec Journal.

Course of Those on Heaven's Highway.

The Christian Endeavor membership has grown from 68 in 1881 to 1,500,000 in 1893. This doesn't look as if the cause of religion were suffering from retrogression.—[Uniontown News.

Libel on a Whole Sex.

The only way to manage a man is by firmness. The average husband if he can bully his wife will do so, and that is the reason why most women are bullied more or less.—[A Woman in the Ladies' Home Journal.

NEW MAGAZINES.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER is a new magazine, and its motto is: "Pensions are not alms!" It has a handsomely illuminated cover. The object of the periodical is to see that justice is done to the old veterans and pensioners. The first number contains one of the finest colored portraits of Lincoln ever issued. There is to be a colored portrait with each number. Among the interesting papers of the first number are: "The American Soldier," "Humors of the War," "An Average American," "Hon. Hoke Smith," "Pensions and Pension Frauds." National Publishing company, Mail and Express building, New York.

THE LITERARY NORTHWEST for July contains the following readable papers: "Hamlin Garland," "Rifle Practice in the United States," and "A Short-term Exile," illustrated; "A Drama of Five Worlds" and "In the Court of the Gentiles," with portraits of the authors. "A Mutual Intolerance," "To the Land of Dacotah," "The Boarding School," "Hawaiian Reminiscence," "How I Killed My First Grizzly," and "The Pope's Blessing." There are six poems. The frontispiece is a portrait of Hamlin Garland. D. D. Merrill Co., publishers, New York.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

Big Dinners.

Every day in this city thousands of persons eat too much at dinner, and, in consequence, suffer from sour stomach, heartburn, indigestion, dyspepsia, etc. If these will take just one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after eating, they will be surprised by the entire absence of those unpleasant feelings which daily distress them, and may continue in their improper course of eating big dinners without fear. Only one little pill, remember.

The Father of Many Ills.

Constipation leads to a multitude of physical troubles. It is generally the result of carelessness or indifference to the simplest rule of health. Eugene McKay of Brantford, Ont., writes:

"I had for several years been a sufferer from constipation, had taken a great many different remedies, some of which did me good for a time, but only for a time, then my trouble came back worse than ever. I was induced by a friend, whom BRANDRETH'S PILLS had benefited, to try them. Took two each night for a week, then one every night for about six weeks. Since that time I have not experienced the slightest difficulty whatever, and my bowels move regularly every day. I believe firmly that for sluggishness of the bowels and biliousness BRANDRETH'S PILLS are far superior to any other."

Smart weed and Belladonna, combined with the other ingredients used in the best porous plasters, make Carter's S. W. & B. Backache Plasters the best in the market. Price 25 cents.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhœa, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Ayer's Pills promptly remove the causes of sick and nervous headaches. These Pills speedily correct irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels, and are the mildest and most reliable cathartic in use. No one should be without them.

If you had taken two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring you would not have had that coated tongue or bad taste in the mouth this morning. Keep a vial with you for occasional use.

A Young Girl's Fortune

AN INTERESTING SKETCH.

Nothing appeals so strongly to a mother's affection as her daughter just budding into womanhood. Following is an instance: "Our daughter, Blanche, now [illegible] years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to keep her from school and abandon her music lessons. In fact, we feared St. Vitus dance, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 106 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles' Nervine has brought her.

When my brother recommended the remedy I had no faith in patent medicines, and would not listen to him, but as a last resort he sent us a bottle, we began giving it to Blanche, and the effect was almost immediate."—[Mrs. R. S. Bullock, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

Interest in the Great MID-SUMMER SALE does not flag or lag. All this week it will continue and there is no person who can afford to miss it. There is something here to interest everybody. There can't help but be in stock the largest and most comprehensive of any store in Eastern Connecticut.

By all means attend the Great Mid-Summer Sale.

And now here is something Wholly and Exclusively for Women's Eyes.

A July sale of Women's Dainty White Cotton Underwear that is destined to make this month as eventful one for all who are fortunate enough to see this advertisement.

A sale of Women's White Cotton Underwear that for the quantity of high grade goods—the excellence of material and make, outranks all its predecessors.

They've just come—a wonderful array of choice ideas in all kinds of Cotton Underwear. It is a sample line from the best Manufacturer of Muslin Underwear that this country knows.

Of course they are slightly soiled and somewhat mussed—why shouldn't they be?—they've travelled from Maine to California and been exhibited to the leading merchants in every large city in the country—but the prices will make that all right.

It embraces everything that they make from the cheapest to the highest grade goods in the market—1,500 pieces of Underwear—nearly $1,000.00 worth—and no two pieces alike—what a choice in there?

The prices for these goods are from 25 to 40 per cent. under the regular retail prices and from 15 to 25 per cent. under the maker's prices for hundred dozen lots.

It is no use to try and enumerate the styles and prices—every garment is different—every price has a distinct individuality. The only way is to see them.

There are Corset Covers for 16c and up to $3.50.
Drawers for 25c and up to $2.50.
Chemises for 25c and up to $5.00.
Skirts for 39c and up to $5.00.
Night Gowns for 49c and up to [illegible]
SPECIAL—Ladies' Combination Chemise and Skirt for $1.08 and up to $3.00. A few only.
Plenty of intermediate prices in all them.

With them are White Garments for Infants.

As follows:
Infants' Long Dresses for 75c and up to $5.00.
Infants' Long Skirts for 39c and up to [illegible]
Infants' Short Dresses for [illegible] and up to $4.50.
Infants' Short Skirts for 25c and up to $1.25.

All these goods go on sale this morning. There are no duplicates, so get a good choice if you can. Extra room will be given and extra salespeople will be in attendance so that everybody will be attended to as speedily as possible.

The Bulletin.

A TRUE INCIDENT.

The lesson hour was nearly past
When I asked of my scholars seven,
"Now, tell me each one, please, in turn,
What sort of a place is heaven?"

"Oh, meadows, flowers and lovely trees!"
Cried poor little North street Kitty,
While Dorothy, fresh from country lanes,
Was sure 'twas "a great, big city."

Bessy, it seemed had never thought
Of the home beyond the river.
She simply took each perfect gift
And trusted the loving Giver.

Then up spoke Edith, tall and fair;
Her voice was clear and ringing
And led the Easter anthem choir,
"In heaven they're always singing."

To [illegible] in richest furs,
'Twas a place for "outdoor playing."
But [illegible] drew her thin shawl close—
For "warmth and food" she was praying.

The desk bell rang. But one child left—
My sober, thoughtful Florry:
"Why, heaven just seems to me a place—
A place where you're never sorry."
—W. B. Allen in Sunday School Times.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

An English watchmaker exhibits an engine of 120 distinct pieces (not including 25 bolts and screws) which could be hidden in a lady's thimble.

Sir John Herschel says that if a solid cylinder of ice 45 miles in diameter and 200,000 miles long were plunged end first into the sun it would melt in a second of time.

Scientists are of the opinion that Avery's Island, situated in the delta of the Mississippi, is composed below the top soil entirely of salt. The salt occurs in more or less transparent masses and is quarried for export.

Should the earth collide with another world of equal bulk, it is claimed the heat generated would be sufficient to melt, boil and completely vaporize a mass of ice fully 700 times the bulk of both the colliding worlds—in other words an ice planet 180,000 miles in diameter.

NATURAL PHENOMENA.

The highest volcano is Popocatepetl, Mexico—17,748 feet, with a crater a mile in diameter and 1,000 feet deep.

It has lately been calculated that at least 60 per cent of the earthquakes recorded all the world over have occurred during the six winter months of the year.

The Giant's Staircase, near Cork, is a singular freak of nature. Sixteen huge knobs protrude one above the other from the face of a very steep ascent, forming a flight of steps of striking regularity.

At the entrance of the harbor of Bastia, in Corsica, is a rock which bears striking likeness to a lion couchant, even to the mane, which is formed by a thick growth of bushes and creeping plants.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 11.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 10 per cent and time money nominally 6 per cent.

To the satisfaction of those who predicted further declines today, London sent lower prices than our closing quotations. St. Paul and Louisville and Nashville came down ½, Union Pacific ½ and Northern Pacific preferred 1 per cent. There is some uneasiness expressed as to the outcome of today's settlements there. Already two small failures have been reported. Those well informed, however, say that nothing serious is to be feared, as the condition is only of small amount, and had been practically provided for yesterday.

Kansas City, on this side, has become the center of some [illegible]. The Kansas City Deposit and Savings Bank company closed its doors this morning, while an important commission house is reported in trouble. Aside from this the news of the day was fairly favorable.

The local market opened [illegible] and irregular. General Electric was the object of attack on the part of the bears, the removal of the dividend giving them the desired opportunity. The final sale yesterday was [illegible] and the opening here this morning "ex-dividend," was [illegible], whence it slid down to [illegible]. Atchison was ½ weaker at [illegible], though Boston was said to be a buyer of the stock. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy opened from [illegible] to [illegible], but subsequently recovered. Sugar opened down from [illegible] to [illegible] and sold to [illegible], and Boston and Albany opened 1 down at [illegible], advanced to [illegible]. New England holds steady about [illegible].

DEATH A MYSTERY.

No New Light on the North Attleboro Case.

HOW DID McCARTHY LOSE HIS LIFE?

Authorities Very Reticent About the Matter.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 11.—The mystery surrounding the supposed murder of Patrick McCarthy is no nearer a solution than it was at first.

The authorities are not only reticent, but are in total ignorance of any kind of a clew. Deputy Sheriff Brown arrived last night from New Bedford, where he had been attending court, and went immediately at work on the case.

The towel which was found near the place of the murder has proved to be an old cloth that was left at the pond by some bathers.

All those who are officially connected with the case are very cautious, and generally decline to give any information. The selectmen are doing everything in their power and have gone so far to have the boats in Whiting's yard examined for blood stains.

It was rumored last night that the officers had found a place which bore evidence of being the one where McCarthy met his death. This is not far from the saloon of Kennedy, where McCarthy was last seen drinking. An officer was interviewed in relation to the matter, and he said that the town was full of lies, and this was one of them.

The officers are now trying to find out who the men were who were drinking with McCarthy in Kennedy's saloon. One man in particular, who was a stranger in town, cannot be found, and he is known to have been with the crowd that left Kennedy's about 11 o'clock Saturday night with McCarthy.

The fact that there was no blood on the clothes of McCarthy when the body was found in the pond was one of the things that the authorities are now inquiring into. It is claimed by many that, if McCarthy was murdered before being thrown into the pond, his clothes

Would Be Saturated With Blood.

The police say that it is impossible to find any kind of a motive for the crime. The members of the murdered man's family have been carefully questioned by the officials, and they continue to assert that the murdered man had not an enemy in the world.

The swamp theory that has been advanced by some is exploded, and the officers say the fake death of McCarthy was caused by a fight after he left the saloon of Kennedy at 11 o'clock Saturday night.

The members of the family state that McCarthy was in the habit of visiting Whiting's pond, and would go there in the evening as well as the daytime. This fact has led many to believe that the dead man, while in an intoxicated condition, walked up to the pond and fell in, but this theory is demolished by the fact that the lungs and heart that were examined at the autopsy revealed the fact that Death Did Not Result From Drowning.

The officers will not even hint about any new evidence which may have been found. This had caused a good many things to have been told for facts which, upon investigation have proved to be false. At 6 o'clock this morning it was rumored that an arrest had been made, but this was not true.

The authorities, however, have one man under surveillance, and before long, it is positively known, there will be an arrest.

IMPROVE THE CODE.

[illegible] Proposals to Simplify the Signals For Merchant Vessels.

LONDON, July 11.—A dispatch from Boulogne to The Times says France has submitted to England and America proposals to improve and simplify the code signals of the merchant shipping. If these proposals be approved an international conference on the subject will be held.

France suggests the addition of five other flags, which will make possible [illegible] extra signals. The reform is necessary on account of the increase of the speed of the vessels, which curtails the period of interview.

BISMARCK'S BURDEN.

Relieved Its Weight by a Toast to the Memory of Emperor William I.

BERLIN, July 11.—Prince Bismarck entertained at luncheon in Friedrichsruhe yesterday 40 merchants of German chambers of commerce.

In responding to the toast to his health, he said that he could bear a great many demonstrations of affection, as he was burdened with a heavy load of hatred.

In conclusion, he called upon the company to drink in silence to the memory of Emperor William I, "who ever will live [illegible] in the recollection of the people as a model of magnanimity, honor and gratitude."

Brookline Builder Suspends.

BOSTON, July 11.—Eugene R. Knapp, the Brookline builder, has been forced to make an assignment for the protection of his creditors. The assignees are Arnold A. Rand of the Massachusetts title insurance company and S. Walker Jones. Stringency in the money market prohibiting the sale of property is given as the reason for Mr. Knapp's difficulties.

Railroad Man Dead.

COHASSET, Mass., July 11.—John J. Lincoln, well known in railroad circles, died here this morning of consumption, aged 63. He left a wife three sons and two daughters. He was a member of the Knights of Honor. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon. For many years he was station agent at Cohasset.

Whisky Directors Meet.

PEORIA, Ills., July 11.—The directors of the Distillers, Cattle and Feeding company met in regular session here yesterday morning. President Greenhut stated that they were not ready to give anything out for publication. The greater part of the day had been devoted to routine matters.

Killed by a Bursting Wheel.

LYNN, Mass., July 11.—Paul Christi, 40 years of age, an employe of the Thomson-Houston electric works at Lynn, was instantly killed this afternoon by the bursting of an emery wheel at the iron foundry where he was at work. He lived at 66 Federal street and leaves a family.

Captains to Be Courtmartialed.

LONDON, July 11.—The Malta correspondent of the Graphic reports that the captains of several vessels which took part in the maneuvers of the Mediterranean squadron off Tripoli will be courtmartialed for not having obeyed Admiral Tryon's fatal signal.

DeWolf Hopper's Chorus Girl.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Lawyer Hummel says he has found that the correspondent in the case in which Mrs. Hopper No. 1 got a divorce from DeWolf was a chorus girl in Hopper's company.

CONGRESS OF AUTHORS.

Great Collection of Leading Literary Lights at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 11.—At 8 o'clock last evening the congress of authors and literary men of high renown began with a general meeting, which was in the nature of a reception. Today the actual work began, when five separate congresses convened simultaneously in different halls. These are the congresses of authors, philologists, folk lore students, historians and historical students and the librarians.

In all of these divisions questions of paramount interest to authors and writers in general will be discussed. So many literary lights were probably never gathered together. Among them are: Walter Besant, Charles D. Warner, Richard Watson Gilder, W. O. Bryant, Dr. Max Richter, A. R. Spofford, Sir Henry Earle, Sir Frederick Pollock, Henry Arthur Jones, Mrs. E. P. Terhune (Marion Harland), Mrs. D. Lathrop, Mrs. Hezekiah Butterworth, George W. Cable and Thomas Nelson Page.

WITH THE CADETS.

Lieutenant Governor Wolcott In Camp and Reviews the Corps.

HINGHAM, Mass., July 11.—Lieutenant Governor Wolcott arrived in camp about noon, having left Boston on the 10:45 a. m. boat. He was met at Downer Landing upon the arrival of the steamer by Captain Charles E. Stevens, paymaster of the cadets, and escorted to the campground, where, at the entrance, the guard was paraded and rendered the salute due his rank.

He was received at the headquarters marquee by Lieutenant Colonel Thomas F. Edmands and the officers of the corps, and cordially welcomed to the camp.

The lieutenant governor with Colonel Donohoe, Colonel Kesler and Colonel Carter of Governor Russell's staff, who accompanied him, dined at the officers' mess. At 4 p. m. his honor reviewed the corps.

FIGHTING INDIANS.

Desperate Battle Between the Yaquis and Mexican Cavalry.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A special to The Times from Hermosillo, Mex., says: A courier arrived here today from the Yaqui Indian country bringing official information of a desperate battle between the Yaquis and a troop of Mexican cavalry commanded by Lieutenant Benito Rocha, one of the bravest officers of the army. In the early part of the fight, Lieutenant Rocha was shot and killed.

The force of Indians outnumbered the soldiers two to one, and the latter were compelled to retreat. The fight took place yesterday in a remote section of the Sierra Madre mountains, this state. No report has been received here as to the number of killed and wounded on either side.

KAISER WILL COME

If American Anarchists Are Found to Be In a [illegible] Mood.

CHICAGO, July 11.—There is a rumor that the Emperor of Germany will visit the World's fair before the end of September.

It is intimated that a sort of private committee of arrangements has already left Berlin. This committee will test the feelings of the American anarchists and others supposed not to be over friendly to Wilhelm.

Herr Wermuth, the German imperial commissioner, would say nothing regarding the letters of inquiry said to have been sent to German consuls in America. He said he heard nothing officially, and would not discuss the question.

LAWRENCE ALL RIGHT.

Agent Clarke Says There Is No Fear of Mills Suspending Operations.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 11.—Agent F. E. Clarke of the Pemberton mills add further testimony to the opinions of the other mill agents in Lawrence in regard to the possibility of closing the mills. He says there is no fear of the mills suspending.

"We are not selling so many goods on account of the depressed financial condition of the country," said Agent Clarke. "The decrease is attributed to the lack of confidence and the uncertainty that prevail. The situation, however, is not one to excite alarm, and it is not probable that the mills will be obliged to suspend operations."

The Duck and Philip and Kenhardt mills are running at their fullest capacity. So are the paper mills.

With the financial depression, business at the Davis & Furber's Machine company's works has been steadily diminishing, and on Saturday night some 20 machinists were discharged, owing to the dullness. This is the largest woolen machinery manufactory in America.

In connection with the plant is a card clothing establishment. Its output exceeds that of any other factory in the United States, and it ranks among the largest in the world. Here, also, business is unusually quiet and the works are running only five days a week now. At the Stevens & Sutton's mills, in North Andover, business is very good.

STONECUTTER MISSING.

Bangor Man Mysteriously Disappears Sunday, July 2.

BANGOR, Me., July 11.—John Hix, an English stonecutter, who came to Bangor from Minneapolis about two weeks and went to work for Bangor stonecutters, is missing. He only worked two days, and was last seen on Sunday, July 2.

He is an unmarried man, of good habits, and there was no reason for his sudden departure. He had some money when he left.

On Sunday night a man was seen lurking around the stoneyard, and Hix's friends think that it was he, although an immediate search of the premises failed to discover any one.

Hix is about 35 years old, with dark complexion and small dark moustache. He is rather short in stature and weighs about 145 pounds.

Big New Bedford Blaze.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 11.—An alarm of fire at 10:40 this morning called the district department to the wholesale grocery establishment of William Potter & Co., at the foot of Union street, and the structure, one of the oldest in the city, was completely wrecked. Loss on stock of the firm, $40,000; partially insured.

Miantonomah Goes to Boston.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The Miantonomah, instead of the Vesuvius, it is now given out, will accompany the flagship San Francisco when the latter goes to Boston for the summer cruise of the Massachusetts naval battalion. Both ships are to leave here for Boston, July 15.

Farmers Lost Everything.

FERGUS FALLS, Minn., July 11.—The hail storm which struck this county Saturday evening was one of the most disastrous that has visited this county. East of this city hundreds of farmers lost everything and $100,000 will not cover the loss.

Not Case of Suicide.

BOSTON, July 11.—The autopsy on J. B. Hazeltine, the young man drowned in Jamaica pond a few days since, showed beyond a doubt that a hemorrhage attacked him and rendered him helpless. It was not a case of suicide.

STRICKEN SANTOS.

People Dying by Thousands of Yellow Fever.

PLACE IS NEARLY DEPOPULATED.

Dead Bodies Floating by Hundreds in the River.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—The brig Odorilla, Captain Holland, has arrived her from Santos. The captain is the only survivor of the original crew, eight men having succumbed to the ravages of yellow fever.

Captain Holland's description of the misery and sufferings from the yellow fever in Santos is heartrending. Thousands have been stricken with the disease and have died.

Business was at a complete standstill, and there were 45 vessels lying in the Santos river without their crews.

Anchored near the Odorilla were fully 20 vessels, every one of which had lost her captain.

Captain Murphy of the bark Privateer, Captain Lane of the bark Earl of Granada, Captain Berryman of the bark Mary Chapman and Captain Mitchell of the bark Enterprise, all died shortly after their vessels reached the harbor.

The London and Brazil bank closed its doors shortly before the Odorilla left, every one of its employes having been Carried Off by the Dreadful Scourge.

The Brazilian and South American bank was compelled to do likewise.

The members of the firm of Zerener, Bato & Co., consignees of the Odorilla, have nearly all died.

On March 8, Charles Wadsworth, the American vice consul, died, and the vessel could not get any consular certificate upon her departure from that port.

Captain Holland believes the entire port will, in a short time, be completely depopulated.

While the Odorilla lay at Santos the death rate daily averaged 310, and in the river in all stages of decay.

The government has exhausted every means looking toward a suppression of the spread of the disease. Three gigantic hospitals have been erected for the cure of those stricken with the fever, and they are crowded to their utmost capacity.

The patients die more rapidly than their bodies can be disposed of. No services are ever held over the bodies of any unfortunates, and they are thrown into long trenches.

On April 28, when Captain Holland made sail from the pest hole, the fever was on the increase.

MINES NOT CLOSED.

Montana Properties Still In Operation But Losing Money.

HELENA, Mont, July 11.—Last week did not witness the closing down of any Montana silver mines of any importance, nor were there reports that any were to be closed soon. It costs a great deal to close down the big properties and then resume after a short period, and the companies are keeping their mines going under the belief that the present conditions are temporary only, and that in a few days silver will be again worth 81 cents or more.

It is hard to tell exactly what it costs to produce silver bullion, as the condition and expense vary widely in the different mines; but it is safe to say that under the present scale of wages every silver mine running in this state today is losing money fast.

Tufts College In Luck.

BOSTON, July 11.—Tufts college is to have another important addition to its educational facilities. The latest to be announced is the establishment of a scientific and manual training school for students of both sexes. The school is made possible by the receipt of a fund for its maintenance, which comes to the college under the will of Henry B. Pearson.

Mexican Ministers Recalled.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 11.—The newspaper El Tiempo states that Mexico's ministers plenipotentiary, excepting her representatives at Washington and Madrid will be temporarily recalled. The paper also states that Minister Romero has been requested to remain in Washington and not to make his contemplated trip to Japan.

Missing Six Weeks.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 11.—Schooner Ella Jane, Captain Christie, of Port Jefferson, left Stamford for Elizabeth, N. Y., to load with coal six weeks ago. She has not been heard from since. Alonzo Toles of Stamford, half owner of the vessel, fears she was blown out to sea and lost with her crew of three men. There were provisions for one week on board.

Bill Collector Willetts Worse.

PORTLAND, Me., July 11.—I. T. Willetts, the bill collector, who was shot at Cape Elizabeth yesterday, is worse this morning. The doctors have so far failed to find the bullet. He will lose the sight one eye, and more serious results are feared. He is said to be unable to add anything to what he said after he was shot. The case is still a complete mystery.

Pensioners Dropped From the Rolls.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., July 11.—Pension Attorney John W. Kighney of this place said yesterday that there are 250 veterans in Montgomery county who are receiving pensions under the act of June 27, 1890. Under the recent ruling of the pension department the names of 25 or more will be dropped from the list.

Boy Raved and Gnawed.

NEW YORK, July 11.—Piteously crying and struggling in the frightful throes of hydrophobia, 10-year-old-old Joseph Rhein lay last night in a small room of his parents, in the third story of a tenement house at 284 Belmont avenue, Newark. He raved and gnawed the bedclothing, and the united efforts of five strong men were required to restrain him, and even then he threw them from him repeatedly. The boy was bitten by a bulldog. The dog has bitten several other persons.

We have been time and again asked the question why the Chilton Paints have such a high gloss. The Chilton Paint Co. is buying linseed oil, contracts for "prime, well-settled, old-fashioned, raw linseed oil." This is, being interpreted, oil crushed from prime or first quality linseed and which has been tanked and allowed to settle. The oil is then drawn from the upper part of the tank, leaving undisturbed the lower part. "Old-fashioned linseed oil" is from seed crushed and pressed instead of a recent method called the naptha process. Having obtained this oil, the Chilton Co. tank it again, and the oil gradually loses what little moisture it originally possessed and becomes very heavy bodied. It is this cause and the seven mixings and grindings given each shade, crushing and grinding each particle of pigment into each particle of oil that produces the lustre. On well painted houses the gloss alone has been known to last three years; ordinarily the gloss on newly painted houses where common paints are used vanishes in from six months to one year. Adjutant and Mrs. Dunham, of the state department Salvation army will be the guests of the local corps for a few days.

Mr. Eugene Sullivan of the government printing building, Washington, is spending a fifteen days' furlough at his home in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hale have returned home after a very pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sawyer of Winter Hill, Mass.

George and Miss Lizzie Kiebele have been visiting the family of William Smith of New Haven. Mr. Kiebele returned to this city Monday evening.

This morning at 9 o'clock a special train will leave the West Side station for Oak grove, Waterford, with the Central Methodist Episcopal church and Sunday school.

Slater museum and Peck library will be closed from July 17 until the end of the month. The library will be open during August at the same hours as the museum.

The yacht Gypsy, thought to be abandoned off the Pequot house, New London is the property of Charles Clark, Yale '94, and he left it in care of a keeper during his home trip.

The hose pipe conveying water across Laurel Hill bridge sprang a leak at midnight Tuesday. Chief Greeneberg and water department men were notified and the break promptly repaired.

The Henry Bill Publishing company have received a number of orders for the authorized biography of James Gillespie Blaine. A prospectus of the new volume is now in the hands of agents throughout the country.

Frederick Bruit of Norwich, formerly of Germany, says the Hartford Post, will be married this evening to Kate L. Rooff, daughter of George Rooff, at the bride's home on Hills street in the South Middle district, East Hartford.

The People's annual excursion to Newport on the steamer City of Worcester is advertised for Friday, the 21st inst. Tubbs' Brass band, an orchestra for dancing and Gurdon Cady, prompter, have been engaged for the trip.

The Rev. S. Henry Browne of the Third Baptist church, Springfield, a prominent delegate to the convention of the New England Colored Baptist conference, has been offered the assistant principalship of Howard orphanage, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Brown College Glee, Banjo and Mandolin clubs are touring the country during vacation. They appeared in Stonington last evening. Mr. Clarence M. Gallup, son of Captain L. A. Gallup of this city, is a member of the organization.

One hundred and fifty excursionists came to town on the steamer Martha Tuesday and filled the business streets for several hours. They were from Westerly and made the sail under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance union of Pawcatuck.

The members of the Thread City Cycling club who will compete in the Rockville races next Saturday are W. P. Jordan, D. S. Baker, G. R. Hinman, I. A. Bissell and James Hurley. In the team race Messrs. Baker, Hinman, Jordan and Hurley are entered.

Smouldering hay seed in the loft of L. L. Chapman's Bath street stable precipitated an alarm at 1.30 Tuesday. Several pails of water quenched the flames, and the services of the firemen were not needed. The fire was in an unoccupied corner of the stable and its origin is a mystery.

A score or more of young people attended a lawn party last evening on the grounds of Mr. B. H. Payne of Laurel Hill avenue. The occasion was in honor of Miss Nellie Warren, [illegible] [illegible] the "Rose." A fine collation was served, and with vocal and instrumental music an enjoyable time was passed.

A 100 pound sturgeon, six feet long, which had ascended the Thames river, fell a prey to Frank Rooff, Joe Kliser and Robert McFee near the rolling mill Tuesday morning. The fish was shot with a rifle, and towed to the Shetucket, where it attracted a crowd for several hours. Later in the day it was placed in the window of Samuel Comstock's fish market on Central wharf. Sturgeons are common in Long Island sound at this season.

Dehorning Case Indefinitely Postponed.

Since the introduction of the practice of dehorning cattle in southern Connecticut public sentiment has caused considerable indignation. Saturday a hearing was to be given in the Stonington town court in the case of the state vs. Hewitt, a man from Mystic, who recently dehorned several head of cattle. For some reason the case has been indefinitely postponed. The plaintiff was an agent of the Humane society.

The Conditions Were Different.

The Cornell-Pennsylvania boat race, which was won by the crew from Ithaca last Saturday evening at Lake Minnetonka, near Minneapolis, occupied less time than the Yale-Harvard contest over a course of the same length on the Thames a few days ago, but so different were the conditions that no very effective comparison can be made. At New London the crews had a fair tide but a strong head wind, and the sea was so rough that the shells appeared at one time to be in danger of swamping, while at Minneapolis the race occurred after 8 o'clock at night over smooth water. In both contests the conditions were anything but favorable, and it is not remarkable that slow time was made.

An Election of Officers.

The semi-annual election of officers of St. Mary's T. A. and B. society took place last evening. Reports of retiring officers showed the society in a highly prosperous condition and a constantly increasing membership. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: President, Richard Driscoll; vice president, Michael J. Farrell; recording secretary, Maurice F. Kelly; financial secretary, Frank P. Flaherty; treasurer, Daniel T. Shea; librarian, John Callahan; chairman of directors, Michael J. Sullivan; directors, William Naughton, James. Fenton, Thos. Barth, Thos. Maher, Joseph O'Neil, Michael Curran, Dennis McCarthy, James Kelly; sergeant-at-arms, Chas. McGibney.

Independence Hose Presentation.

The members of Independence Hose company, No. 6, gave a supper in honor of their retiring foreman, Mr. J. Edwin Alcott last evening, at their house on West Thames street. After a well-served repast an informal meeting was called, at which Mr. A. W. F. St. John, in behalf of the company presented Mr. Olcott with a handsome gold watch chain and charm as a token of their esteem of his services. The charm was fittingly engraved to keep fresh the memories of their work together. Mr. Olcott was no little surprised and replied feelingly. He leaves the company with their best wishes.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.

Ceremonies by Shetucket Lodge, I. O. O. F., and Wauregan Lodge, K. of P.

RUSSIAN CHOLERA STATISTICS.

St. Petersburg Officially Declared in a Healthy Condition.

FIFTY DOCTORS DISMISSED.

Figures from the Provinces where the Disease Prevails.

St. Petersburg, July 12.—The city is officially declared to be in a healthy condition. Fifty medical men who had been detained at the military academy for fear that there would be cholera have been dismissed to their homes. The last weekly report on the cholera gives the following figures of the provinces where the disease prevails:

Podolo, 210 new cases, 100 deaths; Bessarabia, 56 new cases, 18 deaths; Overia, 23 new cases, 12 deaths; Kherson, 18 new cases, 9 deaths; Towla, 3 new cases, 3 deaths. There is no doubt about the genuineness of the cases reported.

ONE MORE BODY FOUND.

Work Still Being Pushed Forward—The Subscription List.

World's Fair Grounds, Chicago, July 12.—Today's work on the ruins wrought by Monday's fire resulted in the finding of one more body, through the efforts of the two brothers of the victim. The body was that of E. A. Drumond, superintendent of the agricultural commission.

Only 12 men appeared to work on the debris. About 4 o'clock, after toiling all day without any signs of the body of Drumond, his two brothers, who still kept up the work found the body buried deep in the ruins. The trunk of his body was in a frightful state of decomposition and his head was bare of hair and fearfully burned. The search work went on until half past 8 without any more bodies being recovered and the work was suspended for the night.

The list of the known dead now numbers 14. The missing number 4. It is [illegible] that the subscription that is in circulation will reach $100,000 for the bereaved families.

[illegible] Prevented a Serious Railroad Accident.

Greenfield, Mass., July 12.—The fact that the train south bound on the Boston & Maine road was late yesterday prevented a terrible accident at South Vernon. The north and south bound White Mountain express trains due here passed South Vernon at 5 o'clock. There is only a single track and the north bound is [illegible] to [illegible] until the [illegible] [illegible].

[illegible] the station at the rate of 25 miles an hour and ran up the main line, passing their meeting point. The engineer whistled for brakes and the train was stopped by hand, the air brakes failing to work. In a few minutes, and it was backed up to the siding and it had no more than got on to the siding when the south bound train came rushing down the track.

Special Invitation to the Nephew of the Czar.

New York, July 12.—Mayor Gilroy today, on behalf of the city, sent a special invitation to Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch, the nephew of the czar, who is a lieutenant on the Russian war ship Dimitri Donskoi, asking him to attend the entertainment to be given to the Russian naval officers tomorrow. The grand duke sometimes is known as Count Romanoff. The entertainment is to consist of a reception, followed by an excursion and a dinner at Manhattan Beach.

To Tax Advertisements.

Berlin, July 12.—The federal council is discussing a scheme for taxing advertisements and for making obligatory the placing of stamps upon receipts. The proposals are made to cover in part the increased expenses that will be entailed by the increase in the army provided for in the military bill, should the reichstag adopt that measure.

An Irish M. P. Convicted.

London, July 12.—Mr. John Deasy, member of the House of Commons for West Mayo, was found guilty Tuesday on a charge of common assault. He was fined £20 and ordered to pay the costs of the prosecution. Mr. Deasy was placed on trial on the charge of having indecently assaulted a sixteen-year-old servant girl employed in the house in which Mr. Deasy lodged in Pimlico. Mr. Deasy denied the charge. The jury, however, believed the witnesses for the prosecution to the effect that an assault had been committed, but not an indecent assault as charged. They therefore returned a verdict of common assault.

New York Hide and Leather Club Call for Repeal of Sherman Law.

New York, July 12.—The New York Hide and Leather club met at its quarters, No. 38 Gold street, at 11 o'clock this morning in pursuance to a call issued to the trade for a meeting to take action on the present financial difficulties. D. Wallerstein, an extensive leather trader, read an address and submitted a communication which he moved should be sent all over the country, and should be in the nature of a preamble to a petition to be signed and submitted to members of congress. It was addressed to the trade and asked the leather men to work for the repeal of the Sherman silver purchasing law.

Richard Young also submitted a plan for the appointment of a committee of five to prepare suitable measures to provide for the more stable parity of metals, and that this measure be submitted at the next session of congress.

A Boston Printer Killed by a Fall.

Boston, July 12.—John O'Hara, 22 years of age, a printer, fell through a basement window at 66 Franklin street, cutting open his jugular vein and he died on the way to the hospital. He boarded at 261 West Fourth street, South Boston, and his home was in Cranston, R. I.

Damage by Lightning at New Haven This Morning.

New Haven, July 12.—Day's boat house and a large ice house at Lake Whitney, about four miles from the city, were struck by lightning this morning and destroyed. Loss about $4,000

Internal Revenue Receipts.

Washington, July 12.—The receipts from internal revenue to-day were $395,615; from customs, $308,189; and miscellaneous, $65,065. The national bank notes received to-day for redemption amounted to $69,596.

The properties and use of the mariner's compass were known to the Chinese centuries ago. It was brought to Europe in the 12th century and first used in the Mediterranean.

THOUGHT TO BE A WITCH.

The Authorities Try to Dispel Her Influence for Evil.

Buda Pesth, July 12.—The authorities of the village of Lupest, near Arad, and a number of well-to-do farmers of that district have been indicted on charges of ghoulism and inciting to unlawful public demonstrations.

It appears that there died at Lupest the other day another woman who, by reason of her extraordinary age and queer habits, was thought to be a witch. Upon receiving the news of her death the authorities ordered a public merry-making, but while the festivities were in progress the best cow of the burgomaster died.

This was taken for a sign that the witch, though apparently dead was still able to exercise her baneful influence over the village. The town council held a meeting and resolved that measures must be taken at once to dispel this evil influence.

In order to accomplish this, one of the councilmen advised that a black stallion should be procured and driven over the grave of the dead woman. The stallion was secured, but the old story that you can make a horse go to water but cannot make him drink was enacted over again.

The horse refused to trot over the grave and those who tried to make him do so against his will were treated to his heels. The villagers who saw this exhibition got wild with excitement, taking it for granted that the stallion was afraid to jump over the grave containing the body of the mighty sorceress.

They finally agreed to burn the dead witch, got together a lot of dry wood, tore the body from the grave and then burned it, singing and praying all the time and sprinkling themselves and the earth around the pile with holy water.

A mounted gendarme, who observed them at their doings, was afraid to reason with the infuriated mob, but rode off to the next station and summoned aid. He then returned with his men and arrested the leaders, while they were in the act of celebrating the event at the village inn with drinking and dancing

HIS BAIL INCREASED.

Dr. Pulford Bound Over to the Superior Court—Taken to Jail.

Ansonia, July 11.—A hearing in Dr. Pulford's case, charged with the murder of Miss Nesbitt on the 5th of July by a criminal operation, was held Wednesday.

Counsel Williams, for the accused, waived a hearing and submitted a demurrer to the information, which Judge Munger overruled, and the question of bonds came up.

Attorney Holden, for the state, wanted the sum raised to $10,000 and Attorney Williams concluded that $7,000 (the present sum) was amply sufficient.

Judge Munger decided that as this was a case of binding over to the superior court, the bonds ought to be high enough to hold the prisoner. He would put them up to $15,000, the prisoner having the right of appeal to a higher court.

Mr. Williams remarked that he would not try to get any such bond, and the court bound Dr. Pulford over to the superior court, October term.

He was taken back to jail this afternoon.

Canadian Orangemen Celebrate.

Toronto, Ont., July 12.—The Orangemen of Canada celebrated the anniversary of the Battle of Boyne today in a more enthusiastic manner than usual. Large demonstrations were held at many places throughout the country. In this city fully 10,000 men marched in procession to the Industrial Exhibition grounds, where speeches appropriate to the day were delivered by a number of prominent Orangemen, after which a programme of athletic games was gone through. Montreal Orangemen held no demonstration in that city, but instead went to Prescott, Ont., and participated in a grand celebration held there by Orangemen of Eastern Ontario. The Orangemen of Ottawa City and district observed the day by holding a picnic at Wakefield park.

Held Up a "Bobtail" Car.

St. Louis, July 12.—Seven men attempted to hold up a Jefferson avenue bobtail car Tuesday night, but were frustrated by the driver's bravery. The daring venture was carefully planned, and apparently the work of professionals. The car was well filled with men and women returning from the South Side races. Suddenly the car came to a full stop, and the driver was ordered to "Hold up his hands." Two men had hold of the mules' bridles; one stood alongside the driver's platform, three surrounded the car, and the seventh went inside. The last was armed with a [illegible] and tried to force the cash box from its fastenings. The robbers were routed by the driver and passengers without having secured anything.

One of the Dead From Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, July 12.—Henry Wyllie, 19 years old, of this city, was one of the killed in the Chicago fire on Monday. He had been in that city about two months and was employed about the big [illegible]. He, with others, went to aid the firemen. His identity was discovered by a belt which he wore bearing the initials "H. W." When his parents heard that a body with such a belt had been found, they were almost certain that the victim was their son, and a telegram last night confirmed their suspicions.

Alleged Elopement at Norwalk.

Norwalk, July 12.—Douglass Ayres, connected with a New York city newspaper, who has been here for a week past in the interest of the paper, is alleged to have eloped with Miss Annie McPherson, daughter of Murdock McPherson, the proprietor of the Norwalk hotel.

They went away yesterday afternoon and have not returned. It is thought that they are in Philadelphia and search for them is being made.

Bigelow's Boilermakers Win.

New Haven, July 12.—The 150 striking boilermakers at the Bigelow works went to work at 3 o'clock this afternoon. By the terms of settlement the men are to work nine hours per day after August 14. This is a victory for the men except as to the date on which the new schedule is to go into effect. They asked that August 1 be fixed as the time.

A Leading Kansas Bank Closes Its Doors.

Garnett, Kans., July 12.—The bank of Garnett, one of the leading institutions of Anderson county, closed its doors this morning, catching some depositors rather heavily and the county treasurer for $18,000 county money. A statement of liabilities and assets is unobtainable.

Resignation Accepted.

Washington, July 12.—Secretary Herbert today accepted the resignation of Commodore Wilson as chief constructor of the navy and appointed Naval Constructor Philip Hichborne to succeed him. Commodore Wilson resigned on account of ill health.

ON THE DIAMOND FIELD.

The Game at Cleveland Degenerates Into a Farce.

GAFFNEY'S POOR EXHIBITION.

Zimmer Badly Injured by Tucker—Boston 10, Cleveland 7.

Cleveland, July 12.—To-day's game was degenerated into a farce by the miserable exhibition of Gaffney. He made a decision in the third inning, then reversed it and gave the Bostons the game. Cleveland played [illegible] from that time on. Tucker knocked Zimmer off first base and hurt him so badly that he was obliged to retire. Attendance, 3,000. Score:

A New Battery for the New York Club.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 12.—The New York Base Ball Club this afternoon closed a deal for a new battery, securing pitcher Lester German and catcher Park Wilson of the Altoona team. The battery has been winning many games for the Altoona club. They join the team in New York on Monday. Rigby was released by Manager Ward to-day and will leave for home this evening.

Christian Endeavor Delegate Tells of the Montreal Episode.

Portland, July 12.—[illegible] Fox of this city has [illegible]. He was a prominent member of the convention of Christian Endeavor, and is outspoken regarding the trouble while the convention was in session.

"It was all caused," said Mr. Fox, "by the unwise remark of a man, something for which the convention could not be held responsible.

"We received nothing but kindness at the hands of the Catholics of Montreal. We were never treated so well before.

"The priests told their people to receive the delegates in their homes, and it was done. The Catholic mayor of Montreal not only welcomed us in a grand speech, but took the officers of the convention out riding.

"Such trouble as we had was caused by the roughs. They were not dangerous, and, in fact, the people of Montreal are apparently familiar with their bluster. Such as it was, it was confined entirely to French Canadians, a fact the Irish Catholics took pains to assure us."

Mr. Fox spoke in high terms of praise of the position taken by the press of Montreal and by the authorities. He does not believe that an assault would have been made on the [illegible] delegates present, but the [illegible] action of the police and local [illegible] gave them no chance.

He does not regard it in the light of a religious demonstration at all.

"It was made by the hoodlum element. No one else was to blame for it," he said.

TO FIGHT IN DECEMBER.

New Articles Signed for the Corbett and Mitchell Contest.

New York, July 12.—William Brady, manager of James Corbett, and Judge Newton of the Coney Island Athletic club, met here today and signed new articles of agreement for Corbett and Mitchell to fight at Coney Island between December 1 and 20 for a purse of $40,000, all of which shall go to the winner. All previous conditions are agreed to be off. It is understood that the principals cannot appear in any other contest before this fight takes place.

Suspicious Wrecks on the P., R. & N. E. Railroad.

Hartford, Conn., July 12.—The Post says that the wrecks on the Philadelphia, Reading & New England railroad have been so frequent of late as to cause considerable suspicion at the cause. It is the opinion of the employes that the wrecks are not due to the carelessness of engineers or trainmen, but are the efforts of some one of the dissatisfied men who are taking this method of revenge. The management show little if any sympathy for a drunken railroad man. If detected while intoxicated the employe is immediately discharged.

Steps are being taken by the officials to stop anything of the kind in the future, and if any persons are detected they will suffer both at the hands of the employes and the law.

Gaskell's Announcement.

Worcester, Mass., July 12.—District Attorney Gaskell of this city announced today that he is a candidate for the office of attorney general on the republican state ticket.

President Sacasa in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., July 12.—President Robert Sacasa of Nicaragua, who arrived here today on the steamer Colon, says: "I am here to see all the great cities. When I have been sometime in San Francisco I shall go to Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and leading places. I shall call on ex-President Harrison at Indianapolis and when I get to Washington will see President Cleveland."

IRON INDUSTRIES OF MEXICO.

A Big Scheme to Consolidate the Various Iron Mines.

San Antonio, Texas, July 12.—R. H. McCracken, a prominent mining man and capitalist of this city, has returned from Mexico, where he has been arranging the details of a scheme to consolidate all the iron industries of that country into one syndicate, which will take the form of a joint stock company.

It is proposed after the consolidation is effected to establish an immense iron manufacturing plant at some point in the republic, probably at Monclova, in the state of Coahuila, where there are extensive iron deposits near the finest bituminous coal beds in that country. It is intended that this one concern shall supply the present demands of the country, although auxiliary plants at Durango and other points will probably be continued in operation.

This proposed consolidation embraces iron properties in the states of Oaxaca, Vera Cruz, Guerrero, Coahuila, Sinaloa, Durango, Nuevo Leon and San Luis Potosi.

About seven different companies are interested in the scheme, their combined capital amounting to several millions of dollars.

Mr. McCracken states that there is but little evidence of a financial depression in Mexico. So far as he has heard, no mines have been shut down and no employes have been discharged. The railroads are maintaining the rates and are doing a good business.

TOM REED WILL LEAD.

To Be the Republican Nominee For Speaker of the House.

Washington, July 12. — Ex-Speaker Reed will be the caucus nominee of the republicans in the house of representatives for the speakership. He will be given an opportunity to display his leadership, and will probably make the most of it to give impetus to the Reed presidential boom for 1896, which is already under headway.

A Meriden Factory Shuts Down.

Meriden, July 12.—The large factory of the Charles Parker company of this city has closed down indefinitely. It employs over 1,000 hands, all of whom are thrown out of employment. There is no prospect of the works starting again for several months at least and perhaps never.

The orders were issued this afternoon and the greatest excitement prevails among the employes.

Mr. Parker when interviewed on the subject, said the reason was the financial condition of the country and the large stock on hand. The company manufacture lamps, [illegible] and other articles.

What Philadelphia Bankers Want.

Philadelphia, July 12.—The presidents of a number of national banks in this city are taking steps toward having Philadelphia made a central reserve city, as are New York, Chicago and St. Louis. A petition will soon be sent to the secretary of the treasury asking him to officially declare this city such a depository.

Under the act of 1887 the comptroller of the currency is authorized, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, to grant a request of this kind, provided the application shall be signed by three-fourths or more of the national banks of any city with a population of over 200,000.

There are forty-one national banks in Philadelphia, and the approval of the required three-fourths is confidently expected. Should the project be successful it will have a very beneficial influence upon Philadelphia's banking and mercantile interests.

Bridgeport Railway Co. Organized.

Bridgeport, July 12.—The Bridgeport Railway Co., to which a charter was granted by the general assembly was organized to-day with Gen. Thos. L. Watson as president. The company was organized for the express purpose of consolidating the existing railway companies here. The next step will be the consideration by the three companies on the matter of consolidation and a meeting will be held before July 20. The terms of the exchanges of the stock of the "Old Line" and the East End live for the new concern will then be decided upon. As the first mentioned companies have during their existence expended nearly a million dollars of their earnings, the stock of the new is issued at par.

Communication Suspended.

New York, July 12.—The Western Union Telegraph company today issued a circular notice to their customers to the effect that a communication via Galveston to points beyond Uruguay and Argentine is suspended.

A SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The Central Methodist Episcopal Sunday School Picnic at Richard's Oak Grove, Waterford.

A large company gathered at the Union depot, Wednesday morning to take the special train which was chartered by the Central Methodist Episcopal Sunday school to convey their picnic party to Waterford.

Richard's oak grove, Waterford, is a new place for Sunday school picnics, and hence the occasion drew a little from the other churches, besides a good representation from the Central church and Sunday school.

Under the direction of W. T. Rogers, the excellent superintendent of the Sunday school, careful preparations were made for a good time. Swings, hammocks, croquet sets and other things necessary for amusements were carried down with the company. An excellent clam chowder was prepared by Mr. Chas. Adams, who served it to the delight of the company. The other articles of food consisted of cake of all descriptions and a variety of sandwiches which were supplied in great abundance.

A number of row boats were provided which were worked all day by the gentlemen to the great pleasure and delight of the ladies, who were quite willing to go out upon the water.

A number of races took place, beginning at about 4 o'clock p. m., which excited considerable interest. They were as follows: A sack race, which was won by Mr. Geo. L. Barton; a three legged race, which was won by Mr. Geo. Ferguson and Mr. Thomas Glendenning; a potato race won by Mr. Wm. Haslehurst; a potato race with spoon, won by Mr. Carl Beaman; a boys' race, won by Willie Haslehurst; standing with three jumps, Mr. Thomas Glendenning, and standing with one jump, which was also won by Mr. Thomas Glendenning.

Upon the return trip, the company, under the skillful musical direction of the pastor, the Rev. A. W. Kingsley, who had books provided, made the cars ring with songs. The company reached Norwich at about 6.30 p. m. with happy faces and well pleased with the day and also with the place.

THE VIKING VOYAGE ENDED.

Escorted to World's Fair Harbor by a Gallant Fleet.

GIVEN FREEDOM OF CHICAGO.

Thousands of Sightseers Welcome the Little Ship.

World's Fair Grounds, Chicago, July 12.—A gallant fleet, with gay banners flying steamed out of Chicago harbor this morning to meet and welcome the Viking ship and crew and escort it and them to the harbor of the World's fair.

In the fleet were the man-of-war Michigan, the coast survey steamer Blake, the pleasure steamer City of Duluth, carrying Mayor Harrison and the city council, and half a hundred or more steam yachts and pleasure craft of various varieties.

Besides the mayor and city officials, the City of Duluth also carried a number of distinguished Scandinavians. The reception committee sailed on the steamer Ivanhoe.

The fleet sailed north to a point a few miles off Evanston. Here they sighted the Viking ship. The Andrew Johnson fired a salute of twenty-one guns and the fleet hove to and forming in line on each side of the Viking, the vessels started for Jackson Park. When the fleet arrived off Van Buren street pier, Mayor Harrison and the council committee boarded the Viking ship and Mayor Harrison gave Captain Andersen and his crew the freedom and hospitality of the city. In half an hour the journey to the fair was resumed.

At the World's fair hundreds of little electric launches and pleasure boats came out to welcome the sturdy Viking. Cannon boomed, whistles blew and the thousands of sightseers who had gathered along the shore cheered vigorously.

Director General Davis and a number of World's fair officials took the captain and crew off the Viking ship and welcomed them to the fair. This was followed by a reception in the administration building, to which the chiefs of departments and other officials were invited.

Another Accident at the Fair.

Chicago, July 12.—As the Arthur Orr, the leading steamer of the procession of boats escorting the Viking ship from Evanston to the World's fair grounds, was approaching the Van Buren street pier this afternoon, she crashed into a Lincoln park excursion boat, driving the craft and its human cargo high up on the landing. Several people were injured, and it is feared that some of the passengers were precipitated into the water and drowned. One man had both limbs crushed and several others had feet and legs crushed. There was a panic among the women, who ran in terror in every direction.

INDICTMENTS REPORTED

For the Officers and Directors of the Plankinton Bank.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 12.—The grand jury after investigating the failure of F. A. Lappen & Co. and the Plankinton bank, has reported indictments for all the officers and directors of the Plankinton bank. They are: F. T. Day, president; Wm. Plankinton, vice-president; Wm. H. Noyes, cashier, and Eugene S. Elliott, E. Noyes, C. L. [illegible] and Judge James G. Jenkins, directors.

Judge Jenkins was the first of the indicted officials to be placed under arrest, and the others soon followed. The bank officers, with the exception of Mr. Day, were charged with receiving money when the bank was insolvent. It is understood that Mr. Day will have to answer the more serious charge of embezzlement.

The announcement of the indictments and arrests aroused intense excitement throughout the city. The parties are all prominent in business and society circles and their unfortunate predicament is the subject of general regret. Mr. Noyes is too ill to appear in court and consequently is under surveillance at his house. The bail in the case of the indicted bankers was fixed at $5,000 on each count. This makes Wm. Plankinton's bail $20,000 and that of the other prisoners $15,000.

Strikers' Places Will Be Filled If They Do Not Soon Return.

Woonsocket, R. I., July 12.—Secretary Ross of the Spinners' union was in this city today and conferred with the Social mill mule spinners who are on strike because one of their number was discharged as a result of hot words with the overseer. The company has up to this time regarded the strikers as employes who could return to work when they were ready, but the company intends, if the spinners do not return soon, to discharge the men and fill their places or obtain filling from other mills. Today, in fact, it is reported filling is being received from Lowell.

A Shower of Live Toads.

Bangor, Me., July 12.—A remarkable shower of live toads fell in parts of this state Tuesday. Millions of them were seen on the ground.

Entire Family Poisoned.

Charleston, S. C., July 12.—Isaac Mitchell and his entire family, consisting of four persons, were poisoned yesterday. Mitchell and daughter are dying, the others may recover.

Political Trouble Brewing in Peru.

Panama, July 12.—It is daily becoming more obvious that serious political trouble is brewing in Peru. Since the arrival here of the Pisano, rumors have been current that Pierola is already in reality in Arequipa, and has proclaimed himself head of a provisional government, as dictator, and is attempting to overthrow the present government. His purpose is to control the elections and secure his own return to power.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Saved Her Sight

"My little girl Hazel two years ago had the grip, leaving her with inflamed eyes, so bad that for seven months we had to bandage them and keep her in a dark room. The family physician and an oculist said the sight of one eye was destroyed and she might lose the other. She suffered intense pain, and when light was admitted to the room would cry as if burned with a hot iron. We began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, and to our surprise her eyes began to improve rapidly. The sight

The Connecticut Spiritualists.

Every year since 1881 the faithful [illegible] Connecticut spiritualists, when the July heat makes a residence near the shore desirable, make a pilgrimage to Niantic, where in the pines are about seventy five tasty and convenient cottages. They are adjacent to and on the [illegible] of the military camp ground. This year is no exception to those which have preceded it, although the number here is somewhat less than heretofore. The camp meeting is supposed to be opened July 1, but the first public service was not held until Sunday, on which occasion the speaker was not called from the gradually decreasing ranks of spiritualist lecturers but instead, a regularly ordained clergyman in the Unitarian church.

HIS MAIDEN TRIP.

A Norwich Teamster Who Made His First Voyage on a Steamboat.

The New London Day asserts that William Palmer of Leffingwelltown came down the river Monday on steamer Ella for a visit to Watch Hill. Mr. Palmer, who is a teamster, and has paid daily visits to Norwich for the last forty years, has never before made a trip on a steamboat, although frequently importuned to do so by his friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Palmer can be placed in the same category as another resident of the Rose, who had lived at Thamesville over fifty years and never visited a circus until he came to the one at New London a fortnight or more ago, according to The Day's assertion.

TRYING A NEW EXPERIMENT.

Oyster Growers are Filling in the Soft Spots on Their Grounds.

Many oyster growers are trying an entirely new experiment in oyster culture this season, and if it proves as successful as they hope it will, it will increase the value of their grounds many fold. On most all oyster grounds there are spots where the bottom is soft or muddy. On these patches oysters will not set well, so the spots are so much waste ground. This year the oystermen have secured quantities of the shelly substance which forms the bottom of the Stafford river that is being dredged out by the government and having it placed on the muddy spots on their beds. They then level it off and harrow it with a heavy, many-toothed affair, which makes the ground even and hard.

It is thought that the oysters will set well on this bottom, as it is hard as the bottom of the beds themselves. The oystermen thinks that this scheme is a great one and they are awaiting with much interest the result of the experiment.

WATCH HILL IN FICTION.

It Figures in a Monthly Magazine Love Story.

Watch Hill is coming into prominence among all classes and among all sections of the country. The latest to recognize the value of Watch Hill has been the writer of love stories in a monthly magazine. The Godey's Magazine for July contains a story by Daniel Doane Bidwell, entitled, "A Midwinter July," the scene of which is placed in the old house on Napatree Point. The story opens with this realistic description of that locality: "A narrow strip of mingled beach and dune, unevenly broken by sparse vegetation and the decaying frame of a deserted building, juts southward from Watch Hill. Even in midsummer the spectacle is forbidding; and when a January northeaster piles the waves of the Atlantic in slanting ranks against the beach, in the closing hours and half lights of a cloud-walled afternoon, the sight is inexpressibly wintry and bleak and depressing." The hero of the story is a man —in fact a tramp—who is fleeing his way from the life saving station along the beach, "past the deserted hotel, skulking under the lee of a row of weather beaten bathhouses, and hastening southward down the narrow strip of cape." He gains the deserted building, lights a fire, and is discovered by a woman who turns out to be his long-lost loved one. A reconciliation takes place, and through the aid of a newspaper purchased in Stonington, the man learns that he is an heir to a western fortune. Thus happily ends the story.

Waste of Aqueduct Water.

EDITOR BULLETIN. No city in New England can boast of better or purer water than we are having in Norwich at this present time from our aqueduct. It seems to be perfectly free of any impurities in taste or smell, and is equal to the best spring water. In order that such a blessing may be continued to our city through the summer and fall, it is time the water commissioners should take some means to prevent the enormous and useless waste of water that is going on all the day and night. The water that is wasted by hydrants attached to houses for sprinkling lawns, gardens, etc., over and above what is necessary, would run a good sized saw mill twenty-four hours of the day. Children as well as grown people in different parts of the city amuse themselves part of the day and well into the night, playing with the hose pipe and seeing how much water they can run to waste on the lawns, and making the streets impassable with mud. We may have a long dry summer and autumn, and that we may not be forced by and by to be put on short rations, now is the time to stop the useless waste.

CONS. WATER.

SALEM.

A Family Cat Electrocuted—Mr. Kingsley Got There!

We learn that the Purcell farm was leased for $850.

During the same storm lightning struck a large fir tree in front of Charles H. Bailey's house, and after demolishing the tree, entered the house near the front door, passed under the kitchen stove and electrocuted the family cat which was sleeping on the floor, and thence passed to the north side of the house where it made its exit after shaking up things in an unceremonious way.

The Thomas Strickland farm was sold Saturday to Dudley Clark who will take possession at once.

At the beginning of the Harrison administration four years ago, an effort was made by Wm. B. Kingsley to be appointed postmaster. His appointment was resisted with such vigor by the democrats and mugwumps that Miss Hurlburt, the Cleveland hold over, held the office all through the republican administration. Last fall the appointment of Mr. Kingsley was assured. But after the democratic victory Nov. 8th, it was thought advisable to let the matter drop, as his term of office would probably terminate as soon as the new administration got control of the government. Thursday last, Mr. Kingsley was appointed by the present democratic administration. A thunder bolt would not have caused more amazement among those opposed to Mr. Kingsley's appointment who had settled down to a feeling of safety that they were sure of having things their way for four years more. The question each asks his neighbor is, "How was it done?"

CANTERBURY PLAIN.

Grove Meetings—Personals.

The Rev. Mr. Carter of Westminster and the Rev. Mr. Thompson exchanged pulpits Sunday morning. Mr. Carter preached at the grove meeting to a good congregation.

Miss Grace Bushnell, who has been visiting friends in Danielsonville for some weeks, has returned home.

Mrs. and Miss Dewing and other members of the family from Oakland, Cal., are visiting with Mrs. Dewing's sister, Mrs. Frank Lyon.

It is Christian Endeavor day at the Thomas J. Johnson grove meeting next Sunday, July 16th. All societies and pastors will be welcomed and a hearty invitation is given to all. The Hanover quartette will be present. The meeting will be led by the Rev. Samuel Thompson of Canterbury Plain, and will commence at 4 o'clock. There will be preaching at this grove during July and August by various ministers. Each service commencing at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Gospel hymns 5 and 6 will be used.

It is estimated that the light of a full moon is at least 800 000 times weaker than sunlight when the "great orb of day" is standing at meridian.

[illegible] WHEAT CROP.

Estimated to Be Forty Millions Bushels Short.

LIVELY SCRAMBLE SEEMS LIKELY.

Farmers Will Lose Nothing by Short Crops.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A St. Paul special to The Evening Post says of the crop outlook: In actual figures, the northwest crop of wheat, providing rain falls periodically from now on, will be about 68,000,000 or 70,000,000 bushels. This is the estimate of C. A. Pillsbury, in which he is indorsed by other leading millers interviewed. The estimate is made upon the following basis: Under the most favorable circumstances, South Dakota is not expected to raise more than one-half of an average wheat crop, Minnesota two-thirds and North Dakota three-fourths.

An average crop for the three states is estimated at 105,000,000 bushels, which would bring the figures up to 68,000,000. North Dakota has had good rains of late, but at this time of the year they will not make up for the thin stand of wheat on the ground and the short heads. In a great many places the stools are Either Wholly or Partly Dead.

Over a large section of the Northwest the wheat has headed out about a foot high with short heads. No kind of weather is going to make the heads long, and the danger of hot weather when the wheat is in the milk and the dough, with rusts and early frosts are yet to be heard from.

Regarding the effect on future prices of the 68,000,000 bushels, Mr. Pillsbury said: "It takes 20,000,000 bushels for bread and seed for the three states, Minnesota, North and South Dakota. That leaves about 50,000,000 bushels. All the Minneapolis mills use [illegible] in a [illegible] and the mills at [illegible] Superior, if they run anywhere near their capacity, will need from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 bushels more, and as the other mills in the three states will need 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 more, one can easily figure that there will be a general scrambling after the crop, and if the farmers to sell the great bulk of the crop during the first two or three months of the season wheat will be scarce.

"The chances are that with the 70,000,000 bushel crop the farmers will get as much money out of their wheat as they would get out of 100,000,000 bushels, provided the whole world is not made to believe that the northwest will have there 100,000,000 instead of 70,000,000 bushels in this year's crop. There is no use disguising the fact that the crops this year are going to be very poor and it makes me weary to see how some people insist that crops are looking well and that large yields are anticipated. I have talked with railroad agents all over the northwest and they have given unfavorable reports. At the same time many of them are light. He is certain that prices will be very high. Returns are just coming on from the winter wheat section, which state that the yield is very disappointing.

THIS YEAR'S FRUIT CROP.

Peaches Will Be Plenty—Apples Are Doing Fairly Well.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 12.—The annual report upon the fruit crops of New England and New York state, as prepared conjointly by the New England Homestead of Springfield and the New York Homestead of Syracuse, will be published this week.

Replies received from all the fruit growing sections indicate that the prospect in New England are exceedingly bright up to July 1. Fruit buds of nearly all kinds set and the crop developed rapidly.

Peaches will probably give the largest yield in years. Apples are doing fairly well, although Baldwins have failed to give even an average crop. In nearly all cases good markets are reported, and fruit raisers are hopeful of good returns. Wild berries are very prolific, and the cultivated varieties will produce a full yield.

Cranberry growers in the eastern portions of Massachusetts report a good harvest at paying prices. Where spraying has been properly done the vineyards will, in nearly all cases, give good returns. Insects, blights and fungus diseases play about the usual amount of havoc, but fruit growers are beginning to lessen their depredations by the use of spraying mixtures.

In Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont the fruit season is exceedingly backward, and in many cases the strawberry crop has been a total failure. Connecticut returns are encouraging, as are those of Rhode Island.

Reports covering all sections of New York show a fairly good average crop prospect. Where special cultivation and care was not given to cherry trees, rot and insects have greatly reduced the yield. Black rot is reported as again doing considerable damage to plum trees, but where spraying has been properly attended to, the disease has been much lessened.

Owing to the increased acreage and yield of grapes the grape growers will probably have to sell their products at a reduced price over last year.

Returns from all fruit growing sections of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, as compiled in the annual report of Farm and Home, published at Chicago, show that the fruit prospects of the year are encouraging. In the southern section of the country berry dealers have received good prices for fairly average crops. A full yield with a largely increased acreage of peaches is reported, and plums, grapes and small fruits will give a full average yield.

In Florida tropical fruits have a splendid outlook. Insects and fungus diseases are doing the usual amount of damage, but where fruit growers have followed the latest methods of culture and modes of spraying an average to full yield is reported, but as the cold was continuous, without intermittent freezing and thawing, fruit buds in nearly all cases came through safely.

Late apples will be scarce in nearly all sections of the Mississippi valley, while early apples will be in greater supply. Kieffer pears, that have been so extensively planted, are yielding a fair average crop.

California reports another abundant yield of her luscious golden fruit. Viticulturists will harvest one of their largest crops; the orchards as a rule have borne heavily, and small fruits have all done well.

SHOUTED THEMSELVES HOARSE.

Exciting Scenes in the Spanish Cortes. Home Rule Reforms Denounced.

MADRID, July 12.—An exciting scene was caused in the cortes yesterday by Senor Villanueva, formerly Premier Sagasta's secretary.

Villanueva violently attacked Senor Maura, minister of colonies, and denounced the home rule reforms embodied in the government's colonial program. He accused Maura of trying to favor the autonomists and dissolve the constitutional union between Cuba and the mother country.

In support of his statements he read paragraphs from Havana and Cienfuegos newspapers, which presented arguments for the separation of Cuba from Spain, and urged the people to facilitate the progress of the home rule cause.

In his reply Senor Maura said that the new council of administration would be composed of representatives of the island, irrespective of political opinion.

Senor Romero, formerly minister of colonies, interrupted Maura to ask what would happen if the council should be composed of Separatists.

Maura's reply was an appeal to the Separatists to protest against this question.

The uproar provoked by this appeal lasted 15 minutes. Half the members shouted themselves hoarse.

When the house became orderly, Maura explained that the reform program contained provisions which would render impossible any monopoly of power in the council by the Separatists. The power vested in the captain general, he said, would be a guarantee that the Separatists would be checked.

NINE DOCTORS IN CHARGE.

Wholesale Poisoning by Eating of Cheese in Mansfield.

MANSFIELD, O., July 12.—The wholesale case of poisoning by the eating of cheese in this city is much worse than was at first supposed. Nearly every person in 25 families who purchased and ate of the cheese is now affected, and for 12 persons there are but slight hopes of recovery.

The following, and members of their families to the number given, were poisoned: Fred Ackerman, five persons; William Brent, five; William Both; John Cross; George Cunningham; Henry Faust, four; George Fickle, seven; John Fisher, nine; John Gerlack, three; Charles Hans, four; Frank Hans, three; R. Keiser, five; H. Rues, four; J. W. Stewart, three; George Weatherby, two; Paul Wingert, 11.

One hundred and ten persons sampled the cheese, which was manufactured near the city. Nine doctors are in charge of the afflicted, and although no deaths are yet reported several persons are hourly expected to die.

WOMAN'S COURAGE

Rescued a Child From the Grasp of a Gypsy Kidnapper.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 12.—The police have been at work for three days trying to get trace of a stranger who is alleged to have made an attempt to kidnap a little girl.

The girl is Grace Brown, a daughter of Sumner Brown of Saco. She and another little girl were wading on the beach some distance away from the cottages, when a man, who is believed to be a gypsy, rode up and seized the Brown child and drove rapidly off with her toward the woods.

The little captive's screams attracted the attention of Mrs. Minnie Knowlton, who rushed toward the horse, seized him by the bridle, and held him till the man released the child. Then she released her grasp on the bridle and he whipped up the horse and drove off toward Pine Point.

Pomeroy Needs Food.

POMEROY, Io., July 12.—The death roll of the cyclone victims was increased by one last night. Mrs. Katie Fecht, whose leg was amputated, died at 7:30 o'clock. In six or seven cases gangrene has set in, owing to the nasty manner in which the wounds of the sufferers had been dressed by the surgeons. These cases are all critical and the patients are likely to die. The great need at the present time is food. The supply is entirely exhausted, and with the exception of a few unsmoked hams, the committee has nothing.

Windham Farmer Disappears.

NASHUA, N. H., July 12.—John Bailey of Windham, N. H., has been missing from his home for three days. His disappearance is a mysterious one, and no reason can be found for it. He left the home of his son to go to his own home, but a short distance away, on Sunday afternoon, and he has not been seen or heard of since. Mr. Bailey is a well-to-do farmer, and has a pleasant home.

Terribly Burned.

PORTLAND, Me., July 12.—As Mrs. George M. Floyd was heating a vessel of water on a gasoline stove, at Gorham, this morning, her dress ignited. Wrapped in flames, she ran into the street, where neighbors, attracted by her cries, went to her rescue. Her clothing was stripped from her. She was terribly burned, and it will be a miracle if she recovers.

Repeal the Silver Act.

BOSTON, July 12.—A very largely attended meeting of the Boston chamber of commerce was held this afternoon. Outsiders attended in large numbers. Resolutions demanding the immediate repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman act were unanimously adopted.

Grain Destroyed by Hail.

WHEATON, Minn., July 12.—A hail storm almost totally destroyed the grain in two townships six miles east of here Monday night. Information is not very complete, but indicates that from 8000 to 15,000 acres were totally destroyed.

Czarewitch Dined With William.

BERLIN, July 12.—The czarewitch arrived at Potsdam yesterday afternoon, and last evening dined with Emperor William at the new palace. At midnight he and his suite left for St. Petersburg.

Nelson Coming to Haverhill.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 12.—C. H. Nelson of Waterville, Me., will bring a string of 10 fine trotters to the Kenoza park races next week, including the famous stepper "Nelson."

Stole a Bicycle.

CONCORD, N. H., July 12.—In the police court this forenoon, Frank E. Clarke pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a bicycle and was committed to jail in default of $500 sureties.

Offers Ten Cents on a Dollar.

SALEM, Mass., July 12.—John K. Nast, Lynn, a grocer, has filed a voluntary petition of insolvency and offers 10 cents on the dollar.

Cholera at Alexandria.

ALEXANDRIA, July 12.—Eight cases of cholera are reported at the hospital here. There have been 40 deaths from the disease.

Russia's customs reductions go into effect today.

The India Mutual insurance company of Boston is to go out of business.

The government bought 100,000 ounces of silver at 71 1-8 cents per ounce.

A gang of alleged bank swindlers were unearthed and captured in Boston.

A war of words ensued in the British house of commons over the Irish question.

Oleomargarine dealers must wait for the United States supreme court to decide two cases.

William Golding was drowned at Hillsdale, Pa., while trying to save a friend from a similar fate.

Hon. A. E. Pillsbury is a candidate for the governorship of Massachusetts and H. M. Knowlton for attorney general.

The convention of the United States Railway Mail Service Mutual Benefit association is to be held at Boston next September.

Commercial travelers have petitioned the Massachusetts railroad commissioners for more trains on the Cape Cod division of the Old Colony railroad.

HARTFORD.

Summer Visitors.

The entertainment given by the Ladies' social at the chapel was a success. The music furnished by J. M. Tatem was excellent and the recitations by his sister, Miss E. M. Tatem, of Putnam. Mr. J. B. Tatem and wife of Putnam were present.

Miss Edna Guild of Bethlem, Conn., is the guest of Miss Esther Trowbridge.

A. H. Preston, of the firm of Preston & Brown, Providence, R. I., accompanied by his wife, also his son Howard, spent a week here recently as guests of Silas Preston and daughter. They returned to their home on the 8th inst.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Guild are entertaining Mrs. Anna Cushing of Northampton, Mass., and Arthur Swift of Willimantic.

James Preston and Dr. Taylor of Providence, R. I., were entertained for a few days by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Slye. They also entertained, last week, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore of Willimantic.

Miss Mildred S. Jones of the Willard Home school, Danvers, Mass., is spending her vacation with her parents.

Miss Mary Potter of Woodstock visited Mrs. Hannah Burnham on the 5th.

Miss Minnie Randlett of Boston is stopping for a time with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Randlett.

Mr. J. N. Badger has recently improved his residence.

A. M. Bowen has recently been appointed postmaster.

PEARLINE.

A Daily Delivery—the use of Pearline. It delivers women from her hardest work; it delivers what is washed from the hardest wear. Pearline takes out dirt easily and thoroughly. It washes clothes or cleans house, without harm to hands or things. Pearline does away with the Rub, Rub, Rub. Nothing does as much as Pearline. It takes away the worst work, and it leaves you the best.

Send it Back. Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as" Pearline. IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. [illegible] JAMES PYLE, New York.

The Bulletin.

The Cremation Idea.

It is making its way quietly but surely in the northern and eastern portions of the Union. There are now 15 crematories in the country, mostly located in the eastern and middle states. New York alone has three—one at Fresh Pond, on Long Island, near Brooklyn, another at Troy and a third at Buffalo. In Ohio the Cincinnati crematory has held its own in the face of one of the most conservative communities in the Union. The crematory is, however, maintained by the Germans in that city, the old native element being mostly against the idea of burning instead of burying the dead.

The processes at all the crematories are similar. At Fresh Pond the furnace is fed by anthracite coal. At Buffalo wood is used for firing, while in Cincinnati coke is the fuel employed. A chapel is attached in all cases where simple funeral services are held if desired. At Cincinnati the body is lowered upon an elevator to the cremating receptacle, which is in the basement. At Fresh Pond the furnace and cremating ovens are on a level with the main floor. In the vicinity of New York cremation has become so popular that frequently there are two incinerations in one day at Fresh Pond. In the past four years 900 bodies have been reduced to ashes here, and the average is now 30 a month.

The cremation idea is becoming popular with women, especially with young women, and for a curious reason—that is, the dread of being buried alive. There would be no coming to life when all that remained of one's mortal frame would be a couple of pounds of white ashes. At Cincinnati some years ago there was a [illegible] was found that the crematory attendant was selling the coffins from which the bodies had been taken. At Fresh Pond the coffin, usually of wood, is demolished with an ax before the eyes of the dead person's friends. In case the death was from contagious disease, the coffin is metallic and is consumed with the corpse. It has been found not advisable, however, to burn wooden coffins with the bodies, as the wood ashes [illegible].

A beautiful bit of German sentiment attaches to the disposal of the ashes at Fresh Pond. The superintendent and engineer is a German. If, when the relatives do not place the ashes of the dead in the urns provided for sale and do not care to remove them, then the engineer gently sprinkles them upon the flower beds in the grounds, [illegible] them [illegible].

A New Terror.

The newest terror that has been added [illegible] is the deadly folding bed. Within a few days in one place two of these infernal machines fell upon a woman in her sleep, crushing her leg completely, from ankle to knee, and about the same time in another part of the Union a man and wife narrowly escaped being smothered by their folding bed [illegible], like one of the ancient devices for secretly murdering objectionable political persons. The list of accidents to babies and grown persons is so long that it is scary. It begins to be as much as one's life is worth to sleep in a folding bed. The insurance companies will presently begin to refuse risks on those who occupy them.

The most expensive ones are sham bookcases, dressing cases or wardrobes. With the books and bric-a-brac with which they are always loaded, with the heavy wood and iron springs of which they are made, the things undoubtedly weigh 400 or 500 pounds. When this weight suddenly falls sharply across a human leg or arm, the limb is crushed.

The makers of these infernal machines either cannot or will not construct them so as to be safe. At least they do not. Until they do the only safety is in abolishing the folding bed altogether, convenient as it is in crowded rooms.

In some places a man must pay a poll tax if he votes, but in Kansas City he must pay a poll tax if he does not vote. Four years ago a clause was inserted in the charter of that city to the effect that whenever a citizen failed to vote at any general municipal election he should pay a poll tax of $2.50. This would have been calculated to make solid citizens take an interest in municipal government if the law had been enforced. It was not, however, but the auditor kept a record of the delinquents, so that they could be brought to time if necessary. The delinquent taxes now amount to nearly $20,000. The city at length sued one of the delinquents as a test case of the constitutionality of the law and gained the suit. Part of the judge's decision was in these words: "I uphold the tax upon the broad ground that it is in the power of a state to compel its voters to exercise the elective franchise, and if a state can do so a city is invested with the same power."

The transmississippi congress at Ogden, U. T., put itself on record in favor of government aid for the construction of the Nicaragua canal and of government ownership of the canal after it was built. In case the government helped construct the work and did not assume control of the canal, then this transmississippi convention thought the history of the Union Pacific railroad grants would be enacted over again. The congress was the largest and ablest convention of men that ever assembled west of the Mississippi, it is said. All the interests of the great Pacific slope were represented.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

TWO FLESHY WOMEN'S VIEWS OF FASHION DIFFER WIDELY.

Women's Work In England—Free Lunches For Shoppers—Medicinal Value of Lemons In the Summer—A Royal Design For Fabrics—Seasonable Suggestions.

I saw a sight yesterday, and my eyes still ache from the effects. It was a woman. At least part of it was. The rest was dress. The woman part of the apparition was about 5 feet high and 4 feet 11 inches broad. I may be an inch or two wrong about the breadth, but the outlines indicated those dimensions. I don't know what kind of a hat she had on nor what sort of face she had. From the neck down was what gave my optic nerves neuralgia. Her sleeves were about the size of flour barrels, and her collar, with a stick in the middle, would have made a serviceable family umbrella. From this wide expanse was a sharp inward slant to a waist evidently laced to the point of torture. Then came a reverse slant to the ground, the painfully straight lines of the crinoline broadening out until it took nearly half of the Fourth avenue pavement in its scoop. It was an awful spectacle, and the vision of that apoplectic hourglass will haunt me for many days.

I talked of her later to a friend—a woman whose gowns and ornaments you never notice, but who leaves you always with a memory of ease, grace and matronly beauty. "Oh, yes," she said, "I know who it is. That was Mrs. —— who shocked your artistic eye. She spends a small fortune on her gowns and prides herself on always being in the extreme of fashion. I wish I could afford to give my dressmaker half as much. I don't believe, though, I should follow the fashion as closely as she does. Nature has blessed or cursed me—it depends on Dame Fashion which way I regard it—with a goodly supply of 'too too solid flesh' that positively refuses to melt, and I cannot get my own consent to wear gowns unsuited to me. My dressmaker was horrified when I ordered my summer gowns and told me I was her only customer who insisted on plain sleeves and no crinoline. But what can I do? My friends, I know, think I look like an old fashioned dowdy, but I am sure I should be a fright in the present style of dress. So for my own satisfaction I shall continue wearing the simple empire and semi-Greek gowns that become me best, modified just enough not to attract attention."

Women's Work In England.

London has a society for promoting the employment of women whose latest report shows that 89 young women have through its influence begun to learn some special branch of business or some trade, while 75 have found permanent engagements and 619 have been employed temporarily, half of this number being engaged for writing and others clerks, dressmakers, cooks and waitresses. The general experience of the society shows that women do not contemplate earning a living until want is close at hand, and then they decide to become nurses or actresses at the very last moment. But for those who have never received any technical training the city allows the society a sum of money for training fees. Among the employments which the society recommends are drawing for the press and chromo lithography. There is a great demand for women who are both shorthand and typewriters, but the conditions require that they must have a thorough mastery of English grammar and composition, and the majority of girls have too little education for the purpose.

The society has found more permanent engagements for clerks and bookkeepers than for any other employment. The wages of the rank and file of women employed in the industries which minister to ordinary human needs are deplorably bad, and the women are powerless in their poverty. In the Leeds clothing trade a woman averages 8 shillings a week. The hours are from 8 a. m. until 6:30 p. m., and then it is sometimes necessary to take work home and sew until midnight. Superior workers earn only 9 shillings and sometimes less. Report shows the condition of women's work in many of the factories worse than the wages. There are extortionate fines for trifling faults and an almost inhuman disregard of health evinced in the rules. One philanthropic woman suggests trades unionism as a panacea for these evils and cites a case where men and women weavers are united in a strong union and earn 25 per cent more wages than their less well organized neighbors.

Free Lunch For Women.

The free lunch routes of the metropolis are varied in style and amplitude. They have an army of patrons who drink to eat and eat to drink. But these patrons are males. Up to very recently it has not been thought worth while to induce women to spend money by coaxing the stomach and flattering them that they are getting something for nothing. Why this has been so I'm sure I don't know. The latter idea certainly goes much further with women than with men. Very recently, however, some attempts have been made to please the female palate. The best shops have restaurants for ladies, as everybody knows. But the free lunch feature is a new one. Where it has been introduced it works well.

In the house furnishing department of a big store on Sixth avenue a lady can get a cup of splendid coffee, a custard, cake or brick of ice cream with every purchase if she desires. And she can even take some without buying and not get fired out. There are coffeepots to sell and cans of coffee to be had, but she doesn't need to buy if she doesn't want to do so. You can go over to another counter and buy a 10-cent cake pan or something of that kind, and a sweet young barkeep—I beg pardon, saleslady—will give you a cake or two hot from the oven. She makes and bakes right on the spot. It is worth more to a corner do it than to see the champion cocktail mixer of Park row. Then, after having seen her mix things and eaten your cake and given elaborate directions about delivering your 10-cent pie pan at your address on One Hundred and Thirty-second street, Harlem, if you have the presence of mind left you can go to another counter and buy something else and eat again, and so on. When you come home you may have indigestion, but you will be sober, and the pie pans and fancy dishes and little household articles you haven't swallowed will be coming in all next day.—New York Herald.

Medicinal Value of Lemons.

The time of year has arrived when I do not care to keep my lemons. Indeed the faster I can now use them the better for my family. We need their helpful acid to counteract the excess of fats which have been consumed—more doubtless than have been assimilated. Why now goad the weary, long tired liver with blue pills when lemons are supplied in lavish profusion? Surely they are the product of the soil where dwell the most bilious people. Paterfamilias is suffering from biliousness; therefore I throw physic (blue pills) to the dogs—and they, wise creatures, will not touch it—giving in its stead lemon tea or hot lemonade. The excess of bile is thus summarily destroyed, and perchance a fever routed.

Malaria threatens another member of the family. I forthwith prepare the "Roman" cure, which is nothing more than lemons, rind and pulp cut up in water—a pint of water to a lemon—and boiled down to one pint; dose, one teaspoonful before a meal. Though sufficiently sour to give a marble bust a wry face, pharmacists claim it has cured cases so stubborn that quinine had no more effect than sugar or salt.

Perhaps the little 5-year-old shows symptoms of a severe cold. I shall "nip it in the bud" by a fire warmth and a hot lemonade. If she is hoarse, I shall bake a lemon about 30 minutes and squeeze therefrom the hot juice upon a half cup of granulated sugar. The pleasant and palatable sirup thus formed will avert that most to be dreaded croup.

Nothing better can I find to impede a threatened pneumonia attack upon myself. The remnants of some of the lemons I shall give Biddy to rub her hands with after the weekly washing, thereby preventing the chapping which she so much dreads. Clean rind pieces [illegible] I shall place in a glass jar, covering with alcohol, thereby manufacturing a superior quality of lemon essence.—Philadelphia Times.

A Royal Design For Fabrics.

Her royal highness the Duchess of Teck and Princess May have given permission that the new May blossom design shall henceforth be known as the "royal May blossom," in order to protect it from nefarious imitations which ever follow in the wake of success. It is pleasing to learn that a French firm have ordered a quantity of this silk, which is being woven for them [illegible] looms, and for which they have paid a royalty, to be devoted to a charitable institution chosen by the royal bride. Negotiations are pending with a celebrated Irish firm for the [illegible] of "royal May blossom" poplin, so that already the benefit to British industries through this design, specially and directly patronized by the Duchess of Teck and Princess May, promises to be widespread. It is also likely to be brought into use in the manufacture of balbriggan stockings, which will probably be embroidered with the "royal May blossom" pattern.

The Duchess of Teck and Princess May are intensely pleased with the gratifying result of their kind efforts in favor of reviving the English silk trade, and of the special patronage given by them to this new design. Advances have also been made by American traders for a supply of the silk as being associated with their national "Mayflower," to which they cling more ardently now that it is the emblem accepted in Britain of the fair young princess. In dark blue and red the guards have adopted the new design enthusiastically, and use it not only for ties, but for facings for smoking coats. It is highly probable that in this coloring the "royal May blossom" will be reserved specially for members of the royal family and the guards.—London Telegraph.

A western congressman who is out for the fourth class postoffices and whose tact and hustling have already reaped rich rewards was somewhat bothered a little while since over one remaining office of that kind. The incumbent is a woman, and it is a little harder to oust a female than male officials, inasmuch as the common charge, "offensive partisanship," does not lie against the sex with such plausibility as to inspire credence. But if this woman was not an offensive partisan she was offensive otherwise, for common report attributed to her a temper beside which that of Mme. Xanthippe Socrates was angelic, and this finally inspired the congressman aforesaid to write to the postoffice department as follows:

"I want Mrs. ——, postmistress at ——, in the county of —— and state of ——, removed for the reason that she has an unruly temper and the tongue of a virago. No fishwoman that ever lived can equal her in vituperation, and the good people who have to visit her office for mail hold her in holy horror. In her place please appoint Miss ——, whose disposition is as sunny as the present incumbent's is sour, whose voice is like a silver bell and whose sweet smile would have brought balm to the heart of the wretch who kept inquiring for the letter which never came."—Washington Cor. St. Louis Republic.

Summer Outing Dresses.

The experience of last summer's great heat has made something cooler than woolen desirable for outing dresses when the mercury is in the nineties, and for this reason suits of linen duck, of pique and of gray linen are provided in great numbers. When only one outing dress can be bought, serge and hopsacking are preferred, as they serve for more various occasions, but for those who can afford variety the cottons and linens are commended as second dresses for extremely warm weather.

The duck suits come in white and tan color, either quite plain or with small specks, lines or bars of color. The prettiest choice is the pure white linen duck in basket weaving, called sometimes linen sacking, and sold in linen stores at 60 cents a yard, its width being nearly a yard. The suit consists of three pieces—a blazer with flaring revers, a vest cut double breasted and a gored skirt.

The front of the blazer and the revers are doubled; otherwise the suit is without lining. While the white duck suits are most cool looking, those of écru or tan color are chosen by women of fashion who wear very smart gowns. Rivaling these suits are others with an Eton jacket and a shirt waist of linen lawn or of china silk, either white or of some very pale tint.—Harper's Bazar.

Everyday Dresses Very Cheap.

Clever shoppers are just now getting some elegant dresses at comparatively small expense by purchasing two or three handsome remnants of harmonizing colors. The shops are full of these small length goods left over from recent big sales. A purchase may be made, for example, of a pretty crepon, the width serving for the length of the round skirt. The part sloped away in the seam at the back of the skirt will make a small figaro jacket or one in mikado style open up the back. A second remnant of changeable, striped or dotted surah or taffeta silk will make a guimpe with full sleeves or shirt waist. This should repeat the colors of the skirt or be in contrast with it. Velvet collar, cuffs and skirt frills complete the dress. This is only an instance of the many selections and uses that may be made of remnants of a host of beautiful and desirable fabrics—silks, laces, trimmings, muslins, organdies, sheer woolens, tweeds, etc.—at about half the price of materials cut directly from the entire piece.—New York Post.

Jewels In Great Profusion.

At the last drawing room of Queen Victoria there was a carnival of jewels. One reckless woman, the Marchioness of Tweeddale, was arrayed in a wide skirt whose many seams were outlined with diamonds and emeralds. The Duchess of Devonshire was a blaze of gems, and so was the Duchess of Buccleuch.

The marchioness seems to have been the only one who sewed up the seams of her skirt, so to speak, with jewels, but there was quite a goodly number whose bodice seams were outlined with diamonds. One lady wore a long string of diamonds across her breast, like an order. Jeweled hooks upon which to hang their fans were worn by most of the guests.

A [illegible] and beautiful fancy was the [illegible] a diamond in the heart of a [illegible] in the hair or on the bodice. [illegible] like a great dewdrop—[illegible] it was not lost in the crush. Necklaces in profusion were worn, and such was the passion for display that these were often supplemented by a [illegible] studded with stars. [illegible] and flowers of jewels [illegible], and the veils were kept in place by long earrings formed into [illegible], but with the pendants free to flash out kaleidoscopic prismatic colors. The bodices were fastened at the back with diamonds, and one waist had a fringe of diamonds across the front. Jeweled girdles were also worn. The turquoise was represented whenever it would harmonize with the color of the gown. Emeralds were much worn, and the present supremacy of mauve or heliotrope had brought the amethyst out in force.—London Letter.

A Princess of the Royal Blood.

Eulalie is all right. She is one of us. We have given her a hearty republican welcome, and she has made herself entirely at home with us. We have greeted her with the booming of cannon and the shrill whistles of our ferryboats. She was at first a little confused by the noise, but on being assured that it was intended as a compliment she declared that her head didn't ache and that she rather liked it.

The whole country is in love with her. She is a charming young woman, and the normal school girls do well to adore. What she said to them: "Well, young ladies, I am very much pleased at the manner in which you have received me. I am quite proud to be entertained by you," they thought her a fairy in disguise and clapped their hands in applause, but when she cried out impulsively, "I wish I were sitting on the benches with you girls," they could hardly contain themselves.

If any other princesses ever come to America, we shall judge them by the standard which Eulalie has furnished, for though an aristocrat in the historic sense she is as good a democrat as any of us.—New York Telegram.

Syrian Trousers In Boston.

Boston is in a state of mind over the appearance on her streets of a number of prominent ladies arrayed in a wide departure from the conventional feminine costume of the day. There are said to be at least a dozen advanced thinkers of the female sex who have appeared in public in the new costume which they have determined to adopt. Mrs. B. O. Flower, wife of the editor of The Arena, and Miss Laura Lee, a prominent artist, have been shopping in their Syrian trousers, and they say that their unique attire has caused them no other annoyance but to be stared at. They like it and mean to stick to it.—Boston Cor. San Francisco Argonaut.

Sister Dorcas In a Student.

At the Chicago university a Wisconsin woman goes by the name of Sister Dorcas because she abounded in good works. She owns a hammer, a screwdriver, a buttonhook, a can opener, etc., and is always willing to lend them. Among her other useful implements was a saw, with which all the girls but one had sawed off sections from the legs of their cot beds, finding them inconveniently high. The one exception had asked the authorities for leave to do so and had been refused, whereupon the other girls promptly sawed off their cots without saying anything to the authorities about it.—Exchange.

Women, Hats and Theaters.

Most of the women who go to the play in this country wear their hats during the performance, but a Boston man insists that in his town the antihat movement really amounts to something. "A few nights ago," he says, "I counted over 40 women who sat without their hats in the parquet of the Boston theater—just the floor alone—and at a matinee in the Museum there were 80 odd. The effect was pretty too. Those women looked cool and comfortable, while the women with hats looked as if they had run in for a minute and couldn't stop. No woman ought to wear her hat in the house."—Exchange.

Miss Murphy, the pioneer lady journalist of Australia, edits the Melbourne Punch, one of the most successful of the Australian comics. She is a great advocate of women's rights and is very good looking. Miss Murphy joined the staff of the paper she now edits some years ago and has attained to her present position solely by her ability.

Mr. Gladstone as a Poet.

An "Ode" which Mr. Gladstone composed when he was a younger man than he now is has been printed in London. It is full of truisms, a fair specimen of which is the remark at the opening of the eleventh section:

We are amid the tumult and the strife
Of a fierce eddying fight,
And to our mortal sight
Our fate is trembling in the balances.

This statement is truthful, obviously true. It is a standing truth, and when properly regarded it is not discouraging to a man of the daring do kind. The last line of the stanza ought to prompt and impel all men to do their best amid the tumult, as we must trust Mr. Gladstone himself is doing. As mere poetry the "Ode" is open to criticism upon four sides. Its thought is feeble, its wording poor, its figures incongruous and its rhyme bad. Gladstone does not seem to be much of a poet.—New York Sun.

Two women doctors in Buffalo—Dr. Lillian Randall and Dr. Mary Greene—have founded a hospital for the medical and surgical treatment of women that they may take a more prominent part in operations than women physicians are allowed to take in hospitals.

In Paris the latest fad is to ride a bicycle in the Bois in the morning, and many of the titled Frenchwomen do it, and of course do it well. The Comte and Comtesse de Talleyrand Perigord and Mlle. Clemenceau are among those who follow this fashion.

The importers have presented to view some rich and delicate sheer wool dress patterns for wear on cool days all the summer through. Many of these are bordered in various light and dark shades matching the fabric or are in exquisitely contrasting tints.

A NEW GRAND ARMY MOVE.

The Admiral Foote Post, G. A. R. of [illegible], has decided to form a citizens' [illegible] auxiliary to that body, and to invite to its membership citizens who by loyalty [illegible] for duty in the field, and who by their interest in the welfare of the union [illegible] and sympathy in [illegible] have always maintained a relation of helpfulness to the Grand Army which has been appreciated, and which [illegible] must be increased, [illegible] constantly diminishing its numbers.

[illegible] open the door of eligibility [illegible] who were connected with the [illegible] in sanitary and religious [illegible] and to the honorable citizens who [illegible] the widows and the rapidly aging [illegible] defenders. This auxiliary is to [illegible] with the post in one meeting each month.

[illegible] of the old soldiers who are jealous [illegible] the distinction of having fought [illegible] depart from them [illegible] are opposed to the scheme, but [illegible] of the veterans are in favor of it, because they regard it as both right and [illegible].

[illegible] Post, No. 1, of this city, [illegible] considering a plan something [illegible] and no doubt will [illegible]. These veterans do a large amount of [illegible] work, [illegible] and [illegible] widows and orphans. As the [illegible] the [illegible]. The members of the Grand Army of the Republic are mostly working men, and as such have [illegible] noble sacrifices for the [illegible] of those whom they regard as in [illegible]. They keep sacred Memorial day and now they propose by this [illegible] to make one with them [illegible] sympathies have always been [illegible], and whose contributions have greatly aided them in their work.

The plan is a good one, and doubtless will be followed in all parts of the country. It is one which patriotic citizens will appreciate; and these honorary auxiliaries will no doubt be large in membership, and by close relation with the Grand Army the members will become imbued with the spirit which prompts the veterans and will celebrate Memorial day and teach the great lessons of patriotism which are the fruit of the civil war, after the last veteran has responded to "taps" and joined those who await the reveille on the other shore.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN.

No one attempts to say more for the compulsory silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law today than that it was a [illegible] to prevent the passage of a free silver bill. Everybody is in favor of its unconditional repeal except the silver men whom it was passed to check in their wild career; and they are still for that clause or something worse. The question was never an absolute party question; but if either party, as a party, was committed to these wild schemes it was the democratic party. Representatives of both parties combined to carry the free silver bill through the senate, and to carry the Sherman bill as a substitute for it through congress.

After a little more than two years' experience the popular demand for the repeal of this law is loud and imperative. And the secretary of the treasury tells the people that this act has caused the country a loss of $11,000,000. If the compulsory act had not been passed what would the free silver bill have cost the country?

The free silver bill (provided that the owners of silver bullion should have it minted free, at a time when there was but sixty-three cents' worth of silver in a dollar, thus giving them thirty-seven cents on every dollar minted. It was a scheme so ruinous that it disturbed the whole country. There seemed only one way to prevent it, and that was taken advantage of. Since the passage of the Sherman silver bill there has been minted [illegible] twenty-eight millions of silver dollars, and the loss to the people under the free silver act would have been in round numbers over twenty-nine millions of dollars, under a limited coinage system such as has been in vogue. There is in the treasury about five hundred and twenty-eight million dollars worth of silver, and if its owners had been free to have it minted at regulation weight, instead of selling it to the government, and silver had not depreciated in its market value, the loss to the country would have been 37 per cent. or more than one hundred and seventy-seven millions of dollars.

John Sherman in his letter to Congressman Walker says: "The silver purchased is not worth as much as we paid for it, but this loss is insignificant compared to our gain by the defeat of the free coinage of silver." That gain is over one hundred and sixty-six million dollars, without considering the effect of such a flood of silver upon the business of the country.

It costs something to teach fanatics they are in error, but in view of what might have been, the country should bear its loss with patience.

WILD WESTERN TALK.

The agitation in the far west over the silver issue is intense, and the sectional feeling manifested, foreshadows the character of the debates and the spirit which will be manifested in congress in August.

Judge James B. Belford, a free-silver hoosier, of Colorado, said in a speech on the 4th inst: "We are going to have free silver at the existing ratio, or we are going to have a fight, as sure as God made little apples." The Colorado people were in such sympathy with him that they gave him an ovation at the conclusion of his address for his noble sentiments.

At a silver convention held in Denver Tuesday Gov. Waite said: "If the money-power shall attempt to sustain its usurpation by a strong hand, we will meet that issue when it is upon us, for it is better infinitely that blood should flow to the horses' bridles than that our national rights should be destroyed."

This ranting populist was cheered by two thousand people from all parts of the great state of Colorado.

These sentiments have an ante bellum sound, and show how frantic and unreasonable men can get when the idol in whom they have placed their trust is overturned.

THE DEMOCRATIC DILEMMA.

It was but a few weeks ago that the democratic papers were declaring that the settlement of the tariff question should precede congressional action upon the silver question. In view of the embarrassment of the country they are now of the opinion that the silver issue must be settled first, and the ad valorem substitute for the McKinley bill seems to be a lost issue. Since its announcement even the English free traders visiting the World's fair have frankly told the people not only that such a policy was ruinous but revolutionary.

It is generally conceded that the democratic party must substitute for the McKinley bill a code of specific duties which must be for protection as well as for revenue. The uncertain and halting position of the administration and the party in power has made many kinds of manufacturing so uncertain, and the home markets so dull, that the manufacturers find it necessary to shut down until a definite business policy is decided upon.

Thousands of idle workmen are walking the streets and many of them have no way to subsist except upon their credit. The dealers and merchants are taking less cash and the usual channels of free flowing currency are nearly stagnant.

The prompt repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman bill will not make this horn of the dilemma less trying. Before manufacturers can be reassured they must know whether the policy of the democratic party will enable them to carry on their business at a profit.

It is the industries of the country that make business brisk and keep the people occupied and contented.

A HIGH-TITLED ROGUE.

The Rev. Mr. Potter of the Tabernacle Baptist church of New York city is in a fight with his assistant pastor who charged him with being a fraud, a drunkard and an adulterer; and is ridiculing and "roasting" him in public places to make the people laugh; and as he walks the streets Potter has to dodge the sheriffs who have claims against him from unpaid milkmen, coal dealers, and creditors of all sorts. The New York Post says: "When services are in progress in the church, sheriff's men sit in the galleries to keep watch upon the pastor's property which they have seized for debt."

AN ECCENTRIC QUARTETTE.

Gov. Jones of Caddo has [illegible] the trio of eccentrics by adding himself to Pennoyer, Altgeld and Tillman. He does not propose to honor the national government's reprieve of the nine Choctaw Indians in the Indian territory, and declares they shall be shot if he has to call out the full force of militia to do it. This quartette of cranks in high places ought to be placed on exhibition at the World's Fair.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The whist congress in Chicago was all the name implies. Not a rule of the game was changed, and the books did not seem to be open to criticism.

They have three cases of small pox in Chicago. This is Columbian year, and Chicago may be expected to have almost anything on earth occurring within her limits.

Several captains of Her Majesty's navy are to be court martialed for not obeying the orders of Admiral Tryon and following where he dared to lead. These captains undoubtedly think it is better to be disgraced in England, than to be dead in "Davy Jone's locker."

It is hinted that Secretary Gresham has a cinch on the vacancy on the supreme court bench; and if it is a little easy in this administration for him to leave the secretaryship, he may have the naming of the candidate. This seems to be the reason Edward J. Phelps does not stand close enough to the vacant chair to drop into it.

Ex-Postmaster-General John Wanamaker went into a court of equity in Chicago to question the discretion of the directors of the World's fair in opening the great show on Sunday, and was frankly told by the court that he had no "standing" in court. A Chicago court of equity is about the only place in the country where John Wannamaker has nothing to stand on! If Mr. Wannamaker is not rated well in "equity," he is rated high in financial circles!

The rain-maker among civilized whites seems to occupy a place something like that of the medicine man among the Indians. Out in North Dakota the farmers have met and asked each town in the state to appropriate $25 for dynamite to produce rain with; and they are considering sending east to have a rain-maker come and show them how to knock out the drought. Pretty soon the cyclone tamer will be in the field offering his services to the credulous.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

What Democracy Will Do.

The Democratic party is all right. Give it a ghost of a chance and it will redeem its pledges—cut down the tariff to a revenue basis, restore genuine bimetallism and repeal the 10 per cent. tax on State banks.—[The Atlanta Constitution.

The "Robber" Tariff.

During eleven months ending May 31, 1893, the imports which came in without paying a dollar of duty amounted to $475,000,000, while the dutiable imports amounted to only $359,000,000. And this under a law which the democrats charge with "strangling trade."—[Boston Journal.

An Explanation.

An ant's head is very small and its brain yet smaller, but in proportion to its size the ant has a bigger brain than any living creature. This explains how ants [illegible] in surmounting every obstacle and getting into the custard pie and tapioca pudding at the picnic.—[Ansonia Sentinel.

They Might Have Saved Him.

"We have the brains and intelligence here; we have no use for Yankee brains," boasted Gov. Tillman of South Carolina the other day at a college commencement. Perhaps if there had been a little Yankee brains in the Palmetto state it might have saved Gov. Tillman the mortifying experience of having his pet liquor law declared unconstitutional.—[Boston Journal.

The Compromise.

"If the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law takes place," says The Atlanta Constitution, "the recommendation of the democratic platform to repeal the 10 per cent. tax on bank notes will be carried into effect." This appears to be the general conviction in the south, and the inference is that this is the compromise by which the administration has persuaded the southern congressmen to vote for repeal.—[Springfield Union.

All Since the Democratic Victory.

There has been such a severe liquidation in all forms of speculative venture, such a depression in the prices of staples, such difficulty in the management of [illegible] business, and such a [illegible] up of the very foundations of [illegible], that the most sanguine [illegible] in the ability of the country to cope with the troubles that beset it have taken alarm.—[Philadelphia Record (Dem. and Free Trade).

Queer Folks.

Those Kansas folks are queer folks. [illegible] became one of the populists state officers [illegible] locked up the senate chamber in the capitol, won't let the supreme court use it for court purposes, won't give sightseers a peep at its beauties, won't distribute 1,300 public documents entrusted to him for distribution, and says there is a conspiracy to rob Kansas which he alone can baffle, they are talking about getting out a writ de lunatico.—[Hartford Courant.

Secretary Lamont Now Responsible.

Acting Attorney General Maxwell's opinion affirming the right of the federal government to prevent the desecration of the Gettysburg battlefield leaves Secretary Lamont no excuse for further inaction. The opinion is clear and positive. The state of Pennsylvania has ceded to the United States the right to acquire the historic battlefield and congress has made ample appropriations for the preservation of the grounds.—[New York Press.

What McKinley Is!

He is the foremost republican of Ohio and the foremost American. If there be a man in the nation that is a better representative of the possibilities of American citizenship, where will you find him? No man in the federal union, north or south, republican, democrat, mugwump, prohibitionist or populist, but respects Gov. Wm. McKinley for his sturdy Americanism. Under any and all circumstances he is for his native land, first, last and all the time, and I believe I might add, right or wrong, without incurring a reprimand from the next governor of Ohio or the next president of the United States, Wm. McKinley.—[American Economist.

It Should Be in Every House.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cooksport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. PSYCHE.

Golden pinions, purple eyed,
Floating down the airy tide
Whence there breathes a faint perfume
Hinting of the clover's bloom—
Hither, thither, fluttering
Up and down on [illegible] wing—
What the spell and whose the power
Thus to lure her, hour by hour.

Does her lover captive dwell
In some clover honey cell,
Whither after weary flights
She with folded wings alights?
By what mystery of speech
Does his voice her hearing reach?
By what augury or sign
Hung upon the grass or vine?

Who the lonely prisoner
In the clover calling her,
Bidding her to set him free—
Hiding his captivity?
[illegible] Cupid, stricken blind,
Shut a clover leaf behind,
Calling to the butterfly—
"Psyche, Psyche, here am I!"
—Frank D. Sherman in Youth's Companion.

THE JEWEL CASKET.

Three gold safety bars connected by chains are for children's blouses.

A beetle 3 inches long has a diamond body, emerald eyes and gold claws.

Salvers of polished wood set in silver are preferred for [illegible] to salvers entirely of silver.

Candle shades of perforated gilt and enamel are beautiful and among the fascinating novelties.

A serpent with a head carved for a handle had its tail smoothed out and polished to open envelopes.

The new silver bracelets are charming in design and workmanship. One variety is made up of woven wire and ends in tassels.

Speaking of flower adaptations, a large centerpiece with a figure has for its feet long leaves turned over to a point where they rest on the floor.

Charming necklaces of silver are worn with fine chains netted together. They cannot fail to be popular with the young girls with their summer gowns.

Swords are enriched with flowers, and the last produced are the most magnificent. One seen has for the guard a flower design in gold set with rubies and emeralds.—Jewelers' Circular.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 12.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 12 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

Today conditions for the fortnightly settlements in London, and the market there is thoroughly demoralized. Already three failures have been announced, and others are feared. The result is a tremendous liquidation in American securities, which has forced the list from 1 to 3 per cent below the closing quotations here.

In consequence of this the markets here opened weak and feverish, and something of a flurry marked the first hour. The belief in New York is that one of the members of the Vanderbilt family has been obliged to part with his holdings. Certainly a deal of long Lake Shore, New York Central and Northwestern stock came out late yesterday afternoon, and this gave the bears a point for operation this morning. This was a stronger movement, however, on the part of the shorts to cover.

The local market opened weak and dull. General Electric started off 2 down at 48, declined to 46, and subsequently advanced to 51. The officers of the company say they cannot account for the weakness of its stock. They declare that the quick assets of the company are four times as large as its floating debt, and that its business is 50 per cent a cash one.

Sugar opened 2 down at 77, declined to [illegible] and then rallied to 79. Yesterday's quotation last evening. The preferred was 3 off at 78, but gained 1 later. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy sold down from 82 to [illegible] and then up to [illegible]. Atchison from [illegible] to [illegible], then up to the first figures, and New England from [illegible] to 24, then up to [illegible], then down to [illegible]. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy is weakened ¾ to 1⅛.

STONEHAM'S LOSS.

George H. Eaton & Co.'s New Shop Destroyed.

FLAMES WORKED QUICK HAVOC.

Loss of $85,000 of Property.—Serious Check to Business Enterprise.

STONEHAM, Mass., July 12.—Fire broke out in George H. Eaton & Co.'s machine shop this morning at 10:30, and destroyed about $85,000 worth of property. The building had been prepared for use as a machine shop and was to have started in a few days.

The blaze started in the basement under the engine room and was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp in the hands of one of the workmen employed about the building. Means were at once sought to quench the rapidly spreading fire, but within 10 minutes the whole building was in flames.

The department quickly responded to the alarm and found the fire spreading with amazing rapidity. They soon had several streams on, and aid was summoned from the surrounding towns.

By this time several of the dwelling houses on Washington avenue and it required the greatest effort to save them and their contents from total destruction. After a very stubborn fight of 30 minutes the fire was under control.

Began to Catch Fire From Flying Sparks,

The damage to the building was $5000, while the machinery, which was bran new and valued at from $70,000 to 75,000, was ruined beyond redemption. This, however, had been partially insured a day or two ago.

The firm of Eaton & Co. were to have employed from 25 to 40 men, and the fire will cause a check to business enterprise in this section of the town.

Trains on the Lowell division were delayed for over two hours on account of a hose which was laid across the track.

ATTLEBORO'S MYSTERY.

McCarthy Was "Flighty" and May Have Committed Suicide.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 12.—There seems to be some doubt whether the hat which was picked up near the pond where the body of Patrick McCarthy was found belonged to the murdered man. The hat was bought at Barden Bros.' in this town. It was carried to their store yesterday and Mr. Barden said that he was positive that he sold it, or one precisely like it, to McCarthy last summer.

The son of McCarthy, Arthur, does not think that the hat belonged to his father, as he never saw his father wear one like it. Lizzie, the daughter, also held that the hat was not her father's.

If the hat was not McCarthy's, the police think that it was placed there for a purpose. It was found by small boys [illegible] o'clock Saturday afternoon.

It is now denied that McCarthy was at Bennett's saloon Saturday night; but it is said that he was there in the morning. This is generally believed by the officers today.

The police would now like to know where McCarthy was at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. On that afternoon there were men haying near the pond, and the body of McCarthy could not have been thrown in without their knowledge.

The daughters have stated to the newspaper men that their father was "rather flighty," and this has caused the officers to believe that it was a case of suicide and not a murder after all.

The club or stick which was found near the place where the body was found is now considered not large or strong enough to cause the deep cuts that were on the face and head of the murdered man.

CRUISER NEW YORK.

When In Commission Will Make Voyage Around the World.

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—The armored cruiser New York is now within a few days of readiness for commission. The Cramp company have begun the final planing of her decks and the mounting of her turret batteries. Equipment of her crew is proceeding rapidly at the League Island navy yard.

The first cruise of the New York will be an event in the history of the navy. She will first be made the flagship of the home squadron, then she will go to Europe and probably finish her first three years' commission by a voyage around the world.

The Cramps have decided to launch the protected cruiser Minneapolis Aug. 12 next. Miss Washburn, [illegible] of Senator Washburn of Minnesota, has been named by Secretary Herbert to christen her.

To Protect German Interests.

BERLIN, July 12.—The navy department has ordered the warship Wolf to proceed at once to Bangkok to protect German subjects and interests in the Siamese capital in the event of an outbreak of hostilities between the French and Siamese.

Will Leave the Ministry.

[illegible], Mass., July 12.—The resignation of Rev. D. L. Fisher of the Unitarian church of this town has been accepted [illegible] parish to take effect the first [illegible]. The church committee has [illegible] of resolutions commending [illegible] work in this place and expressing regret that he is to leave the ministry. Mr. Fisher, it is said, will accept [illegible] of principal of the Pembroke [illegible] high school.

Bank Frauds in Italy.

ROME, July 12.—Ex-Premier [illegible] has [illegible] to the parliamentary committee of inquiry into the bank frauds a statement to the effect that several newspaper editors, who support the Vatican's policy, attempted to extort money from the National bank and the Bank of Rome, both involved in the scandals now under investigation.

Naughty Postmaster.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., July 12.—Nathan Perry of Pocasset has brought suit for $20,000 against Postmaster Howard Burgess of Pocasset for the alleged alienation of Mrs. Perry's affections. The writ is returnable at the superior court at Barnstable in October. The affair has created considerable interest.

Forgery or Starvation.

BOSTON, July 12.—Herman Hamina, a tall blonde heavyweight, walked up to the police headquarters this morning under arrest for forgery. He admits forging five checks, and claims that it was a question of doing that or starving. He declares that he could not get work.

Robbed by White Pirates.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 12.—Iwoo and Sanan, and other small outlying isles in the Japanese seas, were recently visited by foreign white pirates in sailing vessels, who carried off money and all the valuables in the possession of the islanders.

The English Presbyterian church recently decided to raise during the next five years $250,000 for building new churches in different parts of England.

BRITISH PROTECTORATE.

Belief That It Will Be Established in Farthest East.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 12.—A Singapore paper brought by the steamer Victoria says: French encroachments will precipitate what the English and Siamese prophets have long foreseen—the establishment of a British protectorate over Siam.

A small kingdom like Siam cannot hold its own unaided and unprotected during a European rush for a colonial empire.

Siam was ill-advised to submit the dispute about the Mekong territory to arbitration, because in the war of colonial politics it is customary to support only the rights of nations that can defend them. Siam would be equally ill-advised to go to war with France, for France into Siam goes no times and nothing over.

There is a third course, and the only rational one opened—a British protectorate. It remains to be seen how Gladstone's cabinet will receive applications for a British protectorate over Spain.

We have an uneasy feeling that if England were to address a gentle remonstrance for her conduct in Siam, and ask for explanations, France would withdraw all objection to British occupation of Egypt, if England would allow France a free hand in the far east, including the occupation of Siam.

The French advance up the Mekong to Strungstrang was attended with practically little bloodshed. The Siamese forces were concentrated farther up the river, where the natural conditions facilitated and strengthened their position.

FOREIGN SHIPS UNDISTURBED.

Brazilian Ships Must Remain at the Bar of Rio Grande do Sul.

LONDON, July 12.—A dispatch to Lloyds from Rio Grande do Sul states that Admiral Waldeikolk, who is at the head of the revolution in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, allows all vessels, except Brazilians, to proceed up to the city as usual. Brazilian vessels, inward or outward bound are compelled to remain at the bar, which is nine miles distant from the city.

No test has yet been made of the action that would be adopted by the insurgents in the event of foreign vessels attempting to clear the bar outward bound. State troops are in possession of the town and refuse to surrender.

The British twin screw sloop of war Beagle is expected to shortly arrive at Rio Grande do Sul.

SEAL CATCHERS.

Helen Blum Lost—Other Schooners Report Heavy Catches.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—The schooner Theresa arrived here yesterday from Sand Point, Alaska, with [illegible] seal skins of her own, and the catch of the sealing fleet up to May 12. She brought news of the loss of the sealing [illegible] Helen Blum on Semanski reef. It is feared all her crew perished.

Among the heaviest catches are the following: Dora, 1426 skins; Sapphire, 1200; Triumph, 1223; Borealis, 1300; Minnie, 1400; Ocean Belle, 1200; Oscar and Hattie, 1500; Henry Dennis, 1204; Aino of Shanghai, 1402.

President Declines to Go Fishing.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., July 12.—The president decided not to accompany Mr. Joe Jefferson on a fishing trip to Peter's pond in Sandwich this morning. At 9 o'clock, accompanied by Secretary of War Lamont and Surgeon Bryant, he drove over to Bourne, where the party met Mr. Jefferson and his son at the junction of the Sandwich road. After a few minutes' conversation, Col. Lamont and Dr. Bryant jumped into the Jefferson carriage and were soon on their way to the fishing grounds. The president, with his driver, rode leisurely back to Gray Gables.

Jumped His Contract.

PALMER, Ma., July 12.—Last night, James Rogers, captain and first baseman of the Portland baseball nine, jumped his contract with the club and left on the Pullman for Providence, where he will play first base with Bonham's team. Maine received overtures to play the season out for $200 a month. He declined to jump. Burns was also approached, but refused to go.

Unknown Woman Drops Dead.

BOSTON, July 12.—About 9:30 o'clock this morning an unknown woman went into the grocery store of William Taylor in East Boston. Hardly had she entered the store than she suddenly dropped dead. She was about 60 years old, 5ft. 5in. tall, and weighed about 130 pounds. In the pocket of her dress was found a paper marked "Mrs. Bessie McKeon, 383 Marlboro street."

Sensational Story Exploded.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The sensational stories which were published this morning stating that 10 more dead bodies had been taken from the cold storage warehouse ruins were exploded today. The 10 bodies were [illegible].

LADY SLIPPERS.

Harriet Beecher Stowe, although 81 years old, goes calling every day when the weather is fair.

Constance Smith heads the female staff in the Postoffice Savings bank in London and has 700 women in charge.

Mrs. Grant denies the truth of published stories to the effect that her granddaughter, Vivien Sartoris, is to study for the stage.

Mrs. A. L. Wister, whose translations from the German are so well known, is a resident of Philadelphia and daughter of Dr. Furness, the venerable Unitarian clergyman.

Mrs. Soar of Ambaston, England, has a loaf of bread that was given to one of her ancestors by King John with a grant of land. The loaf is 690 years old and is getting somewhat stale.

[illegible], an Indian woman, is a trained nurse in the New York Woman's hospital, and this namesake of Longfellow's ("Hiawatha") Dakota heroine is said to be one of the best in the institution.

Mrs. Russell B. Harrison is spending the summer at the beautiful home of ex-Senator Saunders in Omaha, an old house surrounded by spacious grounds. Here she is resting quietly from the toil and fatigue of the last four years.

Mrs. Lizzie H. Perkins of Bath, Me., didn't want lawyers to have anything to do with making her will, so she drew one to suit herself. Up to date 16 lawyers have had a shy at it, and the supreme court of the state will now wrestle with it.

Baroness Helene Reden, aged 79 years, was sent to the Vienna workhouse as a vagrant last week upon her averment that her relations would not support her. She is the widow of a millionaire and mother of the privy councilor, Baron Reden.

Miss Wladislaw Frankel, a Jewish actress, has caused a sensation in Hebrew circles by becoming a convert to Catholicism. She was received into the St. Stanislaus church, Brooklyn, recently despite the entreaties and protests of her relatives.

Mrs. Bell, wife of Professor Bell, the telephone inventor, a young and pretty woman, was a deaf mute until taught the lip language, but she now converses easily and understands all that is said around her. Her husband instructed her in the sign language.

BY LAND AND SEA.

Rebels Bombard the Town of Rio Grande do Sul.

HOMES ABANDONED IN TERROR.

Officers and Men of Government Gunboat Join the Rebels.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Herald's Valparaiso correspondent cables: Dispatches from Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, via Montevideo, say that an assault has been made upon the town from the land and sea by the revolutionary forces.

When the news of Admiral Wandelkolk's arrival on board the steamship Jupiter spread in the town the citizens were terror stricken. They feared an immediate attack, and many abandoned their homes and sought refuge in the country back of the town.

Admiral Wandelkolk postponed the bombardment of the town from the sea until the arrival of the insurgent land forces under General Saraiva, the preconcerted plan being to begin the assault from the Land and Sea at the Same Time.

Meanwhile the rebel admiral's force was increased by the crew and officers of the gunboat Camocia, who declared in favor of the revolutionists and put their vessel under his command. The government towboat Manuel Diablo, while trying to enter the harbor, was fired upon by the gunboat Camocia.

General Saraiva's battalions began passing back of the town yesterday morning, and last night the bombardment was opened. The result of the fight is not known.

FISCHER HAD TWO WIVES.

Now Both Widows Are Trying to Collect Insurance on His Life.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The efforts of Mrs. Emma Fischer, of 2032 Third avenue, to collect $1000 insurance on the life of her late husband, Eugene Field, reveals the fact that 20 years ago, in England, under the name of David Feiller, he married another woman.

Feiller came to America 20 years ago, and under the name of Fischer, became prosperous as a tinware merchant. He frequently made trips to England, and was occasionally visited here by a young woman, who, Lawyer Samuel Newmark, counsel for Mrs. Feiller, says was his daughter.

All the time, however, he passed as a single man here, and six years ago married the American woman. He died June 24 last. The widow in England is also trying to collect the insurance which is in the Order of the Sons of Benjamin.

RAILROADS ROBBED.

Packages Valued at $80,000 Taken Between Mexico and El Paso.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 12.—Robberies of packages, etc. to the amount of $80,000 are reported to have taken place on the Central railroad, between Mexico and El Paso during the past four months.

Detectives were put to work, and as a consequence Antonio Carillo, a messenger of Wells, Fargo & Co., and Enrique Gomez, who has been for five years in charge of one of the baggage cars, have been arrested. Stolen goods have been found in the possession of each of the prisoners.

Khedive Embarrasses Government.

LONDON, July 12.—The Constantinople correspondent of The Times telegraphs: The khedive visited Ismail Pasha today, and he intends to call upon the foreign ambassadors. His visit is beginning to embarrass the government. It is feared that he will insist that the Sultan shall take open anti-English measures in Egypt, and will threaten to abdicate if the Sultan refuses. The report that a contingent of Egyptian nobles are coming here increases the alarm lest a popular demonstration be awaited.

McGlynn Will Lecture.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Dr. McGlynn announces that he expects soon to proclaim his old land tax theories from the lecture platform, and preliminary to his work as a lecturer he will speak on invitation at Asbury park and before the Congress of Religions in Chicago next month. Under what bishop's jurisdiction he will live he does not state, but it seems quite likely that he will be invested with a sort of roving commission, in order to qualify him as a lecturer.

Orange Parade at Lowell.

LOWELL, Mass., July 12.—Orangemen had a procession, in which about 800 men and women from lodges in Lowell, Lawrence, Clinton and Woburn took part. Three bands furnished music. William G. Graham of Lynn was marshal, and Samuel S. Murray and George Stewart aids. There was no disorder attending the affair.

Died From His Injuries.

BOSTON, July 12.—James P. Smith, 48 years of age, a member of the firm of Chatman, Kendal & Daniell, died this morning at the Massachusetts General hospital. Mr. Smith was thrown from his carriage while out driving with his wife on Saturday evening, June 10, the horse taking fright and running away.

Business Section Wiped Out.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 12.—Word reached here last night that a large portion of the business section of Purcell, a town of 2600 people 60 miles south of here, was destroyed by fire last evening. The loss foots up many thousands of dollars, and the insurance is light.

Powerful Kick.

CRUEL JULY.

Fearful Death-Rate This Month.

Infants Die for Better Food.

Anxiety in Thousands of Homes

Improper Diet Should Be Avoided.

Lactated Food the Preventive of Cholera Infantum.

The Safest and Best for Little Ones.

Pre-Eminently the Most Nourishing and Natural.

Thousands of homes are now thoughtful and anxious for the safety of the little ones during the hot weather.

No one thing is so essential to their health and safety as a wise choice of food.

In the four summer weeks ending July 17, last year, the mortality of infants under a year old in this state amounted to 53 2 per cent; under two years, 60 per cent; under 5 years, 64 per cent. of the total mortality. The mortality of babies under a year was about equal to the total average mortality for the whole year of all diseases under 10 years.

The cold, cruel, statistical proofs which might be accumulated indefinitely, show only what physicians know too well, that improper diet in the summer destroys baby life in uncommon numbers. And they prove, also, that it is mainly the infants who suffer from the effects of the season, on this account.

The epidemic of bowel affections of children frequently corresponds with the rise in temperature, but the causes always lie in unsuitable diet.

An absolutely pure and reliable infant food had therefore been eagerly sought for years as a substitute for pure mother's milk.

Lactated food solved the problem completely. It stands today pre-eminent above all others. Infants fed upon it suffer less, and fewer die, it is now well known, than those fed upon anything else. It is used in the big charitable institutions for children. It has saved the lives of thousands of infants during the hot, summer months of summer.

It is indorsed by the best physicians, by nurses, and by happy, grateful mothers in every town and village in the land.

Sugar of milk, the basis of mothers' milk, is the basis of lactated food. With it is combined pure barley malt, the finest wheat gluten, and the nutritious elements of the oat. It is thoroughly cooked by high steam heat, and a predigested, nutritious food is made that fulfills every requirement of the growing child. It is by far the safest food a child can eat in the summer. It is a true preventive of cholera infantum.

No home where there is an infant can afford to be without it.

Lactated food saves babies' lives! jy13d

The great sale of Samples of Ladies' Cotton Underwear goes bravely on. And so it should. Such Samples have never before been seen in Norwich. But the Norwich Women are appreciative. When they see an Under Garment worth $5.00 going for $2.50, or one worth $6.00 going for $3.00, they are quick to take advantage of the opportunity.

More than 500 Pieces sold in the past two days.

Nearly 1,000 more to sell.

Only one of the kind of each style of garment.

Women of Norwich look into this before it is too late

Many features of the Great Mid-Summer Sale begun here Saturday week make the most notable sale we have ever had.

The new arc electric light at the head of Penobscot street, Preston, shed its radiance on that section for the first time last night.

The new Laurel Hill bridge, it is claimed, is not as low by twelve inches as stipulated by the contract, and the cause is not clearly apparent.

Lieutenant Cornelius Bransfield of Company E, Third Regiment, C. N. G. has resigned and his resignation has been forwarded to the adjutant-general.

The descendants of men who fought in the colonial wars which preceded the war of the revolution, are organizing a division in Connecticut of the National society.

The county commissioners were in session for license business in New London Wednesday, and will be today. The accounts of the Norwich jail were audited Wednesday.

The Smith & Winchester company has been organized at Willimantic, to deal in machinery. The capital is $120,000, in 1,200 shares of $100 each, twenty per cent. paid in.

A Hartford concern is to bring out a cycle that will enable the rider to make a mile a minute. It is claimed the wheel, which is about eight feet in diameter, can be controlled as easily as an ordinary machine.

At the special meeting of the state board of agriculture Tuesday to take steps to exterminate peach "yellows," deputy commissioners were appointed for every county except New London.

Springfield Canton, Patriarchs Militant, have hired the steamer City of Richmond for a six days' outing, beginning July 21, which will include two days at Block Island and a day and night at Watch Hill.

The Sunday outing on the 16th of the Merry Bachelors will be well patronized by their friends and the public in general. They leave this city at 8.45 a. m. on the steamer City of Richmond for a sail to New Haven.

Governor Morris, Speaker Brooks, Lieutenant Governor Cady, the clerks of the senate and house and the joint engrossing committee of the last general assembly will meet at the capitol to-day to complete general assembly work.

These are king-pin hay days and farmers in this vicinity are taking advantage of it with a will. The gentle breeze of the midday and afternoon helps the sun to properly "cook" the clip, and keeps the hay-makers in good humor.

The New London Day says: Judge Crump has not yet made an appointment of prosecuting attorney for the court of common pleas in New London county, but it is generally understood that Hadlai H. Hull will be the appointee, and a better choice could not have been made nor one more generally satisfactory to the bar. The appointment will be made before the next session of the court.

Bluefish are running in great numbers in the "Race." Captain Richard Forrest reports the greatest catches. The schooner Ada R. Terry, which he purchased in Gloucester last fall, has made several cruises this season, and reports extraordinary luck. The last trip was one of the best on record. The schooner came into port with 11,000 bluefish, bringing her total catch so far this season up to 30,000. Other fishermen also report fine catches.

The removal of Miss S. A. Hurlburt as postmaster at Salem has caused a good deal of surprise, as she was appointed during Cleveland's first term and was not removed during Harrison's administration, although Mr. Kingsley, the newly appointed postmaster, tried for the appointment as a republican. The sentiment there was so strong against having any change that the office was allowed to remain with Miss Hurlburt who has given universal satisfaction.

Some of the county papers have scheduled the appointments of county treasurer and keeper and matron of the county home by the commissioners for this week. In reality, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah B. Brown's appointment does not expire till next April, and there seems little likelihood of the [illegible] of Treasurer Jabez S. Lathrop, whose term of service has covered nine years. His two predecessors were in office a quarter of a century apiece.

Connecticut Agriculturalists at the Fair.

Messrs. A. Hamilton of Bristol, William G. French of Watertown and Charles Lee of Coventry have been appointed a committee to select six pairs of oxen to be shown in an exhibition of working cattle at the World's fair later in the season. The state appropriated $600 to defray the expenses of sending the cattle to Chicago and Mr. Hamilton will go to Chicago in charge of the exhibit.

The Hon. E. A. Potter of Bristol will go to Chicago in October as one of the commissioners in charge of the dairyman's exhibit from this state, for which $1,000 was provided by the state.

George E. Minor of Bristol will exhibit the products of his dairy farm at Chicago this fall.

Third Regiment Officers Examined.

The officers of the Third regiment appeared before the military examining board at the capitol Wednesday. The board consisted of General Haven, the former commandant, and Colonel Augustus C. Tyler, the present commander. The names of these officers appeared upon the pay roll:

Howard, Company C; First Lieutenant James L. Kingsley, Company C; First Lieutenant William H. Saxton, jr., Company I; Second Lieutenant John A. Hagberg, Company C; Second Lieutenant Louis A. Nado, Company F; Second Lieutenant Albert F. Ware.

THE MASON MONUMENT.

A Historic Spot That is Only Infrequently Visited.

Of the twenty-odd thousand inhabitants of Norwich how many have ever seen it? The plain granite shaft on a grassy knoll at Norwich Town, sacred to the memory of Captain John Mason, and under which, in the oak tree's shade,

The rude forefathers of the hamlet sleep?

The yearly visitors to this homely shrine may be counted upon the fingers of one hand. Big, and bare, and plain, it stands up against the deep blue of the July sky, surmounting the dust of the thirty-five original proprietors of the town-plot, who, "in the yeare of our Lord upon the 20th day of June, 1659," laid the foundation of this busy city in which we live.

Over the hills in the distance smoke arises from the tall chimneys of factories; on one side the iron horse puffs and snorts along the "Yantuck," over banks once noted as affording native grass for their cattle; below, on the old town street, the electric cars hum along at a rate which would have amazed these quiet settlers, who lived before these degenerate days of "cuttin' up," when that tired feeling in their descendants leads them to make even the lightning do their work for them.

A big-eyed cow crops the grass enriched by the dust of this Miles Standish, this Captain John Smith of Connecticut, Major John Mason, who, as the monument tells us, was born in England about 1600 and died in Norwich on January 30, 1672, at the age of 72. Then on the four faces of the shaft we read the names of the little band; genuine Norwich names most of them, proudly possessed by many citizens of the Rose of New England today. Major John Mason, the Rev. James Fitch, John Pease, John Tracy, John Baldwin, Jonathan Royce, John Post, Thomas Bingham, Thomas Waterman, Robert Allen, Sergeant Thomas Leffingwell, Richard Wallis, Thomas Adgate, John Olmstead, Stephen Backus, Thomas Bliss, John Reynolds, Josiah Reed, Richard Hendry, Christopher Huntington, Ensign William Backus, Francis Griswold, [illegible] Smith, Thomas Howard, John and Hugh Calkins, Richard Egerton, Thomas Post, John Gager, Lieut. Thomas Tracy, Samuel and William Hide, Morgan Bowers, Robert Wade, John Birchard, Simon Huntington, Stephen Giffords and John Bradford.

On July 9, 1859, when meetings were being held to arrange for a proper observance of the city's bi-centennial, on motion of John A. Rockwell it was voted that the sum of $300 be appropriated for the purpose of erecting a suitable monument to the memory of Major John Mason. At a later meeting a committee was directed to purchase of Lyman W. Lee a lot of land fifty feet square, adjoining the old Gager burial ground, with the right of way to the same." About ten years later this monument was erected by the late A. B. Young.

Mr. Lee, a hale old gentleman of 78, still occupies the homestead, which 55 years ago he purchased of Ezekiel Barrett, who in turn had bought it of Joseph Post. The deed of conveyance, dated April 14, 1775, contains the clause:

"Excluding about 32 rods of land within the said bounds, belonging to the town of Norwich, being the old burying ground, with liberty of a pent way across my other land, from the town street to the above bargained premises, to pass and repass."

This Post home-lot had remained in possession of the family for 125 years. Sarah, wife of Thomas Post, died in March 1661 — the first person to die in the new colony. She was buried in this home lot of her husband, the place of interment subsequently appropriated by the authorities for the common burial place of the town, as recorded December 15, 1661.

"Memorandum.

The Towne hath purchased a burying place of Thomas Post, vide a parcell of land 8 rod one way and 4½ rod the other way in the home lott of the said Thomas Post towards the rearw of his lott adjoining to the west side of goodman Gagers lott, the said Thomas Post allowing a highway of 8 feet broad to the burying place."

An addition was subsequently made to this plot from the adjoining land of John Gager. Hence the name "Post and Gager Burial ground."

When Mr. Lee took possession of the place in 1837 several pieces of broken headstones were on the ground, that in best condition being a slab with a broad-winged face graven at the top, and declaring that—

> By the bodies of his parents
> Here lies the body of > Mr. Samuel Gager.
> A steady counsellor, a friend to piety; was an enemy of vice, a lover of pure public worship, and being blessed with long life, left this world with a comfortable hope of life eternal, on the [illegible] day of June, 1740, in the [illegible] year of his age.

This and the other fragments of stone Mr. Lee carefully placed under the base of the present monument.

Mystic has raised her imposing monument to Captain Mason; but under the unpretentious shaft at Norwich Town his dust undoubtedly lies. He was one of the earliest settlers laid in his grave, history furnishing the precise date of his death in a journal kept by the Rev. Simon Bradstreet of New London—these Bradstreets must have been born chroniclers, by the way—which pathetically sets forth:

"Jan: 30, 1671 (O. S.) Major Jno. Mason who had severall times been Deputy Governr of Connecticut Colony, dyed. He was aged about 72. He lived the 2 or 3 last years of his life in Extream misery with ye stone or strangury or some such disease. He dyed with much comfort and assurance it should be well with him."

The tide of life goes ebbing and flowing beside him; and surrounded by the flourishing city which he helped to found, honored though half-forgotten, let us echo his own hope that "all will be well with him."

PUTNAM.

Putnam and Clipper Ball Game Postponed—Other Matters.

The Putnam ball team goes to Webster Saturday, to play the crack team of that town. The Websters are the Putnam's old "rivals" and when these two teams meet, the result is always a good game. The home team will give the Clippers a return game, but the date cannot be stated yet.

The Dime Savings bank's new quarters in the Hoyle block are nearly completed. The bank will be ready for occupancy in August.

City Missionary Swan, of Norwich, will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist church next Sunday.

Lucy and Manchester of the "Clippers" were in town on Tuesday.

Miss Louise Hammond will be the guest of Mrs. E. A. Wild and daughter of Boston, at their summer residence on Buzzard's Bay, near Gray Gables.

The lawn party at Mrs. Frank Kent's on Wednesday evening, given by the Ladies' society of the Methodist Episcopal church was well attended, and enjoyed by all the participants.

WEST SHORE EXPRESS

Running 40 Miles an Hour,

Strikes a Standing Freight in the Newburg Yard.

PASSENGERS KILLED.

A Large Number Injured, Many Being Mangled.

A BROKEN FROG THE CAUSE.

Names of the Injured—Statement of Engineer of Day Express.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 13.—West Shore day express 1, due here at 12.04 noon, was wrecked in the West Shore yard in the southern part of the city today.

Six or seven persons were killed and fifteen or twenty injured.

The train consisted of engine, baggage car, three day coaches and a Wagner car. The train was well filled with passengers.

Car 71, in which nearly all the casualties occurred, had every seat filled.

The train was a few minutes late at Cornwall, and made the distance from that place to the southern limit of Newburg at a very rapid rate. It crossed Quassaick creek, a mile south of the station, ran a few rods further, under the Pennsylvania coal company's bridge, then ran into an open switch into the West Shore yard.

In that yard a train was standing ready to pull out on to the main track.

The day express struck the freight engine with terrific force.

The engineer jumped, but a little late, and was slightly hurt. The fireman also jumped and escaped uninjured.

The train smashed through the freight, and all the passenger coaches were more or less smashed.

Day coach 71, following the sleeper, had its sides torn off and the trucks torn out.

The scene in this car was terrible.

Several persons were killed outright, and nearly all the rest were more or less injured.

Those who were able to walk started out on foot for the station, and were seen with bruised and bleeding faces making their way painfully and slowly in the hot sun.

Wm. Callahan of the Pennsylvania Coal company office force, saw the scene, heard the crash, and upon reaching the scene sent word to the central telephone office to notify every physician in the city to go to the scene, and within half an hour there a dozen doctors attending the wounded.

Several clergymen, among whom was Rev [illegible], were also present to offer [illegible] to the severely injured.

The dead are as follows:

Unknown woman of stout build, weighing about 180 pounds. Her hair was brown. [illegible] gold watch and chain, and [illegible] dress.

An unknown woman, aged about 30 years, of medium height.

An unknown woman, elderly, with gray hair, [illegible].

The [illegible] child of Burnham Elberson.

An unknown woman of stout figure, about five feet in height, gray hair.

Unfortunately, in the confusion, articles that might have aided in the identification of the dead were separated from the bodies, and it will be impossible to get the names until the coroner shall have made his investigation.

In a purse was found an envelope bearing the address "Miss Jane J. Cooke, 12 Hilliard street, Cambridge, Mass."

A railroad pass bore the same name, and visiting cards and other papers also bore the name of Cooke.

In another [illegible] was found a library book belonging to the Working Girls' club of Newark, N. J. On the card in the book was the name Miss Mary Maylander.

John Robinson of Jersey, skull and collar bone fractured; recovery doubtful.

C. J. Chetaire, injured internally; refused his address.

Fred Holland, engineer, severe scalp wound and bruised.

Charles F. Rub, leg broken, scalp wound.

Minnie Everty, colored, head cut and bruised, and internal injuries.

Mrs. V. B. Hardy, Brooklyn, leg broken.

Mrs. N. R. Harvey of New York, leg broken and head hurt.

Burnham Elberson and his wife; the former suffers from a broken and severe bruises, and the latter had her left knee fractured and head cut.

Five members of a family named Michael of Brooklyn, mother and four daughters, were all more or less injured. Mrs. Michael had a gash in her head, Fannie had a bruise on the cheek, Julia, aged 10 years, fracture of the arm and leg, Lily Michael, thigh fractured, and bruised in other portions of the body. Charles Willis, fireman, ruptured a blood vessel in his right breast and was bruised.

Andrew O'Brien of Cornwall, had his face and head cut.

George W. Kent jumped out through a window and escaped with slight injury.

George J. Hornbin had his foot badly cut.

Mr. H. C. Beauchamp and wife were thrown about six seats forward. Both were slightly hurt.

Miss B. Michael, thigh broken, jaw fractured; recovery doubtful.

Rev. E. D. Curtis (colored), pastor of the Second Baptist church of Catskill, hurt about the head.

Twenty-one of the wounded are being cared for at St. Luke's hospital.

The dead are in charge of Newburg undertakers.

Coroner John Corwin has made preparations to hold an inquest and will empanel his jury this afternoon. Up to 4 p. m. there has been no positive identification of any of the dead.

A further inquiry shows that the statement about an open switch was incorrect. Engineer Shelby of the day express was interviewed soon after the accident. He says that, as was the custom, he shut off steam just before reaching the scene of the accident, and was running at the rate of forty miles an hour. Just as he reached the switch he felt a jar and his engine seemed to rear up in the air. He realized at once that he was off the track, and whistled for brakes. Before the brakes took effect his engine had crashed into the freight engine. The signal was all right, showing that the switch was closed. When the engines came together he jumped, as did the fireman also. A few days ago four cars of a freight train left the rails at the same place. It is said that an examination shows a fresh fracture in the frog, probably caused by the engine in running off the track.

NEW YORK, July 13.—At the New York office of the West Shore railroad it was said that the official report of the accident showed five deaths and many injured.

The number of injured has not yet been learned. The officers of the company said they did not know who was responsible for the smashup. They had no information except that the cars were derailed by a misplaced switch.

ON THE ROCKVILLE BRANCH.

Narrow Escape From a Terrible Accident.

ROCKVILLE, July 13.—There was a narrow escape from a serious accident on the Rockville Branch railroad this forenoon. Engine 135, attached to the passenger train due in this city at 10 a. m., jumped the track at Campbell's crossing in Vernon Center. The driving wheels left the track and ran for a distance of twelve rods over the ties. The passenger coaches did not leave the track. The local freight train was following about a quarter of a mile back, but the engineer could not see the train until he got around the curve at this point.

A flagman was sent back as soon as possible to stop the freight. The engineer of the freight reversed his engine, threw sand on the track, and did everything to stop the train, but could not stop it entirely before striking the rear passenger coach.

As soon as the passengers saw the approaching train they jumped out in a lively manner and made for the adjoining lots. The engineer of the passenger train was running backward as usual from Vernon. The cars were only slightly damaged by the collision, as the freight train by that time was moving but slowly. The passenger engine was going fast when the accident occurred. The track was spread in many places. All trains were delayed one hour.

Found in the River at Middletown.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—A dispatch from the Middletown police to the station house in this city gives the information that the body of a drowned man was found in the river near the [illegible] dock this afternoon. The man had a smooth face, was dressed in working clothes and had the appearance of having been in the water for five or six days. This may be the body of Lester Ross, a boy about 18 years old, employed by John [illegible] of East Hartford, who disappeared Sunday after dinner. It has been feared that the boy was drowned.

To Entertain the Boston Coal Exchange.

NEW YORK, July 13.—A committee of ten members of the coal trade of this city has been appointed to entertain the members of the Boston Coal exchange, who will visit this city tomorrow. The steamer Laura M. Starin has been chartered and will leave pier 3, North river, at 11.30 for a sail around the harbor, [illegible] o'clock. At 3.30 o'clock the party will visit Coney Island on one of the Iron steamboats. A dinner will be given at Pulman's pavilion. Fifty-four members of the Boston coal trade will partake of the hospitalities of the New Yorkers.

Active Hostilities Begun.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 13.—The latest Samoan advices, dated July 7, show that active hostilities have broken out between the natives who support King Malietoa and the adherents of Chief Mataafa. The opposing factions have each formed a camp about two miles from Apia, the capital, and skirmishes occasionally occur. The king's forces are numerically stronger than the supporters of Chief Mataafa, but the latter have better arms. Both factions refuse to keep any district neutral.

The Parker Co. of Meriden Soon to Resume Work.

MERIDEN, Conn., July 13.—A false report printed in a local paper and also telegraphed abroad to the effect that the Charles Parker company had indefinitely decided to close its several factories has created much excitement.

Secretary Lyon of the company said this noon that one department had already resumed work, and the others would resume by August 1.

Failure of a New York Exporter.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Richard M. Olcott & Co., large exporters of grain and general merchandise at No. 58 New street, assigned today. The assignment is attributed to the financial distress and heavy losses. Liabilities from $100,000 to $150,000. It is said that creditors will be paid in full.

The President Enjoys a Quiet Day.

BUZZARD'S BAY, July 13.—President Cleveland has enjoyed another quiet day at Gray Gables. He had no callers and put in a full day's rest with his family. Col. Lamont and Dr. Bryant returned from their fishing trip last night. Col. Lamont expects to leave here on Saturday and the doctor on that day or shortly after. There have been no office seekers here to see the president since he came.

Will be Released Upon Payment of Fine.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13.—The marine department has agreed to release the American schooner Lewis Giles, recently seized for catching fish inside the three-mile limit upon payment of a fine of $3,500 and costs.

A Carpenter Falls Thirty Feet.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 13.—Louis Denison, a carpenter at work shingling a building for the Advent camp, fell thirty feet from a scaffold today, striking on his head. He was picked up unconscious, but will probably recover.

The Falcon at St. John's, N. F.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 13.—The steamer Falcon, with the Peary expedition on board, arrived here this morning from Portland, Maine. All on the steamer were well. The steamer will take on 180 tons of coal and other supplies here, and will sail tomorrow night for Greenland.

Canoe Upset and Occupants Drowned.

NATICK, Mass., July 13.—A party of seven campers from Ashland came to town this morning and made preparations for a day's fishing at Lake Cochituate. N. A. Clark, aged 22, George Adams, aged 22, started out in a canoe to try their luck. A short while afterwards the upturned canoe and the hats and coats of the men were discovered floating near the shore. Both men were drowned by the upsetting of the canoe. Clark leaves a widow and one child besides a father and mother in Dover, N. H. Adams was unmarried.

Body of a Missing Man Found.

NEW BEDFORD, July 13.—The body of Clement O. Reed, the man who disappeared from home on Monday, was found dead in a field in this place today. It is thought he became despondent and committed suicide. No other cause can be assigned for the act.

Suicide of an Evangelist's Wife.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 13.—Mrs. Alice R. Bassett, wife of Evangelist [illegible] Bassett in charge of the Albany [illegible] in this city, committed suicide this evening by cutting her throat at her home, 15 Olney street. Temporary insanity is assigned as the cause. Mrs. Bassett was 35 years old.

Death of an Inventor.

BOSTON, July 13.—A. T. Woodworth, the inventor of placing telegraph and electric wires underground, died in a room in a lodging house on Market street, Lynn, Mass. He took an overdose of oil of wintergreen as an antidote for liquor. He was 68 years of age.

A Young Lady Loses Her Life in an Attempt at Rescue.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 13.—Miss Susan Lawler, aged 21, of Fairhaven, and Carlos Glover and an 8-year old boy of Branford were drowned this afternoon in Branford river. They were in bathing with a large party. The boy went beyond his depth, called for assistance, and Miss Lawler attempted the rescue. Her strength gave out before she reached shore, and both sank.

Several of those in the vicinity went to the assistance of the young lady and the boy, but did not catch them in time to save them. The body of Miss Lawler was immediately recovered. The body of the Glover boy was found after two hours' search.

The Challenge Accepted.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 13.—Jim Jacques' sweeping challenge to match Harry Jamison, of this city, against any 165 pound man, has been accepted by the manager of the Crystal Athletic club of Philadelphia, who writes that he will meet Jamison during the first week in August. The "go" will take place before the club in Philadelphia for a $1,000 purse. Whom Jamison's opponent will be is unknown as yet.

WAS "AN ACT OF GOD."

Consequently the Consolidated Road Will Not Make Good the Loss.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 13.—The management of the Consolidated road have just completed their investigation into the cause of the fire in their freight yard last Saturday night in which some sixty or more cars, most of which were loaded, were destroyed. The company after a very careful examination, has come to the conclusion that the fire was due to a stroke of lightning and that being an "act of God" or the action of the elements over which they have no control, consequently they hold that they are not responsible for the damage done and will not make good the loss. It is not improbable, however, that the company's decision may be contested in the courts by some of the heavier losers. In reference to the actual amount of damage done by the fire, the officials say that it is impossible for them to accurately estimate it at present, but in their opinion it will not exceed $100,000, all told.

A Democrat Gets the Plum.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—Governor Morris, this afternoon, appointed Representative James Roche (Dem.), Judge of the city court of New Britain, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Judge Valentine B. Chamberlain (Rep.). The appointment is creating a sensation among politicians of both parties, as it was expected that the governor would appoint a republican in accordance with the understanding when the republican house elected Judge Barbour, a democrat, judge of the police court of Hartford to succeed Judge McConville, a republican. It was agreed that the judge at New Britain should remain a republican.

N. Y., N. H. & H. Road Sued for Damages.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 13.—The relatives of Samuel Wilton, who was killed about a year ago by being struck by a train while crossing the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad track have brought suit against the company for damages. It is claimed that the train which struck and killed him gave no notice of its approach by either sounding whistle or ringing the bell.

Strike of Street Cleaners.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Three hundred drivers in the street cleaning department struck this morning. The strike was caused by the refusal of Supt. Robbins to pay the men a full day's wages for work done on July fourth.

Bunco Men—A Marriage—A Wrestling Match.

A rumor on the street Wednesday morning that Dr. E. G. Sumner of Mansfield had been buncoed out of $25,000 caused considerable excitement, although those who are acquainted with the doctor did not believe the report. A well dressed man drove to the residence of Dr. Sumner in Mansfield and asked if a small farm which the doctor owned was for sale. The reply was that it was. After talking for a short time the man informed the doctor that he was a nephew of Mr. [illegible] of [illegible] this place. [illegible] conversation, asked the doctor to try a little luck, offered some cards and told him to draw one. The doctor did so and was informed that he had drawn $30,000. He placed the money in his pocket, and shortly another man drove up and said he had the ticket that had drawn the money and demanded the money of the doctor. He gave it to him and started on a run for home. He believed that there was something wrong, and was somewhat frightened. He was intending to go to New Britain to a convention, and a neighbor drove him to Willimantic to take the train, to whom he related his experience. Attorney E. B. Sumner, hearing the story, drove to Mansfield with Chief Hillhouse, but they returned without the men.

Charles H. Webster and Mary L. Smith, both of this city, were united in marriage at the Congregational parsonage by the Rev. C. A. Dinsmore, at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Webster left immediately after the ceremony for a short trip to New York, Albany, North Adams, and Great Barrington, the latter being Mr. Webster's birthplace. After their return they will reside at No. 207 Jackson street.

The challenge that was made a number of weeks ago through the columns of one of our daily papers by Oliver Gray to wrestle any 120 pound man, for the championship of the state, has been accepted by Peter McGrath of this city. The match will take place July 24th, and will be catch-as-catch-can for a medal, a purse and the gate receipts. The men who have charge of the affair will try and make arrangements for boxing contests before the wrestling match.

Michael Sullivan, an old resident of this city, died Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the age of 51 years, of pneumonia. He was around the house Wednesday morning, but he had to return to his room. He died in ten minutes after lying down.

JEWETT CITY.

Bank Meeting.

The twentieth annual meeting of the corporators of the Jewett City Savings bank was held at their banking house, Wednesday, July 12, at 3 o'clock p. m.

The report of the treasurer showed an increase in deposits for the year of over $60,000, and a very satisfactory gain in surplus. The dividends for the year amounted to $26,777.17. The total assets of the bank aggregate $776,045.38. The deposits have reached the sum of $718,977.43 and there is a surplus account of $42,291.47.

The treasurer's report was very pleasing to the members of the corporation, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed in appreciation of his care and labor in preparing such a comprehensive statement.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Hezekiah L. Reade; first vice president, James O. Sweet; second vice president, Alfred A. Young; secretary and treasurer, Charles Edward Prior; directors, John B. Tracy, Francis S. Young, Albert G. Brewster, Henry L. Johnson, Joseph E. Leonard, Israel Mathewson, Daniel M. Browne, Stephen Tiffany, Elias H. Chapman, Charles Edward Prior, Edward M. Anthony, James E. Fuller; auditors for six months, J. B. Phillips and E. F. Burleson.

Mr. H. L. Reade has been president of the bank since it was organized in 1873. Mr. H. T. Crosby served the bank as secretary and treasurer from 1873 to 1883. Mr. Charles Edward Prior has been secretary and treasurer during the ten years from 1883 to 1893, and has now commenced his eleventh year of service.

BUNCO MEN IN CONNECTICUT.

Lucky Escape of a Wealthy Thompsonville Farmer.

THE "BUY-A-FARM" TRICK

Being Worked for All It is Worth in the Nutmeg State.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—Basil Henry, a wealthy Thompsonville farmer, had a lucky escape from being victimized by bunco men Tuesday, who played the old-time "buying-a-farm" trick which has been so often exposed in the newspapers that no man of ordinary common-sense ought to be fooled by it in these days. A well dressed stranger came to Mr. Henry's house and said he wanted to buy a $10,000 farm for his two sons. On their way to the farm they met a stranger, the usual game of cards resulted, and Henry and the man with him won $5,000 each. But the new man refused to pay until Henry showed that he had $5,000 so that he could have paid if the game had gone against him instead of in his favor. Henry accompanied one of the men to the Thompsonville bank, but Cashier Gowdy was suspicious, would not let Henry have the money and the game was soon exposed.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES ARRESTED.

Thirteen Men of the N. Y. & N. E. Road Charged With Theft.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—Thirteen employes of the N. Y. & N. E. road, who work in and about the East Hartford car shops, were arrested this morning and arraigned before Justice Goodwin, charged with theft and conspiracy. The conspiracy is alleged to have been made to defraud the road out of some of money as occasions would allow.

A Pinkerton detective was put on the case and succeeded in obtaining evidence sufficient to warrant the arrest.

Evan W. Scott is the time-keeper of the gang of men suspected of being guilty. It is Scott's business to keep an accurate account of the number of days and hours each man is employed, and to make up the time and pay-roll for the men before pay day comes around. The charges against Scott are that he would allow a man to be away from work for a day or a half a day at a time and when the time list was made up he would charge full time for the man while he was away. The full amount was marked on the pay-roll and when the money was paid Scott would receive half of it as his share of the money so fraudulently obtained from the company. Each one of the men under Scott are alleged to be a party in the conspiracy, and each one will be equally guilty, if convicted by the court before whom the case will be finally tried.

When the charges were read to the men they pleaded not guilty. Scott was placed under $600 bonds and the rest of the men $300 each.

CONNECTICUT STATE PRISON.

Twelve Convicts Transferred to an Asylum.

HARTFORD, July 13.—Gov. Morris this afternoon ordered transferred to the Connecticut hospital for the Insane, Middletown, twelve convicts from the State prison at Wethersfield. They were recently examined by a commission of Hartford doctors and found insane. Seven of the men were reported as insane by Warden Chamberlain last March but the governor held them at the prison awaiting the results of the investigation. Acting Warden Haven reported five others.

Among the twelve men are several lifers for murder; four of them are negroes and six have been in the insane asylum before. The most dangerous is Mitchell Cheret, the Windsor Locks murderer, who has been confined in a massive iron cage for months owing to his murderous threats. Several of the others are violently insane. Another desperate prisoner is Frank Bassett, who, assisted by a woman, chloroformed to death "Bartender Jack" in Bridgeport several years ago.

The men will be conveyed to Middletown by Acting Warden Haven and a posse of keepers tomorrow, as he is anxious to get rid of them. The insane hospital is full to overflowing but these men must be received.

Arrested on Suspicion of Forgery.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—Police Captain Bill received a dispatch from Captain O'Brien of the Stamford police department, informing him that a man giving his name as Charles McKendrick had been arrested there on suspicion of being a forger. McKendrick was trying to cash a check for $50 on the Charter Oak National bank of this city, payable to him, and signed by one J. B. Mayrow. McKendrick had in his possession a card of W. F. Cox, manager at the hotel Heublein, and from description, Mr. Cox thinks it is the same man who was in the hotel on Tuesday and to whom Mr. Cox gave his card. The police authorities will look up the case and see if a case of forgery is in the Stamford official's hands.

Republican Congressman Dead.

CINCINNATI, O., July 13.—Gen. W. H. Enochs, republican congressman from this district, was found dead in bed this morning. He was born near Middlebury, Belmont county, Ohio, March, 1842, and served in the union army, rising to the rank of brigadier general. He graduated from Cincinnati Law school in 1866 and practised law since that time. He was elected to the Fifty-second congress and re-elected to the Fifty-third.

Sale of a Ferryboat.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 13.—The ferryboat Gildersleeve, so long known to the adjacent waters, has been sold to a company on Long Island, who will run her between Shelter Island, East Hampton and Greenport. She was taken to her destination yesterday, arriving about 12 o'clock.

We have been time and again asked the question why the Chilton Paints have such a high gloss. The Chilton Paint Co. in buying linseed oil, contracts for "prime, well-settled, old-fashioned, raw linseed oil." This is, being interpreted, oil crushed from prime or first quality flaxseed and which has been tanked and allowed to settle. The oil is then drawn from the upper part of the tank, leaving undisturbed the lower part. "Old-fashioned linseed oil" is from seed crushed and pressed instead of a recent method called the naptha process. Having obtained this oil, the Chilton Co. tank it again, and the oil gradually loses what little moisture it originally possessed and becomes very heavy bodied. It is this cause and the seven mixings and grindings given each shade, crushing and grinding each particle of pigment into each particle of oil that produces the lustre. On well painted houses this gloss alone has been known to last three years; ordinarily the gloss on newly painted houses where common paints are used vanishes in from six months to one year.

Church Brothers have a complete line of sea food for today.

Choice bill of fare at Powers Brothers' today. See advertisement.

Welcome A. Smith has a large assortment of summer drinks, and not a drunk in them.

You can't tell how cheap you can buy a straw hat or outing shirt until you have visited Prentice's.

Permanent, transient and table board on reasonable terms at the Columbian house, No. 4 Franklin street.

Boyns & Davis say that if you are going to buy that hammock, it will pay you to look at their stock.

At Smith & Gilbert's you will find just what you want in the way of a comfortable traveling or business suit.

J. O. Worth will handle fancy Long Island potatoes the balance of the season. He will also sell watermelons at New York prices.

W. H. Prothero makes a pretty good offer in the life insurance line this morning. Agents of other companies need to read and beware.

Alling Brothers are offering the balance of their straw hats and men's brown and light stiff and soft hats at such a reduction in price as to be almost giving them away.

The summer stock of fine clothing in the store of the Manhattan Clothing company has got to go. Ridiculously low figures are attached to each garment and the whole business ought to go at short notice.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Taftville.

Mr. John T. Howarth of Hope, R. I., is the guest of William Willey.

Mr. George Sleight has gone to Providence, where he will reside in the future.

A large delegation from Taft's lodge, No. 55, A. O. U. W., attended the anniversary of Sprague lodge of New London.

To Spar at Oakbrook Grove.

In Oakbrook Grove, Westerly, on July 18, a sparring exhibition will be given, arranged by Frank Cooley. The chief events will be between Patsy Broderick of Providence and young Gallagher of Brooklyn and Jack Walvey and Frank Cooley. Eddie Daley, Jimmy Nelson and Jimmy Boyle will also do turns. The New Londoners interested are Mike Glynn, George Goss, Jim Gaffney, Jim Kirby and "Blossom."

Y. M. C. A. Relay Bicycle Race.

There is considerable talk in Y. M. C. A. circles of another bicycle relay race between New York and Boston. The time made in the first relay race was unsatisfactory, and it is believed that the Y. M. C. A. members in every town along the route are sufficiently good wheelmen to materially lower the record.

In case another race is had the direction will be reversed, or from New York to Boston, and it is believed that better time can be made in this way. The race will probably take place about the latter part of August.

FIFTH REGIMENT REUNION.

Chief Bowen of This City on the Committee of Arrangements.

The annual reunion of the Fifth regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, will be held at Willimantic, Wednesday, August 9. The date is the thirty-first anniversary of the battle of Cedar Mountain, Va., which was fought on August 9, 1862, where the regiment had the heaviest loss for any single day of its service. Thirty-eight men were killed, ten mortally wounded, sixty-seven wounded, and sixty-four captured out of 380 men engaged in the battle. Lieutenant Colonel Henry Burton Stone was wounded and captured in this battle, and died January 20, 1863, at Charlottesville, Va.

Sergeant Major William J. Noad of Rockville is president of the reunion association for 1893, and the committee of arrangements consists of Chief John A. Bowen of this city, who served in Company G, Sergeant Luke Flynn, Company K, of Willimantic, and Sergeant Joseph Webster, Company F, of Rockville.

The Connecticut Public Acts.

The Fowler & Miller company of Hartford, which has the contract for publishing the public acts, is well along on the work. Of the 225 pages estimated for the Blue book, 185 are ready for the binders. The balance will be furnished as soon as the engrossing committee's work will admit of the text being sent to the publishers. There will be 5,000 copies of the Blue book. The regular edition for public distribution will be 25,000 copies. The work on this edition has been begun.

NEW ENGLAND'S FRUIT CROP.

An Unusually Big Yield the Universal Report.

The annual report upon the fruit crops of New England and New York state, as prepared co-jointly by The New England Homestead and The New York Homestead, will be published this week. The crop prospects in New England are exceedingly bright up to July 1. Fruit buds of nearly all kinds set and the crop developed rapidly. Peaches will probably give the largest yield in years. Apples are doing fairly well, although Baldwins have failed to give even an average crop. In nearly all cases good markets are reported and fruit raisers are hopeful of good returns. Wild berries are very prolific and cultivated varieties will produce a full yield.

FALL RACES ARRANGED.

Eastern Connecticut Trotting Circuit Will Offer Purses of Twelve Thousand Dollars.

The delegates from the different associations of the Eastern Connecticut Trotting circuit met in Willimantic Wednesday to make final arrangements for the races to be held this fall.

There will be six meetings under the auspices of the circuit at the following places: Norwich, Manchester, Stafford Springs, Rockville, Willimantic and Brooklyn. All the meetings will be held in connection with the annual fairs at the six towns mentioned. Purses aggregating $12,000 will be offered.

The following programme of races has been arranged and will be carried out at all meetings: First day, 2.27 class, trotting and pacing, purse $300; second day, 2.50 class, trotting, purse $300; third day, 2.35 class, trotting and pacing, purse $400, free-for-all, trotting and pacing, purse $300.

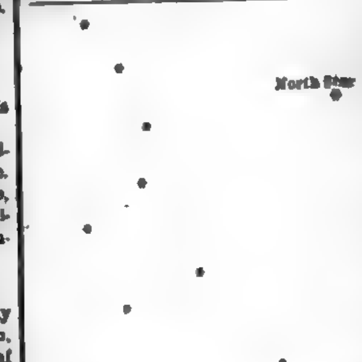
In addition to these purses about $500 will be offered in specials at each meeting. The entrance fee is 5 per cent. of the purse and 5 per cent. additional is charged for all horses that start.

The annual fair and races of the New London County Agricultural society will be held September 26, 27 and 28.

THE NEW COMET.

A Stranger to Astronomers—Where to Look for It.

There is another strange wanderer of the heavens flitting about in the northern sky these nights that is keeping the astronomers busy and anxious. A gentleman named Alfred Rordame, and the men of science say that Rordame is probably an amateur astronomer, he hasn't as yet gotten his name in the blue book, discovered this new sky scraper out about Salt Lake City. This fact has led some people to believe that the new comet is a Mormon. This has not been a very catching introduction, and then added to this fact Mr. Rordame telegraphed east that this new comet was a "naked eye" comet, and that he could be seen without even an opera glass or lorgnette hanging around about the constellation Lynx. This sounded bad for Mr. Comet's private history, and people have been straining their eyes ever since to get a look at this apparently common, ordinary, every day personage from the sky. The following diagram shows the relation of this naked-eye comet to the "dipper" and the north star:



The fact is, however, that this new comet is a mighty interesting dignitary and will undoubtedly prove a great drawing card. It is the first large comet easily visible since 1882. The discoverer of the comet apparently found it without a glass, as his dispatch sent east says that no telescopic observations were possible. The discovery was made last Saturday evening. Mr. Rordame saw the comet in the northwest about 10 o'clock and immediately telegraphed east to Prof. Swift of the Warner observatory at Rochester. Prof. Swift has quite a reputation as a comet discoverer, and he at once turned his big glass on Mr. Comet and observed it Sunday evening, July 9. Monday morning Prof. Swift sent out a dispatch saying that the new comet is traveling very rapidly in a westerly direction, and that the comet is large and bright.

Wednesday morning Prof. Swift adds that he thinks the comet is a very dense one and that it has a long hollow tail of cylindrical form, just as all comets probably have. He saw it pass over a pretty bright star, and contrary to his experience in all former observations the star was completely obliterated from view, thus showing how dense the comet is. But Prof. Swift admits, just as do all the other astronomers who have seen the comet, that it is a perfect stranger to them, and they, these astronomers, are nearly all on good speaking terms with every comet that has come to the United States in the past 1,000 years or so.—[New Haven Register.

AFTER TWO YEARS.

America's Noted Criminal Is Captured.

POISONED HALF A DOZEN PEOPLE.

The Long Trail Ended in Detroit—He Will Go to His Death.

DETROIT, July 13.—Last night one of the most notorious criminals in America fell into the hands of the police, and today at Chicago, New York and Toledo will begin a legal war for his custody.

Two local detectives, guided by Detective Julian of New York, and two Pinkerton men, arrested Dr. Henry C. W. Meyer, at 123 Clifford street, on suspicion. Julian and the Pinkerton men have been on his track for two years, and finally cornered him in Detroit, collecting in the meantime evidence which, they say, will cause him to Suffer the Death Penalty.

Meyer graduated from the Chicago Homoeopathic school in 1878, and his operations began a year later, when he poisoned his first wife. Then he poisoned an old man named Gilderman and married the widow, poisoning her son and finally herself.

Meyer then moved from Chicago to New York, where he went into partnership with a man named Brant, their scheme being to beat the insurance companies. Brant was to take out heavy insurance, become sick and apparently die, a corpse being procured from some other source and used to get the insurance. Brant took some medicine to render him unconscious, and then, it is charged

Meyer Poisoned Him.

In some way Meyer persuaded an Indianapolis girl to accompany him to Toledo, where he also poisoned her.

Chemists have failed to analyze the poison he is accused of using.

He is said to have collected $7000 that is known, from insurance companies, and the detectives feel confident there is more cases to hear from.

Requisition papers are expected tomorrow, and, although there are four cases against him in Chicago, it is said efforts will be made to send him to New York, where the case is alleged to be strong enough to warrant electrocution.

SUNDAY CLOSING COMING.

Slim Attendance During Last Four Sundays Will Work Change.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Little doubt is now expressed among the exposition directors that Sunday closing of the World's fair will shortly become an assured fact.

There was a discussion on the question yesterday when the executive committee met, but the question was too sweeping for them to handle, and the matter was referred to the general meeting of the directors, which takes place at the World's fair grounds Friday.

The comparatively small attendance on the last four Sundays has perplexed the directors and it is now highly probable that the World's fair will not be opened after next Sunday, as it is expected the directors will vote for Sunday closing on Friday.

MONSTER MASS MEETING.

People of Salt Lake Resolve For Altering into Free Silver Coinage.

SALT LAKE Utah, July 13.—A monster mass meeting was held here last night in the interest of silver. Resolutions were adopted referring to the widespread distress in the west and appealing to congress to replace the Sherman act by absolute free coinage of silver at some just ratio to gold, and favoring the appointment of a delegation representing citizens of all classes, irrespective of politics, to attend the next session of congress and labor in the interests of silver.

Governor West presided over the meeting. No revolutionary or inflammatory speeches were made, and the language of the Colorado silver men was deplored as unwise and hurtful to the true interests of the west.

Tried to Commit Suicide.

BOSTON, July 13.—Timothy Collins, between 30 and 40 years of age, residing at 9 West Third street, South Boston, tried to commit suicide this forenoon by jumping into the Charles river from the Cambridge side of the Harvard bridge. He was rescued from drowning by members of police station 3, Cambridge, who were nearby at the time. The cause of the man's foolish attempt is not known, but is alleged that at the time that he jumped from the bridge he was somewhat under the influence of liquor.

LIKE CAESAR'S WIFE.

Kentucky General Thus Replies to Critics of His Fiancee.

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 13.—The highest circles of blue grass society are now in a paroxysm of excitement over the separation of General Joseph A. Howerton from his young and beautiful wife. Intimacy between Mrs. Howerton and Captain James Kerr, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Howerton, is the cause of the trouble.

For some time the general has suspected that all was not right with his wife and Kerr. His suspicions were verified Friday evening, when he discovered his faithless better half and Kerr under circumstances that proved that his diagnosis of the case was correct.

The general ordered Mrs. Howerton to leave the homestead, and she started for Cincinnati. Before leaving, however, Revs. Rutherford and Cheek called on her, and she made an admission of her intimacy with Kerr, and commended the course pursued by her husband.

It seems that when General Howerton was about to marry Miss Brooks, a friend informed him that he had better investigate his fiancee's character. With a lordly wave of the hand, General Howerton dismissed his informant with these words: "My fiancee is like Caesar's wife, above suspicion, and I don't believe a word of the gossip about her."

The affair is generally deplored in Bourbon county. The general is one of the most prominent men in Kentucky, while his wife is a member of the Brooks family that is high in Kentucky aristocracy.

The couple lived on one of the prettiest farms, and their domestic relations have been unusually pleasant, the general having had the greatest faith in his wife.

It is whispered that a duel will result. Howerton is just the man to challenge his enemy.

POSTAL CARDS

Will Be Made of Uniform Size in the Near Future.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Postmaster General Bissell has decided to abandon the three sizes of postal cards now in use and to substitute one size for both single and reply cards.

With that purpose in view the specifications sent to prospective bidders for the contract of furnishing the postal service with cards during the next four years call for single cards of the uniform size of 3 1-2 by 5 1-2 inches. This is known as the international size, is being used generally by the countries composing the postal union.

The double or reply card now in use will be continued, with the size when folded reduced to that of the international card. These two cards will take the place of the small, or ladies' card, the medium and large card and the large return card.

COMPLETELY CUT APART.

Shocking Accident to a Freight Brakeman at India Point.

PROVIDENCE, July 13.—A shocking accident occurred in the consolidated freight yard at India Point this morning. Daniel Martin, whose wife and children live in South Boston, was employed as head brakeman on the Boston freight. He signalled the engineer to start, and was supposed to have jumped aboard the train.

At Mansfield Conductor Charles Pratt missed Martin and sent the engineer and the caboose to look for him. Martin was found dead in the freight yard, but a few feet from where he stood when he signaled the engineer. He had fallen between the cars, and his body was completely cut apart at the legs.

NAKED EYE COMET.

Lick Observatory Has Photographed the Rapid New Comer.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—Director Holden telegraphs from Lick observatory as follows: The comet discovered at Salt Lake City July 8 is easily visible to the naked eye in the northwest soon after dark. It is moving with extreme rapidity to the southeast, and was observed at Lick observatory Tuesday night for the determination of its position.

It was photographed and its spectrum determined. It was almost the usual comet spectrum. The other was brighter than common in the blue region. Until the orbit is computed it cannot be said how much brighter this interesting comet will become.

ANOTHER LYNCHING.

This Time Proof Was Positive That the Negro Was Guilty.

COLUMBUS, Miss., July 13.—The negro, Henry Fleming, who stabbed to death Mr. Mincher on Monday night, was taken from the officers last night and hanged. The preliminary trial was held yesterday, and the proof against the negro was positive and the magistrate committed him to jail.

Six deputy sheriffs started with their prisoner, and when about two miles from the place of trial they were met by a crowd of 200 men, who took the negro and hanged him. They afterward riddled his body with bullets.

Borden Sisters Buy a New Home.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 13.—Emma and Lizzie Borden have purchased a new home on the north side of French street, in this city, in the most aristocratic section. This announcement caused no little surprise, as it was generally supposed that the Butterworth property, upon which they held an option, had been acquired by them.

Young People's Union.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 13.—The international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America begins here today and will continue the remainder of the week. The convention will be held in the city hall, and its first session was called to order at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by President John H. Chapman.

Vining Family Reunion.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH, Mass., July 13.—The annual reunion of the Vining family was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Adoniram Vining on Park street, and was attended by about 100 descendants of Noah Vining. The house where the reunion was held has been occupied by some member of the family for 150 years.

Railroad Wages Increased.

BOSTON, July 13.—The conductors, baggage masters and brakemen in the Providence division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad are happy men today. They are happy because they got their pay increased, which went into effect yesterday.

New York Scraped and Painted.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 13.—The American line steamer City of Paris returned here today from Tilbury, where she had gone to have her bottom scraped and painted. She will sail for New York on Saturday next, her regular schedule time.

Intend to Overthrow Crespo.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Herald's Panama correspondent cables: News has just been received that an expedition has started from Martinique for the purpose of invading Venezuela. The leaders of the revolution declare that they intend to overthrow General Crespo, who has recently been chosen president for the short term.

Rum Caused His Death.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 13.—Michael Cunningham, who lives on Market street, was taken to the police station early this morning, suffering with delirium tremens. Shortly after his arrival at the station he was taken sick, and before 3 o'clock died. His death was pronounced by the city physician as due to excessive drinking.

Schooner Will Be Released.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 13.—Private advices from Ottawa state that the negotiations for the release of the seized schooner Lewis H. Giles, held for alleged violation of the Dominion fishery laws, are practically completed and that the vessel will be released by the payment of a fine probably about $500.

AYER'S SPECIALTIES

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Makes the hair soft and glossy.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for nearly five years, and my hair is moist, glossy, and in an excellent state of preservation. I am forty years old, and have ridden the plains for twenty-five years." —Wm. Henry Ott, alias "Mustang Bill," Newcastle, Wyo.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Prevents hair from falling out.

"A number of years ago, by recommendation of a friend, I began to use Ayer's Hair Vigor to stop the hair from falling out and prevent its turning gray. The first effects were most satisfactory. Occasional applications since have kept my hair thick and of a natural color."—H. E. Basham, McKinney, Texas.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Restores hair after fevers.

"Over a year ago I had a severe fever, and when I recovered, my hair began to fall out, and what little remained turned gray. I tried various remedies, but without success, till at last I began to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and now my hair is growing rapidly and is restored to its original color."—Mrs. A. Collins, Dighton, Mass.

Ayer's Hair Vigor
Prevents hair from turning gray.

"My hair was rapidly turning gray and falling out; one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor has remedied the trouble, and my hair is now its original color and fullness." —[illegible], Cleveland, O.

Call a Halt.

The latest enlargement in "woman's sphere"—her decidedly broad fin de siecle sphere—is a horticultural cottage for the sex in England. The course of instruction in "the theory and practice of horticulture" includes practical work in the large gardens attached to the college, and digging forms a portion of the daily labor. Besides this there are classes in such subjects as chemistry, geology, botany and the cultivation of fruits and vegetables. It is mentioned as a proof that the college is doing useful work that already two of the students have been engaged by a neighboring nurseryman, and that applications have been received for the ladies trained there to act as head and single gardeners. One or two lady landscape gardeners are already in existence, and a career in their cases is simply a matter of the possession of talent.

Seriously and soberly, as well as modestly and somewhat timidly, has not the principle of female emancipation been carried very near to the danger line? Is it not about time to call a halt? There are things which it becomes a woman to do better than a man. Is there nothing which it becomes a man to do better than a woman? Civilization can withstand almost anything better than it can unsexed women. It was to this more than to Nero that led to the unspeakable horrors of imperial Rome. If woman must do man's work to earn a living, all honor to them for accepting the situation bravely and cheerfully. But shame upon a civilization that makes it a general necessity! And the more manual labor is indulged in by women when it is not a necessity the greater will the need be for their doing this kind of work because it is a necessity.

Kingsley's words—"For men must work, but women must weep"—are bad enough and pessimistic enough. In heaven's name, let it not be necessary to change them to "For women must work, and all must weep."

Life's Dark Side.

He walked the streets of New York all day inquiring for work, but his appearance was against him. Nobody wanted such a shabby, shuffling, pale and pinched individual. Fate was against him—the world was against him. So he could get nothing to do, and when weary and faint, instead of going back where a starving wife and little one watched and waited, he slunk through the gate and into Central park to rest. He took a seat just back of one of the main drives, behind a clump of shrubbery and out of the way of the policemen, who would either make him move on or run him in as a vagrant. He could hear the voices and laughter of the happy throng as they rolled by, their luxurious equipages glittering in the light of an expiring sun. Between himself and them there was a gulf as wide as that 'twixt hell and heaven. What his thoughts were—whether he felt the fault was with the world or with himself—nobody will ever know.

The shades of night settled down. By and by he fell asleep. It was the long, wakeless sleep. In the morning his body was found by a policeman. The coroner reported the death of a vagrant from unknown cause. The moral? Nineteenth century civilization, human weakness, questions of economics, Christian charity—there are a score of morals.

Good Advice.

The late Uncle Rufus Hatch left something more than a few hundred thousand of dollars to his children. He bequeathed them some good advice which they ought to remember. In his will he says:

> I do not wish my boys to go to college, but to receive a commercial education. Should any of them, however, wish to become a lawyer, doctor or clergyman, then he may go to college, but I much prefer that my sons should learn a mechanical trade so that they will always be sure of an honest livelihood.
> I most strongly warn my children not to use tobacco in any shape or form, nor touch, taste or use wine or liquor in any way.
> I earnestly desire that my children shall not gamble in any way for money, as their father has had experience sufficient to serve for all posterity.

The last words of the quotation are italicised. They should be given as much publicity as possible. The darkest hour of a young man's life is when he imagines there is an easier way to get a dollar than to work for it honestly.

Mr. G. L. Ewers, a train dispatcher of San Francisco, has invented a device which he claims will prevent anybody from killing himself by illuminating gas. Even if an individual is such a fool that he does not know enough to turn off the gas instead of blowing it out, he cannot meet the just reward of his foolishness. A supplemental valve is connected with the burner in the new invention which closes the moment the flame is extinguished and shuts off the flow of gas. Even the person who wishes to commit suicide by turning on the gas cannot do so, as by Mr. Ewers' invention the gas must either burn or stop flowing.

An appropriation was made in New York state for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is practicable to run canalboats by electricity. The experiment will be made on the canals during the month of August. Nothing but mule power has ever yet been found satisfactory as a motor for the canalboat. Steam stirs the water up too much and destroys the banks. If electricity can supply the want, then canals may have a new lease of life. Freight transportation is cheap by this method. If we can have electrical canalboats, then thousands of romantic people who want a new sensation will take their summer outings on a canalboat.

During a debate in the Bohemian diet one member wrestled with another, and a third threw an inkstand at the first. The argument seemed to be effective, for the diet is now closed, as is one of the eyes of a deputy.

The Dear Creatures.

It's when the sun sinks in the west
The summer girl is at her best,
For when the twilight charms her soul
'Tis then she loves to take a stroll,
And by these presents be it known
She hates to take that stroll alone.
—New York Herald.

A GHOST OF THE PAST.

Sir Robert Lisburn and his wife were not particularly silly as newly married couples go. For one thing, Sir Robert was 80-something, and when you are 80-something gravity comes. But he was very much in love with his young wife. He handed her out of the family omnibus carefully, and the very prettiest ankle and the tiniest shoe peeped out for a moment as she stepped down before one of the big hotels on Trafalgar square.

As she tripped up the broad, carpeted stairs to her room there was a look of great happiness in her eyes.

"And is my dear girl quite happy?" said Sir Robert. Young Lady Lisburn—she was tall and pleasant looking—turned to him affectionately.

"Your dear girl," she said, "has had her worries in her life. She had one big worry."

"How big?"

Lady Lisburn widened her arms to give an idea of the size.

"But it's all over now, and I am very, very happy."

"Perhaps," said Sir Robert, "perhaps the dear girl will tell me all about it some day."

"She may—some day," said the young bride, flushing. "Just now she is so contented that she doesn't want even to think about it."

The next morning they went off to the Engadine. It was two months later when they returned, trunks and portmanteaus plastered all over with square and circular labels—Hotel Bellevue and Hotel Beau Rivage and a lot of others. Both Sir Robert and Lady Lisburn looked very jolly and well.

There were letters waiting for Lady Lisburn. She read them in her bedroom. As she saw the writing on one of the envelopes she grew red and then very white. She perused the letter again and again, with hands trembling and a face that looked into the mirror with a frightened look. Then she turned off the electric light and sank on her knees and sobbed. They staid in town for some days. They drove out a good deal, visiting, but young Lady Lisburn looked ill and out of sorts and scarcely spoke to her husband. He seemed to be repelled by her coldness. Once or twice Lady Lisburn tried to rouse herself, but the look of worry quickly came back, and her husband, placid and even as he was, could not help feeling disturbed.

One evening in the latter part of the week Lady Lisburn was sitting at the open window of their room, her face resting on her hand, looking out into the square and seeing nothing.

A page boy entered with a foreign message. She opened it, read the typewritten words and crumpled quickly the sheet in her hand as Sir Robert came in.

"I want to say something to you, Robert," she said in a shaky voice. He came over to her.

"I want to go away from you for a few weeks."

"A few weeks?" he repeated blankly.

"A few weeks. Unless you want me to be a miserable woman all my life, you must let me do this. Let me go, and when I come back I shall be quite jolly, and I shall love you more than ever, and we"——

"My dear," said Sir Robert, "you are perfectly unreasonable! You are not yourself."

"Unfortunately I am," interposed the young wife sadly.

"Or you wouldn't dream of proposing such a preposterous thing. Now, love, just you go to bed early tonight and have a good rest, and you'll be all right in the morning."

"If you don't let me go, Robert, I shall never be able to rest again. I shall be nothing but a curse to you and a misery to myself for all my life. Do let me go."

"My dear love," said Sir Robert, rising with a very decided air, "if you absolutely refuse to tell me the motive for your disappearance, I absolutely refuse to let you go."

"Then I—then I must go without your permission." She said this without defiance and in the humblest way.

Sir Robert went down stairs and stood at the hotel door for a few minutes smoking his cigar rather quickly. Then he turned and went to the telephone room and looked in the book and rang up. Lady Lisburn, white and set of face, returned to her room and prepared for her journey.

It was a surprise to Sir Robert to find in the hall not 10 minutes later the man for whom he had telephoned. He was a burly, scarlet faced man, and he gave his card to Sir Robert with an awkward, fat bow:

THOMAS BESTER,
Payne, Besser & Co., Inquiry Agents.

"Come into this room, Mr.—Mr. Bester."

Mr. Bester wiped his boots with particular care.

"You'd like something to drink perhaps?"

Mr. Bester pulled his waistcoat down and coughed slightly and said that he didn't know as a drop of whisky would do him any particular harm. At any rate, he said (he said this with the air of a man prepared for any experiment in the interest of science) he'd try.

Sir Robert ordered a large whisky and gave instructions that he was to be told when Lady Lisburn left the hotel.

"We need not hurry until that happens," said Sir Robert. He explained to Mr. Bester what was required.

There was to be no fuss, insisted Sir Robert, and no interference. All that Bester had to do was to follow Lady Lisburn, and if she was in any danger to wire Sir Robert at once, and himself take such steps as he might think were necessary.

"That's the way," said Mr. Bester, with approbation; "take things calmly. Much better in the long run. I ought to know. I've been at it in the yard and out of the yard 30 year come next Feb'uary."

"I suppose you have had some interesting cases to deal with," remarked Sir Robert politely.

Mr. Bester stood up and looked at himself in the mirror for a moment and then sat down again heavily.

"The most interesting," he said, "are them that nobody don't deal with."

Mr. Bester took another sip from his tumbler and essayed to rest one knee on the other, but found the position for a gentleman of his rotundity uncomfortable and relinquished the endeavor.

"Look here, Sir Robert," said Mr. Bester, "here's a case in point. Just what you may call a little incident. Look here. This" (taking a wax match from the box and sticking it upright on the table)—"this is Mr. Bertie Ellenborough, and this" (taking another and sticking it upright)—"this is Miss—Miss Whatshername. Really, I forgit the name. However, that don't matter."

The door opened softly, but neither of the men noticed it.

"Very well then. Few years ago Mr. Bertie Ellenborough (that's this one) knows Miss Whatshername (that's this one), and she loves him and writes him warm, rapturous letters—letters that she would be ashamed now to read, or for anybody else to read. Still, a good girl, mind you. Mr. Bertie comes up town, forgets her, goes to bad, slips himself off to America and gets worse and worse. He becomes hard up, and what does he do then but blackmail Miss Whatshername."

"Damned scoundrel!" exclaimed Sir Robert heartily.

"Blackmails her. I happens to go out to trace a chap, and I meets Mister Bertie in a bar, and he tells me all about it."

"Ought to be hanged!" remarked Sir Robert.

"But that isn't the worst. I tells him for a lark that I'm a bit of a scamp myself and brags a bit, and then Mr. Bertie goes one better and assures me that he burned those letters long ago, and he was only pretending he'd still got them. That beats anything, don't it? There's a scamp for you. Making a regular income out of it too."

"Girl married, I wonder?"

"So I understand," said Mr. Bester.

"Poor girl," said Sir Robert. "Wonder who her husband is?"

"Sir Robert," said a voice. They had not turned on the light, and the room was growing dark.

"My love?" he said.

"They told me you wanted to see me," said Lady Lisburn, "and, my dear, I'm—I'm not going. I could not have known what I was talking about just now."

"My dear heart," exclaimed Sir Robert delightedly, "tell me what it was that was worrying you?"

"Why, absolutely nothing," answered his wife decidedly. "There was no excuse for it."

They took each other's hands.

"Shall I look in again, Sir Robert?" said Mr. Bester respectfully. He had been standing aside and pretending, with excellent savoir faire, to look out of the window.

"Oh, I beg your pardon, Bester," said Sir Robert. "No, you needn't look in again. I'll send your people a check for your trouble."—St. James Gazette.

Daisy Miller's Little Brother.

The willful little brother of Daisy Miller is no less true a type than his older and more famous sister. One has but to watch our children's manners with a very little attention to discover this. It will be noticed, too, that those little ones whose parents are wealthy enough to leave them in the hands of trained servants have, at least on the surface, the best manners united to the most docility. This seems to be largely because the servants exact a certain sort of subjugation from them as well as a ready obedience to what commands they themselves may be allowed to give. The average parent, on the contrary, has no apparent idea of enforcing his desires. Listen to the "Don't do this" and "Do that," as said to the children you encounter in public places, and notice how seldom any heed whatever is given to the speech. Once in 50 times is a liberal allowance.—Philadelphia Press.

Letters That Reach the White House.

Mrs. Cleveland, during her first occupancy of the White House, made a collection of the amusing letters which from time to time were forwarded to her through the mail by persons wholly unknown to her. The last week or two of her stay in the White House, prior to ex-President Harrison's inauguration, were occupied in looking over the avalanche of private correspondence received during the two years of her residence there. After destroying as many as possible, those put aside to be retained filled to repletion the depths of a Saratoga trunk.—Kate Field's Washington.

Successful Treatment.

"Just try to frighten me, will you?" said Briggs to Braggs.

"What for?"

"I've got the hiccough, and if you frighten me it will make it go away at once."

"Very well, then; here goes (shouting at the top of his voice); lend me $50!"

"Ah, thanks; it's gone!"—Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Kendal's Views.

In a recent interview Mrs. Kendal, the English actress, was asked, "Have you any special views on the subject of the education of children?" "Of course I have," came the reply. "Could a mother help thinking very, very seriously upon a subject of such vital importance to the future of her children?" When the reader gets thus far, he feels that the mountain is trembling—and this is the small mouse that creeps forth. "I have always felt that a great mistake is made in consigning children to the care of a resident governess." With which trite commonplace Mrs. Kendal's "views" begin and end.—New York Times.

Double Consciousness.

The phenomenon of double consciousness so skillfully used in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is by no means uncommon. Many mysterious disappearances are by it accounted for in a manner wholly consistent with the innocence of the missing one, and even with his apparent sanity. A very singular recent case was that of a western judge who went away from home while deranged from overwork and became a day laborer under another name.—New York Recorder.

Ready For the Building.

"Hello!" said a Chicago man as he stood near the Washington monument. "That's a pretty good elevator shaft. I wonder when they are going to put up the rest of the building."—Youth's Companion.

JAPANESE FISHERS.

DESCRIPTION OF THEIR TACKLE, BOATS AND COSTUMES.

They Do Not Handle Their Oars Up to Yale "Form"—Long Days of Work With but Small Returns—Picturesque Scenes About the Shore In the Evening.

The waters on the coast of Japan are bountifully supplied with fish, and accordingly a large number of people along the coast are engaged in fishing. From a village like Isosaki the boats go out for the day, and in many aspects an account of their work will illustrate fishing along the entire coast. All through the day the village is exceedingly quiet, except for the scores of quite naked children, who at all times are diving, swimming and playing in the water near the shore, only coming out of the water occasionally to sit upon the hot rocks to warm themselves. It is no exaggeration to say that the greater part of their time is spent in the water. They are of course brown as Indians, but as much at home in the sea as fish.

At about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the excitement of the day begins. A few men are seen gathering on the tops of hills and high points along the shore, and soon upon the horizon we see the white square sails of the fishing boats. Usually the boat is fitted with two square sails, which are so managed as to hold a good deal of wind and to carry the boat forward with good speed. As they approach the shore the mainsail, which is held by a cross spar at the top of a slight mast 15 or 18 feet high, is furled and the mast taken in; then in a few moments the foresail, which is rigged in the same way and is about a third smaller, is taken in also; then are run out those peculiar Japanese oars, three or four on a side. The oar is composed of two pieces and is a very heavy affair, often as much as two men care to lift. It has a hole in the under side and rests on a pivot something like an outrigger. These oars run back toward the stern of the boat and are worked in a manner something like sculling by two men to an oar, the men standing to their work and facing the side of the boat.

To see one of these boats driven rapidly through the water one is vividly reminded of the Roman triremes propelled by the galley slaves of old. A peculiar shout accompanies the rowing, as if to aid in keeping time, but in fact each oar is worked entirely independent of the others, and there is no harmony whatever. There are few more picturesque scenes than these quaint Japanese junks with their high prows and sides as they come in with their white square sails set, and then the sudden transformation into a Roman galley as they approach the shore.

There is of course no wharf at the landing, and you are surprised as the boat reaches the beach to see her turned and run on to the beach stern foremost. The success of the day can readily be told even before they begin to discharge cargo by the activity of the rowers and the loudness of their shout as they approach the land, as well as often by a little banner run up in the stern, which proclaims a successful catch.

As the boat lies by the shore the crowd of men, women and children gather around, and a part of the crew discharge the day's catch, throwing the fish from the boat into the shallow water near the shore. Others take masts and oars from the boat and carry them up the beach, and others take out various other movables from the boat. During the month of August the fish, which are taken entirely by nets, are almost all kotsuo or bon to, of firm flesh and much liked by the Japanese as well as foreigners. A good day's catch for a crew of 12 to 18 men is about 800 fish, though often more than that number are taken. All the fish, having been thrown into the water, they are then gathered up and laid on the beach and counted.

While this is going on we may notice the sailors whose appearance seemed so unusual as they were seen approaching the shore. We at once decide that a fisherman's wardrobe cannot be an expensive draft upon his pocket, for their brown bodies seem to be adorned by only two garments, one a narrow white cloth about the loins and the other a bluish white cloth about the head and forehead, which prevents the perspiration from flowing into their eyes. This latter garment is rarely wanting, though the former frequently is. They are finely developed fellows physically, nearly all young men, and a very jovial and happy crew. The crowd along the shore has been increased by the coming of men drawing two wheeled carts with baskets upon them, into which the fish as soon as they have been counted are placed, leaving the beach red with their blood, and away go the men for a night journey to Milo, 12 miles away, the nearest large city, where the fish will be sold the next morning, or perhaps shipped by rail to Tokio and other large towns.

Meanwhile the sailors have attached ropes to the stern of the boat, and, with much shouting and pulling, have drawn her up over rollers upon the beach above the tide. The absence of paint, pitch or other substance for keeping the boat watertight makes it necessary often while she is lying on the beach to pile heaps of rice straw around her in the evening, which, set on fire, reveals a fantastic scene and helps to make her watertight for a short period.

Work over, the men take their lunch boxes—wooden boxes, 1½ by 2 feet square—in which they keep not only food, but a larger garment for the better covering of their bodies, and hasten away to their homes, bearing in one hand perhaps a fish for their own families.

A short night's rest, and at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning the boats are pushed off again, and another day's work begins. If their day's work realizes an average of 20 or 25 cents, they are very fortunate. The wretched huts that they call home and the condition of their living indicate, however, that they fall below this for the most part.—Lewiston Journal.

Daring Sparrows.

Sparrows are proverbially audacious. Two recently reared their frail habitation in a railway signal box, unmindful of the various noises resulting from shunting the trains. A train used to make a daily run carrying a blackbird's nest and eggs among the woodwork underneath one of the carriages.—Chambers' Journal.

The Strain on the Eye.

There is no reason why a muscle or muscles of the eye should not be fagged out just as the muscles elsewhere do. Let one bear a weight all day long, does he not attribute his consequent headache to the heavy burden he has borne? It seems without elaborate thinking we could conceive of the results following upon prolonged use of the eye. Nature has done all she could to protect and prolong the usefulness of the eye. No earthly architect ever yet planned a structure that would not yield, crumble and fall, and the house human, so exquisitely uplifted in curious and mysterious ways, fails and returns to dust more rapidly and surely than need be, for the reason that we do not realize how much one part is sustained or overthrown by another. One tiny muscle is potent enough to disturb the whole economy, especially if intercurrent disease exist in addition to "eye strain."—Philadelphia Record.

Birds That Lay Four Eggs.

The spotted sandpiper and killdeer plover, and I presume most of the other snipe and plover, lay four eggs at a clutch. The eggs are arranged in the nest or on the bare ground with their small ends together, and as they are pyriform in shape they join in to perfection. The eggs of the snipe and plover groups are proportionately exceeding large for the size of the bird, and the saving of space by this arrangement undoubtedly answers a purpose.—Dr. Morris Gibbs in Science.

A Delicate Dish.

Those admirable economists, the Chinese, eat the chrysalides of silkworms after the silk has been wound off them, frying them in butter or lard, adding the yolk of an egg or two and seasoning with pepper, salt and vinegar.—London Tablet.

THE EASTERN CONSPIRACY.

Richard Parks Bland of Missouri, [illegible] champion, and author of the Bland bill, says in an open letter: "The democratic party promised first of all a reform of the tariff. Tariff is no longer talked of except in bated breath. The east proposes to formulate a tariff policy on the lines of the original Chicago plank, [illegible] forward by the protecting element of the democratic party, and not [illegible] with the substitute finally [illegible] by the convention. They now also propose to repeal the Sherman law without granting the free coinage part of the platform.

"The east rode the republican party down to disaster and death; now they are [illegible] the ranks of the democrats. The east seems to have no use for the government, especially the west and the southern portion of it, except to wring the last drop of sweat and blood from the people. Our eastern friends seem to regard the democratic platform and the silver question as a mere see-saw. As the Sherman law and goes down the free coinage end must go up in midair and remain suspended there.

"It is plain to all now that they played a huge [illegible] game on the democracy of the south and west by falsely preaching tariff reform, a measure so popular here, but at the same time intending to spring upon us after the election the [illegible] issue of silver demonetization. If the representatives of the west and south are true to themselves and the interests of their constituents this conspiracy will not succeed. If they are recreant the people will hold them individually, if not collectively, responsible for their cringing cowardice.

"To repeal the Sherman law outright and substitute nothing for it would be to precipitate a silver panic throughout the world and probably cause the universal demonetization, a consummation devoutly wished by the gold party."

It appears from this that the conspirators against the west are the New England democrats, and that these are the men against whom the gory western century is being hurled. In western parlance the New England democrat doesn't seem to be worth a shock of corn to a western democrat where pledges are to be kept. Mr. Bland in this letter belies his name.

HONEST MEN FOR HONEST MONEY.

It is a strange sight to see a democratic president looking with faith and confidence to his opponents for support for a "safe and sound currency," in which he believes, but in which his party as a party does not believe. This is Mr. Cleveland's predicament, and he has not misplaced his confidence. The republicans will be in their seats on August 7, and the old pledge for honest money will be kept.

Murat Halstead, commenting upon the situation, says frankly: "The president will need the help of all republicans who are for sound money, and when the struggle is over the country can make the correct award of merit between the republicans and democrats. There will be important questions still unsettled, and ample room for party divisions. It is a mistake to suppose the battle of the standards has already been gained for gold. It can be won only by the union of honest men for honest money. Those who do not believe there was danger of free coinage and a demand for a compromise, which took the form of existing law three years ago, will have a clearer comprehension of the situation by the time the silver fanatics are beaten and routed from the field in the battle that is on."

LAW FOR REGULATING WHEELMEN.

There is quite a flurry in Springfield over wheelmen and their regulation by law. The city council proposes to pass a law regulating the rate of speed the wheelmen shall make in the public streets, and stipulating that they must use a bell by day and a lantern at night. The Springfield Union, commenting upon the prospects of a city ordinance for the regulation of the wheelmen, says: "The point to be impressed is, that the pedestrian has the right of way before the wheel rider; and if the wheel rider's sense will not make him see the point, then the penalty fixed by law must emphasize the point!"

"Coasting" on the hills in the street of that city on bicycles is regarded as dangerous and unwarranted; and also is to be prohibited by law. When the unicycle strikes on with a speed of a mile a minute more law will be required to keep this time-slaying monster from running over everything in its way.

FOR A SHARP CAMPAIGN.

The republicans of Massachusetts do not follow the Ohio example and call an early state convention. The republican state committee have fixed convention date Oct. 7, and the party proposes to do hot and sharp campaigning. If the party cannot get all the work in that it is necessary to do in a month, they are willing to lose the state. The state committee are giving their attention to the thorough organization of the town committees, and when this preliminary work has been completed the republicans of the "Old Bay State" will be in as good trim to make a hard fight to win the victory, as it has ever been in its history.

AN ALL-THE-YEAR-ROUND FLAG.

The New Haven Register has succeeded in getting "the elm city fathers" to furnish a flag to be hoisted daily on the flagstaff on the green. The Register claims this gives New Haven the distinction of being the only city in the country that flies the flag every day in the year from a public flag-staff. Norwich tried to do [illegible] several years ago, but the man who hoisted the flag did not remember to keep the flag up the year round. The flag will not fly every day unless the man with the mind to fly it gets it to the masthead. No flag has been able to get there itself yet.

AMERICAN GOLD GOES ABROAD.

The sixty millions of gold which has been exported from this country since Jan. 1 is but a small part of the American gold which goes abroad every year. English capitalists who have investments in this country draw out $120,000,000 annually. American tourists expend abroad every summer $60,000,000; the money taken abroad by immigrants is estimated at $35,000,000; and a half million goes abroad to pensioners. It is estimated that from all sources foreign countries receive about $300,000,000 of American gold annually. This country pays this into the old world.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The last argument has been made in the Bering sea case and the seals who have survived the conference are anxiously waiting to see who their pelts belong to.

When we think of Georgia politics they do not suit us; but when we read that she has a million watermelons ready for the northern market we know there is a mouth to fit every one of them.

Since 1875 St. John's Guild of New York has given over a quarter of a million sick babies outings upon the water and free hospital treatment. Theirs is a great and noble charity.

The New York Herald is distributing free ice to the poor regardless of the color line. If it would send the Herald free-ice man to Colorado he might do a great work in cooling off the atmosphere of that fever stricken state.

A Savannah numismatist has collected eighty millions of confederate money. As a relic of cheap money this pile ought to be exhibited to the democratic party. It is fiat money such as the state banks used to circulate.

The cholera is spreading from Arabia through Europe. There were forty deaths in Alexandria from it Wednesday and reports are received that the disease has broken out among the soldiers at Posen, Germany. The prospect is that the disease will spread over western and northern Europe.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

No Forgets.

The Burlington Hawk Eye inquires: "If values have decreased $1,000,000,000 in four months of democratic administration, how much will they shrink in four years?" Our contemporary forgets apparently that a republican house of representatives will be elected two years hence.—[New York Press.

Three to One for Free Silver.

There is no sort of justice in holding the republican party responsible for the Sherman bill when the democratic silverites in congress outnumbered the republicans three or four to one. That republican congressmen did not wholly escape the free silver taint is proof that the craze was a wide spread epidemic.—[The Worcester Spy.

Refreshing.

"With a change of government in the states," reads an advertisement in a Welsh paper, "there is every prospect of a grand revival of trade." It is refreshing to find business interests which expect increased prosperity from a democratic administration, even if you have to cross the broad Atlantic to find them.—[Boston Journal.

Costly "Object Lessons."

We are having "object lessons" in abundance all over the country. They began shortly after the November election of 1892, which brought a democratic administration into power in the nation, and with it what is called a democratic majority in both branches of congress. With the democratic tide that began rising in 1890 there came in a varied assortment of governors and legislatures in the several states, some of them being labelled democratic, some populist, some alliance, but all part of the general movement in opposition to the republicans, and all contributors to the great democratic victory. And they have been giving the country "object lessons," too. The greatest "object lesson" of all from the November election is to be read in the financial condition which now prevails; in the widespread distrust which paralyzes business, depresses trade, stops the wheels of industry, shrivels values, endangers capital and threatens labor with distress, privation and want. The whole people are learning it at an alarming cost. Whether the democratic congress which President Cleveland has called in extra session for next month has learned [illegible] as he hoped remains [illegible]. It is not unlikely that when it assembles, instead of profiting by the present lesson it will itself afford another.

Meantime the "object lessons" offered in the states which have fallen under the control of the democrats and the motley crew who under all sorts of banners and with all sorts of wild fancies and crazy notions fought with them against the republicans, are not unworthy some study. Consider for a moment what a job lot of state governors we gathered in with the democratic revival. Take the ill-bred Pennoyer, who knew no better than to send an insulting message to the president of the United States in answer to an official communication on the enforcement of the Chinese Exclusion act. Take Altgeld of Illinois, who shocked the law-abiding and order-loving people of all parties by pardoning the Chicago anarchists in pursuance to a bargain made before election for votes. Take Stone of Missouri, who comes to a chamber of commerce dinner in this town to say that the people of the Mississippi valley are so dissatisfied with existing system of finance and the unequal distribution of wealth that they are ready to resort to violent measures to effect a change. Take the raging lunatic, Waite, of Colorado, who wants "blood to flow to the horses' bridles." Take Tillman of South Carolina, who made himself absolute in the state and set himself up against the laws of the United States and the decisions of the federal courts. Take the whole lot of them, and in mitigation throw in "Billy" Russell of Massachusetts, a fairly good governor, and Roswell Flower of New York, who might be worse—and what a series of "object lessons" they present!

Never in the history of the country was there such an utterly grotesque array of state governors. But they are the crop that the country gathered in with the democratic victory, the "uprising" of 1890, the "tidal wave" of 1892.—[New York Tribune.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

The Father of Many Ills.

Constipation leads to a multitude of physical troubles. It is generally the result of carelessness or indifference to the simplest rule of health. Eugene McKay of Branford, Ont., writes:

"I had for several years been a sufferer from constipation, had taken a great many different remedies, some of which did me good for a time, but only for a time, then my trouble came back worse than ever. I was induced by a friend, whom BRANDRETH'S PILLS had benefited, to try them. Took two each night for a week, then one every night for about six weeks. Since that time I have not experienced the slightest difficulty whatever, and my bowels move regularly every day. I believe firmly that for sluggishness of the bowels and biliousness BRANDRETH'S PILLS are far superior to any other."

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Ayer's Pills promptly remove the causes of sick and nervous headaches. These Pills speedily correct irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels, and are the mildest and most reliable cathartic in use. No one should be without them.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

MYSTERIES!

The Nervous System the Seat of Life and Mind. Recent Wonderful Discoveries.

No mystery has ever compared with that of human life. It has been the leading subject of professional research and study in all ages. But notwithstanding this fact it is not generally known that the seat of life is located in the upper part of the spinal cord, near the base of the brain, and so sensitive is this portion of the nervous system that even the prick of a needle will cause instant death.

Recent discoveries have demonstrated that all the organs of the body are under the control of the nerve centers, located in or near the base of the brain, and that when these are deranged the organs which they supply with nerve fluid are also deranged. When it is remembered that a serious injury to the spinal cord will cause paralysis of the body below the injured point, because the nerve force is prevented by the injury from reaching the paralyzed portion, it will be understood how the derangement of the nerve centers will cause the derangement of the various organs which they supply with nerve force.

Two-thirds of chronic diseases are due to the imperfect action of the nerve centers at the base of the brain, not from a derangement primarily originating in the organ itself. The great mistake of physicians in treating these diseases is that they treat the organ rather than the nerve centers which are the cause of the trouble.

DR. FRANKLIN MILES, the celebrated specialist, has profoundly studied this subject for over 20 years, and has made many important discoveries in connection with it, chief among them being the facts contained in the above statement, and that ordinary methods of treatment are wrong. All headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion, pressure, blues, mania, melancholy, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, etc., are nervous diseases no matter how caused. The wonderful success of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is due to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principal.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 14.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

London came irregular today, but prices were in the main stronger, and a decidedly better feeling prevailed there. This, coupled with the easier money market and the overselling in certain specialties, led many to look for a rally here and a temporary recovery from the slump of Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rumors of impending gold imports, too, thicken, as the general credence given them has set the shorts to covering. There is probably something of a sentimental value attached to shipments. But it is not easy to see how it amounts to more than that at just this moment.

The local market was irregular at the opening, with quotations only fractionally changed. Atchison started off ¼ stronger at [illegible], but lost the advance subsequently. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy opened up to [illegible] from [illegible], but slid off to [illegible], while Union Pacific was ¼ stronger at [illegible]. New England opened ¼ off at [illegible]. General Electric opened 1 up at [illegible], then to [illegible] and then slid to [illegible]. The bond market was fairly steady.

To Wash China Silk.

In these days, when wash silks are in common use, a few words in regard to washing them may be of interest. As silk is an animal fibre, like wool, it cannot be treated in the same way as cotton, which may be subjected to water of all temperatures without injury. Silk should be washed as rapidly as possible. Examine the articles to be washed, and if there are any parts especially soiled clean with benzine or gasoline applied with a flannel cloth. Then prepare a soapsuds of lukewarm water and plunge the garments in it, sousing them up and down and rubbing them thoroughly in the suds. Rinse them into water a little cooler, and then into a third water still a little cooler, and so on until the final rinsing water is perfectly cool. Do not blue them. Wring them out as dry as possible with a machine. Lay them in sheets of heavy cloths and roll them as hard as you can in firm rolls. Put them away for an hour, and at the end of that time iron them on the wrong side.—[N Y Recorder.

ENGLISH ACTIVITY.

Land and Water Forces Ordered to Victoria.

FEARFUL OF BEHRING SEA CASE

Expecting Defeat Is Preparing to Defend Rights In Seal Properties.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—The statement is printed here, based upon a letter from an English army officer to a wealthy Englishman sojourning in San Francisco, that contingency orders have been issued to the Fifth battalion of the Royal Rifle brigade, now at Davenport, Eng., to hold itself in readiness to proceed to Victoria for colonial duty. The battalion numbers 1000 men and is one of the best organized and most efficient in the British service.

The letter further says the powerful British ship Minotaur has also been specially ordered to duty at Esquimault, and the commander of the ship has been appointed naval commandant. The commander of the royal brigade has been made commander of the Esquimault station, succeeding the dock yard superintendent and Colonel Pryor of the Canadian forces, who has heretofore held both posts.

Two battalions of the royal marine artillery are also

at Victoria, and the Canadian authorities are said to be devising measures to overhaul and put Esquimault harbor in more complete defensible condition.

The British officer writes his friend to inquire about the climate and manner of living at Esquimault, and seems to indicate that this sudden activity on the part of the British authorities has a direct connection with the Behring sea controversy. From the tone and language of the letter the San Francisco Englishman believes that England anticipates an unfavorable termination of the Behring sea arbitration and proposes to place herself in a position to defend and enforce what she considers her rights in the seal properties.

The recent arrival of the war vessel Royal Arthur at Esquimault, with Admiral Stevenson aboard, and these unusual movements of British forces, appear to lend some tinge of probability to the story.

OCHILTREE SURRENDERS.

His Heart and Hand Go to Handsome St. Louis Widow.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The announcement of the engagement of Colonel Thomas Porterhouse Ochiltree is confirmed from St. Louis, the home of the future Mrs. Ochiltree. The name of the handsome widow who has assessed the heart of the famous wit and bon vivant is Mrs. Eugenia Wyck.

Mrs. Wyck's maiden name was Eugenia Thompson and she was born in Chicago. Her father, a very wealthy man, died when she was quite young, and left Eugenia and her young sister in care of a bachelor uncle. The father's immense fortune was divided between the two children.

Miss Eugenia afterward married Colonel Wyck, a wealthy real estate dealer of San Antonio, Tex., but he lived but three weeks after his marriage, leaving the widow half a million.

It was while on a trip to Europe last spring that she met Colonel Ochiltree. It was a case of love at first sight, and before the colonel sailed for America he confided the truth to one of his friends in London. Mrs. Wyck is about 35 years old and of very stately carriage.

AUTHOR OF "BEN HUR"

Gives His Opinion of the Financial Situation and Its Remedy.

NEW YORK, July 13.—General Lew Wallace of Indiana, the friend of ex-President Harrison and the author of "Ben Hur," is at the Gilsey House. A reporter asked him his opinion of the financial condition of the country.

"I am not a financier," he said, "and what I may say will be from a personal standpoint and for the great masses. There is a great deal of harping about finance, for boiled down it is a matter of business principle and is largely personal."

"The present trouble results from a lack of confidence in the sufficiency of wisdom of the administration to cope with the financial exigency. The failure of Mr. Cleveland to make a clear cut utterance as to his intentions has helped to create it. Instead of dealing in sublime platitudes in his public utterances, he should define his intentions. He and Mr. Carlisle have not taken the public into their confidence, and their silence has simply assisted in making matters worse.

"If the people could be assured that the Sherman act would be modified or repealed, and that there would be no tinkering with the tariff for at least one or two years, there would be no panic and business men would regain confidence. I think that a majority of the members should get together, agree as to what they intend to do and have it published. That would do much toward restoring confidence.

"We should have a gold basis and we should have silver, too, provided it is maintained on a parity with gold. I am [illegible] friend of paper money also. The [illegible] utterances on the subject came [illegible] from Senator John Sherman. He [illegible] that great care should be taken not [illegible] the silver currency or depreciate [illegible] silver now in store in the treasury. In [illegible] he cautioned the legislators not to forget the large amount of silver on hand. It was only a paragraph, but I must say the senator hit the nail on the head."

NO SUBSTITUTE.

But Straight Repeal of Silver Act Wanted at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, July 13.—The Bankers' association of Buffalo, at a meeting yesterday, voted that the silver purchase clause of the bill of 1890 should be repealed, and [illegible]

"The Bankers' association urges that at the extra session no substitute of any kind whatever shall be permitted to take the place of the purchasing clause, nor any compromise enacted.

"Believing that the subject requires the most deliberate consideration by men skilled in finance and fitted by experience for the work, this association heartily concurs in the recommendation of the New York chamber, that a committee of experts be appointed to report a scientific system of currency for the United States, founded upon the experience of other countries, and adequate to the vast interests of a great commercial nation like ours."

SUICIDE OR ACCIDENT.

Unknown Man Turns on the Gas and is Found Dead.

BOSTON, July 13.—An unknown man, who, from papers found in his pocket, was supposed to be James Geary of Willimantic, Conn., was found dead this forenoon in a room at 46 Beach street.

He died from suffocation, caused by inhaling gas, and at present the police of division 4 are undecided whether his death was caused by suicide or accident.

The man hired a room at the house last night and then retired. At that time he was apparently sober. This morning one of the inmates smelt a strong odor of escaping gas, and, on investigating, the smell was found to come from his room.

The door was forced open and the room was found to be filled with the gas and the stranger was dead in bed. The windows were closed.

The body was taken in charge and is now awaiting positive identification.

MADE SOCIAL CALLS.

Cardinal Gibbons Elegantly Entertained at Narragansett Pier.

PROVIDENCE, July 13.—Cardinal Gibbons left Narragansett Pier for New York today, after a pleasant stay of one week at the Berwick House.

The cardinal upon invitation of Hon. George J. West of Providence, made social calls upon Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale and Susan Hale at Matunuck, and also upon Dr. Thomas Hazard and Hon. Edward H. Hazard, prominent South county people. The cardinal was elegantly entertained at each house, and with the fondest remembrances, he said, he went away from Rhode Island.

Mud Scow Sinks a Schooner.

NEW YORK, July 13.—A schooner supposed to be the E. A. R. Keene, from Jonesport, Me., collided with a tow of mud scows just below the statue of Liberty last night. The schooner began to fill, and was headed for the flats. The crew took to the boats. The Chapman Wrecking company sent a boat to the schooner's assistance.

Portland Will Try Again.

PORTLAND, Me., July 13.—A second attempt will be made tomorrow at 10 o'clock to sail a successful yacht regatta. The first trial on the Fourth was resultless, owing to the weather. A special purse of $35 will be offered to the second class yachts, and there will be a trial of speed between the Dorothy Q. and the Viff.

Two Cholera Cases Daily.

BUDA PESTH, July 13.—The cholera now existing in Hungary is said to be of the Asiatic type. Prompt measures have prevented the spreading of the disease. There has been an average of two cases daily. The number of deaths, if there have been any, has not been reported.

Brigham Gains Twenty-six.

CONCORD, N. H., July 13.—In the Grafton county contested shrievalty case this forenoon, the court ordered the two disputed votes in Littleton and one in Hebron to be counted for Brigham. So far, without taking into account the two votes in Wentworth, claimed for Brigham, and one each in Hanover and Piermont, claimed for Hartlett, upon which the court has not passed, the judicial count shows a gain of 26 for Brigham. The count will probably be completed today.

Governor Ames' Big Cargo.

COTTAGE CITY, Mass., July 13.—The five-masted schooner Governor Ames, which is in the coasting trade on the Pacific coast, is just reported at Rodondo Beach, Cal., from Seattle, with 191,000 feet of lumber. Forty days were consumed in loading the schooner, and the trip required 13 days. The cargo is one of the largest ever taken from Seattle.

Clever Crook Arrested.

BOSTON, July 13.—Frank H. Martin, a young man who has been wanted since June 27, was arrested in Lawrence last night, and was brought back to this city this afternoon by Special Officers Trydar and Wise. Later he will be claimed by the police of Attleboro for extensive burglaries, which it is alleged he with others committed there last month.

Quincy Man Missing.

QUINCY, Mass., July 13.—George T. Laing is among the missing. Laing formerly run a little variety store at Brewer's corner, but has lately been cutting stone. He was last seen on Saturday afternoon, when he took a train for Boston. At the time he had considerable money about him, having drawn $60 from the bank on that day.

A Terrible Accident.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 13.—A terrible accident occurred here at 12 o'clock on the West Shore. Four bodies have been taken out of the wreck. A number of badly injured are being taken out of the wreck in all kinds of conveyances to the hospital. It is said there are from eight to 10 injured.

CIVIL WAR AGAIN.

Revolutionists in Nicaragua on the Rampage.

THEY SEIZE MILITARY BARRACKS.

President Machado and General Aviles Prisoners.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The Herald's Nicaragua special says: Civil war has again broken out. The citizens of Leon are in arms against the government which was established when Sacasa was overthrown.

More important still is the fact that President Don Salvador Machado and General Aviles, commander-in-chief of the army, are held as prisoners by the revolutionists.

The president and general were paying a visit to Leon. Their presence there probably caused the rebels to open their fight at a time when the president and commander-in-chief of the army could easily be got under control.

Having made the president and General Aviles prisoners, the revolutionists seized the military barracks, which was Yielded Without Opposition.

Beside taking possession of the barracks, the revolutionists seized three steamers on Lake Managua. These will be used in transporting their troops.

News of the outbreak reached Managua yesterday afternoon. It is not known how strong the revolutionists are, but it is feared that they are being supported by the republic of San Salvador. Troops have been ordered to march to Leon and quell the revolt, and release President Machado and General Aviles from prison.

BRAZILIAN TROUBLES.

Official Telegram Says There Has Been No Conflict and People Are Loyal.

PARIS, July 13.—Senor Guanabara, the Brazilian delegate in Europe, has made public an official telegram from Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, saying that no conflict has taken place there since the defeated insurgents took refuge in Uruguay.

The dispatch also states that the passengers on the steamer Jupiter were revolutionists, and on the arrival of that vessel at Rio Grande do Sul, the captain of war ship Rio Grande threatened to open fire, whereupon the Jupiter withdrew and recrossed the bar.

The government is supported by all the land and sea forces. The admirals of the fleet held a meeting yesterday and declared unanimously in favor of the government.

The authorities are taking energetic measures to suppress the outbreak.

AMESBURY UNEASY.

Stagnation of Cotton Industry May Bring Shorter Hours In Vogue.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 13.—The officials of the Hamilton mills here are beginning to feel considerable uneasiness over the general stagnation of the cotton industry, which is being felt in the large mill cities of the state, and fears are expressed by outsiders that the business depression of 1877 will again come.

The Hamilton mills here are running full handed, but their products are being put away in the store rooms of the corporation and not on the market.

A reporter interviewed the agent of the company, M. W. Quinn, yesterday, and in the course of his remarks that gentleman stated that the mills had felt the depression coming for weeks, and at present orders were not coming in as usual.

The agent stated that if this continues the buying of new material will have to be stopped.

No direct shutdown is just at present anticipated, although shorter hours may come in vogue.

Agent Quinn stated that they had purchased cotton at the present time of the year somewhat less than at others, and in such quantities as to furnish material for the next year.

DISHONEST REDSKINS.

Chippewa Indians Have Been Fraudulently Drawing Annuities.

ST. PAUL, July 13.—William M. Campbell and R. J. Pitas, members of the Chippewa Indian commission, returned here last evening from Cloquet with the information that 180 Chippewa Indians of the Fon du Lac tribe have been for the last four years fraudulently drawing annuities at Cloquet.

The frauds were discovered in a cursory examination of the books, and the commission fears that other frauds will be developed. It is impossible to tell how much money the government has been swindled out of. The Indians detected have also been drawing annuities in Wisconsin.

LONDON OPINION.

Measures of Stability Secured Which Will Defy Silver Shock.

LONDON, July 13.—The Times, discussing the silver crisis, says: The action of India and of President Cleveland merely precipitated the trouble caused by America's silver policy, her reckless pension scheme and the McKinley tariff law. The threats from Denver of armed violence if the Sherman law is repealed will not terrify anybody. Such desperation only proves that the silver monopolists are hopeless.

Fighting the battle on the ground of political economical argument, both the material and moral forces are on the side of the classes in America who are resolved to support no longer the silver burden. If India had allowed the question to drift, the sudden action of America must have disastrously shaken India's credit by closing the mints. It is believed that a measure of stability has been secured which will defy the shock of any change from America or elsewhere.

In the meantime India's alarm at the sale of council bills under 16d. is not justified. The measure is experimental, and the rate of exchange between any two countries cannot be fixed absolutely forever."

Declaration of War.

LONDON, July 13.—The Times correspondent at Bangkok telegraphs that the Siamese government has refused to permit two more French gunboats to enter the Meinam river, 20 miles from the mouth of which Bangkok is situated, and has threatened that if the gunboats attempt to cross the bar at the mouth of the river they will be sunk. France, the correspondent adds, has officially held that this action is practically a declaration of war.

AIDS TO DIGESTION.

Peacocks well fattened make better meat than turkey.

Arab epicures delight in a stew of sheep's head which they call sitsibog.

Cream peppermints are served at dinners and are a present fad. They are considered aids to digestion.

Do not peel rhubarb before cooking; simply cut it in pieces. The skin will melt away and improve the flavor of the sauce.

Turnips boiled in their jackets and peeled afterward are of richer flavor and less watery. To correct the bitterness so often found in this vegetable add a small lump of sugar during the process of cooking.

SAVE THE LITTLE ONES!

Dread Cholera Infantum is Easily Prevented

Lactated Food is the Best Bill of Fare for Babies in July.

Experience of Mothers and Physicians—Diet All Important.

"An infant crying in the night;
An infant crying for the light;
And with no language but a cry."

Now is the time when mothers are filled with apprehension, and start with dread when baby cries. It is July, the month when babies suffer from cholera infantum and inflammation of the bowels.

The greatest care is none too much for baby during June, July and August.

The great question is that of food, and the safest and the one bill of fare for babies and children that is always suitable is a very simple and short one, easily obtainable, nourishing, strengthening, palatable, always pure—Lactated Food.

Children fed on lactated food grow hardy and strong. The efficacy of the nutritive quality of this perfect substitute for pure human milk has long been acknowledged by the medical profession.

Pure mother's milk is the ideal food for infants, but when this is out of the question, lactated food, which more closely than anything else resembles healthy human milk, should be used.

The majority of deaths of children under five years is directly traceable to the ignorance and mismanagement of mothers. But it is being better and better known that the dreadful scourge, cholera infantum, and similar summer troubles may be prevented by the use of lactated food. In many communities it has reduced the ratio of mortality of infants under five years. It has entered the practical working pharmacopoeia of thousands of physicians. It cannot be too often said that it has saved thousands of infants' lives and caused as many more to grow plump and active.

The careful mother should not give her child anything the composition of which is not known to her. Lactated food is not a secret preparation. It is made in the most careful manner from the nourishing elements of wheat and barley properly combined with the pure sugar of milk. The buildings where it is prepared and put up are famous for their absolute cleanliness. It never spoils.

Mothers the country over have for years been writing grateful letters telling how their children when fed upon lactated food have grown from weak and puny babes to healthy, happy, hearty youngsters, and this experience of other mothers together with the best medical skill is at the service of every mother in the land.

Mr. A. D. Wentworth, Niagara Falls, writes: "Our boy was born in March and his mother died one week after his birth. He was so feeble that we did not think we could raise him, but a friend recommended lactated food to us, after we had tried almost everything else, and since then he has thrived like a young rabbit and has never had a sick day. He weighs twenty pounds and is in perfect health."

Mrs J. F Whitten from away out in Michigan writes: "We owe the life of our baby girl to lactated food and we treasure her more than we can express. People that call on me say, 'What a nice, fat baby! How I wish mine was as fat and healthy.' I tell them to feed their baby lactated food and it will be just as fat. I will recommend the lactated food to every mother I meet. We have used it ever since you sent us the sample last spring, and think there is no other like it. No words of mine can fully describe the merits of lactated food." jy14d

CITY NEWS.

Claret soda is a popular Norwich drink.

Thomas J. Shea of Holyoke, Mass., arrived in town last night.

The Holiness meeting at 3 p. m. today will be led by the Rev. J. Norberry.

Ex Governor Leon Abbett of New Jersey, is at the Pequot house New London.

The county commissioners are in session in this city today, beginning at 11 o'clock.

Local grocers say that native strawberries have not been in the market so late in the season for years.

Mr. Rufus Sibley is visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. Horace Jones of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., for a few days.

Henry Gorman of Norwich is the guest of his brother, Richard Gorman of Putnam, for a few days.

Mrs. Dr. Cleland and son of 83d street, N. Y., are visiting Miss Helen M. Lathrop at Norwich Town.

A fisherman caught twenty flounders near Watch Hill Thursday, nine of which averaged forty-two pounds in weight.

Fred L. Allen, the mounted letter carrier, begins his annual vacation tomorrow, and Postman Caryl returns to duty.

Postmaster Caruthers has been confined to the house by sickness for the past week, but is gaining health rapidly again.

The New London Telegraph thinks that it now looks as if General Haven would be appointed warden of the state prison.

Officer John Irish's pet rooster, which died two days ago at the age of fourteen, is to be stuffed by Taxdermist Alonzo B Hill.

John Conroy, John Kennedy, Elmer Kingsley, John Lee and John Shannahan, are camping out on the Thames river, not far from New London.

There was trouble in the Carroll Block clothing store last evening, which resulted in the broken leg of Peter Fetti, one of the proprietors.

Mr. William Bray of Haverhill, Mass. manager of the Haverhill and Newburyport Steamboat company, is the guest of Superintendent Shaw of the electric road.

Catcher Archie Tirrell of the Wesleyan base ball team is at his Cape Cod summer home, and his brother George, the crack young pitcher, leaves town for that spot today.

The Clipper ball nine play the Colchesters on the Greeneville grounds tomorrow afternoon. E. Day and Donohue and Driscoll and Counihan will be the contending batteries.

There is a movement on foot to have a grand and exciting race on the Brooklyn track, Aug. 5. The talk is now that an attempt to secure the Putnams and Norwich Clippers will be made.

Mr. Charles H. Webster, the Willimantic correspondent of THE BULLETIN, took unto himself a wife Wednesday and is off on a wedding tour. THE BULLETIN wishes them joy and a long and happy life.

In Winsted, McAlpine Brothers and C. S. Foster, all merchant tailors, were swindled by forged checks this week. They were drawn on the Second National Bank of Norwich, in favor of E. G. Allen and signed "J. B. Brooks."

A large whale was observed disporting in the water between Watch Hill and Block Island, by passengers on the steamer Block Island Thursday. It was the first whale seen from the vessel in four years, and one of the largest inhabiting these parts.

The Middletown Tribune says: The high school boys suggest that in the new high school building a gymnasium be placed, and work in gymnastics be required for graduation as well as in the sciences and mathematics. Such is the case at the Norwich Free academy.

At Block Island important work has been begun by the United States engineer's department, under the superintendency of Captain Birbey, to remove the sand bar at the entrance to the inner harbor, which will make a great improvement, enabling vessels to enter under any conditions of tide. The work was much needed and will be carried to a speedy conclusion.

The Hartford Courant says: "Captain William S. Simmons of Plainfield has turned over his office as inspector of factories to his successor, E. Burrows Brown of Groton. Captain Simmons has been a competent, faithful factory inspector, and has administered the affairs of his office with a sincere regard for the lives and health of factory employes."

Mr. Hiram Cook, the civil engineer who has superintended the erection of the new Laurel Hill bridge for the town, says "the bridge has been built to contract. That the contract called for a drop of five inches to the plate, and there are eight plates. The contract calls for forty inches drop, but owing to a slight mistake in placing the foot-plates the bridge is half an inch lower than the contract called for."

The Putnam Patriot says: "City Missionary Swan of Norwich has consented to come and preach for the Baptist congregation next Sunday at the usual hours. The evening discourse will be to the young people, and will be without doubt an inspiration to them. Mr. Swan is greatly esteemed for the great but unostentatious Christian work he is doing wherever he goes. His morning discourse will probably reveal some of his experience in his special labors.

Mrs. Sigourney's Old Home.

A few months since Owen S. Smith purchased of the estate of Maxon P. Lewis the Sigourney place at Norwich Town, and is now making very extensive improvements and enlargements. This is the place where Mrs. Sigourney wrote most of her poetry and spoke of the place as situated on a "rural parapet."

A Bicycle Stolen.

A Victor bicycle, the property of Samuel Frances, was stolen from a shed in the rear of his house on Ward street Tuesday evening. The shed did not happen to be locked on that evening, so it was an easy matter for the thief to get away with the machine.

City Court—Kelley, Judge.

Jeremiah Dean, 17 years old, was in the city court Thursday morning charged with assaulting two Russian peddlers. The case was continued until today, and a $50 bond was furnished.

Thomas Callahan was found guilty of intoxication and paid $7.86.

Horse Killed on the West Side.

The handsome gray horse driven on Joseph C. Worth's delivery wagon was almost instantly killed near the West Side freight depot shortly after 6 o'clock last night. John Proctor, clerk for Harwood, Bishop & Bidwell, lost control of the animal he was driving, and the shaft of the wagon stabbed Worth's horse back of the fore leg, penetrating to the vital organs. The unfortunate animal lived but a few moments.

Commodore Fyfe Succeeded.

Commodore Fyfe Thursday morning turned over the command of the New London navy station on the Thames river to his successor, Commodore Samuel Belden, and immediately left for the Charlestown yards to take command there, which was lately assigned to him.

A Distinguished Speaker.

Col. H. H. Hadley, who is to speak at the meeting next Sunday afternoon on the steamboat wharf, is the superintendent of St. Bartholomew's Rescue mission of New York city, and also superintendent of the Grand Army mission under the United States pension agency. The colonel is now, perhaps, the leading rescue mission worker in this country. The dock meeting next Sunday should be crowded with men to listen to a practical and stirring address.

Fifty New Laws Signed.

Governor Morris, Lieutenant-Governor Cady, Speaker Brooks, Clerk Comstock of the house, Clerk Gates of the senate and the joint engrossing committee of the legislature, met at the capitol Thursday to sign measures passed during the closing days of the recent session. There were about fifty laws, public and private, the originals of which had been endorsed by the governor previous to final adjournment. The engrossed copies were signed.

Civil Service Examination.

Any one contemplating applying for an examination for grades of clerk or carrier at Norwich post office should have their application completed and in the hands of the secretary of the local board of examiners previous to the close of business, 5 p. m., Monday next. The examination will be held Saturday, August 5. Any one desiring any information regarding details can apply to members of the board. There are already a number of applicants.

Farrell in the Big Foot-race.

The big Columbian foot-race for the championship of America and the total entrance fees, which promise to amount to over $3,000, in which Steve J. Farrell of Rockville is entered, will be run in Goshen, Ind., on Saturday. The race was to have been run in Chicago, but it was finally decided to have it in some other city, on account of the many attractions in Chicago and the difficulty to make satisfactory arrangements for the race. On Monday ten of the fastest racers of the country had entered. The entrance fee is $300 and the distance 100 yards. Farrell is in the best of condition, and his friends here and throughout the state are confident that he will win the race.

Palmyra Encampment Officers Installed.

At a regular meeting of Palmyra Encampment No. 3, I. O. O. F., held Thursday evening, the following officers were installed by O. E. Whittemore, D. D. G. P., of Willimantic and assistants: W. S. Bailey, C. P.; P. P. Busch, H. P.; Calvin Miner, S. War.; T. E. Green, Scribe. W. A. Gordon, J. War.; E. A. Fitch, Treas.; Wm. Mansfield, O. S.; C. M. Converse, I. S.; H. J. Revell, 1st W.; E. P. Shaw, Jr., 2d W., C. C. Griswold, 3d W.; H. E. Waters, 4th W.; Geo. B. Comstock, Guide; I. S. Rist, G. of I; W. E. Mayo, G. of I.

Mrs. King's Public Bequests.

The funeral of Mrs. William King was held from her late home on Main street, Preston, yesterday afternoon. The Rev. J. H. Allen of the East Main street M. E. church officiated in the absence from the city of Rev. Dr. Lewellyn Pratt. The bearers were Messrs. F. J. King, S. B. Bishop, Moses H. Stanton and F. J. Leavens. The burial was in Yantic cemetery.

The public bequests left by Mrs. King are $1,000 each to the American Tract society, Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions and the Home Missionary society.

A Runaway on the West Side.

A horse belonging to Liveryman O. H. Reynolds, which was left standing in front of Chapman's bakery on Thames street Thursday morning, became startled at the sudden approach of a puffing engine and frightened at the shouts of overzealous bystanders and started on a run down the street. Reaching Cove street, he started the ascension of a flight of outside steps very cleverly, but stopped with the feat half accomplished.

The horse was cut slightly about the feet, and one wheel of the wagon to which he was attached was shattered.

The Rockville Wheel Club Races.

The entry list of the Rockville Wheel Club races, held Saturday afternoon, July 15, at Hyde Park, shows an unusually large number of the fast flyers entered, and the races bid fair to make a most successful single day's sport. Pope's band of Hartford has been engaged to furnish the music, and Eugene A. Neidert of Philadelphia will give an exhibition of fancy and trick riding. Those of the Rose of New England Wheel club of this city who have entered are G. B. Bruce, B. D. Yawger, R. Fairbanks and H. B. Comstock.

President Howell received a letter from Nelson on Wednesday, stating that he would certainly take a part in the races Saturday, although in poor condition. He also stated that Zimmerman told him a day or two ago that he should certainly come, and that Sanger, Windle and Tyler were also sure to be present. The stores will close Saturday afternoon, and it is the regular half-holiday for the mills, so that a big crowd is assured.

BORNE TO HER LAST REST.

Funeral Services Over the Remains of Mrs. Archibald S. Spalding.

All that sympathy and tenderness could do to disguise the sad fact of death was done yesterday afternoon, when funeral services for Mrs. Archibald S. Spalding were held at her home on Laurel Hill avenue. Surrounded by flowers, robed in the softest of white silk, encased in a pure white casket, the young wife lay as if asleep in the room so lately cheered by her presence; and if, in spite of all, the sadness of death obtruded itself, it was in the sorrow of friends gathered about her, and of her relatives so sadly afflicted.

Business and professional men, church and society people, representatives of the city government, nearby neighbors and friends from distant points met in the gathering which filled the house and grounds. Numbers stood throughout the impressive ceremony; and when the Rev. J. D. Herr, who conducted the services, recited simply and unaffectedly the story of the husband so suddenly afflicted, of the child unconscious of its orphanhood, and of the bereaved relatives unable to journey from Denver on account of the mother's grief and prostration, there was a genuine burst of emotion on the part of all present, which no one tried to repress.

A quartette consisting of James Cray, Fred Noyes, Mrs. George W. Swan and Miss Annie Fish sang impressively "It is not death to die," and "Rock of Ages." The bearers were Benjamin Palmer, William Perkins, Rufus Vaughn and George Smith.

One side of the room was given up to the flowers, which comprised a massive urn of fine white flowers filled with roses, from Shetucket Lodge; a broken column in choice blossoms, from the Wauregan Engine company; a beautiful pillow from the Royal Arcanum; a pillow with the expression "Our Sympathy," unmarked; lilies in Bermuda lilies from Edgar A. Kingsley; wreath from Mr. C. B. Farnsworth; crescent from Town Clerk Samuel H. Freeman; wreath from Mrs. B. H. Palmer's class, Central Baptist Sunday school, of which the deceased was a member; cross from L. W. Carroll & Son; pillow from the Vineyard Workers; basket of roses from Mrs. Allen Cleveland; cut flowers from Mrs. Charles [illegible]; [illegible] from Mrs. Charles Thayer; cut flowers from Mrs. William A. Oat; roses from Mrs. F. H. Bullen; a large cross from the family, and massive [illegible] from relatives in Denver; [illegible] cross from the "T. L. Club," a literary organization of which Mrs. Spalding had been an esteemed member, and sent by the remaining members of the society, Lizzie Gates Crandall, Elizabeth Gallup Perkins, Jennie Arnold Smith, Hattie Gardner Maxon, Lillian Sears Beckwith, Leadora Brown Hale, Jennie Clarkson Wilcox, Fannie Dennison Cranston, Anna Eliza Setchell, Jessie Willey and Laura Elizabeth Lathrop. Loose flowers from friends and neighbors gave further proof of remembrance and sympathy.

Interment was at the convenience of the family and in Yantic cemetery. Funeral Director Amos D. Allen was in charge of the service.

CHARTER OAK $10,000 STAKE.

Largest List of Subscribers for the Purse since 1888.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 13.—The list of subscribers for the Charter Oak $10,000 stake for 2.18 trotters to be trotted at Fleetwood park, New York, Wednesday, Aug. 30, has closed. It is the largest by far (numbering eighteen) since the purse was first offered in 1888.

It will be noted that the Charter Oak class is now limited to 2.18 trotters. Last year, and in fact ever since the stakes were instituted, it was fixed at 2.20. The pneumatic sulky, however, has reduced records so much that the directors thought it would be well to narrow the time, but some have fixed this reduction at five seconds.

Struck by a Train.

BOSTON, July 13.—Ed Crowley of 186 Portland street, Cambridge, was struck by a train this afternoon, receiving a fracture of the skull. His condition is critical this evening.

Fell from a Third Story Window.

BOSTON, July 13.—This evening Aaron Brown, 5 years old, fell from the third story window at 24 Oswego street and was fatally injured.

TORN BY A HALF-TAMED TIGER.

A Treat at Midway Plaisance Not on the Programme.

A THRILLING ENCOUNTER.

A Brave Woman Trainer Fiercely Fights for Life.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Miss Marcelle Berg, the woman trainer at Hagenbeck's circus in Midway Plaisance, was fiercely attacked by a half-wild tiger last night.

Before the enraged beast could be torn from the body of his victim, the woman was severely bitten, and blood was streaming from three ugly wounds in her right thigh.

The exciting encounter took place in the arena before a large audience. Five women fainted at the sight.

The opening act had just been finished, and the horse with a lion on his back had galloped out from the big round iron cage, about which the seats for spectators rise in successive tiers like an amphitheater.

The audience, which numbered several hundred, were bunched mainly in that part of the hall nearest the entrance. The stage manager stepped forward and announced that a change in the programme would be made, and Miss Berg would exhibit some animals which had never been shown to the public before. They had been in training for months, but this was to be their first appearance before an audience. Then Miss Berg tripped through the opened door leading from the cages in the rear to the barred arena.

She made a graceful little courtesy and then turned, whip in hand, to watch the animals file into the arena behind her. On each side of the doorway were five small square platforms.

They were fixed to the bars which walled in the arena and about a yard apart. On them the animals sit when not performing feats themselves and watch the antics of the others.

First to enter the cage came a tiger. The beast was a medium-sized animal, with dark stripes and a rich, glossy fur.

No sooner had the tiger got fairly inside the cage than he stopped short. There he lay, at the very entrance to the caged arena, crouching and lashing his tail with vigor from side to side. Miss Berg stepped up to him and struck him two or three sharp blows with her rawhide across the face and neck.

The beast obeyed the whip, though with evident reluctance. He crawled into the cage with his white belly close to the floor, until he reached his platform. Then, instead of jumping up on the platform and holding out his neck to be chained, as he ought to have done, the big cat crouched underneath.

For the second time the woman trainer walked over to the beast and gave him a couple of smart cuts across the head. The tiger only snarled and showed a row of white shining teeth. A third blow aroused his wild nature, which does not seem to have been more than half tamed.

He crouched lower still, and, gathering himself together, with a sudden bound sprang forward. Straight at the defenseless [illegible].

Miss Berg half turned to flee, and the beast landed upon her. He made a [illegible] at her right arm, which [illegible] almost his mouth, but with the additional strength born of the excitement and terror of the moment, the half-frenzied woman pushed him off.

Crouching low again, the tiger sprang upon his victim. This time the beast's hold was too firm to be shaken off. One strong forepaw dug its claws deep in the gay, yellow dress of the performer, while the other caught her leg. The tiger buried his teeth deep in her thigh.

The woman uttered one low shriek and then made no sound. She did not faint, but silently and pluckily fought to make the beast loosen his hold. Her only weapon was a thick rawhide whip about three feet long. The tiger did not seem to mind the blows which the little woman rained fast and furiously upon him any more than he would the tickling of a straw.

Three men were in the arena by this time. One was Trainer J. H. Mehrmann and the other two were his assistants. All three sprang to the assistance of Miss Berg as soon as they saw the tiger attack her. Careless of themselves, these men bravely seized the tiger and began to pull him off the bleeding woman. Twice, by main strength, they succeeded in tearing him away. Each time the tiger, maddened by the taste of human blood, dashed the men away and leaped upon the woman.

The third time the three men dragged him away, and one of the assistants hurried Miss Berg out of the arena, while the other two beat the beast into submission.

The injured woman was immediately taken to the hospital.

All the while the struggle was going on the other nine animals who were to take part in the performance were filing into the arena. There were lions, leopards, hounds, and another tiger. No trouble with them occurred.

To show that he had completely conquered the angry tiger, Trainer Mehrmann took Miss Berg's place and at once went right on with the performance as if nothing had happened. But few of the audience stayed to see the performance finished.

COLLISION ON THE SOUND.

Steamer Erastus Corning Obliged to Put Back to Port.

NEW YORK, July 14—The steamer Erastus Corning of the Starin line, which left here for New Haven at 5 o'clock last evening, collided with schooner Sylvia C Hale, off Execution point in the Sound and was obliged to put back to port. She reported here early this morning in a badly damaged condition. There was a great crack on her port bow. For a short time after the collision there was a panic among the passengers. Capt. Spoor and the steamboat officers acted so promptly and with such coolness that the fear of the passengers were soon allayed.

The schooner's jib-boom was cut away, a large hole knocked in the starboard bow and her head gear was lost. She put into City Island immediately for repairs.

Senator Jones Makes Known His Wants.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Senator Jones of Nevada was in Wall street today. He did not speak at any great length on the financial situation. He summed it up as follows: "People say what we want is confidence. Confidence be gollywashed; what the people want is money, money, money. That's what they want, and its what I want, and silver is just as good money as any other. That's the whole story."

To Run Nine Hours a Day.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 14.—The big Howe Scale company has to run nine hours a day and close Saturdays.

REAR END COLLISION.

United States Express Freight Crashes Into a Special Freight.

BRISTOL, Conn., July 14.—A rear end collision occurred on the New England road at about five o'clock this morning one mile west of here at a point known as "Rock Cut." Travel was delayed five hours.

The fast freight from New York, known as the United States express, running at the rate of thirty five miles an hour ran into a special freight of thirty-five cars. Both trains were east-bound.

The special freight was made up of two sections coupled together and was running slowly down the grade toward the Bristol freight yard preparatory to dropping a car with goods consigned to Bristol.

They had not sent back a flagman to warn the approaching freight, and the latter crashed into the rear of the special.

The locomotive of the express freight lost its pilot and headlight, but was not otherwise injured. The caboose of the special freight was wholly demolished. No one was injured.

The blame of the accident is said rest on the conductor of the special freight in not flagging the fast freight.

A CONSTABLE SUED.

Charged With Falsely Imprisoning Two Coventry Men.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 14.—Dominick and Edward Dupless of Coventry have brought a suit for $1,000 damages against Constable Forbes of East Hartford, for false imprisonment. The plaintiffs have retained Joseph L. Barbour as counsel, and the papers are returnable to the September term of the court of common pleas.

On Tuesday the two Coventry men were trying to sell a horse which they had in their possession for [illegible]. The constable had received information from a son of one of the men that the horse was stolen, and the constable compelled the two men to go to the lock-up. They protested vigorously and said they would give the officer every opportunity to find out that they owned the horse. It was afterward learned that the men owned the horse and they were released from custody.

The statement that Deputy Marshal Moore had placed an attachment on Constable Forbes's property for the amount of the suit, is denied by Mr. Moore.

Presented a Forged Check.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 14.—This morning a well-dressed man of 35, wearing a gray and black suit, five feet eleven inches in height, with small side whiskers and sandy moustache, called on Lawyer A. B. Calef, Jr. He said his name was S. J. Seneca of Wilmington, Del., and produced a letter from a prominent Boston firm. He claimed that he was about starting in the fruit canning business just out of the city, and asked Calef to bring proceedings against a party for infringement of a patent. He next applied at a bank and presented a check for deposit of $1,000 and received an answer that it was a forgery. Seneca immediately left the bank and has not been seen since. Cashier Burrows wired Newark and received an answer that it was a forgery.

A Burglar's Opinion of Charlestown Prison.

BOSTON, July 14.—James Kennedy, the burglar, who is in custody for burglary, will be sentenced for twenty-five years under the habitual criminal act. When arraigned in court he said: "I've been imprisoned for twenty-five years and I've served for over ten, and now they sentence me for twenty five years more. I'll cut my throat before I'll serve half that time. Does any living man think that I'll serve a year in that old 'rat hole' out there? [Meaning Charlestown.] Let any man go through what I have and he is the biggest kind of a fool if he doesn't make a try to keep out of prison. I don't want any more of it. It is a hard thing to get an alibi and perhaps I can't prove that. I was not in Revere the day of the burglary but I can say to myself that I am innocent of the crime of which I am charged. Kennedy is accused of entering a house in Revere on July 7. Two days afterward he was arrested and has been found guilty.

Schuer's Body Picked Up in Long Island Sound.

NEW HAVEN, July 14.—The body picked up in the sound today by Captain Greenlaw of the schooner Shepard was that of George Schuer. Schuer, with a party of forty or more members of the New Haven city guard, left this city on board the steamer Isaac Brown on the night of June 28 to attend the Yale-Harvard boat race. It has never been ascertained just how Schuer came to fall overboard, but it is believed that he went to sleep on the deck and rolled off. When he left this city he wore part of his military uniform, as described in the dispatch.

Kansas City National Bank Suspended.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 14.—Just before closing hour the Kansas City National bank suspended and a notice was placed in the window stating it had been placed in the hands of a receiver. The bank's capital is $1,000,000. It is impossible to get figures or facts now. Considerable excitement was caused by the suspension, as it had been entirely unexpected. Its president is J. S. Chick, one of the best known financiers in the west.

The officers of the bank refused to talk regarding the failure further than to state that the assets would amount to somewhere between two and three millions and the liabilities to $1,800,000. It was considered as sound a bank as any in the southwest.

For Violating the Geary Act.

TACOMA, Washington, July 14—The grand jury has returned an indictment against the Rev. Thomas Sing for violation of the Geary act in attempting to land thirty Chinamen from the steamer Mongol on the pretext that they were actors for the World's fair. Sing claims to be a missionary of the Methodist church, educated in San Francisco.

These Are Restful Days at Buzzard's Bay.

HORRID OUTRAGES ON ARMENIANS.

Turkish Police and Bashi-Bazouks [illegible] Women.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 14.—The British embassy has received news that 250 police and Bashi-Bazouks were sent out from Erzerum in February to arrest so-called refugees in Everek. They looted every Armenian house in the town and abused the women. The Armenians were too weak numerically to offer effective resistance.

Two Turkish prisoners, caught recently as they were escaping from the Angora jail, falsely accused the Armenian prisoners of having helped them in their plan to get away. Ten of the Armenians were beaten and tortured unmercifully and were thrown into chains.

No More Bodies Found in the Chicago Ruins.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUND, CHICAGO, July 14—Nearly 200 men were at work today clearing away the ruins of the cold storage building. No more bodies had been found when work was stopped for the day at 6 o'clock. It is thought the others around the smokestack where no [illegible] were stored indicate that there are more bodies in the ruins.

The formal testimony in the inquest began today at Hyde Park police station.

Word was received from the postmaster at Marquette, Mich., that Robert [illegible], who was supposed to have been in the building, is alive.

Construction of the New Haven Manual Training School Delayed.

NEW HAVEN, July 14.—The construction of the manual training school, for which Mrs. Lucy Boardman of this city furnished about $100,000 in cash, will be delayed a year or more through a clause in a deed drawn in 1864. The site selected for the school is at Broadway and York square. It has been discovered that according to the specifications of the deed which gave York square to the city as a public park, the lot on which the training school was to be erected should contain nothing but a "handsome two story dwelling house." Property in the vicinity was sold provided that no manufactory should be erected or conducted thereon. The matter has been taken to the superior court for an opinion and it now looks as if the school would not be ready for occupancy until the fall of '94.

Burglars Enter a Clothing Store in Danbury.

DANBURY, Conn., July 14.—The clothing store of Solomon Mayer, on White street, was entered by burglars sometime last night or this morning, entrance having been effected by burning holes through a door panel. All the money in the till, a small amount, a large quantity of clothing and some cheap jewelry was taken.

Failure of the Buckeye Cycle Co.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 14.—The Buckeye Cycle company, 25 and 27 West Fifth street, this city, failed today. Assets, $51,000; liabilities, $60,000. The cause of the failure is the stringency of the money market.

Diamond Dealers Assign.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Henry Abbott & Co. dealers here in jewelry and diamonds assigned today. No statement.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS.

Annual Outing to Take Place at Branford Point July 28.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 14.—A meeting of the Connecticut Travelers' Mutual Accident association was held in this city Thursday evening. The association now numbers 100 members and is in a flourishing condition. Members are coming in from all over New England and some are joining from the west. No claims have yet been entered for damages and no accident among the members has been reported.

Arrangements were perfected at the meeting for the annual outing day of the drummers. They will leave Belle dock, New Haven, at 8 a. m. on the morning of July 28 and will enjoy a dinner at the Branford Point house. There will be a base ball game during the day and several athletic and aquatic sports. About 200 drummers will be present.

Hammer & Forbes' Creditors Meet at the Burnside Mill.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 14.—The creditors of the Hammer & Forbes company, to the number of ten or a dozen, held a secret meeting in the company's office at Burnside, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Mayo of Springfield was named as the president of the meeting and Mr. C. C. Hammer officiated as clerk.

Among those present were W. O. Carpenter of Bartlett & Carpenter, John G. Root, representing the Farmers and Mechanics bank, and Henry L. Searle, freight agent of the New York & New England Railroad company. A number of New York creditors were also in attendance.

The creditors inspected the mill property, on which there is a mortgage of $15,000. It is probable that a settlement will be made with the creditors.

Bridgeport Residence Damaged by Fire.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 14.—This morning the residence of the late A. L. Winton of North Washington avenue was discovered on fire. When the firemen arrived the front part of the house was blazing. The flames were extinguished with a loss of $3,000. David Winton was sleeping in the house alone, on the first floor. The smoke, he says, awoke him and, although nearly overcome, he managed to climb out of a window. Mrs. Winton moved to Park and Maple streets recently and had taken nearly all the furniture from the house. The building, which was insured for $8,000, is an old-fashioned, stately structure. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

Further Arrests of Railroad Employees.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 14.—The wholesale arrest of employees at the New England car shops in East Hartford on Thursday has caused a good deal of excitement among the railroad men and the residents generally, and considerable comment is occasioned by them as to the probable result of the arrest. The offense with which the men are charged is one that occurs on many roads, more or less, and it is a clever man who successfully ferrets out the guilty parties. Nine more arrests were made late Thursday afternoon. The men pleaded not guilty to the charges preferred and their cases were adjourned to next Monday, $600 bonds being required in each case.

Fatal Cyclone in Minnesota.

STILLWATER, Minn., July 14.—A terrible cyclone struck here at 1.15 p. m. The bodies of two men, killed by the falling of some rafting sheds, have been recovered. Several buildings were blown down and others damaged. Many people are injured and some are missing. The names of the two dead men are [illegible].

Tomorrow Will be the Last Open Sunday at the Fair.

CHICAGO, July 14—The local directors of the World's fair met here this afternoon and decided by vote of 24 to 4 to rescind their former action and to close the World's fair on Sunday after July 16.

The admission money of next Sunday has already been donated to the relief of families of the firemen who lost their lives in the fire.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Reports are that 30 business places in the United States failed last week against 16 in the week a year ago, and 16 failures in Canada against 24 the corresponding week last year.

BIG GUNS FIRED AT SANDY HOOK.

Working of the Gun Carriage Machinery Shown.

SATISFACTORY TESTS.

Shells Sent Fully Seven Miles Out to Sea.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Gen. John M. Schofield, Gen. Henry L. Abbott, Col. H. W. Closson, Major Clifton Comly, and Capt. C. C. Morrison of the army and ex-Congressman B. M. Cutcheon of Michigan, constituting the board of ordnance and fortifications, witnessed some tests of the big guns at Sandy Hook yesterday. The experiments were conducted to ascertain how the machinery of the gun carriages worked rather than to test the firing qualities of the guns themselves.

Mr. Cutcheon said that the tests had been highly satisfactory.

The twelve-inch gun was first tried. Two shots were fired, each charge consisting of 450 pounds of powder and a shell weighing 1,000 pounds. The shells were sent fully seven miles out to sea. The new lift for the big gun was found to be in good working order and was handled satisfactorily.

The ten-inch gun was fired to show the working efficiency of the Gordon disappearing carriage.

Some tests were made with the Brown segmental gun, which were considered satisfactory.

An experiment was made with the Leonard smokeless powder. A shell was sent at the rate of 2,500 feet a second from a field piece and the smoke was hardly perceptible. Then an emmensite shell was experimented with. A charge of 50 pounds of the explosive sent a shell weighing 665 pounds a distance of six miles.

All the tests were considered satisfactory. Some of the machinery was new to General Schofield, and he examined it carefully.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

A Family Reunion.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. William S. Palmer of this town enjoyed in Brookfield, Vt., this week, a family reunion of nephews and nieces of Mrs. Palmer. Four brothers and four sisters, with every living member of their several households, assembled at the homestead of their childhood—a group of twenty-nine persons. The day was ideally perfect, and the occasion one never to be forgotten.

Stonington's Prosecuting Agent.

The New London Day notes that the Stonington dealers in the ardent are manifesting great anxiety over the appointment of a prosecuting agent for that borough. At every meeting of the county commissioners this week a large delegation of politicians from that place have been in attendance and have pulled and hauled the commissioner around in a lively manner, figuratively speaking, in the interest of this or that candidate. One of the aspirants is in the blacksmithing trade.

A Lighthouse Struck by Lightning.

The Saltaicook, L. I., lighthouse was struck by lightning Thursday night. The bolt struck the side of the lighthouse and made a hole about two feet wide. After circling around the tower the lightning went through into the dwelling apartments of Keeper Miller and destroyed things generally. It wrecked the piazza on the keeper's residence and finally passed out of the front door into the ground. Assistant Keeper John Raynor, who was sitting in the top of the tower, received a severe shock, but was not seriously hurt.

President Clark to Go Abroad.

President Charles P. Clark of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road will spend his vacation abroad as usual this year. He will spend from four to six weeks in Europe. Although he has laid out no special programme, most of his time is likely to be spent on the continent. President Clark will go direct to London and after a few days there will cross the channel to Paris. He will visit some of the other capitals and it is now thought will make a tour of the French summer resorts. He has not taken his family with him. Mrs. Clark and the other members of the family have gone to their summer home in Kennebunkport, Me.

City Court.

Jeremiah Dean, the 17-year-old boy accused of assaulting two Russian peddlers, was convicted of breach of the peace on two counts in the city court Thursday morning. Spiritualists' Encampment.

The annual encampment of Connecticut spiritualists is now well under way at Niantic. The spiritualists' cottages number seventy-five and are located on the shore on the north side of the state encampment grounds. The pavilion, embracing an area of about 5,600 square feet, is in use, and Wednesday and Saturday nights is the scene of regular dances. The following officers have been elected for the Connecticut Spiritualist association for 1893: President, S. O. Harrington, Bridgeport; first vice president, Orrin Moss, Putnam; second vice president, Mrs. E. R. Davis, Putnam; secretary, R. F. Stanton, South Windham; treasurer, C. M. Platt, Waterbury.

The Death of Judge Sanford.

Judge Edward Isaac Sanford, who died at his home in New Haven Thursday, was well known among the legal fraternity of this city. He had been in failing health for a year, but was only dangerously ill about a week. Judge Sanford had just passed his 67th birthday. He was born in New Haven and graduated from Yale in 1847. After graduating from the Yale Law school, Judge Sanford entered upon the practice of law. He was sent to the state senate by the party then known as the union party, which was really the republican party of today. This was in 1864. The next year he was also sent to the senate.

The deceased was appointed to the superior court bench in 1867 by Gov. English and remained a judge until the deadlock in the general assembly. He was renominated for his position by Gov. Bulkeley, but failed of confirmation. Then he retired from the bench at the expiration of his term. It is stated that Judge Sanford could have been made chief justice of the supreme court of Connecticut at one time, but he declined to entertain the proposition because he believed that some one who had been longer on the bench was entitled to the office.

THE SHERMAN ACT.

Full Text of the Much Discussed Silver Law.

REPEAL LOUDLY DEMANDED.

Men of National Reputation Predict that Silver Men Can Stem the Tide.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The demands for the repeal of the Sherman silver law that have come up from great business centers have undoubtedly made a strong impression upon the men who are in touch with public affairs, and few men of national reputation are found who dare predict that the silver advocates can stem the tide that has set so strongly against them. In view of the great agitation the full text of the law is given below, that all may judge of its merits and demerits:

An act directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes:

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled,

That the secretary of the treasury is hereby directed to purchase, from time to time, silver bullion to the aggregate amount of 4,500,000 ounces, or so much thereof as may be offered each month, at the market price thereof, not exceeding $1 for 371 25-100 grains of pure silver, and to issue in payment for such purchases of silver bullion treasury notes of the United States to be prepared by the secretary of the treasury in such form and of such denomination, not less than $1 nor more than $1000, as he may prescribe, and a sum sufficient to carry into effect the provisions of this act is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 2. That the treasury notes issued in accordance with the provisions of this act shall be redeemable on demand, in coin, at the treasury of the United States, or at the office of any assistant treasurer of the United States, and when so redeemed may be reissued, but no greater or less amount of such notes shall be outstanding at any time than the cost of the silver bullion and the standard silver dollars coined therefrom then held in the treasury purchased by such notes; and such treasury notes shall be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract, and shall be receivable for customs, taxes and public dues, and when so received may be reissued; and such notes, when held by any national banking association, may be counted as a part of its lawful reserve. That upon demand of the holder of any of the treasury notes herein provided for the secretary of the treasury shall, under such regulations as he may prescribe, redeem such notes in gold or silver coin at his discretion, it being the established policy of the United States to maintain the two metals on a parity with each other upon the present legal ratio, or such ratio as may be provided by law.

Sec. 3. That the secretary of the treasury shall each month coin 2,000,000 ounces of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act into standard silver dollars until the 1st day of July, 1891, and after that time he shall coin of the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act as much as may be necessary to provide for the redemption of the treasury notes herein provided for, and any gain or seigniorage arising from such coinage shall be accounted for and paid into the treasury.

Sec. 4. That the silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act shall be subjected to the requirements of existing law and the regulations of the mint service governing the methods of determining the amount of pure silver contained and the amount of charges or deductions, if any, to be made.

Sec. 5. That so much of the act of Feb. 28, 1878, entitled, "An act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar, and to restore its legal tender character," as requires the monthly purchase and coinage of the same into silver dollars of not less than $2,000,000 nor more than $4,000,000 worth of silver bullion, is hereby repealed.

Sec. 6.—That upon the passage of this act the balance standing with the treasurer of the United States to the respective credits of national banks of deposits made to redeem the circulating notes of such banks and all deposits thereafter received for like purpose shall be covered into the treasury as a miscellaneous receipt, and the treasurer of the United States shall redeem from the general cash in the treasury the circulating notes of said banks which may come into his possession subject to redemption; and upon the certificate of the comptroller of the currency that such notes have been received by him and that they have been destroyed by him and that no new notes shall be issued in their place, reimbursement of their amount shall be made to the treasurer, under such regulations as the secretary of the treasury may prescribe, from an appropriation hereby created, to be known as national bank notes redemption account, but the provisions of this act shall not apply to the deposits received under section 3 of the act of June 20, 1874, requiring every national bank to keep in lawful money with the treasurer of the United States a sum equal to 5 per centum of its circulation, to be held and used for the redemption of its circulating notes; and the balance remaining of the deposits so covered shall, at the close of each month, be reported on the monthly debt statement as debt of the United States bearing no interest.

Sec. 7.—That this act shall take effect thirty days from and after its passage.

Approved July 14, 1890.

MAKING WILD THREATS.

Silver Men Desperate and Organized With Plenty of Cash.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The free silver shriekers seem to have been driven from their mental base by the general determination to repeal the Sherman law. They are indulging in all sorts of wild threats, even to the blocking of congressional business, unless their silver demands are conceded.

One of the absurd threats is that the pro-silver senators will combine and prevent the confirmation of any presidential nominations. With a view to such a combination it is said that agents of the silver combine are quietly canvassing the opinion of senators as to the repeal of the Sherman law, and that all who express themselves as opposed to repeal are asked to join in the movement to combat all presidential nominations. This project is illustrative of the recklessness of the free silverites. They would rather tie up the senate and house both than see legislation opposed to their interests and for the good of the country enacted.

But the senate is a body that does not yield to coercion. This conspiracy of free coinage men will be crushed like an eggshell. In the face of an effort to defeat action by filibustering, Republican and Democratic senators will lay aside partisanship long enough to put through such legislation as the interests of the country demands.

However, all the schemes of the free silver workers are neither wild nor weak. They are organizing for systematic work in designs. They will be liberally supplied with money by the owners of silver mines and others interested in keeping up the value of the white metal. The silver forces are preparing for the coming battle, while the other side is idle and trusting to the power of public sentiment. Some of the most active of the silver leaders are already boasting of the enormous amount of money they will command to influence congress.

ILLEGAL RATE CUTTING.

Canadian Pacific Officials Indicted For Violation of Law.

CHICAGO, July 14.—A Tribune special from Tacoma, Wash., says: The United States grand jury last night found indictments against President Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific railroad and several of the local agents of the company, charging them with violation of the interstate commerce law in the sale of tickets. Local Ticket Agent Thompson and his assistants were immediately arrested and arraigned at 9 o'clock before Judge Hanford of the United States district court, who admitted them to bail in $500 each.

Every effort was made to keep the indictments a secret, in order that President Van Horne could be arrested at Boston on a warrant now issued.

The company is charged with secret rate cutting. It sold a first-class limited ticket, Tacoma to Boston, for $65, while the rate was $78.70.

CYCLONIC VISITOR

Tears Up Sidewalks and Wrecks Buildings in Elmwood.

ELMWOOD, Neb., July 14.—A cyclone visited this town last evening, doing an immense amount of damage. A funnel-shape cloud dropped down in the center of the business portion of the city.

It commenced by tearing up sidewalks, and gradually increased in power as it swept toward the northwest. It cut a swath about 50 feet wide, tearing up [illegible] totally demolishing a grain store, two large [illegible] and outstanding buildings.

Outlying districts have not yet been heard from, but with the rain and hail which followed, great damage is thought to have been done. Crops must necessarily be ruined. No lives were lost.

WARSHIPS AT MALTA.

Investigation of Loss of Victoria Begins July 17.

MALTA, July 14.—The greatest number of British warships ever seen at Malta in a summer gathering are here. What will be the most memorable court-martial ever held begins on the 17th of this month, when the Victoria disaster will be investigated and the responsibility fixed.

Admiral Seymour who arrived Wednesday has taken up temporary headquarters in the admiralty house in the Strada Mezzodi, the state official abode residence of the lamented Admiral Tryon.

Landlord Veith Assigned.

BOSTON, July 14.—Henry F. Veith, lately in the hotel business at 545 Tremont street, and in the restaurant business at 300 Washington street, has assigned to Asher Hyneman and Timothy D. Baker. Mr. Veith's establishment was recently raided several times, and he was charged with selling liquor without a license. The hotel is said to have done a good business at one time, but its proprietor failed to secure a renewal of his liquor license, and to this cause, it is believed, his financial difficulties are due.

Tied and Gagged the Cashier.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., July 14.—The Bank of Mound Valley, owned by C. M. Condon of Oswego, was robbed at 12:30 o'clock yesterday by three men who rode into town and entered the bank, tied and gagged the cashier, J. G. Wilson, and secured the money in sight, which amounted to $600. Before Mr. Wilson could give the alarm the robbers had made their escape.

Despondent Suicide.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 14.—Albert Dresser of Hudson hanged himself last night in the barn of Undertaker Levi F. Ellsworth. Dresser had previously informed the undertaker of his intention, and told him where he desired to be buried, but no stock was taken in his statements. He leaves a daughter.

Cambridge Girl a Victim.

BOSTON, July 14.—One of the passengers on the ill-fated train wrecked at Newburg, N. Y., yesterday, was Miss Jane G. Cooke of Cambridge. She had been a student at the Harvard annex for the last four years, and during the last school year ending in June, had taught history at the Cambridge school for young ladies.

He Cannot Recover.

BELFAST, Me., July 14.—Andrew Tuky, a harness maker, 32 years of age, married and of good habits, attempted suicide today by shooting. His wound is so serious he cannot recover. The cause of the deed was despondency, due to disease.

Brokers Come to Blows.

NEW YORK, July 14.—An assault took place inside the rail at the stock exchange this morning. The principals in it were E. H. Atwood and Robert Cunningham.

Fire at Logansport.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., July 14.—The Logansport Manufacturing company's buildings were burned to the ground yesterday. Loss, $60,000; insurance, $25,000.

Forgot to Pay His Bills.

RICHMOND, Ind., July 14.—W. B. Howard, representing the Mutual Endowment Insurance company, Waterloo, Ia., has fled the city, leaving large unpaid bills. Policy holders fear that they have been swindled. He wrote $200,000 worth of insurance in this territory.

Disease Resembles Cholera.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 14.—Dr. Lewis, health officer of Northampton county, reports the existence there of a disease resembling cholera. Persons attacked die in six or seven hours. There have been 12 deaths. The disease is being officially investigated.

Van Horne Not in Boston.

BOSTON, July 14.—President W. C. Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific, reported as indicted by the grand jury of Tacoma for violation of the interstate commerce law, is not in Boston, as stated in the dispatch received from Tacoma this morning.

Pennington a Winner.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH, Mass., July 14.—The Norfolk Bicycle club had another race last evening. The course was three and one-half miles. Harry Pennington won first, Percy Belcher second, John Burbriel, third. The best time was 11m. 47s.

Drowned While Bathing.

PROVIDENCE, July 14.—Christopher B. Brown, 18 years old, whose home was on Benefit street, was drowned while bathing in the river just below Field's point last evening. The body has not been recovered.

Canal Company Out of Funds.

NEW YORK, July 14.—A statement published in The Tribune today says the Nicaragua Canal Construction company is out of funds and has stopped all work on the Nicaragua canal.

Portland For Repeal.

PORTLAND, Me., July 14.—The board of trade passed resolutions this morning asking congress to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman bill.

Personal.

Miss Gertrude Franklin, the celebrated Boston singer, who has been spending the week with Mrs. Charles D. Gallup of Laurel Hill avenue, left for home yesterday. Miss Franklin sings in the choir of King's chapel and is a notable figure on the Boston concert stage. She has studied with the best masters abroad, and for the past four years has spent her summers in Europe. Her visit to Norwich was of an entirely social character, and in compliment to Mrs. Gallup, who has been her pupil for upwards of a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holbrook left town yesterday for a brief visit to New Haven.

MANAGING AGENT ANDREWS.

After Forty-seven Years of Service P. St. M. Andrews is Relieved of Part of His Duties.

President A. A. McLeod of the New York & New England Railroad company, at Superintendent P. St. M. Andrews' request, issued, Friday, general order No. 5, to take effect today, relieving him of the charge of the operating department of the Norwich & Worcester railroad, with which he has been identified for forty-seven years, and ordering Mr. F. B. Dewey to take charge of it in connection with his other duties.

Mr. Andrews will continue in the service of these corporations in the capacity of managing agent, as heretofore.

In concluding his order President McLeod said, "The management of the New York & New England Railroad company desires to express the greatest satisfaction and appreciation of Mr. Andrews' long services to this company."

STATE T. A. B. CONVENTION.

What Will Be Done at New Britain on August 30.

The annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence union of Connecticut will be held in the hall of the Young Men's Temperance society in New Britain, August 30.

The programme provides for the meeting of the delegates at 9 o'clock in the rooms of the local society. They will then march to the chapel of the Sacred Heart, where they will hear mass and where an address will be made to them by the pastor, the Rev. Father Tierney. On the return of the delegates to the young [illegible] the convention will be formally [illegible] by James F. Brennan, the president of the state union.

The report of the secretary, William Gaffney of Ansonia, will show a remarkable gain in the membership during the past two years. From a roll of only thirty four societies, some of which were struggling, an increase to fifty-four strong and healthy societies will be reported. The membership has increased from 2,151 two years ago, to about 5,000 today. It is expected that there will be about 100 delegates present.

The national convention will be held in Springfield, Mass., August 2, 3, and 4. Societies to be entitled to representation must have the per capita tax paid.

Examination of National Guard Officers Closed.

The military examining board for the examination of officers of the National Guard for commissions has completed its four days' session at the capitol and all but one of the eleven officers of the Fourth Regiment, ordered to appear, have been examined. The missing officer, First Lieut. William H. Bramhall, Company I, Winsted, neglected to account for his absence. The officers were examined by Gen. George Haven, Col. Augustus C. Tyler, Third Regiment and Col. Russell Frost, Fourth Regiment.

Lieutenant Colonel Armstrong of the Third, who failed to appear on Wednesday, sent word to the board that critical illness of his brother prevented his appearance.

All the officers ordered for examination have appeared or furnished reasons for absence except Lieutenant Murphy of the First regiment, Lieutenant Nado of the Third and Lieutenant Bramhall of the Fourth. It is rumored that Lieutenant Murphy is to leave the service.

They have got hold of a report down south that there is a fellow up in Minnesota who, whenever he goes on a spree, insists on paying a year's subscription to his town paper. He has already paid for the paper until Jan. 1, 1897, and the Press association of Alabama is making frantic efforts to find out what brand of liquor he drinks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Makes the hair soft and glossy.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for nearly five years, and my hair is moist, glossy, and in an excellent state of preservation. I am forty years old, and have ridden the plains for twenty-five years." —Wm. Henry Ott, alias "Mustang Bill," Newcastle, Wyo.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Prevents hair from falling out.

"A number of years ago, by recommendation of a friend, I began to use Ayer's Hair Vigor to stop the hair from falling out and prevent its turning gray. The first effects were most satisfactory. Occasional applications since have kept my hair thick and of a natural color." —H. E. Basham, McKinney, Texas.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Restores hair after fevers.

"Over a year ago I had a severe fever, and when I recovered, my hair began to fall out, and what little remained turned gray. I tried various remedies, but without success, till at last I began to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and now my hair is growing rapidly and is restored to its original color." —Mrs. A. Collins, Dighton, Mass.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Prevents hair from turning gray.

"My hair was rapidly turning gray and falling out; one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor has remedied the trouble, and my hair is now its original color and fullness." —B. Onkrupa, Cleveland, O.

STORY OF GRATITUDE.

Six Physicians, Two Clairvoyants and One Christian Scientist

Fail to Help Mrs. N. E. Whitney, of Hillsboro Bridge, N. H.

HILLSBORO BRIDGE, N. H.—There is no better known nor more highly respected resident of this village than Mrs. N. E. Whitney. Her long and serious illness and her remarkable recovery of health through the aid of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has made that medicine a necessity in every New Hampshire household.

Mrs. Whitney in speaking about her sickness, said: "I had been gradually failing in health for a number of years, and was told by my physicians that I was in the last stages of Bright's disease. I had been under the treatment at various times of six physicians, two clairvoyants, and one Christian scientist, but received no benefit from any of them. I had given up all hope of ever being cured. I had no faith in the advertised medicines, and it seemed to me that every means of ever being cured had been tried except to use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, which had been recommended. As a last resort I purchased a bottle; when I had used it I felt no better, but continued to use, and by the time I had used the second bottle I was greatly improved, and from that on I improved daily, and it was not long before I was able to be about the house, doing my regular household duties.

No tongue can tell how I suffered for the three years before I used Favorite Remedy. My age is [illegible], and I now weigh 25 pounds more than I ever did. Favorite Remedy restored me to health and strength, and if any one wishes to call upon or write me I will gladly tell them what this great medicine will do for them, if afflicted as I was."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 16. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—God's great command. Acts xvii, 30; Luke xiii, 1-5.

The Bible contains many divine commands. There is the greatest commandment, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God," and the next greatest, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Within these greatest commands are many smaller, but by no means insignificant ones. The one before us is the command to repent. God "now commandeth all men everywhere to repent." Consider:

1. What is the great command (Acts xvii, 30)? It is as just stated, the command to universal repentance. Paul is preaching on Mars hill, Athens. He tells the cultured Greeks that in times past God had passed over their ignorance, but now commanded them to repent. But what is repentance? It embraces two ideas—a turning from sin, a turning to God. Neither is true repentance. A man may reform for personal advantage, God not considered. That is not repentance. One may in a sense turn toward God, yet not turn from his sin. Neither is this true repentance. There must be both steps—from sin, toward God. "Let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him" (Isa. lv, 7).

2. To whom is the great command given (Luke xiii, 1-5)? It is universal. It is to all men everywhere, from the cultured and learned Greek to the rude and uncouth savage. It is to the moral Pharisee as well as to the one who has most often and most heinously sinned against God. All who have sinned must repent if they are saved. All have sinned, and therefore it is necessary for all to repent if they are saved. The Greeks thought repentance beneath them. The pharisaical Jews thought they needed no repentance, but Christ Himself said to them, "Except ye repent ye shall perish," as did the Galileans and those upon whom the tower of Siloam fell. The command is to each one of us, and therefore each should inquire, "Have I repented?"

3. The time for repentance (Acts xvii, 30). The time is the present—now. This life is the only time given us for repentance. There is no repentance in the future, no repentance in hell. Man may curse and blaspheme God in the place of the lost, but cannot truly repent. Faith and hope are necessary to repentance, but these are gone forever in the life to come. How necessary, then, that we shall obey this great command now and repent of our sins, believe in Christ and be saved.

Bible Readings.—I Kings viii, 47; II Chron. xii, 12; Job xlii, 1-6; Joel ii, 12, 13; Ezek. xiv, 6; Matt. iii, 2; ix, 13; Mark i, 15; Luke xv, 1-10; Acts ii, 38; viii, 22; Rom. ii, 4; II Tim. ii, 25; Heb. vi, 4-6; Rev. ii, 5, 16.

Christianity In China.

How much the profession of faith in Christ cost in China may be inferred from the following proclamation, which has been issued in the province of Honan: "Should any one become bewitched by the foreign doctrines and not be willing to sacrifice either to Confucius or to the spirits of his ancestors, he must be effectively dealt with by his clan. His name must be erased from the family register and his whole family driven from the province."

In face of these threats several men from the province have recently become Christians. When it was known that one of them was baptized, his friends were furious. He was dragged out to the ancestral temple, where he was beaten. He was not allowed to say anything in his defense, but was made to renounce forever all their rights and privileges. To be an outcast from one's friends and home, rather than give up one's belief, would be anywhere a severe test of sincerity; especially so in China, where so much is made of family, festivals, and where so much property, such as wells, ground, animals and agricultural implements, is held in common.—Exchange.

Ideals.

Must be lofty, else our work will be low.

Must be moved up as we approach them, else we shall realize them too soon and lose our ambition.

Must be divine, else the best that is in us will not be developed.

Must be kept constantly before us, else we will forget for what we are striving.

Thou art my only pattern, Lord;
Wherein I [illegible] Thee
I find my being self restored
To its true dignity,
And heights of good, yet unexplored,
Look down invitingly.
—Golden Rule.

Mission Work by Phonograph.

An appeal through a Methodist Protestant paper for offerings from Sunday schools to pay for an Edison phonograph for lightening the labors of a missionary whose health was failing brought to the mission board the next week a check for $100 from a president of a Christian Endeavor society. The phonograph was forwarded at once to the missionary, Rev. F. C. Klein, at Nagoya, Japan. With the exception of one recently sent to a Catholic priest at Trinidad, this is believed to be the pioneer phonograph on mission ground.—Exchange.

The Voyagers.

"Tell me a tale of the Genoese
Who sailed away with his vessels three,
Without a chart into unknown seas,"
Clamored the children around my knee.

They loved to hear of the curving wand
That floated out on the ebbing tide,
Of the strange dark men and their wigwams rude
When they landed at last on the other side.

"O children, you are the voyagers bold,
Sailing away on an unknown sea,
A strange new world of life to find,
And the floating dreams of the things to be!"

"Are the old folks, then?" they gayly cried,
"Do they sail no more on the waters vast?"
"A stranger voyage before them lies
And a fairer country to reach at last.

"They will swing with the captain, Death,
Into the gates of a silent sea,
But theirs are the fields of eternal rest
And the glad new world of eternity."

A Slight Delay.

VICTORY.

He gains a victory who can,
Curbing his passions strong,
Say bravely to his fellow man,
"Forgive me; I was wrong."

No costs he sacrifices when
Pride's crooked path he leaves
And owns his fault with tongue or pen—
A triumph he achieves.
—Susie M. Best in Philadelphia Ledger.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

Lillian Axton was a silly little affectionate woman who loved her husband and whose husband loved her. They were recently married, but not so recently that Tom Axton had not time to find out that his wife had absolutely no head at all for finance. She could not keep accounts. They bewildered her and always ended in a hopeless muddle. She was like the woman who, being urged to keep some account of her expenditure, triumphantly showed her husband her book with the two entries on the debtor and creditor side, "Received, $50," and "Spent, $50," and who was exceedingly pleased to see that the $50 on the one side balanced the $50 on the other.

Lillian had the most vague idea about checks. It seemed to her that if a book was filled with unused checks their bank account therefore was unlimited.

Now, there are two things for a man to do when he finds himself in such a situation as Tom Axton found himself. One of the things is wise, and one of the things is foolish. If he is a foolish man, he will endeavor to teach his wife how to keep accounts. If he is a wise man, he will simply make up his mind to earn more money and let the accounts go. So Tom Axton, being wise, bothered his wife very little about accounts, but settled the bills when they came in as well as he was able and bent his energies toward the accumulating of a good and reliable balance at the bank.

And so things went on very comfortably and pleasantly until winter set in.

One night when Tom came home Mrs. Lillian, who was a most transparent kind of woman, began a conversation on the subject of sealskin jackets. She said that they were the most economical garments; that a woman with a sealskin coat was always well dressed; that the apparent costliness of the garment was a delusion; that a woman who had bestowed upon her a sealskin sack at the beginning of a hard winter had little else to ask for until the spring.

Tom listened gravely and finally said:

"There is nothing personal in all this talk, is there?"

Lillian averred that there was not and indignantly repudiated the insinuation that she was thinking about herself at all. She was merely interested in the subject in a general way. And Tom said quietly:

"Lillian, my dear, what is the price of the particular garment you have been looking at?"

At this point in the conversation she came over and sat upon his knee, and at last Tom received the information that a perfectly lovely sealskin coat could be had for $300, which was worth, at the very lowest figure, $800.

"In that case," said Tom, "it is rather a pity not to buy it," and she admitted with some reluctance that it was a shame to let such a chance go by.

Tom did some figuring and found that a check for $300 would be honored at his bank and leave still a little credit remaining.

His overcoat was on next morning and he was just about to depart for his office when he opened the drawer of the table in his room, took out his checkbook and wrote a check to the order of his wife for $300.

Mrs. Lillian was overjoyed, but Tom was away before she could thank him. She looked at the check with the ink still wet upon it, waved it for a moment in the air to dry it and then held it lightly with its face toward the open fire that was blazing on the hearth. How it happened she never knew, but the check gave a little curl at the corner and burst into a flame in her hand. She dropped it, tried to snatch it again, but the charred remnants escaped up the chimney.

Mrs. Lillian's face became as white as the ashes on the hearth, and she sank into the armchair beside the fire, covering her face with her hands.

Tom Axton was a somewhat stolid, quiet, industrious, unsuspicious man. He frequently thought his wife a trifle frivolous; but, on the whole, he rather liked it.

When he came home that night, the door was opened to him by the servant girl instead of by his wife, which was unusual. There was panic in her face.

"Oh, sir!" she said, "have you seen the missis?"

"The missis!" said Tom. "No. Isn't she here?"

"No, sir," said the girl, looking as if she were going to cry. "After you left this morning, sir, she took on awful, and then she went away. I thought perhaps she had gone to you, sir."

Tom stood in the hallway without removing his coat, thunderstruck. Through his unsuspicious mind flashed the circumstances of the case. The check for $300, the "taking on" and the departure.

Tom threw himself down, with his overcoat still on, in the armchair by the fire and tried to think over the situation. The absolute uselessness of starting out in the night and trying to find her was the first thing that impressed itself upon him. He shrank from giving notice to the police. The ticket seller at the railroad station knew his wife and would perhaps remember if she bought a ticket for any place. The first thing evidently to do was to find out if she left the suburb, and, if possible, where she had gone to.

Once more he called up the servant girl.

"Did—did Mrs. Axton leave the house alone?" he asked with some hesitation.

"I think so," said the girl, "but I don't know. I heard the front door close, and awhile after I found that she was gone, and when she did not come back to lunch I did not know what to do."

"Oh, it is all right," said Tom, with a confidence he himself was far from feeling. "I think I know where she has gone. A friend of hers is ill. She has very likely been detained. I will go and bring her home."

And so, putting on his hat, he resolved to go down and see the man at the railroad station. When he closed the front door behind him and went down the steps toward the gate, he saw in the darkness the figure of a woman who seemed to have been loitering there and who now hurried away.

As he came out into the street, something of her evident desire not to be seen convinced him that the retreating figure was that of his wife. He followed quickly, and as soon as she noticed this she broke into a run.

Now, Tom realized that it was a risky thing to run after and overtake a flying woman, especially if she turned out to be the person of whom he was in search. But Tom was desperate, and he took the risk.

Seeing that she could not get away, she stopped at a lamppost, leaning against it, and as he came up to her he heard the shuddering cry:

"Oh, Tom!"

"Lillian," he said hoarsely, grasping her wrist, "what is the meaning of this? Have you gone crazy?"

She leaned against the lamppost and wept.

"Come," he said briskly, and without resistance she accompanied him in silence, broken only by her sobs, back to the house.

The girl let them in and at once surmised by the grief of her mistress that the friend who was ill had died.

Tom led his wife into their sitting room, and there she sank into a chair, covering her face with her hands. She saw by his stern demeanor that he suspected her guilt.

He closed the door, then standing before her said sternly:

"Lillian, I want an explanation."

"Oh, Tom, Tom," she said piteously. "Don't look at me like that or I shall never be able to tell you the truth."

"You must tell me the truth, no matter how I look."

"That check, that check," she moaned.

"Well, what about it? What has the check to do with your going away?"

"The check," she stammered, "[illegible]."

"Who has it? Did you cash it, and have you lost the money?"

"I have lost the money," she said, "but I did not cash the check. It was burned."

"Burned! Who burned it?"

"Oh, I did it by accident. I was drying the ink before the fire, and somehow it caught, and I had not presence of mind enough to save it."

"But what has all that to do with your running away?"

She looked up at him in surprise.

"It has everything to do with it," she said. "I could not face you after losing $300."

"Good gracious, Lillian," he cried, a light breaking in upon him. "You surely don't imagine you have lost anything by the burning of the check?"

"Was it not for $300?" she asked in surprise.

Tom's overstrained feelings gave way. He sat down on the chair and laughed.

"Lillian," he said at last, "is that all?"

"All!" she cried, astonished at his behavior. "Is that not enough when we have so little money?"

"My dear girl," he said, rising and kissing her, "the check is but a piece of paper. It is not like a bank note. The burning of a check is nothing. It only puts me to the trouble of writing another. Ignorance may be bliss, but it has given me a very bad half an hour."

"Dear me," said the little woman, looking at him with wide eyes. "What in the world did you suspect?"

"Nothing," said Tom.—Luke Sharp in Detroit Free Press.

A Wooden Leg and a Dog.

A wooden leg and a dog nearly changed the course of European history. In 1865, just prior to the war between Prussia and Denmark, Bismarck was staying at Biarritz. One morning, accompanied by a huge dog, he was walking along a road which runs along a cliff, protected by a low wall, when he met an old French naval captain, with a wooden leg, but powerfully built, and of a quick temper. The dog became unduly attentive to the captain's leg, and the Frenchman struck at the animal with the butt of his fishing rod. Bismarck used a round German oath, and the sailor followed with nautical [illegible]. From words the two came to blows, and in a few minutes Bismarck found that, strong as he was, the Frenchman was lifting him bodily upon the top of the sea wall.

Another moment and he would have been in the sea below, and the whole course of history would have been changed. At the critical moment came help—by the irony of fate—in the shape of an equerry of Napoleon, who rescued the German from his terrible opponent. If that equerry could only have known for what he had saved him!—San Francisco Argonaut.

Praise For New York.

I arrived in New York this morning about 10 o'clock. When I got to Broadway, I heard the bang of the gongs on the new cable cars. By gum, I thought I was in a live western town. It reminded me of old St. Louis and Kansas City. I'm glad to see that New York is catching up with the march of civilization.—Cor. New York Advertiser.

Proof.

"Annabel," he said in tones of mingled sorrow and severity, "you forgot to write to me while I was away."

"No, no," she protested, "I did not. I can prove it. I have the letter on my table now. I—I forgot to mail it."—Harper's Bazar.

Colors of Sapphires.

Sapphires have of late years become fashionable gems. The blue of the sapphire is very seldom pure or spread over the whole substance of the stone. Sometimes it is mixed with black, which gives it an inky appearance, sometimes with red, which, although imperceptible by daylight, yet by artificial light gives it an amethystine appearance. Two sapphires which by daylight may appear of the same hue often differ extremely in color at night. If the stone be held in an ordinary pair of forceps an inch beneath the surface of very clear water, the parts of the same colored and uncolored will be distinctly apparent. This remark applies to all other gems.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON III, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JULY 16.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xvii, 22-31—Memory Verses, 30, 31—Golden Text, John iv, 24—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

22. "Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars hill and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious," or, as in the R. V., "somewhat religious." We have passed by his farewell to Philippi, his preaching at Thessalonica and Berea, and the persecutions he endured at each place. We now find him at Athens, waiting for Silas and Timothy, whom he had left at Berea. His spirit is greatly stirred by the idolatry of the city, and in the synagogue of the Jews and the market of the city he preached Jesus and the resurrection. From the time that Jesus met him on the way to Damascus he determined to know nothing but Christ and Him crucified (I Cor. ii, 2), and the substance of his preaching may be gathered from this statement. He "reasoned with them out of the Scriptures, opening and alleging that Christ must needs have suffered and risen again from the dead, and that this Jesus whom I preach unto you is Christ" (Acts xvii, 2, 3).

23. "For as I passed by and beheld your devotions I found an altar with this inscription, To the Unknown God. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship Him declare I unto you." It would seem that in their many altars to many gods they feared lest any should have been omitted, and hence this altar with its strange inscription. Very religious they were, but there was nothing to it, for they knew not God. It is most sad, however, to think of the religion [illegible] of today, which means nothing.

24. "God, that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands." He takes them right to the first of Genesis and would make them acquainted with the Creator of all things. They were without excuse for not knowing His eternal power and Godhead, for the works of His hands should have taught them this (Rom. i, 19, 20). Before we can come to God we must believe that there is a God (Heb. xi, 6), and the one whom these Athenians knew not was the only one whom they ought to know—the Lord who is the true God, the living God and King of Eternity (Jer. x, 10, margin).

25. "Neither is worshiped with men's hands, as though He needed anything, seeing He giveth to all life and breath and all things." What startling things these must have been to be heard for the first time! A God greater than sun, moon or stars, heaven or earth, and the author and giver of all life and being. Yet this is the old, familiar story of the Bible which we possess, but are so slow to give to others, which tells of Him in whose hand is the soul of every living thing and the breath of all mankind (Job xii, 10). It is His nature to give. He so loved that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth Him shall never perish (John iii, 16; x, 27, 28).

26. "And hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed and the bounds of their habitation." All nations may truly say: "Have we not all one Father? Hath not one God created us?" (Mal. ii, 10.) And as to the bounds of habitation, not only has God ordered even this, but He has done so with respect to Israel, as it is written, "When the Most High divided to the nations their inheritance, when He separated the sons of Adam, He set the bounds of the people according to the number of the children of Israel" (Deut. xxxii, 8).

27. "That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after Him and find Him, though He be not far from every one of us." If they would live up to the light they had, God would find ways to send them more light, as in the case of Cornelius and the Ethiopian eunuch. The exhortations to seek the Lord are very many and very instructive. See such as Isa. lv, 6, 7; Zeph. ii, 3; Jer. xxix, 13; Math. vi, 33. His nearness to us is very strikingly described in Rom. x, 6-10, but there it speaks of those who have His word and raises the question (verses 14, 15) of how can they hear it unless some one take it to them.

28. "For in Him we live and move and have our being, as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also His offspring." The first clause is very briefly stated in Col. i, 17, "By Him all things consist." The use which Paul makes here and in Titus i, 12, of the Greek authors seems to indicate the advantage to a missionary of some knowledge of the writings of the people if by such knowledge they may be turned from vanities to the true God (Acts xiv, 15). We are to use all means which God can bless that we may by all means save some (I Cor. ix, 22).

29. "Forasmuch, then, as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold or silver or stone graven by art and man's device." Grand commentary upon this verse is found in Isa. xl, 18-26, and elsewhere in the prophets. Is not the same sin manifest today even in the church when so much strength is spent in raising money? The cry is for gold and silver and wisdom of man, instead of for God, who owns the gold and silver and has all the wisdom (Hag. ii, 8; I Cor. i, 30). If those who profess to believe in God would only trust in Him and not in idols, either man or metal, He would soon show Himself strong on our behalf and pour out more blessing than we could manage (II Chron. xvi, 9).

30. "And the times of this ignorance God winked at, but now commandeth all men everywhere to repent." In the R. V. it is said "God overlooked," which is a much better translation. He allowed to go unpunished because He is long suffering and not willing that any should perish. Jesus told the Jews that God suffered many things because of the hardness of their hearts (Math. xix, 8; Mark x, 5). He was grieved all the same (Isa. lxiii, 10; Mark iii, 5), but bore with them and many a time forgave them as His servant Moses pleaded for them. But we live in different days, for God has now made full provision for all through the finished work of His dear Son and commands all to believe on Him (I John iii, 23).

31. "Because He hath appointed a day in the which He will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom He hath ordained, whereof He hath given assurance unto all men, in that He hath raised Him from the dead." The Greeks had known some great men, leaders and teachers of the people, but they had never known one who having died lived again; hence when Paul got to this point they either mocked or turned away. Jesus, risen from the dead, alive forevermore, having all power in heaven and on earth, is the one who in all things has and must have the pre-eminence. The great question now is not, "Am I moral or religious or getting better?" but, first of all, "Have I received Jesus?" See John i, 12; I John v, 12. Then am I so living unto Him that in that day the works shall not be burned up, but rewarded (I Cor. iii, 11-15).

The Universal Language of Chemistry.

In looking over the recent questions in advanced chemistry Professor Arey pointed out that "iodid" was spelled without the final "e," commonly used, and said: "All over the world chemists are dropping the useless e in such words as end with 'de' or 'ne.' In fact, chemists are approaching nearer to a universal language than any other men."

Miss Schreiner at Home and Abroad.

Miss Olive Schreiner arrived in London the other day from the Cape, but it is not likely that she will make a long stay in England as her arrangements point to a lengthy sojourn on the continent. Though the distinguished novelist of South Africa shuns observation and lives in very retired fashion, she is not the recluse many people believe, and as the friend of suffering humanity in all its many phases she is certain of a warm welcome wherever she goes.

It is expected that Miss Schreiner will soon publish a new novel. Indeed it is hinted that her principal object in visiting London just now is to place the manuscript of it in a publisher's hands, and that in order to have it finished before she left home she discontinued for the present the series of sketches of South Africa, a few of which appeared in the periodical press some time ago. Schreiner House, Matjesfontein, the home of the author of "The Story of an African Farm," is about 900 miles from Cape Town, and an idea of its seclusion may be had when it is stated that Miss Schreiner was on the verge of womanhood before ever she set eyes upon a town.—London Chronicle.

Casting Sleighbells.

A question frequently asked is in regard to the method of producing sleighbells containing iron balls larger than the opening in the bells. Previous to making a cast the maker of sleighbells puts an iron ball inside a sand core, just the shape of the inside of the bell. This sand core, with the jinglet inside, is placed in the mold of the outside and the melted metal poured in, which fills up the space between the core and mold. The hot metal burns the core so that it can be shaken out, leaving the ball within the shell. Ball valves, swivel joints and many other articles are cast in the same manner.—Detroit Free Press.

PROVE YOUR TITLES.

The pensioners under the disability act of 1890 have been challenged by Hoke Smith to prove their claims to a pension under that law, and if they do not send in a certificate signed by a reputable physician and two witnesses within sixty days to show they are precluded from active labor owing to injuries or disability not the result of vicious habits, they will be dropped from the roll as impostors. This is a simple announcement that Mr. Smith regards ex-Secretary Raum as a distorter of law and an abettor of swindlers, and every pensioner under that law as a perjurer until he can prove his own innocence. This is not just the way he would [illegible] to conduct a case in court generally, but it is a southern way of getting even with northern veterans. There are [illegible] in the north who are permanent invalids who are allowed but two dollars a month, while all the pensioners of the Mexican war, whether feeble or able-bodied and hearty, get $12 a month without distinction, and ninety-three per cent. of this class of pensioners are southerners who were never on a field of battle except against their country. They are laboring under the delusion that a northern pensioner is always a fraud, and the southern pensioner an underpaid man of honor.

A CASE IN POINT.

Governor Morris, Thursday, appointed James Roche of New Britain judge of the city court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Valentine B. Chamberlain. This was done upon the application of Mayor Walsh of New Britain who informed Governor Morris officially of the vacancy. The Courant says: "It is claimed that the city charter of New Britain being a special act of the general assembly, the authority therein given the governor to appoint is sufficient."

There are loud-mouthed democrats who have claimed, in the event of the failure of the legislature to agree upon a judge for the Norwich city court, the governor would appoint a democrat. The Norwich city charter says: "The said city court shall be held by a judge who shall be appointed by the general assembly * * * and shall hold his office for two years, and until another shall be appointed and sworn in his stead."

It will be noted that there is no authority given for the governor to appoint a city court judge in the Norwich charter; but that instrument provides for a deputy city judge who is empowered to act when the judge cannot; and in case of vacancy by death the deputy judge could legally go on holding court till the general assembly met and elected a judge to fill the vacancy.

If the authority of the New Britain city charter is needed for Gov. Morris to make an appointment in that city, where could he find authority for overriding the Norwich city charter which says "The general assembly shall appoint the judge?"

WILHELM'S BILL ASSURED.

The vote upon the first section of the German army bill shows that there is a majority of eleven in the reichstag for it, and that its passage is assured. Neither the Emperor nor Count Caprivi have reason to be elated over it. The issue has shown the people to be strong, and able to dictate to the Kaiser the conditions upon which the bill should pass—the assurance that the taxes upon the common people shall not be increased, and that the extra burden imposed by the bill shall be borne by the capitalists of the country. The government did not like this, but its representatives did not tell these dictators to mind their business. They recognized the importance of the issue, and the strength of the opponents to the army bill, and gave the assurance asked for. Under such circumstances a majority of eleven is not enough to brag about.

NOT THAT KIND OF A MAN.

The authorities at Washington do not believe Gov. Jones of Caddo has been indulging in the talk attributed to him. They claim it is not his manner of talking; that he is a rather dull, slow-witted man who cannot speak English well enough to make the rebellious remarks he is charged with. A special dispatch says if the Choctaw Indians are executed by his order in defiance of the government's reprieve, the Indian Territory, as it is now known, will be blotted from the map. A state, or, at any rate, a territory of the ordinary sort will be erected, and the Indian system of self-government will be abolished.

FIRE LOSSES.

The fire losses for the first six months of this year have increased twenty millions over the same period in 1892; and in June the fire loss stood $16,000,000 for the United States and Canada against $9,000,000 loss the corresponding month of last year. When business is bad the rats and mice, and old "spontaneous combustion," seem to show increased activity. The insurance companies pay; and they must have their private opinion of it!

HE APPRECIATES GOOD COMPANY.

A North Carolina negro owns fourteen acres of land right in the center of George Vanderbilt's 9,000-acre tract. Uncle Jerry Collins, for that's his name, declines to sell. He says: "The greatest desire of his life has been good neighbors, and as he is now Mr. Vanderbilt's nearest neighbor, he declines to sell and move into a less aristocratic neighborhood. Mr. Vanderbilt has had the negro's lot fenced in, but of course he is compelled to allow him an outlet."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The Middletown merchants have just organized for early closing. Ten years' experience has not put the custom out of favor with Norwich merchants.

John L. Sullivan thinks the prize ring is going to the dogs since he left it. We did not know he left it. The dispatches said Corbett knocked him out.

After Monday next, by the reduced fares, a round-trip ticket to the World's fair from New York by the cheapest route may be had for seventeen dollars.

The wheelmen journeying constantly across country have made necessary the revival of the wayside inn. On the roads around Boston are these inns, and they are mainly supported by the wheelmen.

The Bridgeport Farmer hopes that city will not follow the flag example of New Haven and suggests, if a flag must be kept in the public eye, it should be the state flag. It would do no harm if both flags were in the wind often enough to be familiar objects to the rising generation.

As a means of keeping the national flag flying 365 days in the year we would suggest to the New Haven authorities the spiking of the national emblem to the masthead. It will take about four good flags a year to meet the demands of wind and weather, and this is the reason taxpayers do not get enthusiastic over demonstrative patriotism. They favor the kind that costs less.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Let Silver Alone!

There is no need of any substitute for the Sherman law. Nothing further should be done with silver now. We have gone to the very limit, to the utmost bound, of safety, and beyond it to the edge of positive peril. The thing to be done is to stop right where we are, and for the present, to let silver alone. Recovery of credit, recuperation of our financial system, will then begin. The country has now as much legal-tender silver and paper as its available gold will carry.—[Portland Oregonian.

Russian Wheel Regulations.

The habit of bicycling does not find much favor in the eyes of the authorities of St. Petersburg, and the wheelmen are restricted to the use of certain streets, most of which are so badly paved that it is almost impossible for anybody to ride through them. It is expressly stipulated, moreover, that no person under the age of eighteen shall enjoy the privilege of cycling, and that no very high machines will be allowed in the streets. Another order provides that after dark—that is to say, after the lamps are lighted—no cycles of any sort shall be permitted. In all, there are nearly a score of rules and regulations for the guidance of votaries of the wheel, one of the most amusing being number eight on the list, which prescribes what they must do in the event of frightening horses. They are told under such circumstances, to dismount and try to conceal their machines and themselves. In spite of all this official enmity, it is said that the number of wheelmen and wheelwomen is constantly increasing.—[New York Evening Post.

Has He Earned It?

Chief Head Chopper Maxwell claims a month's vacation on the ground that he has swung the axe industriously twenty-four hours a day for four months. And yet there are democrats who believe he ought not to grow tired if he had begun and had continued to swing it at the same rate for four months more. Some people believe they earn a vacation too easily.—[New Haven News.

Principal Public Servant.

It is in a democratic newspaper that we find Mr. Cleveland described as "Our Ruler." The description is neither democratic nor American. Mr. Cleveland is the president of the United States. His election to the office made him, for the time being, the principal public servant of the people. It didn't make him their "ruler." The theory of the constitution is that the people themselves do the ruling in this country.—[Hartford Courant.

Wise Counsel.

If reason cannot win a majority of the American people over to the side of free silver, violence cannot do it. Before the people of this country will see the union dissolved they will postpone the consideration of the financial and tariff reforms for another generation. We want peace and prosperity, but if we cannot have both, our voice is for peace. The mistake of secession must not be repeated. It would make our ruin complete.—[Atlanta Constitution.

No Question of Rights.

The New Orleans Picayune (Dem.) rejoices that it is not the south that meditates secession, and says, "There is no question of rights involved, but only a squabble over property."

Not a Time for Threats.

This is not a time in which to indulge in threats in order to enforce submission from silver's enemies.—[Denver Times.

Refreshing.

Mr. Thomas B. Reed should find refreshment this hot weather in looking over the files of The Congressional Record and reading the fiery denunciations of "czarism" by democratic members who will hasten to vote next month for the Reed rules.—[New York Press.

He'd Better Join Watterson.

Governor Waite of Colorado talks of wading in blood up to his horse's bridle. That would be particularly nasty. He had better join Colonel Watterson in marching through a slaughter house to an open grave.—[Springfield Union.

Flints for gunlocks were used in the French army in 1850.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, Constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no shadow of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Ayer's Pills promptly remove the causes of sick and nervous headaches. These Pills speedily correct irregularities of the stomach, liver and bowels, and are the mildest and most reliable cathartic in use. No one should be without them.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

The Bulletin.

OUR MOTHERS' BOOK.

We search the world for truth;
We cull the good, the pure, the beautiful,
From graven stones and from written scroll,
From all old flower fields of the soul,
And weary seekers of the best
We come back laden from our quest
To find that all the sages said
Is in the Book our mothers read.

FORTUNATE TRAMP.

Falls Heir to a Snug Fortune While in Jail.

WENT TO THE LOCKUP PENNILESS.

Comes Out Worth $50,000—Father Died in Blackstone on Monday.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 14.—To be left $50,000 while in jail serving out a sentence for drunkenness, because he could not pay a fine of $5, is something that has just happened, and the incident has a local significance.

Last Monday Judge Gallagher established a precedent under the new Grubb law by fining all first drunks $5. One of his victims on that day was an uncouth looking character who gave his name as Alfred Wilson. From the prisoner's own story it had been many days since he had worked, and he was without funds.

He belonged, so the police think, to that social element of human beings who spend their vacation in going from place to place, making short stays and rarely are called upon to pay any expenses, as freight cars and barns afford them conveniences, and a Pitiful Story Is Their Stock in Trade.

Wilson went to jail because he could not produce the necessary $5.

Yesterday circumstances changed, both as regards finances and headquarters. He paid his fine out of $50,000 which he inherited at the death of his father, who lived in Blackstone, where he was quite a wealthy man.

But his name was not Wilson. It was Dailey, and this son probably changed it to fit circumstances. The father's death occurred on Monday. He was a prominent Mason, and his brethren interested themselves in a search for the heirs, two sons.

"Alfred Wilson," it is almost unnecessary to state, took his departure from Fitchburg immediately.

EIGHT IN ONE GRAVE.

Bodies of Eight Victims of the Chicago Horror Buried.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Borne on a funeral car draped with the trappings of woe, drawn by eight coal black horses, escorted by a guard of honor formed of the comrades of the dead, army officers, Columbian guards and police, the eight bodies of the victims of the World's fair horror were consigned to one grave in Oakwood cemetery today.

The bodies thus buried could not be recognized, even by the loving eyes of their relatives. In the funeral procession were a number of civic societies and a long line of carriages containing friends of the dead.

The eight bodies are supposed to be the remains of Captain Burton Page, Captain James A. [illegible], Lieutenant Charles W. Purvis, Fireman John Cahill, Phillip J. Breen and John A. Smith, Engineer Drummond and Boilermaker Bernard Murphy.

AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

Jabin Kennedy Arrested—Has Spent 22 Years in Prison.

BOSTON, July 14.—James Kennedy, with a record of 22 years in state prison, and who has had but three months and three weeks liberty for the past 11 years, has been arrested by Patrolman Gray of division 2 on a warrant charging him with burglary at Revere.

Kennedy, if convicted of this crime, must take his medicine, a dose of 25 years in state prison, as he clearly comes under the [illegible] law.

The prisoner has been a free man only since June 22 of the present year. Since that time it is believed that he has done considerable "crooked" work, besides the burglary at Revere. Kennedy has the reputation of being an exceedingly clever burglar.

CAPE COD CANAL

Likely to Disturb President Cleveland's Gray Gables Next Season.

BUZZARD BAY, Mass., July 14.—It is probable that should President Cleveland visit Gray Gables next summer he will find moored in Buzzard's bay, where his pleasure yacht Ruth lays at anchor, many monster dredges [illegible] with laborers and the waters of the bay rushing into the unpretentious ditch in the valley which runs toward Sandwich.

The proposed Cape Cod ship canal has for its terminal the Cape Cod bay at Sandwich and the waters of Buzzard's bay near Gray Gables. With the operation in progress the shores of Buzzard's bay [illegible] Gables will be robbed of those [illegible] peaceful [illegible] for which it is now famous.

Saved by Soft Soil.

ABINGTON, Mass., July 14.—Carletto Cavanna, an Italian, employed in excavating the foundation for a building on Bedford street, was badly injured yesterday afternoon. He slipped and fell into a hole which he was digging, and a huge stone fell on him, pinioning his limbs so as to require the efforts of several of his fellow workmen to release him. The physicians say that the soft character of the soil prevented him from being mangled.

County Treasurer's Shortage.

CHICAGO, July 14.—A special to The News from [illegible], says: Enough has been learned regarding the affairs of County Treasurer James H. Armstrong to warrant the statement that he is short at least $80,000, with a strong probability of a much larger deficit. The [illegible] are pushing the investigation. Deputy Treasurer Armstrong, who conducted all the business of the office, cannot be found, and it is thought that he has fled.

Democrats Appointed.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 14.—The discharge of three clerks and a shipkeeper took place at the navy yard today, and Secretary Herbert has appointed E. L. Hill, Ichabod Cole of Kittery and Mercer Goodrich of Portsmouth clerks, and Oliver Locke of this city as shipkeeper. They are all Democrats, and this is the first discharge made under Cleveland.

Hospital Will Be Opened.

LOWELL, Mass., July 14.—The new Lowell general hospital will be opened Thursday afternoon, July 20, when addresses will be made by President Charles D. Palmer, Hon. F. T. Greenhalge, President Chalifoux of the board of trade, Mayor Pickman and Dr. Pillsbury.

SITUATION CRITICAL.

Rio Janeiro's Government Will Try and Whip Wandelkolk.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Herald's Valparaiso correspondent cables: The government vessel Republica is now en route to Rio Grande to fight Wandelkolk on the Jupiter. It is also the intention to meet and capture his convoy, the Cotocola. All buoys have been removed from the bar of the river, and the port of Rio Grande has been blocked.

It is reported that the officers and crew of the Republica will desert and join Wandelkolk as soon as the steamer arrives at Rio Grande. The situation in Rio Janeiro is critical.

PROTECTION IS AMPLE.

Little Danger of Invasion From Yellow Fever Ravages.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Concerning the arrival of the British brig Darma, from Havana, in Hampton roads, with her captain dead and three of her crew down with yellow fever, Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service has this to say:

"The Cape Charles quarantine station is ample to handle any invasion of that kind. It consists of a house, tents and nurses on Fisherman's island, which is 30 miles from Old Point, and a mile or so from the seaward extremity of Cape Charles. The boarding of incoming vessels is done from the steamer Dagmar, which lies at Old Point. Anchored a mile off Newport News is the receiving ship Jamestown, capable of accommodating from 800 to 900 persons.

"She will be used for housing persons taken from infected vessels and hold the proper number of days. We have also the ex-revenue cutter Ewing, which lies in one of the fresh water creeks and may be taken some distance from the mainland at a moment's notice. The last on the list is the disinfecting steamer Robert Koch, called after the celebrated German physician. She is fitted with a sulphur blast furnace, tanks for holding a bichloride of mercury solution, with steam pumps, etc.

"There is not the slightest danger that the disease can spread inland to Washington, Baltimore, or any of the cities in touch with that part of the coast.

"The arrangements at the Cape Charles station are thorough and ample for handling arrivals of yellow fever or smallpox.

"In handling cholera they are not ample. A comparatively limited number of cases could be handled, but in case of the arrival of an infected ship containing 1000 to 1500 immigrants, the station would be utterly swamped. Even then, however, there would be no danger. Some of the patients would be cared for on Fisherman's island, and others on the Ewing, which could use as a hospital ship. The infected vessel, with the others, would be sent to the Delaware breakwater station, which is distant but four or five hours' sail, and has ample facilities.

"The work of placing the Cape Charles station in condition to handle any number of patients and suspects is proceeding rapidly. It will be completed in 30 days."

Editors on a Good Time.

BOSTON, July 14.—The Suburban Press association starts on its annual excursion tomorrow morning. The Isles of Shoals is the objective point. During the absence of the association its regular monthly meeting for discussion will be held.

CLEVER SAFE ROBBERS.

Drag the Strong Box Out to the Veranda and Blow It Open.

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 14.—A clever job of safe breaking was done at Old Orchard early this morning.

The Lawrence house, located on the sea wall, has been getting along thus far this summer without a night watchman, the proprietor intending to put one on when the season was further advanced.

This morning, when the clerk came down to the office, he missed the safe, an 800 pound affair that has long done duty behind the counter. He found the back door open, and going out, he saw the safe a total wreck on the back veranda.

The burglars had forced open a window, hitched a hammock rope to the safe, dragged it out on to the veranda, covered it with rugs and clothing to deaden the sound, and then drilled and blew it open without awakening a single guest or employe of the house.

The safe contained $800 in cash, together with a few articles of jewelry and some valued papers, all of which the burglars confiscated.

It was the most daring burglary Old Orchard ever knew, and there is no doubt that the men who did it are not only professionals, but were acquainted with the beach, and knew that no night watchman was employed at the hotel, which they selected for their operation. No suspicious characters have been seen about town, and the police are without a single clew with which to work up the case.

SAN SALVADOR'S RUMPUS.

Revolutionists Whipped and Censorship on News Established.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Herald's Panama correspondent cables: Advices have been received here of a revolutionary uprising in the capital of San Salvador. A battalion of the government forces, commanded by Colonel Flores, mutinied and proclaimed a revolution, the avowed purpose being to avenge Menendez and drive his assassin from power.

The revolutionists endeavored to get the artillery corps to join them, but the latter remained loyal to the government.

With the artillery under General Ezeta, an engagement was fought, in which the revolutionists were defeated after a short battle. Then the rebels capitulated.

In the engagement Colonel Flores was killed. His principal lieutenants are in prison, where they await court martial.

Senor Pedot was arrested later, and he is also imprisoned. Many civilians have also been implicated in the conspiracy.

Official reports have been promulgated by the government denying that any revolution is now in progress or that there is any outbreak and declaring that everything is now quiet.

Ezeta has established a censorship on any news relating to the outbreak, and no [illegible].

PARIS VERY QUIET.

Tame Observance of the Fall of the Bastile.

MEMBERS OF COUNCIL ARE SULKY.

Usual Celebrations Conspicuous by Their Absence.

PARIS, July 14.—Today is the 104th anniversary of the fall of the Bastile. The anniversary of this event in French history is usually celebrated with much rejoicing, the people generally observing the day as one of merriment. Today, however, the fetes in Paris have been marked with tameness, and the usual celebrations are conspicuous through their absence. This is due entirely to the feeling engendered by the recent riots. The municipal council, upon which heretofore much of the expense of the celebration has fallen, have taken no part in the observance of the anniversary this year. The members of the council, many of whom, if not actually known as socialists, have leanings in the direction of socialism, are still sulky because of the government's action in regard to the Labor exchange and at the threat to dissolve their body.

In view of these conflicts the council left the celebration in the hands of others, with the result that the decorations in the city are scarce and hardly worthy of notice. The night illumination of the city has been abandoned, and, altogether, the anniversary will be Noticeable For Its Lack of Observance.

The anarchists, with the usual pernicious activity that characterizes them, have taken advantage of the day to post incendiary placards on dead walls and other places about the city. The police are busy in searching out and destroying these flaming red posters.

A number of open air balls were held last night, but there was no reports of disorder. The anarchists have made many threats of what they intended to do today, going so far as to say that they would destroy the city with fire. The authorities are prepared for whatever overt acts they may attempt. The fire brigade and two regiments of troops are held in readiness to fight fire or the anarchists themselves, and it is the general opinion that the anarchists will confine themselves to threats and bluster.

President Carnot, who has been away from Paris on account of his health, has returned to the city. It is customary on the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile for the president to extend clemency to certain prisoners. In accordance with this custom, President Carnot today pardoned 819 convicts.

NECK WAS BROKEN.

Fatal Elevator Accident to a Well Known Portland Citizen.

PORTLAND, Me., July 14.—Thomas M. Dennett, a well known citizen of Portland, was instantly killed this forenoon in the boot and shoe warehouse of Charles J. Walker & Co. on Middle street.

Mr. Dennett had charge of the rubber department, and was riding up from the basement on the elevator. Before the first floor was reached he fell in a fainting fit, brought on by heart trouble, and lay prostrate on the elevator platform, which was rapidly rising. His head and neck projected over the platform, which was open one, and the neck was broken when the elevator reached the ceiling.

Mr. Dennett was about 50 years of age, and leaves a widow and two married daughters. He was a prominent member of the Grand Army and Knights of Honor.

CONTEST IMPENDING.

Effort Will Be Made to Break the Will of Late Mrs. Goddard.

ORANGE, Mass., July 14.—A contest of the will of the late Mrs. Asala P. Goddard, who died April 27, 1893, is impending. She left an estate variously estimated at $75,000 to $100,000, certainly not less than the smaller amount named.

Mrs. Goddard inherited all this from her husband, with a clean title and no objection. She had no very near relatives, only nephews and nieces to the number of 28. Some of these she made beneficiaries. Others she left out. It is these last who will contest the will, alleging undue influence. She also left $10,000 to this town, and some $30,000 to charity.

Patrick Kehoe Missing.

BOSTON, July 14.—The police are puzzling over the mysterious disappearance of Patrick Kehoe, who left his residence on Dix street, Dorchester, Wednesday morning, ostensibly for his work. He is a blacksmith, conducting a well established shop at Glover's Corner, and doing a large business. Upon his departure he did not appear to be out of his usual spirits, and kissed his wife a fond adieu. This was the last seen of him. His wife fears that her husband has committed suicide during a fit of despondency.

Fatal Freight Wreck.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 14.—Last night, at Henryville, a special freight train ran into the regular, causing a frightful collision. Engineer Shirley and Fireman Brookbank were fatally hurt. A car load of horses from the race course here were mangled in the wreck. The attendants, Bengal Ward and Douglas Wilkes, are missing. A man named Rayburn of New Albany, in charge of another car of horses, was killed.

French Day at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Today was French day at the fair, and the French residents of Chicago and the White city celebrated the anniversary of the fall of the Bastile in a joyous manner. There was plenty of speaking and music, and at noon over 200 invited guests sat down to dinner at the White Horse Inn, as the guests of the French commission. A reception followed at the French building.

Bogus Insurance Business.

BOSTON, July 14.—Thomas S. Degan has been placed under arrest by State Officer Rhodes and arraigned in the East Boston district court before Judge Emmons on the charge of conducting bogus insurance business. The case was continued to the 20th.

Held on a Charge of Forgery.

QUINCY, Mass., July 14.—In the district court this morning Joseph M. Wales of Boston was held in $1000 bonds for the superior court, on the complaint of Otis Bramhall, charged with forgery.

Lincoln Bank In Trouble.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 14.—The Nebraska savings bank of this city was taken charge of by the state banking board last night. It has deposits of about $110,000. It was embarrassed some months ago by the failure of the Capitol National bank, but secured an extension from its creditors. Failing to realize on securities, the directors voluntarily resigned.

Good Friends.

Cleverton—Have a cigar?

Dashaway—I don't care if I do, old man. I know it's a good one if you have it.

Cleverton—You flatter me.

Dashaway—No, I don't flatter you; I flatter your friends.—Truth.

IT SAVES BABIES' LIVES.

Thousands Owe Their Happiness To Lactated Food.

"Baby, what a lovely baby!"

Yes, when well fed, kicking and cooing, breaking forth into strangest speeches, fingers and toes all motion, and eyes all wonder.

But summer brings grave dangers.

Attention to diet is now imperative. There are diets suited to every age, to every climate.

For infants, healthy mother's milk is the ideal food, but when this is out of the question, an infant food, must be used that as closely as possible resembles healthy human milk. The experience of years has proven that the best substitute in the world is lactated food.

Its basis is the same as that of mother's milk; that is, sugar of milk; and with it are combined the nutritive qualities of the great cereals, wheat, barley, and oats, so prepared as to be readily digested and assimilated. The addition of the salts found in mother's milk makes lactated food perfect.

Little Mollie Ward is the charming daughter of Mr. M. P. Ward of Providence, R. I., who writes:

"It gives me pleasure to advise you that our little Mollie is just four years old today, and our youngest little girl, strange to say, is five months today, both being born on the third of the month. I think both of my babies owe their good health to lactated food. It is the best food for infants who cannot enjoy mother's milk, that there is on the market.

"Our babies have both thrived on it and when teething had very little trouble.

"I have recommended lactated food hundreds of times."

Mr. Otho L. Paine, 19 Edwin St., Providence, says:

"Our baby was born Jan. 28, 1891, and he has been fed with lactated food according to directions. It has agreed with him perfectly and he has grown like a weed, has not been sick since he was born. He cut all his teeth before he was eighteen months old, and today he is a perfect picture of health.

"Of course, like all parents, we think there is no baby like ours, but I believe it is through lactated food that he is what he is today, and I shall recommend it wherever I have a chance. I am thankful that it was recommended to us and for the results it has accomplished."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. T. Hale of Woonsocket, R. I., writes:

"Our baby was given up for lost by one of the doctors of this city, when we called in Dr. E. N. Kingsberry. He advised us to use lactated food. We did so. Our baby is now eight months old, weighs twenty-four and one-half pounds, and is in the best of health. We believe that lactated food saved our baby's life."

Mrs. Daniel Brown of Central Falls, R. I., says: "I have three of the most healthy little children in the state, and I must say they owe their health to having been brought up on lactated food, by the advice of one of the leading doctors in Pawtucket."

Mrs. Walter Sugrue, 111 Deane St., Providence, says: "Lactated food has done wonders for our baby. Before using it she was down to death's door and now is fat and rugged. It has saved her life! And we would recommend it to any one who has a baby."

Mr. John Doyle, 98 Richardson St., Providence, says that he tried four other foods and different cows' milk, all trying to save our oldest baby, but none of the above foods would rest upon her stomach and we were induced to try lactated food. It had the desired effect and she thrived wonderfully. She is now a healthy child.

"The doctor thought our younger baby would die, but lactated food was his best medicine, and he improved and has grown to be a very healthy boy. He cut his teeth in hottest weather."

Mr. C. H. Hopkins, 101 Doyle Ave., Providence, Mrs. Fannie E. Loxley, 109 Stansbury St., Mrs. C. W. Spence, 107 Atlantic Ave., Providence; Mrs. William J. Willis, Lonsdale; William H. Burdick, Niantic; Mrs. G. B. Shippee, Auburn; Mrs. George E. Hazzle, Canonchet; Mrs. Fannie B. Wager, Tiverton; and hundreds of other happy parents in Rhode Island wrote heartfelt unsolicited testimonials after their experience with this food during last summer's heat.

In 1893 no household with a baby in it should be without lactated food. It is inexpensive, pure, incomparable. jy15d

Miss Rena E. Sevin has returned from a visit with friends at Comstock's bridge and Willimantic.

Mr. Stephen B. Roath, of Chicago, arrived in town Friday, for his annual summer visit with Norwich relatives.

Mrs. Isaac Plant, of Meriden, accompanied by her son, Master Leo Plant, is visiting relatives in Thamesville.

Frank W. Loomis was officially appointed to the West Point cadetship for this congressional district Thursday.

The Rt. Rev. John Williams of the Connecticut diocese is spending the summer at his cottage at Brooklyn, Conn.

Sunday morning at 9 o'clock the steamer Ella will make an excursion to New London, Eastern Point and Watch Hill.

The Colchester base ball nine, who play the Clippers on the Greeneville grounds this afternoon, defeated the Meriden club last Saturday easily.

Miss Grace M. Smith, a graduate of the Free Academy Normal school, has accepted the position of teacher in the public school of Quincy, Mass.

Friday night the West Side street railway extension had been laid to a point about midway between Jewett Bros'. coal yard and the Richmond stove works.

A new telephone pole was erected on Main street near Central wharf on Friday. The tall pole on Water street, near the elevator building is also to be replaced by another.

Mr. Hilliard Bruce has a praiseworthy article on "Exercise with the indoor shot," in the current issue of The Young Men's Era, the national Y. M. C. A. paper.

Costello Lippett, treasurer of the Norwich Savings bank, has been elected secretary of the hospital for the insane at Middletown, to succeed J. N. Camp, deceased.

Mr. Everett J. Thompson, THE BULLETIN Associated Press typewriter Pada[illegible]rewski, is at home sick with pneumonia. Last evening he was as comfortable as could be expected.

A large number of local wheelmen will attend the meet of the Rockville Wheel club today, in which Zimmerman, Senger, Windle, Tyler, Nelson, Hess, Smith, Warren and the Murphy brothers are entered in the open events.

A good base ball diamond has been laid out in the rear of the Edgecomb house at Eastern Point, and a nine has been made up by the summer boarders. Captain Colt of the Academy nine recently caught a game for the Eastern Point team.

Miss Lillian Conant, Miss Mary A. Hovey and Miss Myra Parker have returned home from a delightful outing on Lake Chaugoggagoggmanchogagoggchaubunagoogamaug. The young ladies are in good health and are neither tongue tied nor have they been afflicted with lockjaw.

The Sunday school class of Mrs. J. Edwin Olcott, of the First Baptist church, went by the Block Island to New London Friday, and from thence by steamer Hattie to Bushy point, where several hours were pleasantly passed by the company. The party returned well pleased with their outing.

J. H. Ford's large four-horse ice wagon collapsed under a load of ice Friday morning. While descending the hill near the First Baptist church the right hind axle broke, letting the team to the ground. The ice was transferred to another wagon and finally reached the city.

The Merry Bachelors have engaged some of the best musicians in the city for their Sunday outing on the steamer City of Richmond. And some excellent concert music will be rendered while crossing the sound to New Haven. Everything possible will be done by the Bachelors to make the trip tomorrow a model one. Tickets will be for sale by members on the dock.

The New York Voice is going to publish an album of one hundred of the best known and most representative prohibitionists in the country, and they publish a list of 500 names for their readers to select the number from. Among the names are those of John A. Rockwell, George W. Swan, C. H. Northrop, U. H. Mead and Stephen W. Crane of N[illegible] George P. Rogers of New London, and [illegible] Lincoln and J. A. Lewis of Willimantic.

Died of His Injuries.

Charles F. Sistare, a former citizen of New London, who was injured in the railroad accident on the West Shore Thursday noon, died in St. Luke's hospital, Newburgh, N. Y., Thursday evening. Death was caused by a [illegible] rib and internal injuries. The body was taken in charge by relatives, who were present at the time of death.

Sistare was the son of Charles F. Sistare, for over twenty years deputy collector of the port of New London. He retired under a cloud about seven years ago. Young Sistare left that city a number of years since. He married a New London lady, who died a short time ago, leaving two children.

Temperance Day at Willimantic Camp.

Col. George W. Bain of Kentucky and Mrs. M. E. A. Gleason, state superintendent of scientific temperance instruction for Massachusetts, and the Rev. S. B. Forbes of Hartford, are to be the principal speakers at the Willimantic camp ground, temperance day, August 11.

The County Commissioners.

The county commissioners transferred several licenses during their session in this city Friday. They meet here again next Thursday.

Attorney William H. Shields has been chosen legal counsel for the board.

Persecuted a Girl.

A young girl was cowardly assaulted near the Bailey corner Friday afternoon by a stranger who seized her by the hair and attempted to detain her. Before reaching her home in Thamesville she again met this man, and a second time he confronted her, and it was only the publicity of the place that restrained him from violence. The girl could not identify her assailant, but believes him to be a dock laborer.

PUTNAM.

A Butterfly Social—The Shakespeare Club—Base Ball Today.

There was a jolly crowd of Congregationalist young people and friends at the butterfly social given on Mrs. J. W. Cutler's grounds on Elm street Friday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor. Fully 150 persons were in attendance, and a thoroughly good time was enjoyed. Cake, excellent sandwiches and fine ice cream were served the guests. The lawn was prettily decorated with lanterns. The committee in charge was under the direction of Miss Annie Cutler.

The Shakespeare club will meet this afternoon and evening at Roseland park. "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be read, and a general good time enjoyed.

The Putnam team will cross bats with the Websters today.

To Make Thirty Miles an Hour.

NEW YORK, July 14.—A new steam yacht, designed to beat the Norwood, Vamoose, Flossen, or, in fact, anything now afloat, has been quietly constructed during the winter at MacCarrack's yard at the foot of 28th street, South Brooklyn. She is about completed now, and will be launched in a day or so, when her engines and boilers will be put in place. The new boat, which is called the Rex, is being built for L. Bower & Sons, the former owners of the fast steam yacht Dandy, and if the expectations of Chief Engineer James Kaine, the designer of her boiler and engines, are realized she will make at least 30 miles an hour, which is miles faster than any boat now afloat can go.

The Rex's dimensions are as follows: Length over all, 64 ft.; length on the water line, 59 ft. 7 in.; beam, 7 ft. 6 in.; draught, 2 ft. 6 in. The motive power is furnished by a new patent steam generator capable of developing 150 horse power. Her engine, which is of the triple expansion type, it is said, will drive the 32 inch propeller 1,000 revolutions a minute. If the propeller does all that is claimed for it, the Rex should come pretty near doing the thirty miles an hour which the builders claim for her.

Cut in Two by a Mowing Machine.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 14.—William J. Cook, a Wales farmer, was [illegible] cut in two by his mowing machine [illegible] and died before aid could be summoned. He was mowing with a pair of horses that ran away, throwing Mr. Cook to the ground directly in front of the knives. One arm was severed from his body and a terrible gash cut in his side.

A Few Helpful Suggestions for Saturday Visitors to the Great Mid-Summer Sale now Going on Here.

Black Dress Goods.

Our salesmen have been kept busy this week measuring and cutting off the Black Mohairs. The supply is still large, but they won't last always. Get them while you can. Prices 39c. from 57½c—39c, from 50c—49c, from 59c.

You've heard of Bedford Cord, but you probably have never heard of all wool, 40 inch, Black Bedford Cord for 37½c a yard —100 yards in stock—about a dozen dress patterns.

Once upon a time we had about 1,000 yards of Novelty Black Dress Goods—price 75c. A few days ago we made the price 59c. As a result we have less than 500 yards to dispose of. Fourteen different styles—price 59c a yard.

Colored Dress Goods.

What shall the cotton gown be? Flanneletta, Scotch Zephyr or Scotch Gingham?

We have all them and at wonderfully little prices. For instance:

Flannelette 8c a yard, former price 12½c.

Scotch Zephyr 12½c a yard, former price 25c.

Scotch Gingham 12½ a yard, former price 25c.

Or if your preference is for the heavier woolen goods, note this item:

40-inch Bedford Cord, desirable shades, 31c a yard, former price 50c.

Print Department.

Roll call in the Print Department.

At 4c—Best Shirting Prints.

At 4 1-2c—Fine Printed Challies, black and white and light effects.

At 5c—Best Fancy Dress Prints, a host of desirable patterns.

At 8c—Best Dress Ginghams, former price 12½c.

At 9c—Limerick Lawns. Irish goods from Yankee looms.

At 12 1-2c—Zephyr Ginghams, formerly 20.

Garment Department.

Do you know the smallest thing out for Ladies' wear? Dame Fashion says: "White Duck Suits." We have them.

Each day that the sample line of Women's White Cotton Underwear is on sale it attracts new buyers. Customers come first from curiosity; their curiosity is changed to surprise at the marvelous values. Then they go home and tell their friends that Porteous & Mitchell have the finest line of Women's Cotton Underwear that they have ever seen in Norwich.

This kind of advertising counts more than newspaper notices because its influence is more direct.

There remains about 300 Garments, Drawers, Chemises, Night Gowns, etc., some low priced, medium priced and high priced.

Prices in every instance from 30 to 50 per cent. under the regular retail prices.

Bear in mind that every garment is different—no two alike in the entire lot.

Hosiery Department.

Take care! You'll never get a better chance.

More than 300 choice styles in Men's 4-in-hand Ties that were 50c, 75c and even $1—a choice of this lot for 39c each.

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

First Series of the Eastern Teams in the West Are Finished.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 16.—Inability to bunch hits on Rusie lost the game for Cleveland Saturday. It was a finely played contest, the fielders on both teams made brilliant stops. The work of McKean was particularly good. He made two running one-hand stops that were the best plays of the game. In the eighth inning Cleveland awoke to the fact that Rusie could be hit, but it was too late then to win. Rain before and during the game. Attendance 3,000. The score:

Cleveland..........[illegible]
New York..........[illegible]

Pittsburg 10, Washington 0.

PITTSBURG, July 16.—Pittsburg gave Washington a sound whipping Saturday, scoring every inning except the sixth and shutting the Senators out for the first time this year. Duryea was compelled to undergo one of the worst slaughters ever witnessed at Exposition park. Killen pitched in great form. Gaffney took McLaughlin's place and umpired without a protest. Attendance 3,750. The score:

Pittsburg..........[illegible]
Washington..........[illegible]

Louisville 5, Philadelphia 6.

LOUISVILLE, July 16.—The lucky Quaker City men again turned apparent defeat into a victory Saturday, defeating Louisville after a finely played ten-inning game. The score:

Louisville..........[illegible]
Philadelphia..........[illegible]

Chicago 5, Baltimore 1.

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Chicagos broke their record Saturday by winning three straight games from Baltimore, and are now in ninth place. Since Wilmot heard that Chicago had accepted the services of Frank of the Memphis team, as outfielder, he has been playing great ball. He made two triples today, scoring four runs. The "Colts" won the game hands down. Weather cloudy and hot. Attendance 2,750. The score:

Chicago..........[illegible]
Baltimore..........[illegible]

Cincinnati 4, Boston 7.

CINCINNATI, July 15.—Boston outbatted and outfielded the home team Saturday afternoon and won in rather easy style. The features of the game were home run drives by Canavan and "Jud" Smith. The weather was dark and threatening at the outset, but cleared before the game was finished. Attendance, 5,[illegible]. Score:

Cincinnati..........[illegible]
Boston..........[illegible]

St. Louis 5, Brooklyn 3.

ST. LOUIS, July 16.—Pitcher Kennedy went in again Saturday hoping to retrieve Friday's defeat. He was very successful up to the sixth inning, when the Browns opened on him. Daly and Corcoran made fearful errors, and four runs were scored. The Browns kept up the fun in the seventh and eighth. Kennedy pitched a winning game of ball, but his support was discouraging. Clarkson was [illegible]. Attendance 5,000. Score:

St. Louis..........[illegible]
Brooklyn..........[illegible]

The Larchmont Yacht Club Sail for New London.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 16.—The Larchmont Yacht club fleet weighed anchor about 7 o'clock this morning and pointed for New London. The vessel owners and captains of the fleet expressed themselves highly pleased with the reception tendered them by the Pequot association in Morris Cove. Tonight the flag of the Atlantic Yacht club rose over the Pequot club house and the members of the first named organization are being entertained in a befitting manner.

Suicide at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 16.—Daniel Dunan, a fireman employed at the Winchester Arms factory, committed suicide this afternoon by cutting his throat with a carving knife at his house, Asylum street. His wife has been ill for some time and this made Dunan despondent and caused him to drink heavily. A widow and one child survive him.

Horse Thieves at Cornwall, Conn.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 16.—Early this morning there was stolen from Fred Wilcox of Cornwall, a brown horse aged 7, weight 1,000 pounds with few white hairs on forehead; also a Corning buggy newly painted, a nickel-plated harness and a rubber plate harness valued at $50. No traces of the thieves.

Fire in a Naphtha Tank.

CLEVELAND, O., July 16.—Fire broke out this afternoon in a naphtha tank of the Standard Oil works near the Kingsbury Run bridge. Within a circuit of a few hundred feet were twenty large tanks filled with crude oil, gasoline and other inflammables. Thirteen streams of water were kept playing on the tank for fully an hour before the flames were extinguished. The loss amounted to several thousand dollars.

The German Army Bill Passed.

BERLIN, July 16.—The army bill was passed by the reichstag Saturday afternoon by a majority of 16, the vote standing 201 in favor of the measure to 185 against it.

Hawleyville Station Agent Killed.

DANBURY, Conn., July 16.—J. J. Grady, station agent at Hawleyville, was found on the tracks a few miles outside of the city this morning. He had been run over by a train and killed. It is supposed that he fell from a train. He was [illegible] years old and unmarried.

Stabbed by a Hollander.

COLLINSVILLE, Conn., July 16.—A Swede named Swenson was stabbed a dozen times last night by a Hollander named Poaski. The trouble arose over race prejudice. The surgeon tonight says that Swenson cannot live. Poaski has disappeared.

A Well-Earned Respite.

The Boston Journal after publishing President McLeod's order relieving Supt. Andrews of part of his duties, says: Mr. Andrews was born in Boston in 1819. In November, 1846, he became passenger agent of the Norwich & Worcester road, and until 1867 he was also accountant and corporation clerk. From 1867 to 1869 he was superintendent, and since the latter date has held the same position under the lease.

Secretary Herbert on the Thames.

Secretary of the Navy Herbert will visit the Thames naval station this morning. On his arrival at New London he will be met by Captain Belden and other officers of the Thames naval station and taken up the river on board the launch Lillie. Secretary Herbert will be accompanied only by his naval aide and will devote the greater portion of his time to an inspection of the yard and its surroundings as well as Long cove where it was intended at one time to make a fresh water basin for the cruisers.

The secretary served for several years prior to his appointment as chairman of the committee on naval affairs in the house and is thoroughly conversant with the needs of the station.

In Camp at Shelter Island.

Messrs. Edwin T. Harding, Charles Colt, Thomas H. Cranston and Charles F. Whitney are encamped near that part of Shelter Island known as Minot's point, a small boat landing about midway between Prospect wharf and Nostrand point, the latter having been the destination of two Norwich Sunday school excursions of last summer. The location is a very remote one, and one of the campers who recently returned to this city for a day said: "Hardly any one but the postmaster at the island knows where we are."

The camp is situated at the top of a low knoll, in the midst of a clump of trees that fringe the brow of this slight elevation. A Norwich gentleman who visited the camp recently almost lost his way in his endeavors to locate it. This seclusion, however, is exactly what the Norwich boys seek, and in which they find real enjoyment; not to say health and appetite. The weather, bathing and boating are reported as excellent.

Last Illustrated Lecture.

The Rev. Dr. Herr's illustrated lecture of last evening, in the Central Baptist church, concluded a series which, it may safely be said, has been more vividly illustrative of the life of Christ than any single discourse upon that subject previously given.

Not only have the prevailing incidents of the maturer years of that life been traced, but every detail, every motive which, in relation to it could convey its inspiration, has been exemplified.

Sunday evening's lecture dealt essentially with the resurrection and the ascension, both of which were portrayed by the most touching illustrations of the exit from the tomb, the parting from the little band of disciples and the final ascension into heaven. Mr. Phillips, by request, reproduced his dissolving view of the Rock of Ages, Miss Marion C. Otis accompanying with that beautiful hymn, played upon the organ.

Little need be said of the interest in these lectures manifested not only by the members of the church and congregation, but by the public at large, whose attendance is the best compliment to the excellence of the lectures.

AN ALL-NIGHT MISSION.

Colonel Hadley Wants One Established in This City.

The address delivered by Col. Henry H. Hadley on the dock Sunday, was the most telling that many of the men in the meeting had ever heard. The Colonel spoke for fifty minutes, after singing an opening solo.

The largest audience of the three Sundays gathered early to listen to this distinguished speaker from New York, who has been the organizer of twenty Rescue missions in different parts of this country. The speaker's words were marked with a fearlessness and courage of conviction that made their way far into the hearts of the listeners. He told something of his own experience, his slavery to the appetite for strong drink, and the circumstances of his rescue and conversion, weaving in the experiences of many others connected with the work.

He said he hoped the day would soon come when an all-night mission might be started and maintained in Norwich, where one hundred licensed saloons are at work, and not a place open for the poor drunkards to go to after they are kicked out at night, and in a condition to respond to and appreciate an uplifting hand and influence. The entire meeting was made thoroughly interesting with interspersed singing and other features.

Mr. Robert McMullen sang a solo with his old time fervor. The chorus was joined in heartily by the audience.

The speaker next Sunday will be City Missionary Swan of Norwich. The advantages of the surroundings at the dock meetings are realized more each Sunday, and judging from the large crowds that gather, these men's meetings are the popular services of the season.

Freight Cars Derailed—A Series of Concerts.

Shortly before 5 o'clock Saturday morning three freight cars were derailed at Pomfret. The cause of the accident was due to a headstone which fell from a platform car beneath the wheels.

Frank Learned and James Kent started for the World's fair Saturday.

The Shakespeare club enjoyed a social time, at Roseland park Saturday. All the members were present and "Midsummer Night's Dream" was read. The club had a pleasant day's outing.

Three concerts will be given at Roseland park, beginning next Saturday.

Augustus H. Barnaloe, 18 years of age, and of good family, was arrested in Worcester Friday night by Inspectors Stone and O'Day, charged with stealing a bicycle and diamond stud valued at $60, and other valuable jewelry from a brother-in-law in Worcester. A ticket was found in his pocket which showed that he had pawned the stud for $20. From other pawn tickets and from his own story it is evident that he has been making a business of stealing. He will be held for trial.

LATE HAWAIIAN HAPPENINGS.

Capture of Twenty-three Lepers in the Kalleala Valley.

A LEPER MURDERER ESCAPES.

Orders Issued to Bring in Affected Persons Dead or Alive.

HONOLULU, via SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—The celebration of the Fourth of July, the capture of twenty of the twenty-three lepers in the Valley of Kalleala, Island of Kauai, the last full and clear report on Hawaiian finance by Minister Damon and the holding for trial of two out of the three conspirators are the foremost happenings here since the last mail.

The steamer Waialeale arrived on July 4, bringing 16 lepers and official dispatches to the government from the expedition sent to the valley of Kalleala to capture the leper murderer of Sheriff Stolz, and removing the remaining lepers to the island of Molokai. Martial law was proclaimed and all outlets from the valley were closed with extra guards. Fifteen lepers surrendered to the expedition at Hanalei, two lepers had already been captured at Waimea Pass by the police. These had been driven off the valley by the leper Koolau, because they refused to join and fight the government forces. Koolau, the leper murderer, accompanied by seven others, four men, two women and one child, have retreated up the side of a steep valley, where they are hiding and declare they will make a stand if followed up by the troops. Koolau told a leper spy that they could escape over a trail known only to the lepers, provided they could reach it; otherwise they would fight to the last and then kill themselves before they would surrender. On July 8 orders were forwarded by steamer Iwalani to bring the lepers in dead or alive. The government expects the steamer Iwalani tomorrow to bring in the last of Kauai lepers who have defied the government for the past ten years. All will be removed to the settlement at Molokai.

RAILROAD OFFICIALS CENSURED.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury in the West Shore Disaster.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 16.—The coroner's jury in the West Shore disaster has, after deliberating, returned a verdict. That [illegible] the cause of the accident was [illegible] the [illegible] or neglect of [illegible] Donahue was held [illegible] and also censured the officials of the New York & Hudson River Railroad, [illegible] for not employing competent men for holding such responsible positions.

Recorder McKinnery has committed Donahue for preliminary examination.

Another Meriden Concern to Start Up.

MERIDEN, July 16.—E. B. Manning, president of the Manning & Bowman company, granite iron ware manufacturers, says their shop will start up on full time, six days a week, Monday. He says that they have received more orders since July 1 than in two years during the same period.

The Richmond's Excursion.

The steamer City of Richmond carried a large crowd to New Haven Sunday. The day was a most enjoyable one, the sail both going and coming was delightful, the three hours' stay at the Elm city was full of interest, and it is doubtful if any one of the large party ever had a pleasanter outing. President Mahan and the officers of the boat did their utmost to appease the wants and ensure the welfare of all on board. It was more like a huge family reunion than an ordinary excursion. There wasn't a sign of drunkenness or an incident to mar the pleasure of the day. The vessel put in here at 11 o'clock last night.

Tuesday the Richmond takes an excursion from New Haven to Bay Ridge, Wednesday from Middletown to Crescent Beach, and Thursday from Hartford to Watch Hill, and Saturday from Hartford to New York and Coney Island.

BASE BALL.

A Small Attendance, But a Good Game—The Clippers Win.

Those who attended the Clipper-Colchester game at the Greeneville grounds Saturday afternoon saw a first-class game of ball. The Colchester team arrived a little late, but the game began immediately on their appearance.

The Clippers were first at the bat, and were retired in short order. The Colchesters were disposed of just as quickly in their turn. During the first four innings neither side scored. In the fifth each team made a run. In the sixth, by good batting, the Clippers made two runs and clinched the game. The final score was four to two in favor of the Clippers.

Both teams were on their mettle and held the spectators' interest until the last man was out in the ninth inning. The feature of the game was O'Brien's playing at third. He played his position in "Jerry Denny" style, making two difficult one hand stops and catching a difficult fly with one hand, completing a double play by throwing the ball to Lucy on first. The last named play was liberally applauded.

The Clippers play the White Rocks next Saturday and deserve a good attendance. Score:

Middletown Business Men Organize.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 16.—Forty firms have organized a business men's association and elected Henry Barnhard, president; H. L. Barton, secretary; T. F. Nolan, treasurer, and an executive committee of seven. Its object is to increase the interests of the city and protect the trade.

Was a Rector in This City.

The Rev. Henry A. Adams, formerly rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church of Buffalo, and later of the Church of the Redeemer, of New York, who has joined the Roman Catholic church, is well remembered in this city as the rector of St. Andrew's church, Greeneville, several years ago. Sunday's New York newspapers printed his long letter giving his reasons for the change of religious faith.

Mr. Adams is now at Islip, L. I.

TUMBLED OUT BEHIND.

A Sunday Afternoon Accident on the Laurel Hill Bridge Grade.

When Frank Chevalier, a saloon keeper in the Hartley block on Franklin street, and Fred Bochard, a Taftville mill employe, started out Sunday afternoon for a few hours fishing at Fort Point with two companions, they occupied the hind seat in a local livery wagon. The driver suddenly snapped the whip while they were going up the Laurel Hill bridge hill, and as the horse bounded forward the two rear occupants and the seat toppled over backward.

Bochard escaped with a bruised head and body, but his friend was not so fortunate, and lay helpless on the ground. The ambulance was summoned and Chevalier was taken to his home on lower Franklin street. Dr. G. R. Harris set a broken hip a short time after his arrival.

WHEELMEN AT ROCKVILLE.

Fast Riding at the Second Annual Meet of the Cycling Club.

The second annual race meeting of the Rockville Wheel club was held at Hyde park Saturday afternoon, with an attendance of 3,000, also the second meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Cycling club, which includes clubs in New London, Norwich, Willimantic and Rockville. It was the largest gathering of fast wheelmen this season in New England, including Zimmerman, Sanger, Windle, Tyler, Nelson, Hess, Hayland, Smith, C. M. Murphy and George Smith. Sanger rode around the track a number of times before the races and then announced that he positively refused to race, claiming that the track was in poor condition. This caused great disappointment, as a meeting between Zimmerman and Sanger was surely expected.

The one-half mile open brought out all the fast men. Zimmerman secured a bad start, and Tyler won the race after a sharp contest with Windle. The one mile handicap open was of much interest on account of Zimmermann's past record, but it was impossible for him to overcome the 175 yards handicap. The officers awarded him a $65 diamond for good time. The one mile open was run twice, as it was not run within the time limit. Windle and Tyler did not start. The last race, the L. A. W. championship, was declared off, not being within the time limit. In the half mile handicap for members of the Eastern Connecticut Cycling club, Snow and Bissell had a collision, but were not seriously hurt. Snow's wheel was smashed.

The one-mile novice was won by A. A. Alling, New Haven; time, 2 40 1 5; Edward Garland, Hartford, second.

The Eastern Connecticut Cycling club team race was won by the Rockville Wheel club in twenty points; time, 2 50 1-5; Willimantic, second.

The one-mile handicap for Connecticut riders was won by George Thatcher (30 yards), New Haven; time, 2.26; C. R. Newton, Stafford, second.

The half mile handicap, Eastern Connecticut Cycling club, was won by S. G. Baker, Willimantic; time, 1.12 3 5.

The one-mile handicap, open—Won by George Thatcher (150 yards); time, 2 19; Charles Newton, Springfield, second; Zimmermann (scratch), third; time, 2 28.

One mile championship (scratch), Eastern Connecticut Cycling club—Won by F. J. Snow, Rockville; G. E. Hinman, Willimantic, second.

One-mile open—Won by Zimmermann; time, 2.27 1-5; E. A. Nelson, Springfield, second.

One-mile, open handicap, Eastern Connecticut Cycling club—Won by George E. Hinman (30 yards), Willimantic; time, 2.40.

Cattle Dehorning Justified.

The case of the State of Connecticut against Benjamin Hewitt, the Southern Connecticut cattle dehorning proceedings, was tried in the Stonington Town court Saturday, and the defendant was declared not guilty.

New Croquet Building.

Arnold & Hiscock this week begin the construction of the new National Croquet association club house on the Rockwell grounds. It will be a plain, one story and a half structure, 20x18 feet in size, facing the woods on the east of the premises, and with a deep piazza traversing the entire front. The building will be located a trifle south of the center of the grounds.

The forthcoming tournament promises to be the most successful in the history of the association.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Dr. Howe's Baccalaureate Sermon.

The Rev. S. H. Howe, D. D., has returned from a visit to Crete, Nebraska. While there he delivered the baccalaureate address to the graduating class of Doane college.

The current issue of The Congregationalist speaking of commencement at Doane college, says: "The baccalaureate sermon by Dr. S. H. Howe of Norwich, Conn., was a chivalrous plea for higher ideals—physical, mental, moral, and especially spiritual. Love, service, sacrifice must have large place. The highest legal requirement of the olden time, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' becomes for us in the new order of higher spiritual growth, Thou shalt love thy neighbor better than thyself."

City Court.

The continued case against Philip Davidson, charged with breach of the peace, was called at the Saturday morning session of the city court. The case was recontinued until this morning, Davidson giving a bond of $200.

Ross Rock, for drunkenness, was sent to jail for thirty days and taxed costs, $7 98.

P. Fitzgerald was arraigned for disturbing the peace. He was fined $5 and costs, $13 10. Appealed.

J. Broderick was convicted of the same offence, and fined $3 and costs, $9.32. Appealed.

THE PAY OF TRAINMEN.

Raised on One Division, Reduced Elsewhere, and Now Equalized.

The pay of trainmen of the Stonington and Worcester divisions of the Consolidated road have been reduced, and the pay of trainmen on what was the Old Colony division, and now the Providence, has been correspondingly raised, to place the three divisions on an equal footing.

Conductors on the Stonington previously received $3 90 a day; they now get $3 50. Those on the Old Colony were previously paid $3.25, and they now receive $3 50.

The pay of other trainmen has been equalized in the same manner. The pay of Consolidated trainmen west of New London remain the same.

Hints for Water Consumers.

Since ignorance of the law excuses no one, water consumers may find valuable hints in Rule VIII of the water commissioners, as set forth in the city ordinances.

"Street and building front sprinklers, or garden hose, may be used between the hours of five and eight o'clock a. m. and five and eight o'clock p. m. and at no other time. They shall not be converted into jets, or be set up for spray, or the water suffered to run to waste, or leak, or be used to wash filth of gutters or streets down upon neighbors, or into reservoir basins, or sewers, or to throw floods of water into the streets, or upon grounds, or to be used in any unnecessary or excessive manner, under penalty of five dollars."

WILLIMANTIC CAMP GROUND.

The Attendance Not Expected this Season to be Up to the Average.

Several cottages are still for sale or to rent on the Willimantic camp grounds, and it is generally acknowledged that the attendance will be smaller than usual. This is not due to any decline in the popularity of this resort, but to the same state of things which is affecting all eastern resorts, the presence of cottagers at the World's fair.

Under the care of Superintendent Horie, the camp ground is kept unusually free from dead leaves and rubbish of various kinds. He is engaged in grading the avenues.

Mrs. C. L. Harwood, wife of Mayor Harwood of Norwich, and her sister, Mrs. Bullock, are occupying their cottage until the early part of next week.

Richard and Morrell Currier arrived from Boston with their families Friday.

The Kenney cottage, on Wesley circle has been opened for the season.

Mrs. John M. Newton and her mother, Mrs. Finley, both from Norwich, were among Friday's arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Root of New London drove to the camp Friday evening.

BRIDGES ACROSS THE SHETUCKET.

What a Century and a Half Has Required —Bridges Built by Lottery.

Laurel Hill people who for the past three months have picked their way between hummocks of sand and cobblestones, or, Blondin-like, have walked a plank over the eddying river in their progress across the new bridge, are perhaps unaware of the trouble which this spanning of the Shetucket has for over a century given the city.

As long ago as 1737 Capt. William Whiting obtained a loan of £80 from the town treasury to enable him to build a free bridge in the same spot. When, later on, a subscription of £120 was raised to enable him to meet the payment of this loan, he stated that the structure had cost him £350, so was permitted to remunerate himself by a toll upon travelers. After six years, Whiting's bridge having sagged so as to be unsafe, it was repaired by Lieut. John Edgerton, who was recompensed by the toll for the space of three years. In 1748 this bridge was condemned.

Three years later the town voted to "join with Mr. John Edgerton in a memorial to the general assembly to grant a lottery for the making of a great bridge over the mouth of the Shoutuckett, toll free."

The lottery was granted, and Edgerton's bridge built. It was 200 feet long, cost £4,000, and notwithstanding its charter that it should be free, permission to take toll was granted by the general assembly. It was swept away by the freshet of 1762.

A newspaper item for June 29, 1764, describes the next bridge: "Laffingwell's bridge over Shetucket river at Norwich Landing is completed. It is 124 feet in length, and 29 feet above the water. Nothing is placed between the abutments, but the bridge is supported by geometry work above, and calculated to bear a weight of 500 tons. The work is by Mr. John Bliss, one of the most curious mechanics of the age. The bridge was raised in two days and no one hurt. The former bridge was 23 days in raising."

In 1777 this bridge was much injured by floods, so that in the following year the town petitioned the legislature for leave to raise money by lottery for the erection of a new bridge. This lottery, which was drawn the first Monday in March, 1779, was managed by Christopher Leffingwell, Jacob DeWitt, William and Benjamin Coit, Jeremiah Halsey and Roger Sterry—the last two of Preston. A site could not be agreed upon, and this bridge was not built until 1784.

Freshets injured this structure also, and in 1803 it was condemned. A fifth bridge—built also by lottery—served the town for twelve or thirteen years.

In 1819 it being decided that the "geometry bridge" was too far gone to be repaired, the general assembly was petitioned for permission to open a new highway and span the river at a safer point; in 1817 the Norwich and Preston Bridge company erected a toll bridge nearly half a mile higher up the river. A road leading to it—East Main street—was opened.

In 1868 John W. Stedman, Henry Bill, Thomas Robinson and others who were interested in the development of Laurel Hill built by subscription, a $4,000 covered bridge in the precise spot chosen by Whiting in 1737. This bridge was turned over to the town in 1860. The iron bridge was built in 1868, doing service for 25 years, or until the erection of the present structure so fast nearing completion.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Bulletin assumes no responsibility for communications printed under the above heading. No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

Unwarranted Delay.

MR. EDITOR:—Will the Laurel Hill bridge ever be opened to public travel. The public have been inconvenienced long enough. It is now near two and a half months since, the structure was commenced, to be finished in thirty days. It seems our far-sighted first selectman made no provision in the contract for foot travel over the bridge during the construction. Of course the Berlin Bridge company took advantage of this, hence the bridge has been dragging along until this time; but now we have struck another snag. When the bridge was about ready to be opened our expert engineer who has been superintending the same, discovered that the granite blocks taken off the piers were not good granite enough to be put back, consequently the bridge company have been obliged to send to a quarry to have some cut out that will suit this expert, and now we are waiting for the stone to the inconvenience of hundreds of people and teams. There is no estimate that can be made that will cover the loss to teams and the inconvenience to the public generally, for the delay. I am surprised that the people have not called a town meeting and denounced the whole business. I think we shall be surprised when the bill comes in for the bridge, and don't believe that the town will have any medals struck off to present to the Berlin Bridge company, the selectman or the expert engineer on construction and stone.

JUSTICE.

OUTLOOK GLOOMY.

Nicaragua Has a Serious Rebellion on Hand.

GOVERNMENT SUPPORT DIVIDED.

Insurrection Rapidly Spreading—Rebels Have Both Arms and Men.

NEW YORK, July 16.—The Herald's Managua, Nicaragua, correspondent cables: The outlook here is very gloomy. There is a split between the Conservatives and the Liberals. A conference was held between them, which continued all day Thursday and into Friday morning.

Granada enthusiastically supports the government, but in Managua there is not much encouragement, only few proclaiming themselves, and those are feeble and lukewarm in their support.

Meanwhile the revolution is spreading rapidly. The rebels have captured the towns of Corinto and Chinandega.

Colonel Ortiz, leader of the revolutionary party, was recently military governor of Leon. He is poor. When he was becoming unpopular and was being deserted by the citizens of Leon he Proclaimed Himself President.

This was not received with enthusiasm, and as the majority of the Nicaraguans are in favor of General Zavala, who is a Progressist, and is an energetic and prominent leader, many of the chiefs and officers of the last revolution are lukewarm and are not actively aiding the new outbreak.

The revolutionists have about 10,000 well armed men, and the government has about 7,000 rifles and two batteries of Krupp guns. Momotombo has been fortified by the revolutionists. Here they have five lake steamers, while the government has but one.

It is reported that General Avilas, commander in chief of the Nicaraguan army, has escaped from Leon. The government has closed the port of Corinto.

SEEKING OZONE.

Suburban Press Association at the Isles of Shoals.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 16.—The members of the Suburban Press association reached here on a special train from the eastern division station of the Boston and Maine railroad, Saturday, for the Isles of Shoals. The party, comprising about 25 moulders of public opinion, with their wives and daughters, stop at the Oceanic House over Sunday returning to Boston tomorrow morning.

Saturday afternoon the association held a discussion on "Elements of What Constitute a Good Newspaper Report and the Relative Value of Headlines and Paragraphs." Today the party will make several trips among the beautiful islands, visiting the lighthouse on Star Island, the old chapel and other places of interest. The journey to the Maine coast is annually made by the association in July, the regular monthly meeting in the city being omitted.

President George M. Whitaker of the New England Farmer has charge of the party, which includes the following papers: Springfield Union, Easthampton News, Lawrence Eagle, Journal of Education, Everett Herald, Mansfield News, Franklin Sentinel, Medford Mercury, Malden Mirror and the Pawtucket Gazette.

SACAZA'S OPINION.

Does Not Believe Machado's Townsmen Would Go Back on Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—General Robert Sacaza, who says he is president of Nicaragua, was seen in regard to dispatches from Nicaragua, stating that General Machado, who succeeded Sacaza as president, and General Avilas had been made prisoners in Leon, and that the revolutionists had taken possession of the military barracks and three steamers on Lake Managua.

"I have had no dispatches from Nicaragua," said General Sacaza, "and I only know what I have read in the papers about the alleged revolution. My opinion is, however, that there can be no revolution.

"Leon, the place where it is said to have taken place, is the home of the acting president, Machado. He has lived there all his life, and has been senator from there. I am very certain his own people would not go back on him."

FELL OVERBOARD.

Wealthy New Yorker Finds a Watery Grave Near Liverpool.

LONDON, July 15.—The steamer Umbria, Captain McKay, from New York, July 8, for Liverpool, arrived here at 3 o'clock Saturday morning. She reports that one of her passengers, Ascher Weinstein, a wealthy New Yorker, of 808 Lexington avenue, fell overboard from the saloon deck at 6 o'clock Friday morning.

The steamer was stopped as soon as possible, and a boat went in search of Weinstein, but he was not found. It is presumed that he fell overboard accidentally. His money and valuables were on his person when the accident occurred.

LIQUOR SMUGGLING.

Aroostook County People Suffer from Lawlessness Caused by It.

BANGOR, Me., July 16.—There is at present going on in Aroostook county a great agitation about the smuggling of liquor over the Canadian border and the enforcement of the laws against selling liquor in this state.

The execution of the laws passed in the interest of temperance and the suppression of the liquor traffic in this state is beset with difficulties under any circumstances, but when it comes to handling the boundary line liquor dealer, the law seems to be entirely powerless. Such advantages and privileges as the dividing line between this country and Canada confers on the liquor dealer are not enjoyed by any of his class elsewhere in either country. He pays no tribute to any government for the privilege of carrying on his traffic, and renders no equivalent whatever for the injury his business may inflict on the community.

There is great lawlessness in this line on the border, and it is said that a systematic raid will be made by the officers soon, with the view of clearing out these places. This liquor business has become a great evil, and the people feel that the two governments concerned ought to be able to rid their common boundary of this illegal traffic. On this side of the line the officers have been zealous in enforcing the law; but no sooner is a shop cleaned out than a worse one springs up just over the line.

One of the worst along the whole border is kept by "Jake" Pike, who runs a den just over the boundary line near Houlton. This place is the resort of toughs of all sorts for miles around, who fight and carouse and raid neighboring farms. They are generally armed, and have proved a terror to the neighborhood. A posse is to be formed, and the extermination of the business is threatened.

GLOOMY PROSPECT.

Shops and Mills in Holyoke and Springfield Shutting Down.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 16.—The prospect for the laboring classes in this section for the summer are of the most dismal character.

At Holyoke the reports gathered by a reporter from the proprietors and agents at the various corporations show that many of the principal industries will be shut down until the outlook for sales is better.

Work on the large addition to the Hampden Glass company's plant has been suspended. The foundation for the addition to the Merrick Thread company's mill is nearly completed, and it is reported that further work will be postponed.

The Connecticut River paper mill has shut down indefinitely and will not start without cash orders.

The Springfield Blanket company closed their mills Saturday for an indefinite period.

One of the machines in the mills of the Holyoke Paper company has been shut off from the power.

Gilbert Potvin discharged all but three of his men Friday. Casper Ranger discharged 17 men Friday.

The Carew paper mill at South Hadley Falls has been closed indefinitely, and the Keating Wheel Manufacturing company has discharged all but a few employes, who are in the repairing department.

The Agawam Paper company at West Springfield, the largest paper manufacturing concern in that town, gave notice of a shut down Friday night. They were unable to inform the workmen when they would start up again.

POISONING SUSPECTED.

First a Farmer's Wife and Then His Children Die Suspiciously.

DAYTON, O., July 16.—The wife of Emanuel Trubbs, a prosperous farmer on the Yenia pike, four miles from this city, was taken suddenly ill about two years ago and died. Her death was unexpected, and the peculiar nature and suddenness of her illness created some comment. The affair, which left Mr. Trubbs a widower and five children motherless, was almost forgotten in the neighborhood, when an incident occurred which vividly recalled the death of Mrs. Trubbs.

Two weeks ago one of the children died under exactly the same puzzling circumstances as were developed in the sickness of the mother. Since then two others have passed away, and the two surviving children are suffering with the same symptoms exhibited in the preceding deaths.

The physicians in attendance stated that they discovered strong evidence of corrosive poisoning. The affair is being investigated by the authorities.

TURNSTILES WILL CLICK.

Christian Endeavorers Will Now Crowd the World's Fair Grounds.

BOSTON, July 16.—Secretary Baer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor Saturday sent the following telegram:

BOSTON, July 15.

H. N. Higginbotham, President World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago: Accept congratulations. You will never regret your action of yesterday, and the click of your turnstiles will be heard in the land, made merrier than ever by thousands of Christian Endeavorers. No longer antagonistic nor indifferent, but heartily enthusiastic. I, for one, mean to do everything in my power to make the fair a financial success.

JOHN WILLIS BAER.

Bishop Likely to Be Deposed.

NEW YORK, July 16.—Charges have been made at Rome against Bishop Matz of the Catholic diocese of Denver, whose policy on the school question has been condemned. It is said the case will be referred to Mgr. Satolli and that Bishop Matz will probably be deposed. The priests who are opposing the bishop have already selected candidates to succeed him.

Will Not Meet Demands.

VIENNA, July 16.—Count Taafe has prepared and will introduce in parliament a bill to create 12 labor chambers, which will be empowered to return 24 deputies to the Austrian lower house. The newspaper organs of the workingmen say that this concession will not suffice to meet the demands of universal suffrage.

Despondency and Laudanum.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 16.—Roswell H. Reynolds, a teamster, 40 years of age, committed suicide at his home by taking laudanum. He had been low spirited since the death of his wife a short time ago, and it is supposed that despondency caused him to take his life.

Three Days Per Week.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., July 16.—It is expected that the Rock Manufacturing company, one of the largest woolen companies in New England, will reduce its working time to three days per week on account of dullness in the trade. The company employs 400 hands.

Killed the Judge.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 16.—A sensational tragedy occurred in the courtroom at Tabasco Thursday. An outlaw named San Francisco Rodrigues had been tried and found guilty, and the judge had just finished reading the sentence when the prisoner drew a pistol and discharged it at the magistrate. The bullet took effect, killing the judge instantly.

CROWN AND SCEPTER.

The king of Italy, like his famous father, Victor Emmanuel, only takes one meal a day.

It is not commonly known that when the Prince of Wales visits a theater he invariably pays 10 guineas for his box. This is a fixed rule.

The German emperor recently issued an order that no sermon preached before him by a court chaplain must exceed 15 minutes in delivery.

Prince Krapotkin, who will visit this country in the fall, is, despite his noble birth, one of the most active nihilists in Europe and a bosom friend of Stepniak. The prince is a man of profound learning and stands high as a scientist.

The three rings which Queen Victoria prizes most highly are her wedding ring, which she never takes off, an enamel serpent which the prince consort gave her as an engagement ring and a small enamel ring with a diamond in the center which he gave her when she was 16.

The queen regent of Spain is a magnificent swimmer and very fond of the exercise. Every day in the season at San Sebastian, where the members of the royal family spend their summers, the seashore is thronged with spectators to witness her majesty's really remarkable feats.

Everywhere in her travels the Princess of Wales excites the wonder and admiration of the people on account of her youthfulness in figure and face. Not infrequently the slender woman in the simple black skirt just clearing the ground, the loose coat and blouse and sailor hat, the princess, is mistaken for her own daughter.

THE JEWEL CASKET.

The summer scarfpin seems more prominent than that of winter.

Bonbon spoons of silver filigree have the bowls shaped like scallop shells. Others are shovel shaped.

Filigree silver, delicate as soap bubbles, has appeared in every form. It is the poetry of silver work.

Sword hilts are now affixed as handles to paper knives and button hooks, and are enjoying another term of popularity.

Bonbon boxes of silver filigree are formed of fine lines turning and twisting on themselves and as delicate as a spider's web.

Candlesticks of silver filigree intended for tapers are flower shaped and have long fern leaves turned on themselves for handles.

The woven metal belts are preferred for round waists and colored house dresses. Byzantine styles are always good. Belts made of medallions and flat silver rosettes are attractive.

The white enamel buttons with a linen finish are among the most refined of the sleeve buttons brought out this summer. They are double and different. A jewel set in the one most conspicuously shown is desirable.

The bursting suns, which are now among the most popular forms of diamond jewelry, have a later and even more frantic outcome. The waving rays are alternately turned twice, as is seen in leaf forms, and at the end of the straighter rays is a jewel as if thrown off from the tip. The effect is very rich.—Jewelers' Circular.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Lost children in Japan do not long remain astray. It is the custom for parents to label their children with their addresses, so that in case they wander any wayfarer may send them home.

Suspected persons as they stand at the paying teller's window in the Bank of France are instantaneously photographed. A camera is always in position and is operated upon a signal from the teller.

The Corean does not have the trouble of carrying his umbrella in his hand. It is like an ordinary umbrella in shape, only it is smaller and has no handle. It is made of oiled paper and is worn on the head over the hat.

At the royal library in Berlin is a collection of the ear trumpets and other instruments used by the great composer, Beethoven, in his futile attempts to overcome the deafness which assailed him in 1797 and rendered him incapable of hearing for 30 years, until his death.

EDUCATIONAL ECHOES.

There are 15,170 free schools in England and Wales, with 3,499,577 children.

Oberlin college has one woman in its faculty—Mrs. A. A. F. Johnston, professor of medieval history.

It is expected that President Cleveland will attend the celebration of the Williams college centenary, which occurs next October.

B. I. Gilman, lecturer in psychology at Clark university, has been chosen a curator of the Boston Art museum and will begin the duties of that position in the fall.

Mrs. William Stone of the Cooper Union has gone to Boston to take charge of a department in the Museum of Fine Arts at a much higher salary than she received in New York.

The Vassar Junior society had a debate on woman's suffrage, and no one could be found to support the negative who believed in it. There were but three girls in the class of '94 that were opposed to the suffrage for women.

FLOWER AND TREE.

The cost of establishing a nutmeg plantation is very high, and for 10 years at least there can be no return.

Cocos weddeliana is considered the handsomest of the small palms for the house fernery, table or mantel.

A new London violet called the "Wellsiana" has a hairy leaf and a deliciously scented flower so large that it can no longer be designated "modest," and it flourishes not "in green and shady beds," but in open borders.

The two largest apple trees in New York are near the town of Wilson. The largest was planted in 1818 and yielded 33 barrels of apples in a single season. The other is on the farm of J. G. O. Brown and yielded 30 barrels of "choice" fruit and 5 barrels of "culls" in a season.

The Bulletin.

Liquid Air.

So quietly that few are aware of its full import has one of the greatest chemical achievements of all time been lately accomplished. The discovery of a process by which common air can be reduced to a liquid form is a victory for science with which it may well be satisfied to round up the nineteenth century. Professor James Dewar has found that by the application of a cold so intense that we can scarcely conceive of it—200 degrees below Fahrenheit's freezing point—the gaseous air becomes a liquid which can be poured in and out of bottles like water. He has solved, too, the problem, finally, of what makes the sky blue. Under his experiment the nitrogen of the air is turned into a colorless liquid, while the oxygen becomes a liquid of a faint exquisite blue color. The blue of the sky is therefore caused by a blue tinge to its oxygen, and as we look upward through miles of this cerulean gas we get the shining blue of the sky.

It is to be inferred that the different forms of matter are due to the degree of heat that permeates their particles. Reasoning from the discovery of Professor Dewar, scientific men say that if the earth's heat were suddenly withdrawn the oxygen of our atmosphere would suddenly fall in a mighty ocean all over the earth and submerge it with a blue liquid to the depth of 35 miles. Still more daring speculators wonder whether, after all, the celebrated theory may not be true that there is only one original substance and all the others are merely different forms of the original.

The side of Professor Dewar's great discovery in which the public is most interested, however, is the practical uses to which liquid air may be put—whether in future it may serve as important a part in ministering to our health, comfort and convenience as certain other liquefied gases have already done. One of these which is put to many uses is liquefied carbonic acid; another is liquefied ammoniacal gas. Street cars have already been propelled by both these gases. The sudden liberation of these from tremendous pressure causes mechanical motion.

Professor Dewar predicts that when the airship becomes a success it will be driven by liquefied gases. Certain it is that in a very few years the troublesome, sloppy and expensive practice of taking ice to keep food cool in hot weather will be done away with, and people will cool their refrigerators by liquefied gases. When it returns to the gaseous state it takes from the surrounding air such vast quantities of heat that it cools everything in its vicinity. Either small machines for releasing the gases will be adapted for use in every family refrigerator, or else pipes from a central plant will run not only to the refrigerator, but through the whole house, cooling all the atmosphere.

In a paper in The North American Review Professor R. Ogden Doremus says that the best disinfectants are liquid chlorine or sulphurous acid. Sulphurous acid is produced by the burning of sulphur. They can be carried in bottles and liberated in rooms where contagious diseases have held their victims, and the air will be purified. He says that enormous quantities of chlorine gas will completely disinfect anything from a cholera ship to a surgical ward.

A Suggestion to Royalty.

It is not worth while to waste much sympathy over foreign potentates, even though their crowned heads are unusually uneasy just now. If the worst comes to the worst, they can abdicate; there is no insurmountable bar to prevent it. And yet a case of abdication is extremely rare. What was called the abdication of Charles V was but a resignation, as he only gave up his hereditary dominions in favor of his son, Philip II. A monarch is properly said to abdicate his throne when he entirely and simply renounces all his pretensions to kingly authority, either for himself or his successors. Great monarchs used to divest themselves of the imperial purple in this way long, long ago, but we hear nothing of it in later years.

Queen Victoria is reported as saying recently that she fairly envied her poorer subjects and their freedom from care. Well, Victoria, all you have to do is to throw the galling and troublesome old crown to one side, and you can be just as happy as common, everyday people. Other weary and discouraged European crowned heads will please make a note of this suggestion in case of future need.

A little girl has lately gone crazy in the effort to collect 1,000,000 stamps. It was more than her poor child brain could compass. Somebody who ought to have been sentenced to a term of imprisonment started a foolish story long ago that the United States government would pay a reward of $500 to anybody who would collect 1,000,000 stamps. The story was a huge lie, but the bigger a lie is the more people believe it. Thousands of children began to collect 1,000,000 stamps. One or two of them actually succeeded, at an expenditure of time and energy that would have laid the foundation of a $1,000,000 fortune. After they had got the stamps it was only to find that nobody ever had offered any premium whatever for the collection, and that the whole story was a cruel hoax. So it is. Nobody anywhere ever offered $500 or any other sum for 1,000,000 stamps. Nobody ever will. The story is fit to be classed along with the tale of the Ohio cow that gave black milk.

No wonder Spain is startled—almost scared. The budget for the year shows that the government has a surplus of $25,000 over the amount required for its expenditures. Surpluses of that sort do not often happen in a monarchy, particularly a Latin monarchy.

The Old Five Dollar Bill.

They're talkin 'bout the tariff bill, the silver bill an all;
They wrastle through the congress an they wrestled till the fall;
But of all the bills from Billville, the one we're wantin still
Is the bill that bears the picter—the old five dollar bill!

You may rumple it an crumple it an twist an turn it round
An stuff it in your pocket, where it seems to weigh a pound,
Or hide it in your woolen sock or in your boots—but still
There's never no discountin of the old five dollar bill!

It's greasy as a kitchen from goin round so much,
But a feller ain't partickler when it's [illegible] of his touch!
An the biggest bill from Billville—an the one we're wantin still—
Is the rumpled up an crumpled up old time five dollar bill!

NOT MURDER.

Imagine a mob of men as hungry as a pack of wolves whose frenzy has been fired by the scent of blood and in its midst a fellow being, bound hands and feet, with the noose of the lynchmen around his neck. I came suddenly upon such a scene in one of the settlements on the Rio Grande, whither I had journeyed from England to find a brother whom I had not seen for many years.

As I reined up my horse near the crowd and glanced over the exciting spectacle an involuntary cry left my lips as I recognized in the victim him whom I had come so far to see.

He saw and knew me instantly, and though no word came from him his pale, mute lips appealed to my heart for help. My appearance caused a hesitation on the part of the leaders.

I quickly learned that a stranger in those parts had been killed that morning near a small body of water a short distance from the settlement and that my brother had been caught in the very act of striking the deathblow. Not one of the spectators seemed to have any doubt of his guilt, but who is so hardened as to condemn his own brother?

I shuddered as I realized Almont's peril and in my own heart judged him innocent of any crime.

"He is my brother," I cried.

"Hark!" shouted one of the onlookers, "the brother of the murdered man is here for justice. Up with him, boys!"

"Hold," I commanded, rising in my stirrups as I spoke; "blood calls for blood. Let me have hold of that rope."

The mistake in my identity had suggested a way in which I might enable my brother to escape, and I resolved to attempt it at whatever risk. Fortunately there was little family resemblance between us.

Urging my horse forward, the crowd parted, allowing me to reach his side, when I dismounted, ostensibly to adjust the slipping noose.

"It will do," I said loud enough to be heard by all. "Now help me to lift him on the back of my horse. We want to do this job in some shape."

Willing ones sprang to my assistance, but in the brief interval I cut the prisoner's bonds so that they held only by a thread and arranged the noose so that it could be thrown off as soon as his arms were free.

I knew few horses could match mine in speed, and once he had cleared the throng my brother would be comparatively safe.

He understood my intentions, and the moment we lifted him upon the horse he wrenched his arm free, threw off the noose, dropped into the saddle, and giving the animal a smart blow dashed through the crowd like a whirlwind, and in a few moments was beyond pursuit.

Of course there was loud reviling over his escape, but I appeared so anxious for his recapture that no blame was attached to me. To carry out the deception I had the body of the stranger carefully buried and remained in the place until I deemed it safe to depart.

It was nearly three months before I met my brother in London, whither he had fled, and then he thanked me with tears in his eyes for my daring assistance in his escape from the lynchers. To my surprise, however, he avoided the subject of the murder, saying simply that a crime had been committed. I did not feel like pressing the matter, so the affair was not mentioned again, though it has haunted my mind ever since. Last week my brother died with no kindred near him, and today's post has brought me a manuscript containing a startling revelation.

In justice to my brother's name, as well as my own satisfaction, I am prompted to give to the world the strangest confessions ever made. The following is his account as he wrote it for me:

"When this is read, I shall have passed beyond the tribunal of man, so I wish to impress upon you that I am about to record faithfully an experience which I sincerely hope will fall to the lot of no other person.

"I was alone in my room late one dark, stormy night when I heard a rap on the door, which I fancied at first was but the wind shaking it on its hinges. But it was repeated louder than before. I bade the applicant, whoever he might be, to come in, without looking up from the book which held my attention.

"A moment later the door was opened, and with the gust of wind which sent every light object in the room flying topsy turvy a man entered the apartment with quick, catlike steps.

"'Pardon me for the unreasonable hour at which I call,' he said in a clear, crisp tone, 'but I suppose doctors get used to all sorts of calls.'

"'Certainly,' I replied, I fear somewhat impatiently, as he had interrupted me at a time when I did not like to be disturbed. 'What can I do for you?'

"'Oh, I do not come for professional assistance,' he hastened to say, evidently reading my thoughts. 'Mine is strictly a business call. Are you at liberty for a few minutes?'

"'Yes, but the hour is late, so I trust you will be as brief as possible.'

"'Dr. Barlow, how much are you worth?'

"'Enough to make life comfortable for myself,' I replied. 'If you have no more important question than that, our interview might as well come to an end at once.'

"'Pardon me, I will come to business. As I told you, I am a professor of science, and I have made a discovery which is worth millions—yes, sir, millions.

"'I need not tell you of the anxious days and sleepless nights it has cost me. No matter; I have succeeded at last, and you are the first man I have ever approached with my secret. I did not do that until I was satisfied you were the safest one I could find.'

"As he spoke he opened a small bag which he carried and took out three or four vials to place upon the table.

"'Education based upon scientific research,' he remarked, 'has made a startling advance within the past few years. But no man has gone further into the unfathomable depths than myself. You have a basin of water here. Pardon me if I appropriate it to my own use.'

"I bowed in acquiescence, too much surprised to speak.

"He quickly unsealed one of the vials and poured its contents into the basin of water. Then from another he sifted a bluish colored powder upon the surface of the liquid, which no sooner had touched the water than it burst into foam and [illegible] like a [illegible], and a [illegible] lurid flame leaped up to the ceiling. I started back with a cry of terror.

"'Don't be alarmed,' he assured me, with a smile; 'the water will soon burn out.'

"The fire soon began to grow pale and to diminish in height, when it finally died out altogether, and I saw that the basin was empty.

"'How much do you think that secret is worth?' asked my visitor, still showing his white teeth between his parted lips.

"'What do you mean?' I cried.

"'Sit down and be composed, and I will quickly explain.' Then as I sank into the nearest seat, at a loss what to do or say, he continued:

"'Seeing is believing, so I have shown to you what I can do to impress upon you more deeply the power that I possess. You have seen that basin of water burn like so much oil, and now you will believe me when I tell you that I have unlocked one of nature's great secrets and that the key lies in that small vial!'

"His demoniacal smile as he spoke made me shudder.

"'I do not understand you,' I stammered. 'If you mean that you can burn water—'

"'Haven't I done it?' he cried. 'Why, man alive! don't you realize the importance of that secret? In these vials are held the component agents able to separate the constituent parts of water and, forcing the same, set them at war with each other, which must result in combustion and total annihilation.

"'Think of that and realize that I hold in my hand the destiny of the world. Let me throw one little of these wonderful properties into the Atlantic and dare you contemplate the result? In one instant a nucleus of fire would be formed to grow swiftly in size, separating the gases of water and feeding upon them until the shores of Europe and America would be wrapped in a sheet of flame.

"'No deluge that ever drowned the world would [illegible], but would rather transport the fiery legions to the very pillars of the heavens, and it would spread from shore to shore and from ocean to ocean until it had enfolded the globe in its seething embrace. Every creature of the sea, the air and the land would perish—ay, the earth itself would melt into fervent heat.'

"During this recital, [illegible], he had worked himself into a frenzy [illegible] to fix his intent gaze upon me as he concluded with a [illegible] that [illegible] my inmost being. I felt I was in the presence of a madman.

"'Oh, well,' I said, with what calmness I could command, 'we won't anticipate so dreadful a catastrophe as you so vividly describe. But it is evident you have made a remarkable discovery. I am anxious to know just how you accomplished it.'

"'Which is my secret,' he said, with another smile, and I saw that my dispassionate speech had had a soothing effect upon him. The man was evidently sane except on that one subject.

"'You are the most sensible man I have met,' he soon resumed, 'and I am going to impart something of my secret to you so you will not withhold [illegible] assisting me in a [illegible] where I am powerless.

"'It needs not my words to tell you that water is composed of two gases, hydrogen and oxygen, in parts as 2 to 1. United in that proportion these elements are impervious to fire. Every schoolboy knows that. But mix them in any other proportion, and heat, flame, combustion, are the immediate consequence.

"'Now, I have discovered the key which unlocks the affinity holding together the constituent parts of water. A few grains of this powder are sufficient to dismember its warlike elements, when the funeral pyre of the human race is kindled as far as this planet is concerned.'

"'Impossible!' I could not help exclaiming. 'God in his infinite wisdom never created a world so beautiful as this and then placed in the hands of its subjects the means of its destruction.'

"'Poor fool!' he said, compassionately. 'You forget that the moon is but a fire extinguished world; that planets without number are the charred remains of what were once scenes of life and beauty; that the sun is a molten mass of heat; that he has said in his own word, in the end "the heavens shall be folded together like a scroll, the elements to melt with fervent heat."'

"'You see this vial. It contains potassium. It needs not me to tell a man of your information the result when this is brought into contact with oxygen. It ignites instantly. This powder here, the secret of whose compound is known only to me, contains properties which instantly decompose the watery elements. The moment the oxygen is free the potassium ignites it, and the work of fiery destruction is begun.

"'You betray a look of doubt. Perhaps you think that this action will be merely local—that the properties will quickly burn out, and in consequence the fire die for want of sustenance. If so, you err. The properties of this powder are self generating, and as long as the water lasts must of necessity continue their work of decomposition, the oxygen continually feeding the flames.

"'Get me another basin of water. I want to demonstrate it more clearly to you.'

"As he had done before, he turned the potassium into the basin and then sifted in a certain amount of the powder. The hissing and fuming quickly began, followed by a sharp report, when a column of fire again sprang up, which lasted until the water was consumed.

"'You see, my first trial was no illusion,' he said, turning to me. 'What I have done once I can do every time.'

"'It is a terrible thing!' I exclaimed, with a shudder. 'But why have you come to me?'

"'Because the secret is worth much to me. But when I approach men they call me mad and will not listen. They will believe you, and when you have proved what I can do they will gladly pay my price. Then I will divide with you, and we both shall be rich, you to live at your ease and I to continue my investigations. Will you help me?' and he caught me by the arm with a clutch I seem to feel now.

"'Help you?' I asked in a husky voice. 'Would you jeopardize the lives of the whole human race for a few paltry thousands? A man of your great intellect and research should be above'—

"'You still doubt my ability to do what I claim?' he interrupted. 'Perhaps in the open air you think I would fail? Come with me and I will astonish even you. See, the storm has cleared away, and the day is breaking.'

"I was puzzled what to do. There was no one in the house upon whom I could call for assistance, but outdoors I might escape the man, whom, I confess, I feared. So I consented to accompany him.

"The morning light was fast dispelling the shadows of night and storm, and we had no difficulty in making our way to a little body of water quite hemmed in by the mountains and the forest. My companion, as if fearing I would attempt to escape, had not taken his gaze from me since we had left the house.

"'There is a good place to test our work,' he declared, pointing to a small pool of water formed in a depression of the earth by the late storm.

"Without waiting for my reply he threw some of the potassium and powder into the water. The result was startling to me, though I had anticipated the consequence.

"The report was deafening, and the flames seemed to leap to the sky, illuminating the sight scene with a ghastly light, but more ghastly was the light of the burning water the appearance of my companion, who had seemed to be suddenly transformed into a demon, was more terrible.

"'See, see!' he cried, dancing to and fro with fiendish glee, 'it burns—will burn till the pool is dry. What do you think of my secret now? Do not I hold the key to all life! Oh, I feel like a god, and all men are but worms crawling at my feet! See, the flames leap higher and higher!

"'Now, let me drop the same agents which set that pool on fire into this lake, and the result will be the same. Aye, the same, only a million times more grand, for the fire will follow the river to the gulf and thence to the ocean, to envelop the entire world in its blazing sheet. What a sight for the gods to witness!'

"He gesticulated fiercely and reached one arm over the water, as if to drop the infernal powder upon its placid bosom, his wild looking figure lit up by the resplendent glow of the burning pool. I gazed with awe upon him, realizing only too well the terrible earnestness of his tone.

"'Wait!' I cried hoarsely, 'you forgot the money. Your secret is worth'—

"'Bah! Who prates of money with a cringing world at his feet?' he shrieked. 'They laugh at me. Now let their tears put out the flames my hand has kindled. See! The potassium, it fumes, hisses, dances upon the water! Now the pow'—

"Imagine who can the horror of my situation. The blood seemed to freeze in my veins. My limbs seemed paralyzed, but I quickly overcame my lethargy. The life of every being in the world was in my hands. Nerving myself for the blow, I felled the mad scientist dead at my feet. At that moment the fire behind me expired. The world was saved.

"You know the rest. I was discovered in the act of dealing the fatal blow by men who could not understand the immeasurable deed I had done. You saved my life. In the sight of God I feel that I have committed no crime, but I shall die easier knowing that when I am gone the truth will be known to the world. My conscience is clear, and yet the secret has pointed in my every action like a finger of fire."—Tit-Bits.

The First Steam Cruiser.

It is generally known that the first steam driven vessel to cross the Atlantic was built in Canada. The information is not so general, however, that this same craft was subsequently converted into a cruiser and was the first steamship engaged in actual war.

The facts in the case are stated in "Johnson's Alphabet of First Things In Canada." The ship was the Royal William. She was built at the Cove, Quebec, in the winter of 1830-1, and during the season of 1832-3 plied between Quebec and Halifax. In the latter season she was sent to London and there chartered by the Portuguese government to transport troops intended for the service of the late Dom Pedro to Brazil. Returning to London, she was sold to the Spanish government, by the latter converted into a cruiser and employed against Don Carlos in the civil war of 1836, thus being the first steamer to fire a hostile shot.—Toronto News.

A Wonder of Precocity.

Christian Heinecker was born at Lubeck on the 6th of February, 1721. When only 10 months old, he could repeat every word spoken to him. At 12 months of age he had memorized all the principal events mentioned in the Pentateuch. Before he had finished his second year of existence he had learned all the historical parts of both the Old and the New Testament. At the age of 3 he could reply correctly to all questions put to him regarding universal history and geography, and in the same year he learned to speak both Latin and French.

In his fourth year he employed his time in studying religions, especially the history of the Christian church. He was not only able to glibly repeat all that he had read, but was also able to reason with considerable of judgment and to give his own opinion of things in general. The king of Denmark wished to see this wonderful child, so he was taken to Copenhagen. After his return to Lubeck he learned to write, and was beginning on the study of music and mathematics, but his constitution being very weak, he took down and died on June 27, 1725, aged 4 years, 4 months and 21 days. What a wonderful record for such a short life.—St. Louis Republic.

Easter Sundays In the Future.

The rule for ascertaining when Easter Sunday occurs may be gathered from this statement: Easter is the Sunday which follows that fourteenth day of the calendar moon which falls upon or next after March 21. We give a number of dates of Easter Sunday, which will be useful for preservation to such readers as are desirous to watch these recurring days:

1894	March 25	1913	March 23
1895	April 14	1914	April 12
1896	April 5	1915	April 4

A Big Bit of Crude Rubber.

One of the interesting objects in the lower part of the city is a piece of crude Para rubber that weighs 1,200 pounds. It resembles a rough casting of iron and is in the shape of a bell. In the window where it is exhibited is a shoe of rubber like those worn by the Indian women of Brazil. Its ornamentation is beautiful. The toe is crimped, while on the instep and the quarters are flowers; the daisy and the pansy. It seems to be a very comfortable shoe. Leather is not unknown to the Indians who live in the rubber district, but rubber with them takes the place of wood, iron and cloth.—New York Tribune.

The new cotton mills have been built in the following states: Alabama, 1; Massachusetts, 7; New York, 1; North Carolina, 4; Pennsylvania, 6; Rhode Island, 1; South Carolina, 3; Virginia, 1;—total, 24.

New woolen mills—Arkansas, 1; Massachusetts, 4; Nebraska, 1; New Hampshire, 3; Pennsylvania, 4; Rhode Island, 6; Virginia, 1; total, 27.

New knitting mills—Alabama, 1; Illinois, 1; New York, 14; Michigan, 3; Minnesota, 1; North Carolina, 3; Ohio, 3; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 13; Rhode Island, 1; Tennessee, 1; Wisconsin, 1; total, 52.

"The report shows that the growth of cotton manufacturing has been greater in the north than in the south, and that there is no indication that the latter states are gaining at the expense of the former; retrogression in new woolen mill construction, and probable decrease of total productive capacity of the country, also a marked tendency towards the addition of looms out of proportion to new spinning; the rapid, yet solid, growth of the knitting goods industry, and the tendency to finer goods; and the tendency shown by the new mill construction toward concentration in well defined centers where skilled help in each line is most plentiful."

Under republican protection these industries were thriving, and the increase of the past six months is the result of the impetus given by a republican policy.

Mills all over New England are shutting down because the democratic policy is still undefined and uncertain. When it is known what changes the democrats are going to make in the tariff they will start up again. The proposed changes announced to the country were of such a character as to astound the manufacturers and completely unsettle business.

SIGNIFICANT MOVEMENTS.

The movement of Great Britain in sending warships to the waters of British Columbia and increasing her forces at Esquimalt, is regarded with suspicion by naval officers in this country, and is believed to indicate a determination on the part of that government not to abide by the decision of the court of arbitration in the Bering sea matter, if it goes against her; but it is doubtful, as the British parliament recommended the settlement of all disputes with the United States by arbitration, whether that great power would be guilty of such a disgraceful act.

The announcement that Russia will keep a fleet of war vessels in American waters, and make the port of New York a regular station is something of a surprise, and it is pleasing to the New Yorkers. It is a manifestation of the friendliness which has always characterized the relations of Russia towards the United States, but it cannot prove very pleasing to Great Britain, as the Russian fleet to be kept here is more powerful than the fleet she keeps in American waters.

DISTRESSED WOOL GROWERS.

Wool has not been so low in the market as it is today for years, and the sheepmen are wondering whether they better sell at present market prices or hold their wool for a rise. The uncertainty as to future tariff duties is the main cause of the dull market and low prices. The manufacturers will not buy wool now except at free-wool rates, because free wool is a possibility. They are working up the stock of wool on hand, and stopping their machinery till they see what the democratic administration is going to do. The breeders are selling off their sheep, but this plan for partly saving themselves from loss, has overloaded the mutton market, which is now flat. It is probable that the wool-raisers will try to hold their clip for an improved market.

When a Brooklyn newspaper man lets himself go there is nothing this side of the north star that can stop him. One of them says: "The man who has not seen the World's fair will be boycotted in the next world!" Some folks will think this is carrying the boycott just a little bit too far!

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

All the people who have seen the "bob-tail star" in the papers have not found it in the heavens. A comet on paper strikes the eye quicker than the eye can strike a comet in the sky.

The democratic pensioner who helped elect the present administration and is now among the "suspects," must feel as though he had been captured by the enemy, and that he would like to swap a piece of tobacco for a piece of corn bread!

Bland's getting excited! The war hasn't begun yet, and he is shouting out "I prefer to fight in the open field!" Men who talk that way when they are thirsting for blood, generally get behind a stump when the bullets are hunting for them.

The plumber has demonstrated the truth of evolution. A few years ago there was one simple tribe of plumbers, and from that maligned crowd of "over-chargers" have risen "the practical plumber," "the sanitary plumber" and "the engineering plumber." Pretty soon the helper will be changing his spots!

The supervising engineer of the construction of the cold storage building in Chicago deserves to be sent to prison for life. The fire was caused by the neglect of the builders to carry the stack up through the top of the cupola as the architect designed. The sparks and smoke from the stack poured out upon the woodwork of the cupola, and the fire was the result. A worse fire-trap was never built in this country.

Prof. Holden of Maine, the flat-earth philosopher, has been lecturing in Boston. He knocks "the round-ball theory" all out "in a minit:" "There's the dipper," he says, "in the evenin' it is to the westard, at midnight it is right over head, and in the mornin' it is to the eastard. Now if the earth moved the dippered be [illegible] right there all the time! Squeer these edicated people can't see a thing as simple that!"

A "cannon-ball king" is in the athletic field. He catches cannon-balls as they come flying from the cannon's mouth. With such freaks what is the use of armored ships? Two or three platoons of these cannon-ball catchers flung around the hull of a warship could catch the shots of the enemy, and pass them right on board to be fired back again. The other war vessel being similarly equipped, a naval engagement would become only a ball-tossing pastime.

The tramp steamer Red Sea arrived at Ellis Island, N. Y., Saturday with 500 immigrants on board, 400 of whom did not have a dollar; and only eleven had fifty dollars or more with them. The United States has dependents enough now without having all the paupers of Europe dumped upon her shores. One-half of these will be sent back at the expense of the owners of the ship. They paid from $21 to $30 for passage, and were kept on short rations.

Hoke Smith's new rules are working charmingly all over the north. In Chelsea a blind and deaf veteran who is led about by a little girl and has an invalid wife has been suspended and is in dire want. The town is excited over the outrage, and The Boston Journal tells how Joseph King of Co. F., 24th Massachusetts regiment, was wounded at Roanoke Island, is now classed among bummers and suspended without a penny. His pension was granted during Cleveland's first term. New England ought to be ashamed of an attorney general who approved of such a pension rule as that.

STATE EDITORS' OPINIONS.

Think Right!

If every business man would keep a stiff upper lip and talk about the favorable things in his business, he would soon find that the dark side was a good deal more of a myth than he supposed.—[New Haven Record.

A Man of Resources.

Representative Roche, who has just been appointed judge of the city court, has resources in the line of scooping in offices that are lucrative to a wonderful degree.—[New Britain Record.

Not Exactly!

There is evidence that Congressman Pigott is going to Washington for experience only. But that isn't the information he has given some of his close friends.—[Meriden Republican.

An Irritable Set.

If you want to see a democratic tobacco grower go behind the barn and kick himself nowadays, just ask him how much more he expects to get for his tobacco this year than he did last. If that doesn't start him just ask if he has seen a tobacco buyer this year.—[Hartford Post.

Yale Men.

They are even more deeply rooted in the affectionate memories of those boys—gray-haired boys now—than is the old, and an aimless Yale is simply unthinkable. It will never come quite to that, let us hope.—[Hartford Courant.

An Opportunity.

The man who voted the democratic ticket at the last election and is thrown out of work by the shutting down of manufacturing should devote the first week of his idleness to finding out the cause.—[New London Day.

Strange Things.

This is a day of strange things. A Wallingford woman imagined that she had been struck by lightning and threw her jaw out of joint, and a Westville woman is puffed up with pride because her bantam hen laid an egg measuring eight inches in circumference.—[Ansonia Sentinel.

For National Divorce Laws.

It is almost impossible nowadays to read a Connecticut newspaper without coming across an article which furnishes a text for an argument for national legislation in the matter of marriage and divorce. Our own marriage laws are fairly good, but our divorce laws are lamentably loose. However, if Connecticut had a reform in this matter, the law of other states would still be available. The evil of these laws strikes right at the root of society, and the press and pulpit of the entire country should keep up an agitation until national laws take the place of the present bewildering assortment of state regulations.—[Stamford Advocate.

Discouraged Police.

We have before referred to the peculiar gentleman who sits on the police court bench in Hartford—Judge Barbour. On Thursday he nolled a Squus case that came before him, upon being informed by the prosecuting attorney that there was not sufficient evidence to convict. Then the chief of police got hot, because in his opinion there was plenty of evidence against the accused, by name Breslin; and after telling the newspapers all about the evidence his men had gathered the chief added that it was not encouraging to have cases thrown out of court, and intimated that he almost despaired of succeeding in his mission of reform.—[Bridgeport Post.

A "Joke."

Dear! Dear! The Hartford Post worked off a joke and The Bridgeport Farmer and The Waterbury American slipped their trolley on it badly. Our Bridgeport friend solemnly warns Col. Porter that the imposition on an unoffending constituency of "jokes" which require "explanation to make their meaning plain to the dullest apprehension should be accompanied by it, or perhaps better still, not made." Our confused and evidently hurt contemporary, after this mild and modest protest, reasserts somewhat its self-respect and intimates that its failure to cast the net over the fanciful creature of Hartford journalism does not necessarily argue that its apprehension is "the dullest."—[New Haven Register.

There are four unique mountains in Lower California, two of alum, one of alum and sulpher mixed and one of pure sulpher. It is estimated that in the four peaks named there are 100,000,000 tons of pure alum and 1,000,000 tons of sulpher.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, Constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

Imitations and Impostors.

The unequalled success of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous parties to offer imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of ALLCOCK'S. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with ALLCOCK'S a false pretense. The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS the best external remedy ever produced.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's vaunted modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recommendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

The [illegible] of the Season.

The summer girl's in vogue again down by the wave lapped shore,
And in soft lawns and broad straw hats and ribbons, too, galore.
She smiles on every man that comes, she beams upon the boys
And never [illegible] to lose at all her wondrous equipoise.

She walks upon the sandy beach the while the moon looks down,
And says the things to Tommy Hicks she said
 last night to Brown,
And gives young Jinks a deal of hope, and Tompkins feels that he,
[illegible] alone can fill her heart with ecstasy.

Young Sinkaly's manly bosom with a wondrous gladness swells
To note the lovelight in her eyes while [illegible]
 ing [illegible]
Which from the heated city he that day has brought to her,
Just as, indeed, that self same light makes Willie's pulses stir.

And in the ballroom every night she waltzes
 with Jack Vane
As if she never, never hoped to dance the waltz again,
Though later on the hotel porch she glances at Perrine
As though she thought that he alone of all men was divine.

Such trifling with these manly hearts seems very wrong, but then
We must remember, Brown and Hicks et al.
 are summer men,
And this is by no means their first short visit to the shore,
Which knows her well, for each has met the summer girl before.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

Boston, July 15.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The better feeling in the stock market was [illegible], though the business transacted was of a small amount. London was a [illegible] buyer and [illegible], while the reports of the [illegible] failures there were again [illegible]. London, however, was an apparently [illegible] by Wall street [illegible] the [illegible] of gold [illegible] tail. The [illegible] as to the outcome of the New York bank statement was the [illegible] against a further rally.

The most important changes, comparing final sales with those of yesterday, were General Electric [illegible], Sugar [illegible], C. B. and Q. [illegible], Westinghouse advanced [illegible].

The weekly statement of the New York banks shows a little improvement over the preceding one, but it still includes some very unpleasant totals. The reserve is still below the limit, [illegible], as against [illegible] a week ago. More significant is the [illegible] in deposits, some [illegible]. This compares with a gain of [illegible] the week before. As against [illegible] in loans, so that so far as the banks are concerned their position is [illegible] and [illegible].

WARSHIPS READY.

Intense Excitement in Capital City of Siam.

TROOPS SURROUND ROYAL PALACE.

French Gunboats Are Cleared For Action.

London, July 15.—The Bangkok correspondent of The Times says: Last night passed quietly, the Inconstante and Comete dropping down stream to a better anchorage, where they remained today (Friday) cleared for action.

Neither the forts nor the gunboats were damaged in the skirmish yesterday, but one Siamese gunboat ran down the French pilot boat, and it is said, sunk it.

M. Pavie (French minister resident) has informed the Siamese government that the commanders of the Inconstante and Comete refused to accept his order not to enter the river. He states that he is awaiting instructions from Paris as to the next development of this extraordinary position.

The Siamese warships are ready for action, and 4,000 troops are under arms around the palace. The city is tranquil, but intensely anxious.

Other French and English gunboats are expected. British subjects are awaiting anxiously news of the steps which England is taking to prevent the great calamity of a bombardment of the city.

WANDELKOLK HEMMED IN.

Rebel Admiral and His Ships in a Dangerous Situation.

Valparaiso, July 15.—News from the Rio Grande do Sul shows that Admiral Wandelkolk, who has been threatening the town, is in a dangerous situation. The cruiser Republica, which was ordered to protect that port, has reached the bar outside the harbor, and it is believed that Wandelkolk's ship, the Jupiter, and the gunboat Camocim, which joined him, are hemmed in where it will be difficult for them to escape.

Owing to the fact that the government is making such unusual efforts to suppress the news, it is difficult to get at the exact situation.

It is known, however, that General Salgado and General Saraiva, with 3,000 revolutionists, are expected to reach Rio Grande do Sul today, and will join the small force of insurgents which arrived back of the city a few days ago.

Generals Salgado and Saraiva were expected to arrive at Rio Grande do Sul about the time Admiral Wandelkolk reached the harbor in the Jupiter.

Swollen streams delayed the arrival of the main body, but when the commanders reach there they may be able to capture the town and relieve Admiral Wandelkolk of his embarrassment by giving him and his force shelter on land should he decide that he cannot fight the Republica.

The situation all over the state of Rio Grande do Sul is giving the authorities in Brazil much trouble.

President Peixoto has ordered the warship Bolivia and two gunboats to Salto. This movement was probably caused by the reports that Uruguay is aiding the revolutionists.

COLORADO COMBINATION

Attempt to Divert Trade From the East to the South.

Pueblo, Colo., July 15.—The more conservative people of Colorado realize that the silver convention held at Denver during the first of the current week accomplished nothing toward the purpose for which it was assembled.

A proposition is now on foot to call another convention, which shall aim at the pocketbooks rather than the sympathies of those whom it is hoped to convert to the ideas of the west.

The proposed convention is to be composed of business men, and the direct object which is sought is a combination among merchants, with the intention of diverting the trade of Colorado and adjoining states from the east to the south. It is argued that New Orleans is much nearer to the Rocky Mountain states than is either New York, Boston or Philadelphia; that it is a seaport centrally located, from which can be furnished every article needed by the west upon terms equally advantageous with those at present obtained.

It is believed that by diverting this volume of trade from the accustomed channels the eyes of the eastern opponents of silver will be opened and their assistance may be enlisted.

NEBRASKA CRICKETS

Destroying Crops and Stripping the Country of Vegetation.

Omaha, July 15.—The crop-destroying crickets continue to grow in size. The crickets are now near Lost Cabin, Wyo., and are stripping the country of all vegetation. They cover a section of land about 2 miles wide by three-fourths of a mile deep, and are traveling at the rate of [illegible] miles a day.

The crickets fell upon a ranch near Casper, Wyo., Wednesday, and in less than four hours ate an entire [illegible] crop of 25 acres, and, before night completely destroyed the oats in a large field. All forms of vegetation were cleaned up much more easily by grasshoppers than by any machine.

It is believed that the crickets were hatched in the Big Horn mountains, and are being directed in their course by a strong northwest wind, which has been prevailing in that section for several weeks. Much alarm is felt all over the state.

Found Dead on a Car.

Concord, N. H., July 15.—A. J. Chase of Bristol, 21 years old, a freight brakeman on the Concord division of the Boston and Maine railroad, was found dead on top of a car of a south-bound freight at East Andover Saturday morning. It is supposed that he was struck by a bridge at East Andover.

Falcon Driven Back.

St. John's, N. F., July 15.—The steamer Falcon, with the Peary Arctic expedition, which sailed from this port at 8 o'clock Friday night for Greenland, was compelled to put back later, owing to a heavy storm. At daylight Saturday morning she again sailed.

Pastor Resigns.

Holliston, Mass., July 15.—Rev. Frank I. Wheat, pastor of the Congregational church, has resigned, and the church has voted to accept his resignation, and appointed a committee to secure a new pastor.

Czar's Uncle and the Jews.

St. Petersburg, July 15.—The Grand Duke Michael, uncle of the czar, has persuaded the czar to postpone indefinitely the expulsion of the Jews from the Caucasus. The grand duke is understood to be strongly opposed to the whole anti-semitic policy of the Russian government.

Big Ships in Boston.

Boston, July 15.—The United States cruiser San Francisco and the monitor Miantonomah reached this port on Saturday. They will join in the cruise of the naval brigade lasting four days, beginning Tuesday next.

OUT OF POLITICS.

William Walter Phelps Declares He Has Permanently Retired.

New York, July 15.—William Walter Phelps has now, he claims, permanently retired from politics and gave his reasons for doing so at a dinner given him by friends and neighbors at the new Edgewood hotel, Edgewood, N. J.

Speaking of the retirement, Mr. Phelps said, "It means the end of 30 years of active practical political life, and that is, [illegible] attending caucuses suggesting some candidates and suppressing others."

While minister to Germany, Mr. Phelps said he felt he ought not to give his time and efforts to advancing party interests. In congress, he said, it was different, because there he was representing certain opinions of a majority of voters in his district.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

Warner Miller Denies That Work Has Stopped for Lack of Funds.

New York, July 15.—The report that the Nicaragua Canal Construction company had stopped all work on the Nicaragua canal on account of lack of funds is officially denied by ex-Senator Warner Miller, president of the company.

"We have not stopped work entirely," said Mr. Miller, "although, of course, we have had to lessen the amount of work doing.

"In times of financial stringency every one has to cut his coat according to his cloth. Work is now going on on the breakwater at the entrance to Greytown harbor and also on the harbor. Besides that we have a large number of men looking after our valuable machinery.

"It is not true that the company's securities are not bought. Persons have been buying them all along and are doing so yet.

"As for the report that there is any internal dissension in the company, that is untrue. We had to stop work to a considerable extent at the time of the revolution in Nicaragua. Our boats were seized. These boats were the only means of transportation up the river.

"We expect that this will soon be settled in a satisfactory manner. Then, when the money situation becomes a little easier we expect to go ahead with the work at full blast. A little more than $6,000,000 has already been expended by the company.

"The plant was a very expensive one, but now we have everything ready, so far as that goes to proceed with the work with a large force of men. We have already done some work at dredging.

"One of the dredges which we got from Panama has made a preliminary cut of about 17 feet in depth, and extending across the harbor and about three or four miles beyond. This, of course, will have to be gone over again.

"As to getting a foreign loan, we should of course be glad to take one on favorable conditions, but we have not recently taken any steps looking toward such a result.

"As to attempting to enlist the sympathy of small investors throughout the country, no great enterprise has been carried through in this country without the aid of the small investors.

"In regard to the possibility of turning the canal over to the United States government, I am willing to have that done if the company gets fair compensation for the work done and money expended. Some of the directors, however, believe the enterprise would be more profitable if it was not turned over to the government."

George W. Davis, second vice president and general manager of the company, acknowledged that the company was not doing any large amount of constructive work, but denied that he had said that all work had been stopped, or that the people were not buying the company's securities.

COFFEE MERCHANTS PROTEST.

Desire the Privilege of Sending Cypher Dispatches to Brazil.

New York, July 15.—The secretary of the Coffee Exchange yesterday sent the following letter to Secretary Gresham:

"The Brazilian government, owning the telegraph line along the Brazilian coast, has prohibited all cypher dispatches from the United States. This places our merchants, and especially the coffee trade of the United States, at a great disadvantage and at a great expense.

"I respectfully submit to your consideration, in behalf of and under the instruction of this exchange, the feasibility of inducing the Brazilian government to so modify the prohibition as to allow merchants in Brazil, correspondents of American merchants, to lodge with the proper government officials in Brazil their cypher codes, and to permit recipients of messages to translate them in the presence and under the direction of the proper officials."

President Eckert of the Western Union Telegraph company also wrote to Secretary Gresham a letter indorsing the request of exchange.

Tough Old Gentleman.

Halifax, July 15.—On Monday James McCorkle, aged 80, and his daughter, aged 12, who lives at Walton, Hants county, went to the woods to look for cows. They lost their way. Search parties were organized and the woods scoured. They were found Saturday in a thoroughly exhausted and emaciated condition, having had nothing but leaves to eat for five days. The old man, whose vitality is wonderful, will likely survive.

Fire in Cambridge.

Boston, July 15.—Between 2 and 3 o'clock Saturday morning the brickmaking establishment of Barry Bros. & Co., off Concord avenue, Cambridge, near the Belmont line, was partially destroyed by fire. The loss, $15,000; the insurance about $7,000. The plant consists of a large patent dryer, engine house, pressing machine, car and brick shed; and is one of the largest in the country.

Savings Bank Goes Under.

Kansas City, July 15.—As a result of the failure of the National Bank of Kansas City yesterday, the Franklin Savings bank has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The bank carried a line of deposits amounting to $60,000. Its assets are considerably in excess of that sum.

Windham Farmer Missing.

Lawrence, Mass., July 15.—The town of Windham, N. H., is now talking of a disappearance. The missing man is a well-to-do farmer, John Barley. He left his son's home last Sunday to go to his own residence, and has not been seen since.

Friday's Terrible Heat.

St. Louis, Mo., July 15.—Eight men were prostrated by the heat Friday, and two of the cases proved fatal and two are in a critical condition. The weather is having a disastrous effect on horses, and a great many have died from the excessive heat.

The Clothes Went with Him.

Lynn, Mass., July 15.—A person giving the name of Herbert Watson hired a room of Clarence S. Marsh, 217 Washington street, Friday noon. Saturday morning he was missing and also was $100 worth of clothing.

Killed by the Heat.

Chicago, July 15.—Six persons were killed by the heat here, one indirectly, one other will die, and many were prostrated.

CHANGES IN VIEW.

The Laws Governing National Banks to Be Amended.

WHAT THE COMPTROLLER SEEKS.

Boston Bankers Heartily Endorse Proposed Amendments.

Boston, July 15.—The stringency in the money market at the present time gives a new significance to the agitation for a repeal of some of the onerous laws under which the business of national banks is carried on.

About every comptroller of the national banks in the last 20 years or more has recommended in his annual report some changes in the provisions of the banking law. But congress has been slow or obdurate, and the changes have come slowly or not at all.

It is now foreshadowed that Comptroller Eckles, the new man that President Cleveland has put into that position, will recommend in his forthcoming report

Several Amendments to the Laws.

One of the provisions of the national bank act is that the national banks shall deposit a certain amount of United States bonds with the comptroller, upon which bills will be issued to the bank depositing them up to 90 per cent. of the par value of bonds so deposited. It has been generally held by bank men of late years that the license to issue bills should be extended to cover that other 10 per cent., so that the bank depositing $100,000 in United States bonds will receive $100,000 in bills for circulation.

It is announced that the comptroller will recommend that the laws be so amended that the banks may deposit the bonds, and take out dollar for dollar in circulation, thus giving the banks $10,000 more in active capital for every $100,000 of bonds deposited, instead of tying it up where it has no earning power.

It has been thought that this margin of 10 per cent. was necessary to protect the bill holders, but as bonds have appreciated in value, many conservative men believe that the security would be ample if the Change Should Be Made.

Another provision of the national bank law is that a national bank may be organized by the deposit of an amount of bonds equal to one-fourth of its capital stock, if said capital stock be $150,000 or less.

This, coupled with another provision placing the minimum amount of capital stock for a national bank at $50,000, makes it evident that $12,500 in United States bonds is a sufficient deposit for starting a national bank of smallest calibre allowed. Under this provision many small banks have been organized, some of which, after a precarious existence of a few years, or even less, have been obliged to close.

It is said that Comptroller Eckles will recommend the repeal of the section of the law that permits the organization of banks of this character.

Boston bankers who have been interviewed upon these proposed changes are almost unanimously in favor of them, and consider that the steps if taken will be of great benefit.

TARGET PRACTICE.

Maine's Militia Will Compete for Many Prizes at Augusta.

Augusta, Me., July 15.—The competitions arranged by Colonel Farrington for the national guard of Maine will probably take place on Aug. 22 and 23.

The teams, consisting of seven men and one substitute, will go into camp at Augusta on Tuesday, the 21st, and the team shoot will commence the next morning and close Thursday, the 23d.

Aside from the team match at 200 yards, there will be a team skirmish match 200 to 100 yards, unknown to the competitors. There will be a marksman's match, open only to such members of the teams as qualified as marksmen in 1892. The distances will be 200 and 500 yards. There will be a sharpshooters' match, open to such members of the teams as have a sharpshooter's qualification; also a "distinguished marksmen" open to all sharpshooters who are distinguished marksmen.

WILL BE EXECUTED.

Indians Will Suffer the Penalty of the Law as Sentenced.

Caddo, I. T., July 15.—The conference arranged between Governor Jones of the Choctaw nation and Inspector Faison of the interior department took place Friday.

Inspector Faison says that he is now convinced that the murderers were fairly and properly tried and condemned. Governor Jones says the same, and adds that the sentence will be carried out.

Members of the Locke faction, who were in town yesterday, say that if the United States government wants to save the lives of the condemned men all that is needed is to withdraw the United States troops now stationed at Antlers, and the Locke people will do the rest.

Carnot Was Coolly Received.

Paris, July 15.—A parade of the troops was held on the race course at Longchamp Friday in celebration of the anniversary of the fall of the bastile. The soldiers were reviewed by President Carnot. An immense crowd was present, and the troops were heartily cheered. Carnot, however, was coolly received.

Will Not Run Saturdays.

Framingham, Mass., July 15.—The 250 operatives employed in the woolen mills of the Assabet Manufacturing company, at Maynard, were not called to work as usual Saturday morning owing to the general dullness of the cloth market, which has necessitated the cancellation of orders on the part of some customers of the concern. The mills will not run Saturdays until further notice, the operatives thus losing 5 1-2 hours' time weekly.

Purchases of Silver.

Washington, July 15.—Friday's offers of silver were not made public either as to the amounts offered or prices. Saturday morning the mint bureau announced the purchase of 150,000 ounces of that day's offer's at 73 1-2 cents per ounce, which is the figure of the treasury counter offer. Further details are withheld. The total amount of silver purchased up to date for July is 868,000 ounces.

Uncle Silas Got Even.

"I tell you," said Uncle Silas, "city folks is full o' their jokes an things, but I guess yer uncle kin keep up with 'em most o' the time."

"Somebody been joking with you?" asked the new boarder.

"Yes. That is to say a young feller thort he was. He was out yistiday and missed his dinner. It was purty dusty, but that wan't any excuse fur his bein sarcastic 'bout the neighborhood."

"But what did he say?"

"Waal, I asked him where he had been, an he says, 'I've bin out scourin the country.' 'Bin out scourin it?' says I. 'Yes,' says he. 'Waal,' says I, 'ef ye'll step into the kitchen mebbe ma'll give ye a towel so's ye kin go back an dry it off.'"—Washington Star.

ODDITIES OF GREAT FOLKS.

Vicano could not listen to the sound of a flute without fainting.

Francis I was known as the most skillful jouster in his country.

Virgil during the summer season filled his house with butterflies.

More's "Utopia" was written as an amusement and to divert his friends.

Washington was devoted to fox hunting and in the season usually hunted twice a week.

Socrates was fond of playing with children and was often seen busy with them at their games.

Mme. de Staël always carried a bit of stick in her hand and played with it as an aid to conversation.

Dumas, pere, disliked a noise in the house while he was writing and kept a pet buzzard in his room.

After working hard in the morning Rebault would spend the afternoon strolling about the streets of Paris.

The great painter Rossi filled his house with all sorts of animals and taught his raven to cry "Come in" whenever there was a knock at the door.

Pennants, the great traveler, hated wigs and got into innumerable broils by snatching off the head covering of every man he met who wore a wig.

Queen Anne of England was extremely fond of brandy, and her face became so bloated that among the populace she was known as "Brandy Faced Nan."

Both Pope and Campbell were accustomed to ring for pens, ink and tea at unreasonable hours of the night that they might record the thoughts that occurred to them.

David, the artist, when not painting amused himself by scraping an old violin, which he did abominably. He would insist on playing for every visitor and often exclaimed, "Oh, if I had only been born a violinist!"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

ELECTRICAL TERMS.

Low potential circuits or wires are such as do not carry currents of more than 300 volts.

Two bodies in different electrical conditions so that an attraction exists between them are said to be a difference of potentials.

Substances which seem to convey electricity readily or permit its passage are called conductors. Those which do not are called insulators.

A dynamo is an electro-magnetic machine in which the current it produces is used to excite its own electro-magnet to produce more current.

An armature is a mass of iron or other magnetizable material placed on or near the pole or poles of a magnet. In a dynamo it acts to magnetically connect the two poles of the magnet.

Induction is a term very frequently used in talking about electricity. Induction is where electricity is induced in a conductor merely by proximity to a conductor that is charged with electricity.

An electric coil is a convolution of insulated wire through which an electric current may be passed. Induction coils are parallel coils of insulated wire employed to produce currents by electro-magnetic induction.

A current is the flow of electricity, but it must not be confounded with the mere act of flowing. Electric current signifies rate of flow and always supposes an electromotive force to produce the current and a resistance to oppose it.

MISNOMERS.

Arabic figures were not invented by the Arabs, but by the early scholars of India.

Pompey's pillar at Alexandria was neither erected by Pompey nor to his memory.

Brazil grass neither comes from nor grows in Brazil. It is strips from a species of Cuban palm.

Common table salt is not a salt and has long since been excluded from the class of bodies denominated "salts."

Galvanized iron is not galvanized at all, but is coated with zinc by being plunged into a bath of that metal and muriatic acid.

Rice paper is not made from either rice or rice straw, but from a pithy plant called tung-tsau, found in China, Corea and Japan.

The word "pen" means a feather and is from the Latin penna, a wing. Surely the expression "a steel pen" could be improved upon.

Cleopatra's needles were not erected by that queen; neither do they commemorate any event in her history. They were set up by Rameses the Great.

The Jerusalem artichoke has no connection whatever with the holy city of the Jews. It is a species of sunflower and gets its name from girasole, one of the scientific names of that genus of plants.—St. Louis Republic.

POWDER AND BALL.

Twenty-five ships of war of various kinds are now in course of construction for the French government.

The value of infantry was not fully recognized by mediæval commanders until the fifteenth century.

Recent additions to the British navy have rendered necessary a large increase in the number of men required.

The militia of the United States aggregates 112,493. Every state and territory in the Union has an organized militia except the territory of Utah.

The soldiers in many German garrison towns were trained in the use of snowshoes during the past winter, and recent tests have proved the shoes to be extremely useful in winter maneuvers.

Prizes ranging from $3,750 to $625 have been offered for designs and models best adapted for mule carts for the transport use of the British army in India. The competition is open to all nations.

GASTRIC JUICE.

Tapioca, used in puddings, is extracted from a deadly poisonous plant.

Whitebait is served at London dinners fried, and also deviled like crabs.

It is said that those who do not wish to be stout should eschew the yellow of eggs.

Raw clams are served at dinner parties prior to soup in the inside of small lettuce hearts.

Roquefort cheese is not considered by epicures at its best until it has reached a certain age of decay, which is indicated by the colored, moldy streaks through it.

Incompatible.

With a faint glow on her usually pale cheek the young woman traced geometrical figures in the sand with the point of her parasol.

"Which of the two do you prefer, Mr. Farlow," she asked, "Thoreau or Margaret Fuller?"

"I must confess, Miss Ticklowell," replied the young man, "that I have read very little of either."

"It is as I feared, Mr. Farlow," said the Boston maiden, retreating from him with a shudder. "We are incompatible. We never could be happy together. You pronounce it eether."—Chicago Tribune.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Monday, July 17, 1893.

The Bulletin should be delivered everywhere in the city before 6 a. m.

Subscribers who fail to receive it by that time will confer a favor by reporting the fact to the Bulletin Co.

The Weather Today.

Indications for Connecticut: Warmer, generally fair; west winds; probably cooler Monday night with local thunder storms.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

CITY NEWS.

Sherman W. Bishop is at the Adrian house, Block Island.

Eighteen pound flounders are being caught off Watch Hill.

Eleven boilers have been placed in the brick addition to the Greeneville bleachery.

Presiding Elder Tirrell and family are at their summer cottage at Chatham, Cape Cod.

Dr. W. T. Browne and wife have returned from a ten days' trip to the World's fair.

The Cutlery works will resume work this morning with the full force of operatives.

Mrs. Nathan Brewster of River avenue is among Norwich visitors to the White Mountains.

Richard Fitzgerald of Jail hill has arrived home from the World's fair, after a two weeks' visit.

Mr. Thomas H. Cranston of the Shelter Island camping party spent Sunday at his home in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Smith have returned home after a pleasant visit with friends in Stonington.

Mrs. M. G. Dolbeare and son and Mrs. and Miss Hinckley of this city are at the Willimantic camp grounds.

Court City of Norwich, A. O. F. of A. will meet at 8 o'clock this evening in K. of P. lodge rooms, Steiner's building.

Mr. George Riddle the celebrated actor, made his debut in Norwich under the management of Mr. William Street as "Romeo."

"Country Boy" has been shipped to Worcester, where he is entered to trot on Wednesday of this week in the 2.30 class at the races.

The steam yacht Kaiolah, with Charles L. Hubbard and a party of friends on board has gone for a few days' cruise to watering places along shore.

Treasurer P. D. Ryan, of the order of the Knights of Columbus, paid out during the past year $72,606.08 in endowments to the members of the fraternity.

The report of the state board of health for the month of June shows that there were 938 deaths reported in the state during the month. This was 242 less than in May.

It is understood that the street committee and the representatives of the electric railway are to locate the poles for the extension to Thamesville, on Tuesday morning.

There are only a very few vacant cottages in the vicinity of Eastern Point and these will be occupied before many days elapse, providing the warm weather continues.

The Pequot house base ball nine challenge any team on the Atlantic seaboard to a game. Bates, Harvard's 'varsity pitcher of '91, covers second base for the Pequots.

The general report from those who have visited the World's fair from this section is that the Ponemah mills of Taftville make the finest cotton fabric exhibit at the great fair.

Among the noticeable improvements at Watch Hill is the substitution of a new plank walk for an old dilapidated one leading from the Larkin house wharf to the bathing beach.

A carriage belonging to Liveryman Chapman had its front wheel wrecked on East Main street early Sunday evening by the mismanagement of an electric car-frightened horse.

A party of gentlemen are negotiating for the charter of steamer Gypsy to ply between New London and Norwich for the balance of the season, making two trips each way daily.

The West Chelsea school building is receiving repairs. It is proposed to bring the higher classes from the Mount Pleasant street school to the West Chelsea school house this fall.

A valuable horse, owned by Capt. L. A. Gallup, was taken with colic Friday night and died in a few hours. The colic was caused in the usual way. Medical aid afforded only temporary relief.

The handsome cottages occupied by the summer colony at Watch Hill are now all taken possession of by their owners or tenants. As a summer resort, Watch Hill is rapidly growing in popularity.

Herman Salomon, the Broadway clothier, was assaulted on Shetucket street Saturday afternoon by a Providence man, whom he promptly had arrested and will prosecute in court this morning.

Mr. Harry W. Brown retires voluntarily from the position of manager for Monroe, Miller & Co., stock brokers, today, and Mr. James C. Davis of St. Albans, Vt., has been promoted to the position.

The brig Richard P. Green arrived in New London, Friday afternoon from Aux Cayes, Hayti, with 460 tons of logwood for the W. G. Johnson mills at Montville. The vessel is in the harbor awaiting the investigation of the custom house officials.

A Bridgeport correspondent notes the fact that Sister Alphonse of the Norwich convent is visiting her sister at the convent of the Sisters of Mercy, on Myrtle avenue, and that the brother of both is the Rev. Walter Shanley of Hartford.

A whip tail shark, twenty feet in length, is one of the attractions in New London at the present time. There are other varieties of sharks in this city at the mouth of the Thames, but the whip is spoken of as being harmless.

It is understood that the Rock Manufacturing company of Rockville, one of the largest woolen companies in New England, will reduce its working time to three days a week on account of dullness in the trade. The company employs 400 hands.

The work of excavating for the lower stories of the new Congregational church in Greeneville is nearly completed. The workmen encountered some large boulders, but with the help of a derrick they have been removed, and afford material for strong foundation walls.

The condition of ex-Consul John A. Tibbits has not improved since his return from Bradford, Eng., a few weeks ago. With his family he is occupying the cottage of James O'Neill (Monte Cristo) on Pequot avenue, a delightful spot overlooking the sound. He has a host of friends who would rejoice to see him in his old-time vigor.

Mr. Louis A. Tyler and his friend, Mr. K. Hoyt Stone of the Adelphi academy of Brooklyn, N. Y., are visiting at the residence of Mrs. C. E. Betts of Greene avenue. Miss Viola Betts and the entire party staying at their home expect to leave for Fort Griswold and spend the summer in the Betts cottage.

A local bicyclist has just begun the use of a new device for throwing light in his path while riding after dark. For the regular bicycle lantern he has substituted a much smaller one, the face of which is a circular magnifying glass. The change is an advantageous one, as the lantern affords as much illumination as one twice its size.

Some individual who probably did not know any better, took a pasteboard sign labelled "Straw Hats," from a Main street hat store Saturday afternoon and placed it upon a wire screen in front of Preston Bros.' hardware store. The joke was a poor one, but the theft of the sign would subject the offender to a prosecution were he identified.

While John Woodmansee was moving one of the new boilers at the Thamesville paper mill upon his truck, Saturday, the wheels suddenly sunk into a bed of soft cinders, and the vehicle couldn't be drawn out. Today Mr. Woodmansee will put eight horses in commission and see if that truck cannot be moved.

John M. Turner of Trenton, N. J., came up to New London on the steamer City of Boston Saturday morning in quest of his runaway niece. Aided by Sheriff Hawkins, he found her boarding with a Groton family. The New London Day says that Mr. Turner was advised on the boat to secure the assistance of the sheriff by Mr. Charles Bard of this city.

At last reports a Connecticut cow at the World's fair was getting to be almost as famous as her sister that jumped over the moon. She is owned by ex-State Treasurer E. S. Henry of Rockville, and stands second in the class of twenty-five Jerseys as a butter producer. She will prove herself still more of a treasure in the estimation of the ex-treasurer if she succeeds in jumping over the cow who just now stands at the head of the class.

The Hon. Ira G. Briggs of Griswold, and his two daughters, Mrs. Thomas H. Peabody of Westerly and Mrs. George W. Carroll of this city, have returned from a three months' tour in various states and territories of the union, including California and Alaska. All told, they have traveled some 15,000 or 20,000 miles; and a description of what they have seen and experienced would fill many large sized books. They are in excellent health.

Personal.

The New England Magazine for July has an exceedingly clever story by Mrs. Herbert S. Underwood (nee Lanman) of Boston. It is entitled "A Triumph of Mind," and hits off very well (besides being a readable love story) the "telepathic" craze. The scene is laid in Boston and at Gloucester, and the heroine (?) proposes to the hero as he crosses the Common and Public Garden.

Union Services.

The Broadway, Second and Park Congregational churches have arranged the following union services for the next six weeks: Sunday, July 23 and 30, at the Park church; August 6 and 13, Broadway church; August 20 and 27, at Second church.

Separate services of the three churches will be resumed Sept. 3. The ordinance of communion will be observed Sept. 10.

Atlantic Yacht Club at the Pequot.

Late in the afternoon of Tuesday the fleet of pleasure craft, to the number of fifty, comprising the Atlantic Yacht club, under the command of Commodore David Banks, will drop anchor off the Pequot house and the guests there as well as on the other side of the river are preparing to give them a royal reception. At the invitation of Commodore Banks all the captains and their guests will dine that evening at the Pequot, and afterwards there is to be a german given in the large parlor of the house. There will also be illuminations and fireworks galore, and it is the intention to make the visit of the Atlantic yachtsmen a memorable one.

DIED.

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL.

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL.

A Few Helpful Suggestions for Saturday Visitors to the Great Mid-Summer Sale now Going on Here.

Black Dress Goods.

Our salesmen have been kept busy this week measuring and cutting off the Black Mohairs. The supply is still large, but they won't last always. Get them while you can. Prices 39c, from 87½c—39c, from 50c—49c, from 58c.

You've heard of Bedford Cord, but you probably have never heard of all wool, 48 inch, Black Bedford Cord for 87½c a yard —100 yards in stock—about a dozen dress patterns.

Once upon a time we had about 1,000 yards of Novelty Black Dress Goods—price 75c. A few days ago we made the price 59c. As a result we have less than 500 yards to dispose of. Fourteen different styles—price 59c a yard.

Colored Dress Goods.

What shall the cotton gown be? Flannelette, Scotch Zephyr or Scotch Gingham?

We have all them and at wonderfully little prices. For instance:

Flannelette 8c a yard, former price 12½c.

Scotch Zephyr 12½c a yard, former price 25c.

Scotch Gingham 12½ a yard, former price 25c.

Or if your preference is for the heavier woolen goods, note this item:

40-inch Bedford Cord, desirable shades, 31c a yard, former price 50c.

Print Department.

Roll call in the Print Department.

At 4c—Best Shirting Prints.

At 4 1-2c—Fine Printed Challies, black and white and light effects.

At 5c—Best Fancy Dress Prints, a host of desirable patterns.

At 8c—Best Dress Ginghams, former price 12½c.

At 8c—Limerick Lawns. Irish goods from Yankee looms.

At 12 1-2c—Zephyr Ginghams, formerly 25.

Garment Department.

Do you know the swellest thing out for Ladies' wear? Dame Fashion says: "White Duck Suits." We have them.

Each day that the sample line of Woman's White Cotton Underwear is on sale it attracts new buyers. Customers come first from curiosity; their curiosity is changed to surprise at the marvelous values. Then they go home and tell their friends that Porteous & Mitchell have the finest line of Woman's Cotton Underwear that they have ever seen in Norwich.

This kind of advertising counts more than newspaper notices because its influence is more direct.

There remains about 500 Garments, Drawers, Chemises, Night Gowns, etc., some low priced, medium priced and high priced.

Prices in every instance from 30 to 50 per cent. under the regular retail prices.

Bear in mind that every garment is different—no two alike in the entire lot.

Hosiery Department.

Take one! You'll never get a better chance.

More than 300 choice styles in Men's 4-in-hand Ties that were 50c, 75c and even $1—a choice of this lot for 25c each.

Men's Outing Shirts 19c.

Men's Outing Shirts 39c, were 60c.

Men's Outing Shirts—silk stripe—well made—69c, were $1.

Men's Undershirts 12c each.

Men's Balbriggan Undershirts—short sleeves—29c, were 37½c.

Men's Fine Balbriggan Undershirts—short sleeves—39c, were 50c.

Three interesting items in Men's Hosiery.

A few more boxes of "World's Fair" Half Hose 49c a box, six pairs in a box.

Men's Fancy Half Hose—Imported—the duty alone was about 5 cents on each pair —10c a pair.

Men's Fine Half Hose—fast black, russets, black and white stripes and fancy stripes—19c a pair, three for 50c, were 25c.

Ladies' Knit Underwear.

Ladies' Fine Ribbed Vests—Sea Island Cotton—low neck, short sleeve—37½c, reduced from 50c.

Ladies' Union Suits—short sleeves and knee lengths—59c a suit, reduced from $1.

Parasols and Laces.

All our Parasols at from 25 to 50 per cent. reduction. There is no better time than now to buy a Parasol.

White and Black 45 inch Flouncing 17c a yard. No need for comment on that item.

White, Cream and Ecru Point de Gene Laces, from 3 to [illegible] inches wide, for 10c, 15c, 25c and 50c.

White and Cream, Oriental and Denfeld Kraze Laces, 4 to 8 inches wide, for 15c and 25c.

Violets 10c a bunch.

Gloves and Handkerchiefs.

Ladies' Black Taffeta Gloves 12½c, were 25c.

Eight-Button Suede Mousquetaire Gloves, sizes 5¾ to 7, 65c a pair, were 98c.

Ladies' Chamois Gloves, natural and white, of all sizes, 75c a pair, were 98c.

Men's Japanese Silk Handkerchiefs 25c each.

Small Wares.

Perfumery, choice extracts 12½c an ounce, former price 25c. Such odors as these:

Lavender, Farsefa, Rosedora, Jockey Club, White Rose, Heliotrope, Violet, Stephanotis.

Ko Li, a magical name, the great electric cleanser, for removing stains from Carpets, Rugs, Tapestries, Curtains, Gloves, etc.

1 pound cans, 21c each. Try it.

SIGNALS SET FOR CLEAR TRACK.

A Chicago Street Car Run Down by a Passenger Train.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED.

Accident Happened at the Most Dangerous Crossing in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 17.—An incoming passenger train on the Grand Trunk road ran down a crowded street car tonight, killing four and injuring a number of others.

The killed are Chas. Perkins, Jno. Dillon, and two unidentified men. All were taken to the hospital.

The collision occurred at the Forty-ninth street crossing, which is a network of tracks and has always been regarded as a dangerous passage.

Another train had just passed and the tower man raised the gates, giving the street car right to pass. The signals were clear and the driver started to drive across the track.

The passenger train was rapidly approaching, and just as the street car reached the track it was struck in the center by the train.

Perkins and Dillon were frightfully mangled. Some of the people jumped and saved themselves, but the majority were caught.

The tower man says, regarding the accident today, that he did not see the train coming until it was too late to stop the street car by putting down the gates. Engineer Jones, of the train, says that he did not see the street car until the horses were in front of the engine.

Engineer Jones, Fireman Hurley and Henry Hughes, who were in the cab of the engine at the time, have all been arrested.

CAN'T KEEP HIM DOWN.

William Taylor of Franklin, O., Rises Superior to Misfortune.

FRANKLIN, Ohio, July 17.—Wm. Taylor, who keeps a small grocery at Sixth and Main streets, has a history. His father was a wealthy Irishman, fond of traveling. He visited Samoa and carried away a beautiful native, who afterward became his wife and the mother of William.

After the death of his father, William came to America and went into business at Mobile and Montgomery, Ala. When the war broke out, Taylor converted all his personal property into confederate money and went to Europe and lost all. After the war he disposed of his realty for $75,000 and started north.

At Chattanooga he was robbed of the entire amount. A purse was made up, and, dead broke, Taylor reached here in 1866. He began peddling apples and now has a business which keeps him and his wife in comfort.

THE COMET.

Prof. Frisbie Thinks Its Tail is Increasing in Size.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The comet which is now the object of so much search and speculation, at 10 o'clock last night suddenly developed an enormous tail which to the unaided eye was taken at first for a display of the aurora borealis.

At that time Prof. Frisbie of the naval observatory was studying the comet through the nine-inch glass. He noticed a long streak of greenish-white light shoot out from the comet and extend itself almost to the zenith. At first, the nucleus of the comet being at that moment hidden by a fleecy cloud, it was thought that the aurora borealis had sent out an advance notice of a brilliant engagement, but as there was no flickering and as the light came steadily from where the comet had last been seen, the professor concluded that he was seeing a comet in process of development.

Prof. Frisbie said:

The tail of the comet was 30 degrees long, a distance about sixty times as long as the moon is wide, and extended from 10 degrees above the horizon almost to the zenith. It was plainly visible to the naked eye and was watched for some time by the corps of observers at the institution.

"There is no way to explain the sudden freaks of comets. They are erratic bodies at best and the only thing to say is that this one has reached a stage where it was ready to throw out the long streak of luminous gas which we call a tail. It was not a bushy tail, but a long ribbon of light about three times as wide as the moon."

KREUSER STOPPED RIGHT THERE.

When an Undertaker Encouraged Him to Commit Suicide, He Quit.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 17.—George C. Kreuser, a shoemaker, while in delirium tremens, attempted suicide Sunday evening at the home of his mother, No. 51 Ann street. He cut four gashes in his throat with a case knife. W. T. Marchant, the undertaker, whose office is across the street, ran over and asked Kreuser what he was doing. Kreuser said he was killing himself, and Mr. Marchant told him to go ahead. Such encouragement from the undertaker caused Kreuser to desist, and he dropped the knife.

Kreuser was taken to the police station, where his wounds were sewed up by Dr. Childs. Later he was taken to the hospital. It was stated there today that he was suffering more from the effects of liquor than from the knife cuts.

STEAMER ROSEDALE DISABLED.

Her Machinery Broke Down Off Norwalk —Passengers Transferred.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 17.—The steamer Rosedale of the Bridgeport & New York Steamboat Co., broke part of her machinery off Norwalk this afternoon and lay helpless for a time. The Richard Peck soon arrived and took 250 of the Rosedale's passengers aboard and brought them to this city. Another steamer took the other 75 passengers from the Rosedale into Bridgeport. There was somewhat of a scare on the Rosedale when her machinery broke, but nothing serious.

Run Down by Bloodhounds.

CHATTANOOGA, July 17.—James Irvin, one of the murderers of Rob Reed, was placed in jail Sunday, having been trailed by bloodhounds forty miles into the Georgia wilderness. He confesses to the murder.

A Lucky Chambermaid.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Miss Annie Wilkowor, who until Saturday was a chambermaid in the Palmer house, is now Baroness Sohtborg, wife of an Austrian nobleman. Baron Sohtborg became acquainted with Miss Wilkowor about a year ago, when he was a guest at the Palmer house. The friendship was renewed last spring and culminated in the marriage of the couple on Saturday. They are now taking an extended tour through the east.

FAR BELOW THE AVERAGE.

Small and Poor Yield of Hay in Vermont —Other Crops Fair.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 17.—Vermont farmers are now well along with their haying and they report that the crop is far below the average, both in quantity and quality. The early spring rains flooded many of the creek meadows, while the recent drought has played havoc with upland meadows.

The Farmer says: "The crop in Rutland county will fall below the average by thousands of tons, and many farmers will be obliged to sell off a part of their stock before snow flies."

Similar complaints come from other sections, especially the northern part of the state, where the drought seems to be the most severe.

Usually a large amount of hay is pressed for market, but this year the farmers are saving all the crop for their own use.

The other crops—potatoes, corn, oats, wheat, barley, etc.—are fair, although the dry spell is doing much damage on the farms in the Lake Champlain valley, the potatoes suffering the most.

A Reward of $500 for the Bartel Brothers.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The sealing schooner Archilles slipped in here late last night, and the two men in charge, Oscar and Julius Bartel, landed and disappeared before the harbor police knew of their presence. There is a reward of $500 for the capture of the Bartels for barratry. The story of their exploits reads like a romance. The schooner was fitted out by capitalists in Washington state and sent out last summer to the Arctic. Her catch of sealskins the captain, Oscar Bartel, sold to the Alaska Commercial company's agent at Kodiak for $4,000. He then discharged the crew at Sitka and sailed away with his brother.

Nothing being heard of the schooner, she was posted for barratry and a reward offered for her discovery and the arrest of her captain. The two men navigated her to this port. They entered here last night and told the watchman at the Heads they had come in for repairs. They anchored and early this morning went ashore. They left the vessel in apple pie order, but left no trace of themselves. Detectives are searching for them to get the reward.

The President at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 17.—President Cleveland arrived here about 7 o'clock this evening on the steam yacht Oneida, having left Gray Gables this morning. The president is on a fishing trip as the guest of E. C. Benedict. The yacht anchored in the outer harbor and no one but the steward has been ashore. They expect to leave early in the morning.

Vehicle Collision at Middletown.

MIDDLETOWN, July 17.—Last night, Minnie Cronin of Middlefield, while driving to this city, was run into by a team in which were three drunken men, was thrown out and received a broken ankle and other injuries. She was picked up and brought to this city. Here she was again thrown out and received further injury. Both teams were demolished.

Long Continuous Sea Service.

ESSEX, Conn., July 17.—The remains of Captain Thomas Mason, who died last Friday in Orange, N. J., arrived here today and were buried in the family plot. The Episcopal burial service was used. Captain Mason was a native of Essex and was one of the last of the old sea captains hailing from the town. It is claimed that he had seen more continuous sea service than any other captain sailing from American ports.

The Glen House Fire.

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N. H., July 17.—The Glen house which was burned Sunday morning was insured for $120,000. Mr. Milliken places his loss at $175,000. The guests were sent by coach to Gorham and Jackson. The help were mostly paid off today and they left for their homes. No [illegible] will be made to rebuild the house this season.

Congress of Educators in Session.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The congress of educators, one of the most notable of the World's fair gatherings, began today. Attendance at the initial session was good. Dr. W. Harris, United States commissioner of education, Gabriel Compayre of Poictiers, Mr. Brown and Chancellor Barnard of the University of Wisconsin, made responses to the addresses of welcome.

Nicaraguan Officials Still in Prison.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Secretary Gresham has received a cable message from Minister Baker, dated Managua, July 16, as follows: "The Nicaraguan president and minister of foreign affairs are still in prison at Leon. A meeting of the cabinet proclaimed Zavala dictator. A large majority of Nicaraguans support the government."

Editor Maples as an Entertainer.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., July 17.—Editor Maples of The Hour, entertained the Connecticut Press association at its midsummer meeting held at Roton Point today. A shore dinner was served. After the banquet the members took a steamer for South Norwalk where addresses were made at the Mahackemo hotel parlors. The next meeting is to be held at South Manchester, September 1.

Prominent New York Merchant Dead.

NEW YORK, July 17.—H. F. Spalding, aged 78, senior member of the dry goods house of Spalding, Hunt & Co., died today from heart disease. He was a director of the Merchants National bank and was connected with various other institutions.

Speed of Carrier Pigeons.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 17.—Tonight two carrier pigeons arrived here at the Brooks-Borden coop after a flight of 505 miles from Elba, Va. These birds are the same two that now hold this year's record from Philadelphia. They were liberated yesterday at sunrise and arrived here at 6.25 p. m.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The receipts from internal revenue today were $666,161; from customs, $514,616, and miscellaneous, $50,564. The national bank notes received today for redemption amount to $114,586.

Children Cremated.

DURANT, Miss., July 17.—Last night three children were locked up in the house by their parents, colored, who then went to church. During the absence of the parents the cabin was destroyed by fire and the children cremated.

Young Lady Struck by a Train.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 17.—Miss Mary Rowe, aged 18, attempted to cross the track in front of an engine at 9 o'clock tonight and was struck and fatally injured. The flagman was on duty at the time.

A Young Lady's Dreadful Dies of Hydrophobia.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 17.—Miss Lizzie Byram, aged 21 years, of Newark, N. J., died at her summer home here of hydrophobia, the result of a bite from a pet dog inflicted early last April. The wound was very slight and caused no blood to flow, and for this reason it was not cauterized. Early on Friday last the young woman complained of feeling ill, and despite all of the efforts of the attending physicians she died this morning in terrific convulsions. It took the combined strength of two men to hold the sufferer down on her bed, and her cries were most piteous. Early on Saturday Miss Byram showed signs of hydrophobia. She began to froth at the mouth, and when she attempted to speak the sounds she uttered were similar to those of a dog.

A Fugitive Banker.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 17.—Conrad Niehoff of the defunct banking house of C. L. Niehoff & Co. has disappeared. The creditors of the bank are trying hard to locate him but without success. The [illegible] $141,000, with but [illegible] assets.

A number of shady transactions have been unearthed, and criminal proceedings will be begun against the ex-banker. His company say he is at a summer resort trying to repair his shattered health, but refuse to divulge the place.

Breaks Up the Meeting.

WINEMAC, Ind., July 17.—While Sam Jones was preaching his second sermon yesterday to 15,000 people, a sudden and terrific wind storm came up and lifted the huge tent that covered the congregation high into the air, snapping the large ropes which anchored it, as was supposed, securely to the ground, and landed it against a large tree at least 100 feet from where it originally stood.

No one was seriously hurt, but the meeting closed abruptly.

Sinking of a French Vessel.

LONDON, July 17.—A dispatch from Saigon, via Paris, says that the French merchant vessel Jean Bay, which recently arrived at the mouth of the Menam river, was seized by the Siamese and sunk, presumably for the purpose of blocking the channel in a futile attempt to prevent the French gunboats from ascending to Bangkok. The crew of the Jean Bay were ill-treated by their captors, who conveyed them to Bangkok, where they were thrown into prison.

A Coal Mine in Flames.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., July 17.—The Pennsylvania Colliery Union Coal company's mine is on fire. The fire started from a petty explosion of gas, and the flames have spread through the interior of the mines being actively worked.

It will be necessary to flood the mine, and it is thought that this will cause a suspension of work for over a year. The company employ 1,200 men and boys and has not suspended operations in four years. The water will be [illegible] into the mine today.

Centenarian Starving to Death.

BURLINGTON, N. J., July 17.—Mrs. Martha Post, after having reached the age of 101 years, and who celebrated the anniversary of her birth on May 5, is slowly starving herself to death and at the same time is wholly unconscious of it.

The old lady for five weeks has not touched a morsel of solid food, and during that time she had taken but an exceedingly small quantity in liquid form. Until her last birthday she was strong, apparently healthy and chatted reminiscently of her early youth.

She now spends her entire time in bed, never speaks, hardly moves and is peacefully exhausting what little life remains.

Mysterious Poisoning Case.

NASHUA, N. H., July 17.—A sad case of mysterious poisoning was reported tonight in the family of Russians who reside on Tolles street. The family consisted of father, mother and six children. One of the latter was taken sick Friday and died 8.30 the next morning, another was taken sick and died Sunday morning. Another was taken sick and is dying. They all have symptoms of poisoning. They were all taken with fits of vomiting. The father and mother are reported as dying. A post mortem examination will be held.

Incubator Did Not Save the Child.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The child of Mary Wittgens of No. 354 East Sixth street, placed in the incubator at Bellevue hospital on Saturday when the mother died, expired early yesterday morning. The doctors had hoped to save the baby.

Eight counties in Missouri are named in honor of presidents of the United States.

Killed by the Cars.

WEBSTER, July 17.—Jerry Wesport, brakeman on the midnight "cannon ball," the fast freight from Providence, was instantly killed Sunday night at the East Webster bridge. He forgot himself and was standing erect on the top of the cars when he struck the bridge. He was knocked off the bars and his left hand went under the wheels and was crushed. He was killed instantly. Wesport was twenty-four years old and unmarried. His parents live in Chatham Center, N. Y. They have been wired of their son's death.

Held for Theft.

PUTNAM, July 17.—Augustus H. Barlow of Putnam was taken from Worcester to Woonsocket, R. I., Saturday night and arraigned for stealing a watch and bicycle from his uncle, Wm. H. Barslow of Woonsocket. Probable cause was found for holding him for trial, and he was put under $600 bonds to appear in the September term of the upper court. In default of bail he was committed to jail.

He is nineteen years old and claims "Jack gambling brought him to his career of crime." His parents are respectable residents of this place and are distressed by his arrest and imprisonment.

Violation of Health Regulations.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 17.—The schooner G. E. Bentley, Capt. Merriam, from Port Greville, N. S., is under a cloud here, and the customs collector has asked the treasury department at Washington whether or not he shall seize her for a violation of the health regulations. The vessel arrived here a few days ago from Nova Scotia without the usual clearance papers from the United States consul at Port Greville. The owners of the Bentley have on several previous occasions failed to comply with the health regulations, and the United States authorities decided to put the screws on. According to the new regulations a failure to have a bill of health from the port from which a vessel sails makes the vessel open to seizure and lays the owner liable to a fine of $5,000.

Railroad Employes on Trial at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 17.—The trial of Evan W. Scott and 20 other employes of the New York & New England railroad for defrauding the road, has been on all day before Justice E. O. Goodwin at East Hartford. E. H. Robbins appeared for the road and J. L. Barbour for all the defendants. Every complaint has been amended to include Scott with each other defendant.

Samuel Osborn's case was first called. The paymaster's clerk testified to having paid Osborn for five full days' work in a week in June and other testimony showed that he worked only two days in that week. On Scott's books he was credited with five days' time. Pinkerton Detective Guttman was then put on the stand and testified to working in the shops with the men and unearthing the frauds. Attorney Barbour is fighting the trial at every step. When the court opened this morning, he made the road's counsel prove the organization and existence of the New York & New England Railroad company.

Great Speed of the Cup Defender Vigilant.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 17.—The Tobin bronze cup defender Vigilant had a trial trip recently, yesterday and those who now have seen her have ample time today. There was more than wind enough and it was practically the first time outsiders have been able to form any opinion of her speed. Yesterday, however, she sailed outside at the time the fast Sakonnet steamer Awashonks was on her trip. The Awashonks by actual timing was making fourteen miles an hour, yet the Vigilant, close-hauled, cut across her bows as though the steamer was at anchor. Old yachtsmen who saw her said that the Volunteer in her palmiest days could not be compared with this new Herreshoff wonder.

Liquor Seizure at Essex.

ESSEX, Conn., July 17.—Deputy Sheriff Fred C. Platt of Deep River and Constable Wm. C. Tooky of Centerbrook raided the premises of E. E. Platt, the Centerbrook liveryman, and R. H. Scoville, near the Valley railroad depot, on Saturday night and seized a small quantity of liquor at both places. Both the places have the reputation of selling in violation of the law. They claim that the liquor taken away by the officers was kept for private use and not for sale. A hearing will be held on the case later on.

Another Kansas Bank Fails.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 17.—The Star's special from Topeka, Kans., says: State Bank Examiner Briedenthal says Hood & Kincaid's bank of Clemenson, Kans., has failed and is in the hands of Deputy Bank Commissioner Osborne. The capital stock is $50,000. No statement is given. Commissioner Briedenthal has information of a number of other bank failures in the state, but he declines to give the names until he has taken possession.

The Siamese-French Trouble.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—News of the latest phase of the Siamese-French trouble was received at the state department today from Mr. Boyd, U. S. consul at Bangkok. Mr. Boyd's cable message follows: "Everything quiet. Concessions Siamese. An amicable settlement probable." "Concession Siamese" is interpreted to mean that the French have made concessions to the Siamese.

Alleged Refusal to Pay a Death Claim.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 17.—The Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company of New York, has refused to pay a death claim held against it by Mrs. Martin Ryan of this city. A policy was issued by the company to Mrs. Ryan's husband in January last, and he died in April of bronchitis, it is alleged. The company claims that the policy was secured by fraud between Ryan and a former agent of the company. Mrs. Ryan will sue.

The Assertion Denied.

PARIS, July 17.—A semi official note is published today, denying the assertion that France had disavowed to the Siamese government the action of Admiral Humann in causing gunboats to ascend the Menam river, and that the commanders of the gunboats Comete and Inconstante had exceeded their instructions in firing upon the forts at Paknam.

Letter of Thanks From Lizzie Borden.

UNEARTHED A JAR OF GOLD.

An Italian Laborer's Pick Brings Him Sudden Wealth

RICHER BY $5,000.

Will Return to His Native Land to Pass a Life of Ease.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17.—Direngo Artell was a laborer earning $1.25 per day with a pick and shovel until Saturday. Today he is in New York waiting for the first outward-bound steamer to carry him back to his beloved Italy, where he anticipates a luxurious ease.

Artell on Saturday morning was one of a gang of laborers cutting away the sloping lawn in front of the old Mifflin mansion at the falls of the Schuylkill. His pick struck against some hard substance. He found an old-fashioned stoneware crock. The lid was removed and there lay gold.

The foreigner retired to a secluded spot. He found the crock partly filled with English sovereigns and Spanish doubloons. Calling his chum, Frank Ardi, Artell stuffed the gold into his pockets and dinner pail and the two left the diggings.

Ardi returned in a few hours and told his companions that the crock contained 900 sovereigns and six doubloons, and that a banker in the city had bought them for $5,000. Artell, he said, had rigged himself out in a full new suit of clothes, and had taken a train for New York with the intention of returning to Italy on the first steamer that sailed.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The treasury today purchased 60,000 ounces of silver. Total amount of silver purchased up to date for July, 940,000 ounces.

Their Golden Wedding Observed.

MELROSE, July 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Addison have observed their golden wedding by a reception in the Baptist chapel, at which a large number of towns people attended and offered their congratulations.

A memorandum kept by George Washington during the campaign in 1757, which contains the names of the men composing the companies enlisted for the service of the different colonies of Virginia, is owned by Lawrence Washington of Alexandria, Va., the general's great-grandnephew.

The carbon of food mixed with the oxygen of the air, furnishes fuel for the body, which evolves heat in exactly the same way that a fire or candle does.

In Norway the horses always have a bucket of water placed beside each animal's allowance of hay. After each mouthful of hay they take a sip of water. It is said that this mode of feeding is beneficial; and to it the fact is attributed that a broken-winded horse is rarely seen in Norway.

In Spain, once upon a time, no man might ride a horse which the king had mounted. One day when Philip IV was going to church in a procession, the duke of Medina offered to present him with a beautiful steed belonging to him and accounted the finest in Madrid. The king declined the gift, saying he should regret to render so noble an animal ever after useless.

A story has been circulating that the czar of Russia recently sent to the sultan of Turkey, as a present, an album of paintings by first-rate artists of all the war ships of the Russian Black sea fleet. In some quarters the reported act is thought a piece of fine humor; while in others, it is considered an insult to which a reprisal in kind would not be difficult.

The bank of Venice had its origin in a forced loan by the government from wealthy citizens. In order to arrange for the payment of interest on it this chamber of loans was organized which undertook a banking business. Funds once deposited could not be withdrawn, but could be transferred.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Saved Her Sight

"My little girl Mabel two years ago had the grip, leaving her with inflamed eyes, so bad that for seven months we had to bandage them and keep her in a dark room. The family physician and an oculist said the sight of one eye was destroyed and she might lose the other. She suffered intense pain, and when light was admitted to the room would cry as if burned with a hot iron. We began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, and to our surprise her eyes began to improve rapidly. The sight

Among the boxers who will appear are Jimmy Nelson, Frank Cook, Jim McNaught, Billy McGeath, Eddy Daly, Patsy Broderick, young Gallagher, Jimmy Lynch, Jim Kirby, Mike Glynn, George Goss and Harvey and Sullivan. The windup will be a six round go between Jack Falvey of Providence and Frank Conley of Brooklyn.

Mr. Slater's New Yacht.

Charles E. Hyde, constructing engineer of the Bath Iron works, was in New London Friday and The Day man immediately got on his trail. Mr. Hyde came to consult with W. A. Slater in regard to a new steel yacht that gentleman intends building. The Bath workers built the Sagamore, Mr. Slater's former yacht, and were losers by the contract, but the vessel gave such evidence of perfect construction that the company will probably build the new one, which is to be a much larger yacht than the Sagamore.

Fish and Butterflies.

Mr. Archibald Mitchell and son returned from a six weeks' trip to Canadian salmon streams Saturday evening. A dozen salmon rose to Mr. Mitchell's fly. The season has been poor. On the Grand Cascapedia Mr. Mitchell and his son Archie fished for sea trout and had fine sport. One morning before breakfast they took five that weighed sixteen pounds.

On the banks of the Restigouche Mr. Mitchell found the tiger swallowtail butterfly (papilio turnus) abundant and took one hundred specimens with his hands. With a net these butterflies could have been taken by the thousand.

They both returned in excellent health and with a tan that is only obtainable by work in the open air.

Up a Tree.

Hulitt Hazewell, a shoemaker in Windham county, Conn., hurrahed for Seymour in the presidential campaign of 1868, and in payment of a bet he made and lost on Seymour's success has lived ever since in a hut in a big chestnut tree in the midst of a field that is a part of the farm he owns. It all happened in this way: He had a bitter political discussion one day with a neighbor named Daniels, who finally in exasperation exclaimed: "Well, Hulitt, if Seymour is elected I'll be whipped if I'll stay in the country." And Hazewell, equally enraged, replied: "I won't leave the country, Daniels, but if Grant's elected, I'll climb a tree and stay there."—[New York Press.

New London County Treasurers.

The records of the county of New London show that the following persons have held the office of treasurer of the county since 1781: Wm. Noyes of Stonington, from 1781 to 1805; Nathan Griswold of Lyme, from 1805 to 1819; Joseph Williams of Norwich, from 1819 to 1843; Jacob W. Kinney of Norwich from 1843 to 1855; Benjamin F. Park of Preston, dem., from 1855 to 1860; Leonard Hempstead of New London, dem., from 1860 to 1864; J. S. Lathrop of Norwich, 1864. There is nothing in the records to show that any appointment was made except for a vacancy, nor is the law that permits removal.

HEALTH OF THE STATE.

Deaths in June—Some of the New Laws Enacted.

The monthly report of the state board of health shows that during June there were 933 deaths in Connecticut. This was 243 less than in May; it was 90 more than in June 1892, and 78 more than the average number of deaths in June for the five years preceding the present. The death rate was 15 6 for the large towns, for the small towns 12 7, and 14.0 for the whole state. There were ten deaths from the grip, six from measles, thirteen from scarlet fever, 23 from cerebro spinal [illegible], thirteen from diphtheria and croup, and nine from typhoid fever.

The laws recently enacted by the legislature mostly go into effect on the 30th of the present month. The most important are the following:

Registrars are empowered to complete the records of births, marriages and deaths in their respective towns from the first day of January, 1850, the facts to be obtained from public official records or those of a church society.

Registrars may charge an additional fifty cents to candidates for matrimony for a marriage license, for attaching an affidavit to the license. A printed form of the affidavit will be furnished to the registrars of the state [illegible] July 30.

Concerning persons who die of contagious diseases, the amended law requires the registrar before giving a permit for burial or removal, to take a sworn statement that the bodies have been disinfected in accordance with directions prescribed by the state board of health, and hermetically sealed in an airtight coffin.

An act concerning the practice of medicine was passed which requires all practitioners in the state to be registered in their respective towns and at the office of the state board of health, before October 1, 1893. It imposes upon the state board the purely clerical duties of providing the necessary blanks, record books, and other means of executing the law, and of superintending its operation and recording its results. The duties of the state board in the execution of the law are wholly ministerial and in no respect are they discretionary or judicial.

New Haven and Whales.

The New Haven Palladium thinks its seafaring residents aren't alive to their opportunities. It says: "The whale seems to have displaced the serpent this summer as a seaside attraction. All along the Atlantic coast these marine monsters are flaunting their tails and disporting themselves to the admiring passengers of excursion steamers. At least the captains of the aforesaid steamers say they are. The last reported appearance was between Watch Hill and Block Island on Thursday. Why can't New Haven have a chance? Our harbor is handsome enough even for the most fastidious whale, and thousands of spectators will be assured. It is to be feared that our skippers lack imagination, or magnetism, or both."

Has Byxbee Got the Plum?

The New Haven Union declares officially, it alleges, that John C. Byxbee of Meriden will succeed United States Revenue Collector Hutchinson.

LUCKY MAN, MURTHA!

New Norwich's One-Armed Letter Carrier Has Caught On.

The New York Sunday World says: That well-tried maxim "Heaven helps those who help themselves," embodies in a small compass the experience of Frank Murtha, Norwich's single-armed letter carrier.

His right arm was torn off in the Falls cotton mill when he was eleven years old. When the free delivery system was introduced in that city seven years ago Mr. Murtha applied for the position of carrier. His suit was looked upon as impracticable by many, but he persevered in the face of many discouragements, finally securing the place. He was assigned to the Greeneville route, probably the most arduous in the volume of business and distance, and has performed his duties capably ever since. Facility came with practice, and Mr. Murtha finds no difficulty in handling and delivering nearly one thousand pieces of mail matter every day.

He is president of the local Letter-Carriers association and of their benevolent organization, and is a member of St. Mary's T. A. B. society, St. Joseph's Sodality and Literary association, Ancient Order Foresters of America and Shetucket Steam Fire Engine company. His services are in constant demand as a baseball umpire. He has won a name for sprinting, and is an authority on all athletic matters.

Two years ago, when a local social organization offered a solid gold watch and chain to the most popular letter-carrier, to be determined by popular vote, the result was in favor of Mr. Murtha.

"OLD PUT'S" PORTRAIT.

It Occupies an Honored Place in Connecticut's World Fair Cottage.

One of the first things to attract the eye of the visitor at the Connecticut building at the World's fair is a portrait of General Israel Putnam, which very properly occupies a conspicuous place. This portrait of the famous hero who "dared to lead where any one dared to follow," is a remarkably strong one and was painted in 1825, from a pencil sketch made from life by Colonel John Trumbull. Soon after its completion it was loaned by the artist to the state centennial commissioners of the exposition of 1876, and was given the place of honor over the mantel in the Connecticut cottage at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition, where with Putnam's muskets, cane and other relics, it was considered so important a feature that the building was often spoken of as "Putnam's cottage." Afterward it was loaned to the committee in charge of the centennial celebration of Putnam's [illegible], held in Greenwich, February [illegible]. It was purchased by the state of Connecticut in 1881—the centennial [illegible] recommending the purchase and Governor Morris, then in the general assembly, offered the resolution authorizing the same. Since its purchase by the state it has hung in the governor's room at the capitol, until loaned by the authorities of the state for the Connecticut building at the Columbian fair.

COMMISSIONER ROBERTSON.

A Sketch of His Life Previous to His Appointment.

The New London Telegraph, Monday, published a biographical sketch of the Hon. Alexander C. Robertson of Montville, the newly appointed railroad commissioner, with his portrait.

Mr. Robertson was born in Greeneville, August 31, 1849, and educated at Cheshire military academy, and the Scholfield commercial college, in Providence. After graduation, he gave his time wholly to the paper business in Montville, where he has since made his home. When he had mastered the secrets of paper making, he went to New York and there spent three years in the paper trade, in which he has been engaged ever since.

In 1873 he was elected to the house of representatives, the first democrat sent to the legislature from Montville in forty years. He was candidate for senator in the old Ninth senatorial district in 1876 and 1877, but was defeated both times by the Honorable William H. Hayward of Colchester, the district being overwhelmingly republican.

Mr. Robertson was not a candidate for any other office until 1886, when he was sent as county delegate to the democratic national convention at St. Louis.

He was again elected to the house of representatives in the fall of 1888, from Montville, and in 1890, was elected senator from the 11th senatorial district, defeating the popular and talented young lawyer, Walter C. Noyes of Old Lyme, by 48 votes.

In 1892 he was re-elected by a largely increased majority. Mr. Robertson is the only democrat who ever carried the old Shoe String district, and his largest vote has always been received where he is best known.

During the last session of the legislature he was appointed railroad commissioner by Governor Morris, and the appointment was unanimously confirmed and approved by the senate.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Bulletin assumes no responsibility for communications printed under the above heading. No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

Mr. Cook Speaks by the Book.

MR. EDITOR:—The person who valiantly hides behind "Justice" evidently knows not whereof he speaks. The contract for the Laurel Hill bridge does not contain the words "thirty days;" and the engineer for the town has nothing to [illegible] relative to the bridge, further than to [illegible] that the work is properly done, and as [illegible] forth in the specifications.

Concerning the wheel-stone, the bridge company considered it would cost more and take longer by using the stone taken from the abutments, than it would to get new stone cut to fit from a quarry, and consequently gave the order.

It is hoped, however, that the growlers are happy, since they should be according to the old saw—"Where ignorance is bliss," etc. HIRAM COOK.

WILL BE EXECUTED.

Admiral Vandelkolk Is Easily Captured.

HIS MEN SURRENDER WITH HIM.

All Are Sent to Rio Janeiro Under Heavy Guard.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The Herald's cable from Valparaiso, under date of yesterday, says: Admiral Vandelkolk is a prisoner, and is now on his way to Rio Janeiro, the Brazilian capital, under a heavy guard. He was only recently formally declared to be a traitor, and now that he has fallen into the clutches of the government he will no doubt be executed without ceremony.

News of the capture of Admiral Waldenkolk was received here yesterday afternoon in a telegram from Yaguarot. The telegram said that the cruiser Republica gave chase to the Jupiter outside the bar and came up with her at 8 a. m. yesterday at the bar north of Santa Catherina. Admiral Waldelkolk tried to disembark, but was prevented by the fog.

Shots were fired on the Jupiter, from which a white flag was soon hoisted. The captain of the Republica demanded the unconditional surrender of the Jupiter, her officers and crew.

Admiral Wandelkolk was forced to submit, and the officers and crew of the ship, the revolutionary troops on board and the 27 sailors of the gunboat Camocim

Were All Made Prisoners.

The captain of the Republica sent them to Rio Janeiro under a heavy guard.

The Uruguayan gunboat has gone to look for the Palas, which was reported to have been captured, but which really escaped. She is believed to be near Maldonado, on the Uruguayan coast. If she is captured her crew will be disarmed.

A Herald dispatch from Managua, Nicaragua, says: Leaders of the Liberal party decided Saturday, in a secret meeting, to join the revolutionists in Leon, and Sunday Santos Zelaya, with 40 followers, went to the revolutionary headquarters. This caused the citizens of Granada to come out more strongly in favor of the government.

General Avilez, who escaped from the revolutionists, came to Managua yesterday afternoon. He or ex-President Ravais will probably be named as dictator.

Funds in the Leon branch of the Nicaragua national bank were seized by the revolutionists. Each side is recruiting an army, but no fighting has occurred.

DOCTORS IN DISPUTE.

Is It Black Measles or Black Smallpox at Helena?

HELENA, Mont., July 17.—A disease over which the doctors are in dispute has raged with considerable violence in the town of Anaconda, in this state, for the last 10 weeks. It is alternately called black measles and black smallpox. The first case appeared about May 1, and at present there are about 60 patients in various pest houses and the yellow flag is flying over eighteen buildings. Fortunately there has been a small proportion of deaths.

An expert has just arrived from New York to assist the local physicians, and with rigid regulations and compulsory vaccination it is hoped the further spread of plague may be averted. There have been but few isolated cases in Butte City and the authorities there are taking vigorous measures to prevent the spread of the disease. Where the first case came from is a mystery.

BLOODSHED EXPECTED.

Leader of Kansas Mining Strikers Openly Advises It.

TOPEKA, July 17.—It will be difficult to prevent bloodshed in the southeast Kansas coal mine strike. Strikers march from shaft to shaft denouncing the mine owners and miners who are at work in the vilest language. Walters, the leader of the strike, openly advises bloodshed, if necessary, to gain his point.

He has incited strikers to seriously beat several men who wanted to work. Dispatches from Pittsburg say that trouble is expected today. Captain Coned, commanding the militia company at Pittsburg, has received orders to hold his men in readiness for any possible contingency.

FRANCO-SIAMESE ROW.

French Crew of Merchant Vessel Illtreated—French Victories Confirmed.

PARIS, July 17.—A dispatch from Saigon says that the French merchant vessel Jean Say, which recently arrived at the mouth of the Menam river, was seized by the Siamese and sunk, presumably for the purpose of blocking the channel in a futile attempt to prevent the French gunboats from ascending to Bangkok.

The crew of the Jean Say were illtreated by their captors, who conveyed them to Bangkok, where they were thrown into prison.

A body of French marines have captured the captured the forts at Donthane and Taphane on the upper Mekong. The French loss in the assaults was six killed. The Siamese lost heavily in both engagements.

Another dispatch received here today confirms the unofficial reports from Saigon as to the French successes on the upper Mekong river.

The press of this city is most bitter against Great Britain for her attitude in the Franco-Siamese dispute. The papers generally insist that France deal quickly and sharply with Siam.

The Soleil says that Bangkok will be bombarded by the French gunboats only as a last extremity should all other means of arriving at an understanding with [illegible] fail.

The government of Siam has consented to withdraw the troops in the Mekong valley, provided that France agrees to also suspend hostilities.

HIS BODY FOUND.

Montana's Swindling Senator Olds Found in Boulder River.

HELENA, Mont., July 17.—Several weeks ago a sensation was created throughout the state by the mysterious disappearance of I. L. B. Olds, state senator and one of the best known mining men in the state. Previous to his disappearance Olds had born an excellent reputation as a business man, and there was much surprise when it developed after his disappearance that he had swindled various people out of sums aggregating about $160,000.

In Bozeman he organized a mining company. Yesterday two boys, while fishing, found the body of a man in Boulder river. There was a bullet hole in the heart and a revolver lay alongside the body, which was badly decomposed. Closer investigation proved almost conclusively that the body was that of the missing state senator.

BURGLARS FRIGHTENED.

All the Booty They Got Was Two Suits of Clothes and Shirts.

PALMER, Mass., July 17.—Burglars entered the clothing store of S. H. Holyar & Co. some time this morning by removing a pane of glass in a rear window.

Between 4 and 4.30 o'clock a lady living in rooms over the store went down into the yard in her nightclothes. As soon as he saw her he called to some one inside the store and ran away.

The lady at once called her husband, who gave the alarm, but before an officer could be found the burglars had gone. The safe, which was unlocked, had been opened, but there was no money in it, and the papers had not been disturbed.

So far nothing has been missed except two suits of clothes and two shirts. One of the men evidently wore the stolen suit away, as he left his own in the store.

AFTER TILE FISH.

Commissioner McDonald Will Try to Locate This Almost Extinct Species.

WOODS HOLL, Mass., July 17.—Fish Commissioner McDonald sailed today in the government schooner Grampus from this port on a cruise along the gulf stream to locate the almost extinct tile fish, which is supposed to live in the easterly border of the stream.

The commissioner arrived from Washington on Friday for the express purpose of conducting the research. He is intensely enthusiastic, and hopes by finding the fish to open up an industry which may rival in importance that of the codfishery.

The government steamer Fish Hawk is in port preparatory to following up the menhaden for further information relative to that species.

NEW STEAMSHIP LINE.

From China and Japan and Our Lively City of Seattle.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 17.—A letter has been received by the chamber of commerce which states that Messrs. Samuel Samuels & Co. of London will immediately start a line of steamers for the Great Northern between China and Japan and Seattle. F. C. Davidge, who is the American agent for the London firm, has just completed the arrangement in St. Paul.

With the Canadian, the Northern Pacific and Great Northern running lines of steamers from the Orient to the sound, it looks as though competition would be lively.

Buried in a Sewer.

SALEM, Mass., July 17.—Michael Thompson was buried in a sewer trench on Spring street this forenoon and narrowly escaped death. Mr. Thompson was down in the tunnel at work several feet below the level of the street when one of the sides caved in. The heavy mass of earth pinned him down and completely buried him. He was rescued with difficulty when unconscious.

Forced Out of Business.

BUFFALO, July 17.—Mortgages and judgments have forced the real estate firm of Sellack Brothers to go out of business. The Sellacks were prominent in real estate circles, and were considered very strong financially. Their liabilities are said to be between $125,000 and $150,000.

Robert Grant Qualifies.

BOSTON, July 17.—Robert Grant appeared before Lieutenant Governor Wolcott at 12:30 this noon at the state house and was qualified as judge of probate in the county of Suffolk. Judge Grant will take his seat on the bench this afternoon in the absence of Judge McKim.

Found Dead in the Water.

ROCKLAND, Me., July 17.—Workmen on the Atlantic wharf, near the five kilns, early this morning discovered the body of a man in shoal water. It was brought to the wharf and recognized as that of Alvedo Pinkham, a sailor boarding at 22 Marsh road.

Planing Mill Burned.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 17.—Lightning struck and set fire to Conrad Lee's planing mill here yesterday. The entire plant, machinery and contents, were destroyed. Loss [illegible]; insurance, $8000.

John Tobin's Fourth of July.

BOSTON, July 17.—John Tobin, 21 years of age, of 15 Vicksburg street, was arrested this morning charged with robbing Martin Miller of $20 at South Boston on July 4.

Court Martial Opens.

VALETTA, July 17.—The court martial appointed to try Captain Maurice A. Bourke, Staff Commander Hawkins-Smith and the surviving officers of the British battleship Victoria, which was sunk in collision with the British battleship Camperdown off Tripoli, June 22, opened today upon the Hibernia, the flagship of Rear Admiral Richard E. Tracey, admiral superintendent of the Malta dockyard.

First Land Damage Suit Begun.

BOSTON, July 17.—Thomas Riley, the lawyer, has brought a petition in the Suffolk superior court asking that a jury determine the damage he sustained by reason of the commonwealth taking two parcels of land on Bowdoin street to make an open space around the state house. This is the first suit brought to assess land damages for land taken for the open ground surrounding the state house.

Cashier Francis Has a Shock.

PALMER, Mass., July 17.—Cashier Francis of the First National bank of Pittsfield, passed through this place on the east bound train at 8:05 this morning. He left Boston this morning, and at Warren suffered a stroke of paralysis. He was removed to the baggage car and placed on a stretcher. A physician was in attendance.

Yardmaster's Discharge Wanted.

DENVER, July 17.—Switchmen in the Rio Grande yards at Pueblo went out on a strike yesterday demanding the discharge of Yardmaster Crocker, who, they say, is tyrannical and unreasonable. The men declare the switchmen on the entire line will go out unless their demands are complied with.

Blackstone Will Be Sued.

BLACKSTONE, Mass., July 17.—John Dillon and Mrs. Brown, widow of William T. Brown, who was killed by a carriage accident at Coverdale a few weeks ago, have notified the town of Blackstone of claims for damages under the statutes provided for such cases. Dillon was badly injured in the runaway.

Distinguished Canadians.

BOSTON, July 17.—Hon. Honore Mercier, ex-prime minister of the province of Quebec, accompanied by O. Desmarais, advocate and ex-member of the Quebec legislative assembly for the county of St. Hyacinthe, arrived in Boston this morning from Montreal.

Two German Lads Drowned.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 17.—Two German lads who had lately come to this country were drowned in Carpenter's pond last evening. They were brothers. The older tried to save the younger, and was pulled in. The bodies were taken to Pawtucket, R. I.

This Time She Will Die.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Pretty Dot Sonwell, the snake charmer, was again bitten yesterday by one of her snakes at Huber's museum. This time she will probably die from the effects of the poison.

The Bulletin.

So Glad to Find It Out.

If you were walking along the road some day and should find a bare, bald skull lying there, how would you know whether it was a man's skull or a woman's? A learned doctor has recently been at pains to tell us, and we shall do our best in our weak way to give the information to our readers. Meantime, however, if you do not quite understand, don't blame us. If it is a woman's skull, we are told that its occipital region will be larger relatively than if it was a man's, likewise the superior medial part of its forehead. But Dr. Thiem-Cottbus publishes in the Archiv fuer Klinische Chirurgie a dead sure test which means yet more. You can tell the sex of a skull from the relative height of the ostympanicum, which forms part of the posterior wall on the glenoid or socket of the lower jawbone and closes in the bony meatus of the ear.

Now, the ostympanicum rises perpendicularly from the petrous portion of the temporal bone posteriorly—that is, we think this is what the learned doctor thinks he means to say. In spite, however, of the fact that the ostympanicum rises perpendicularly from the petrous portion of the temporal bone posteriorly, we are informed in the next sentence that in woman's skull it inclines backward at about half the height of the mastoid process in a woman, and not so far in man. If therefore your ostympanicum, which rises perpendicularly, inclines backward noticeably, then you are a woman; if not so much, then you are a man. Finally note the most important difference of all: In a man the fossa-tympanico-stylo-mastoidea is small, and it is not possible for the condyloid process to slip over the posterior wall of the glenoid cavity. Woman's skull, on the other hand, has a thundering great big fossa-tympanico-stylo-mastoidea. We always knew there was something wrong with woman.

The Born Criminal.

The criminal tendency is sometimes born into the individual; at other times it is educated into him. Children among the criminal classes can scarcely become honest and respectable if they would, so thoroughly are they cowed and persecuted when they show any disposition toward honesty, good feeling and industry.

Those who have made a study of the physical characteristics of convicts have found that there is certainly a type of born criminal. Persons belonging to it have powerful jaws, small eyes, projecting cheek bones and small, retreating foreheads. Women of the criminal type have big, ill shaped ears and mouths, small eyes and large, pointed noses and are very masculine in appearance. This goes to show that women are morally better than men, for when they are criminals they look like men.

Deformities and lack of physical symmetry are much more characteristic of criminals than of ordinary persons. Many have deformed and unsymmetrical ears, cross eyes and squinting eyes and crooked noses. These born physical deformities are twice as frequent in criminal children as in other children. Murderers have large bones, thieves small ones, and the criminal is generally a person of feeble bodily constitution as well as of dull intellect, although he may have a large share of animal cunning. It is interesting to learn that poisoners are apt to be well educated and to have a pleasing, persuasive address.

At a meeting called in Philadelphia to consider the increase of crime among colored people some interesting facts and figures as well as "views" were advanced. Judge Gordon had mentioned this increase of crime in an address he made to the grand jury some time since. In his capacity of judge and lawyer he had noticed the large number of criminals among negroes—criminals of a violent and desperate character. At the meeting of colored people to consider the matter their white brethren were present and gave them good advice liberally. A Jewish rabbi was among the speakers. Judge Gordon advised the negroes to move away from slum quarters in towns and cities, to become mechanics, and not depend too much on white people. That sounds well. But suppose negro men should become carpenters, masons and machinists, would white mechanics take them into their trades unions and be willing to work alongside of them? And if they would not, what then would become of the skilled negro mechanics?

Events that are at the time most disastrous prove often only the beginning of a greater prosperity. It is true of individual lives and affairs, of nations and of cities. The Chicago fire was the beginning of a greater development for that city than its inhabitants dreamed of before they were burned out. The fire only cleared the ground for grand, new structures. We look back now and find that the civil war was the beginning of this republic's greatest advancement to power and prosperity. We are reminded of these facts by the recent announcement that Johnstown, Pa., utterly wrecked by the flood of four years ago, has not only been rebuilt on a larger, handsomer scale, gaining back all its former population, but it has actually increased in population 6,000 since the disaster.

In Great Britain the wage earning class spends annually $420,000,000 in intoxicating drinks. In Belgium an employer made an experiment by means of marked coins, which he distributed to his men in wages. He found in the next two days that the men had spent half their earnings in the drink shops. We are informed that a temperance movement has started in Belgium, but the proceedings during the recent strikes do not look like it.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE WOMAN'S BUILDING AT THE FAIR IS A GREAT SUCCESS.

The Women Graduates—Gymnastics and Fine Carriage—How a Girl Spent a Holiday—A Hot Day Sandwich—The Daughter of a Cabinet Member.

Theoretically I do not believe in separating the work of women and making an exhibition of it by itself; there has always seemed something of a derogation of dignity in such a proceeding. The fine piece of sculpture or the picture is admirable in itself, and not to be judged as being admirable, "considering." We all know what Dr. Johnson said about the bear's dancing. I still hold to this theory, but I could not restrain a strong feeling of pride when I entered the Woman's building here at the fair, and I am afraid that, notwithstanding theories, I was glad the women had carried out their idea of showing something of what they could do in fine and useful arts, in organizing and carrying out a great undertaking.

I do not see how any one can enter this building and stroll about in it without being immediately conscious of an atmosphere of refinement, of good taste, and most decidedly of success. There is nothing more marked in the whole exposition than the success of this part of it. The powers that evoked this exhibit and that rule it ought to be in an amiable frame of mind, and that young lady who designed the structure might be pardoned for a little self complacency when she sees her name inscribed high on the walls.

There have been direful stories told in various newspapers about the squabbles among the "lady managers" of the board. Somebody has taunted somebody else, and there has been bursting into tears. It is indeed distressing that it should have been left to women to disagree. It is distressing that the angelic example set in the years past by men on all kinds of committees should have gone for nothing and that lady managers should scold and cry—if they did. Still, gentlemen, patience! Pray continue the good example, and perhaps by the time the next 400 years have rolled over the world the lady managers of that future may be able to swear lustily instead of crying and scolding. Heaven speed the day!—Cor. New York Tribune.

Three Women Graduates.

Three women took the degree of bachelor of laws at the commencement of the New York university. They all wore black gowns and were conspicuous among the 66 men students who filed down the broad aisle of Carnegie Music hall. The three women are Mrs. Cornelia K. Hood, Miss Katherine Hogan and Miss M. Stanleyetta Titus, familiarly known as "Stanley" by her friends.

Miss Hogan graduated from an elective course at Columbia college in 1886. A textbook on geology from her pen is used extensively in the public schools.

Mrs. Hood of Brooklyn gives more attention to her social duties than to any other perhaps, being a member of one of that city's oldest families. She was chairman of the press department of literary committee of Kings county at the World's Columbian exposition and is as well known as a member of the executive board of the State Charities Aid association as she is in legal circles. She is a director of the Woman's Legal Education society and president of the Woman's Law league, besides having the management of The Business Woman's Journal since the death of Mrs. Seymour.

Miss Titus carried off the prize in the competition for the leading scholarship of the junior law class last year, the judges being under the impression that the signature, "M. Stanley Titus," to her thesis belonged to a man.—New York Mail and Express.

Gymnastics and Fine Carriage.

The woman who attracts attention today is she who has a fine carriage, who knows for one thing how to carry her elbows well. This is one of the strong points with the girl who practices private gymnastics to acquire the habit of keeping the elbows quite behind the waist while walking. The smart woman who attracts not so much for her beauty of face as fine general appearance, carries her head high, her chest well thrown out and her elbows well back out of the way. The bearing of such a woman has an effect at once. She creates more interest and is more admired than a real beauty who has no dignity or grace of carriage.

A great many city women, who understand fully the significance of these facts, take daily exercises in front of a long pier glass. A favorite movement and one of the simplest is to sway the body from right to left and from left to right, taking care to keep the portion below the hips firm and in one straight position. Then, with the eyes on the ceiling, she bends forward as far as possible without bending the knees, then backward. Having tried these exercises a regular number of times, she practices expanding the chest by lifting her hands in a circle and taking a deep, full breath, which is expelled from the lungs as the hands return to place on the chest.—Brooklyn Eagle.

How a Girl Spent Her Holiday.

A young woman I know spent Memorial day in a manner peculiarly her own. She didn't garb herself in beautiful raiment and watch the procession pass, neither did she place one flower on the grave of a departed hero, but she did something infinitely sweeter and more useful.

She spent the day out in the country, the fresh, sweet smelling country, where the phebe birds call to each other and the grass is bright with buttercups, and put in her finest touches papering her mother's kitchen. Up at five in the morning and breakfasting at that early hour, she pasted her paper, cut in sheets and numbered the night before, and put it on the walls it was to adorn. She put it on in a manner all her own, too, starting at the border, and then putting on the sheet reaching from the border to the wainscoting in the order in which they came and then pasting an extra gild border over the place where they joined.

It was hard work at the best, and doors and windows had to be considered and allowed for, but when it was all finished is looked so well that she felt fully repaid for her labor and has a monument to her efforts that will last many days.—Buffalo News.

A Hot Day Sandwich.

On a hot day the most refreshing form of sandwich is the salad. These are spread with mayonnaise and overlaid with thin slices of tomato, cucumber, grated celery and chopped watercress. Mayonnaise, with finely chopped chicken, boiled egg and chopped celery between thin layers of bread, is a portable form of chicken salad in vogue for picnics. Chopped mushrooms add delicacy and flavor to them. Egg sandwiches, with mustard and spices, are among the simpler forms. But there is a highly esthetic service which a patriotic young woman is preparing for tomorrow.

She has had a dozen eggs boiled hard. These are neatly cut in two and the yolks taken out. These she has mixed with finely cut chicken and celery through the medium of a mayonnaise. The excavation is then filled with this mixture, the two halves of the eggs are put together and then inclosed in confectioner's paper. Meanwhile oblong pieces of tissue paper, red, white and blue, have been fringed at the ends. The three colors are laid together and the egg inclosed by twisting the fringed ends.—New York Evening Sun.

The Daughter of a Secretary.

The secretary of the navy is a widower. He has three children, two daughters and a son. One of his daughters is married, and the other lives with him. She is a beautiful girl and is fond of society. General Herbert's wife has been dead about eight years. Prior to her death he kept house, but since that time he has lived at hotels. Miss Herbert is widely known and very popular. She is a pronounced blond, quite petite, with regular features and a beautiful complexion.

She is a true daughter of the sunny south. She has much tact and fills her position with grace and dignity. She has acted for some years as her father's secretary. She will now preside over his household. She was educated abroad, is a good linguist, speaks French and Spanish with ease and performs her social duties with grace and tact.—Washington Cor. Chicago Woman's News.

Tartare Sauce.

This sauce is especially seasonable now with fried fish or any dainty fried meat. It is an excellent sauce to serve with broiled chicken. To make this sauce as it is usually made by caterers, mince shallot or a small onion, add 12 capers, also chopped fine, add also half a teaspoonful of mustard. Meanwhile break the yolks of two eggs in a bowl, add slowly, drop by drop at first, a cup of pure olive oil, stirring the mixture all the time. It is best to have the bowl set in cracked ice in summer. When the sauce seems thick like a mayonnaise or heavy custard, add a teaspoonful of very strong tarragon vinegar and then the other ingredients. A tiny cucumber pickle minced fine is an improvement. Add also pepper and salt.—Exchange.

The Widow of a Patriot.

In the death of Mme. Mary Rosetti, the widow of Rosetti, the Roumanian patriot, all classes of people feel a sense of personal loss. When her husband, with his brothers, made the revolution in 1848 and were banished, Mme. Rosetti, with her 6-weeks-old baby in her arms, and with no attendant but M. de Bratiano, disguised as a servant, followed all along the banks of the Danube the boat which the exiles were journeying in in the hope of catching a sight of them and cheering them. After a banishment of many years these men returned to place the crown upon the present king. Large hearted and beneficent, Mme. Rosetti's life was of beautiful service and influence.—Exchange.

Very Little Handshaking.

According to the niceties of etiquette, it has been decided that the ceremonious introduction forbids handshaking, except when a stranger is presented to the hostess, when the civility of extending the hand may tend to place the newcomer at his ease. A young woman simply bows when a young man is presented to her, but rises when presented to those who are evidently older than herself. A single woman is presented to a married woman, rather than the reverse. Bows are now the rule in fashionable circles. It is well to remember this, for nothing is more awkward than when one extends the hand and the other takes no notice of it, just bowing.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Boston's Mayflower Club.

The Mayflower club of Boston is a new organization of women for social purposes only. It has spacious apartments in Park street. They are on the third floor, and the front room has three large windows overlooking the Common. The room in which the lunches are served looks out upon the quiet Granary burying ground, while the kitchen is in the L. Mrs. J. Elliott Cabot has been chosen president, and the other officers are all ladies well known in social circles. The membership is now 300, and the club will doubtless in time outgrow its accommodations and have a finely equipped clubhouse of its own.—Boston Woman's Journal.

To Perfume the Hair.

Girls with perfumed hair are now the "correct thing." It is difficult to do. Of course the hair must be combed carefully every day. That gives the glossy effect which is so much in vogue, but this is only the start in the perfuming of it. A young lady who has tried it successfully says: "There are many ways of perfuming the hair, but I found the best way was to have a mob cap of soft, thin silk made and lined with cotton that had been thickly sprinkled with sachet powder. Now after weekly shampoos I wear the cap for an hour, and a delicate, indistinct fragrance is imparted to the locks that is the epitome of daintiness."

Swiss Women to Have a Paper.

The women of Switzerland have made arrangements with the Zurich Post, one of the most prominent Swiss papers, to issue every fortnight a supplement entirely under the control of women and edited by Dr. Emily Kempin. The purpose of the paper is to discuss the work of women, to arouse in women a feeling of responsibility regarding their unions, to justify the co-operation of women in all fields of human effort, in anticipation of the time when women shall participate in politics, and above all to give adequate expression to the dignity of woman as wife and mother in all her legal rights.

A Popular Color.

The prevailing color is still green, and in combination with white this bids fair to outrival the late much favored violet and green for summer wear. Not only are dresses to be made green, but beautiful white wool or silk wraps will be worn with them, lined with the brighter color. While some greens are very charming to the eye, most are extremely trying to the complexion. But if fashion says green a woman will find some way of making fashion's mandate fit her in every point—figure, complexion and even purse.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Women Bootblacks In France.

A custom is rapidly gaining ground in France, and especially in Toulon and certain other towns, which, it may safely be prophesied, will not find much imitation in this country. This is the employment of women as street shoeblacks. The Frenchwomen shoeblacks are most coquettishly gotten up, and as to their caps and frills have somewhat the appearance of hospital nurses, and it is surprising that, though their occupation is a tolerably dirty one, they always seem clean and tidy. Some of them are doing the polishing in gauntlet gloves.

Young Women Graduates.

Out of a class of eight young women graduated at Barnard college in June only two have studied with the intention of teaching. Of the 116 taking their degrees at Smith's college 30 are to teach. Many of the 113 graduates at Wellesley, Mass., and one-fourth of the class at Bryn Mawr will also teach. The normal class of domestic science at Pratt's institute has already found positions for its graduates, one of whom is to teach cookery in a large reform school for girls, and to see that nutritious diet is provided for her pupils.—New York Post.

The London Servant Experiment.

The ladies of London are forming a society for the employment of servants, who will come into the house by the day only and return to their own homes at night. Most mistresses prefer having their servants under their own roof so they will be sure of them and breakfast in the morning. It remains to be seen how well the London society succeeds with the scheme.—London Letter.

One Woman's Will.

The latest suggestion which fact has made to fiction consists of a will which a willful woman wrote on the pillow on which her head would rest as she committed suicide. It being legible and distinct, though written in pencil, and properly attested, there was little cause to question it, and it was duly registered.

A Popular Organization.

A Scottish Women's Church Defense union is the form the resentment of the women of Scotland against the overthrow of their national church takes. The organization is popular and rapidly recruiting members from the best classes of Scotchwomen.

Of the 41 medals awarded to the exhibitors of the Palais des Champs Elysees not a single one was given to a woman. In the matter of honorable mention, however, they were more fortunate, eight of them being rewarded in this way.

Miss Olea Bull, daughter of the famous violinist, has decided to go on the stage and will make her debut with the Barnet Opera company in "Prince Pro Tem," which will open the regular season at the Boston Museum next September.

Queen Margaret of Italy has a long memory. She refused to accompany King Humbert on a visit to Queen Victoria at the Villa Salmicri recently because Queen Victoria had neglected to return her call of five years ago.

It is said to be getting the fashion to address and stamp envelopes on the back. With the direction written across the folds, the letter cannot be opened by an unauthorized person without the fact being detected.

In stationery fashion tends to the use of oblong envelopes instead of square ones. The paper folds but once. Extraordinary colors, such as deep orange, willow green and mauve are in vogue.

Tan and sunburn may be greatly prevented if, before a protracted excursion in the sun, the face is anointed with cold cream, then wiped off well and dusted rather thickly with cornstarch.

Mrs. Kenna, the widow of Senator Kenna of West Virginia, has been appointed postmaster of Charleston, W. Va. This is one of the most important postoffices held by a woman.

The first public appointment held by a woman in Ireland was bestowed recently on Miss Fleury, M. D. She was made clinical assistant to the Richmond asylum.

Gilded Chairs In Big Demand.

A manufacturer of willow and rattan furniture finds that the most salable articles he can make are those painted and gilded chairs of odd and unlovely shapes commonly bought for wedding presents. It is seldom that one of these things is either comfortable or convenient, yet they fetch higher prices than articles of the same material made up into simple and beautiful forms of great utility and remarkable durability.—New York Sun.

Universities In Spain.

There are 10 universities in Spain, the most renowned of which is the University of Madrid. It appears from the latest reports that there are about 14,000 students in the 10 universities. The theaters, art galleries and libraries of Madrid and other Spanish cities are numerous and notable.—New York Sun.

The Gentleman Farmer.

"They say fogs are detrimental to tomatoes," remarked Mr. Rural Gardner.

"They are. I had about eight bushels of them stolen one foggy night by tramps," replied his friend, Rutabaga.—Texas Siftings.

Eulalie Takes to Johnny Cake.

Among the tastes which the Princess Eulalie has acquired since her arrival in America is a strong one for corn bread. This is what Colonel J. C. Murphy, the corn man of the department of agriculture says:

Some days ago in Washington, when looking over the bill of fare of the dinner given the infanta I noticed that corn bread was not mentioned. I asked the proprietor of the Arlington the reason for this, and he said sweet corn was not in season and there was no need to have corn bread on the bill of fare because the princess insisted on it being served at every meal. When the infanta first got to the hotel in Washington all kinds of bread were placed on the table, and the royal guests picked out some corn muffins as the most toothsome of the lot. She is fond of having them toasted, too, which is rather unusual with us. The day of her arrival the princess in dining at the Palmer House asked right away for corn muffins.—Chicago Times.

Romance of a Substitute.

A romantic affair has occurred in the Turkish army. A short time ago the discovery was made quite accidentally in Pristina that a young girl named Hasko had been serving 3½ years under her brother's name, Ali Redscheb, in the Fifteenth regiment there, and had distinguished herself by specially good conduct. The sultan was informed of the unheard of case of a woman housing with men for years unveiled. When he learned that the young girl had taken this daring step in order to free her brother, who was the only support of his mother, from military service, he bestowed the Chefakat order of the third class upon her and has given her a pension of 5 Turkish pounds a month. She was of course sent home at once, and her brother remained free from serving.—London Tit-Bits.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Tuesday July 18, 1893

THE [illegible] DUTY.

We hope the northern pensioners who are [illegible] by Secretary Smith's pension rulings will keep cool and exhibit to him a little northern manliness. He is a southerner with a southerner's views of the veteran pensioners, and in his determination to make pensioners under the invalid pension act approve their claims, he has been guilty of a gross indignity and of doing injustice to thousands of union soldiers.

It is but natural that northern veterans should feel this; but it would neither be creditable nor just to themselves to neglect to promptly comply with the requirements of the pension office.

[illegible] time to do this. He understands human nature well enough to know that he has committed an act which will make the pensioners angry, and will tend to make many of them obstinate and unresponsive. That is, perhaps, a part of his plan; and if he succeeds, the better his case will be made out.

Every veteran can by complying with these new rules, however unjust they may seem to be, help himself and by reducing the per cent. who do not get reinstated show that Hoke Smith had little basis for so general an act of suspension.

It is also within the power of the northern veterans to prove to Secretary Smith that they are a manly set of fellows, as courteous under southern [illegible] in time of peace as they were brave under southern fire in the time of war.

No veteran with a just claim need be alarmed. We believe 90 per cent. of them have just claims, and the way to make Smith surrender is to send in certificates by the thousands.

This will require an increase in the force of democratic clerks, put the government to extra expense, give Mr. Smith more appointments, give more democrats office, and perhaps accomplish the main thing the new secretary is driving at.

NEARBY SUMMER SPOTS.

Norwich people have summer colonies at Eastern Point and on the west bank of the Thames just below Kitemaug, and go to and fro daily during the warm weather. These are lovely retreats near the water where the breezes are constant and the mosquitoes few. These places answer for men of leisure, and for men who have short hours at business. There are, however, men who are busy all day who cannot go so far, and who would enjoy a more accessible location. These are to be found on the easterly bank of the Thames, and now that the electric road is to be extended to Whitaker's hill there are places within five minutes walk of that terminus of the road that could be used for summer residences. The lots along the easterly side of the river road on the hill near "the old willow tree" give an airy nearby location which for a good river view, a broad outlook upon the country lying west of the Thames, and for cool breezes and accessible shade trees is not to be surpassed anywhere in this vicinity. Land is cheap in that vicinity, and probably can be bought or leased at reasonable prices.

Men who keep horses can find within half an hour's drive places that are as desirable for summer camping as any riverside places in New England; and also men who use the wheel. In these days of quick locomotion there is nothing to hinder the location of summer colonies on the easterly bank of the Thames anywhere within five or six miles of the city.

THE GERMAN ARMY BILL.

The talk over the army bill in the German reichstag did not please Emperor Wilhelm. His motto apparently is "Deeds not words!" He is described as becoming very impatient over the delay caused by the debate, and he called Chancellor von Caprivi to him and notified him that the reichstag must hurry up as the Emperor was in a hurry to get out of town. He wanted them to do as he bade them, or else refuse to do it and go home. The party leaders were seen, the debate by agreement ended and the bill went through by sixteen majority. Sixteen majority is as good as sixteen thousand so far as power is concerned; but it is not a great triumph for the throne, for it was obtained by concessions such as royalty never likes to make. Count Caprivi is on top again, and it is rumored that his diplomacy in working the bill through is appreciated by the emperor, and that he will be made a prince. In view of the fact that its failure would have sent him out of the chancellorship and back to an army command, there ought to have been a reward of merit appended as a recompense for risks taken in the issue.

A CONVULSING TELEGRAM.

At the Baptist Young People's convention in session in Indianapolis Saturday, the house was convulsed by the following telegram purporting to have been sent by a Christian Endeavor society of Chicago: "Fair closed tighter than a clam."

This example of salt-water expression so surprising when received from Chicago would not have been surprising had it emanated from Cape Cod. We do not see why they said "Fair closed tighter than a clam," for a clam when closed is as tight as a bank-safe with a time-lock upon it. There is no use of pretending the fair will be closed tighter than it should be. Of course naturalists know that clam-tight is one of the tightest things on earth; but they never dreamed that the Columbian exposition could be closed tighter; and we hope these Endeavorers will just tell the people how this can be, and how the impassioned clam came to be taken for a comparison. We think as a proper expression of their joy the Endeavorers should sit down to a clam-bake.

TRAMP STEAMSHIP CRUELTY.

The eight hundred Russian Hebrews on the tramp steamship Red Sea found a tyranny on that craft worse than that from which they fled in the czar's dominions. They were starved, and when they begged for food were cruelly beaten. They were kept in crowded and filthy quarters, and strange to say, were found to be well, except about forty who were suffering from skin disease. Six stowaways found on board were compelled to act as stokers, and were reduced thirty-five pounds in weight during the trip. These tramp steamers underbid the regular steamers and by working the immigrants and keeping them on short rations are said to double their money on every trip. Most of these Hebrews will be allowed to remain in the country. That is well enough. But tramp ships should not be allowed to sail the sea!

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

There was a deal between the democrats and republicans for city court judgeships in Hartford and New Britain. The democrats got them both!

The New York naval reserve is going to [illegible] Huntington bay next week making military movements on sea and shore "and making eyes" to the Long Island [illegible].

It took the German reichstag eleven days to pass the army bill. If congress will repeal the silver purchasing act of the Sherman bill in that time, and then adjourn till December, the country will manage to worry along without partisan speeches and tariff tinkering.

When the Rev. Henry A. Adams in his adieu to the Episcopal church, in which he has been a teacher, refers to it as "the most stupendous and ridiculous monstrosity in Christendom" he must have pleased his new friends and grieved his old ones. Having changed his point of view the distortion may be more imaginary than real.

It is generally conceded in the east that Gov. Waite of Colorado has made too big a demand for blood. He has been courteously asked by The New York Times to make it up to his horse's girth instead of up to his bridle. No one likes to take the contract to furnish so much: and it might make it so inconvenient for him that it is hoped he will agree to a little less.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

A Bourbon View.

The tariff [illegible] will have to be removed from the hospital to the extra session in an ambulance.—[The Atlanta Constitution.

A Hard Look!

There are 330,000 democrats in Ohio, but it looks as if the party [illegible] would have to order a draft to get a man to run against Gov. McKinley.—[Boston Journal.

Not that Kind.

Cleveland might imitate the commendable example of Harrison by appointing a republican to succeed the late Justice Blatchford, but he isn't at all likely to do so.—[The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Tariff Picture!

A tariff picture in The New York Press shows that in 1860 Americans produced 35 per cent. and in 1890 55 per cent. of the silk goods they used. Is there anything the matter with a system that encourages production at home rather than purchases from abroad?—[Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Speaker Crisp's Problem.

As Speaker Crisp packed the coinage committee for free silver in the last congress in the proportion of eight to five, he will have to throw "precedent" and "courtesy" to the winds in order to transform it into a sound money committee next month.—[The Providence Journal.

Shall History Repeat Itself.

The possibility of wildcat currency based upon state bonds may be readily inferred from the fact that during the last fifty years Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, and Virginia have repudiated their bonds to the amount of nearly $150,000,000.—[New York Press.

The Gold Reserve Gaining.

The gold reserve increased perceptibly last week and bids fair to be soon up to the hundred million mark once more. Saturday's statement showed it to be $96,878,909, with gold notes in circulation to the amount of $462,946,185 and with a total circulation of government paper amounting to $799,871,996, making the ratios 71 per cent. and 13 per cent., respectively.—[Boston Journal.

TALK ABOUT SNAKE STORIES.

A Texas Bird Which Devotes Its Energies to Killing All Kinds of Reptiles.

Capt. Peter L. Lapeyre of Live Oak county is in Galveston. He is an "old-timer" on the Texas coast. In connection with a number of cronies the other night the subject of snakes was brought up. "We do not have a great many of 'em out our way now," remarked Capt. Pete, "for we have a bird that keeps 'em down considerably. This is the chapparal cock, or 'road runner,' as it is commonly called, and we all protect it on account of its snake-killing proclivities.

"The bird is about the size of an ordinary guinea fowl, and is very compactly built. It wanders all over the country, and its chief object in life appears to be the killing of snakes. The 'road runner' approaches its enemy cautiously and circuitously, and as it gets near stretches one wing down as a shield, after the fashion of a turkey gobbler strutting in a barnyard, and waits for the snake to strike. The wing is thrown to catch the bite, and as quick as a flash, and before the snake can recover, the runner, with unerring aim, sends its long bill, which is as hard as ivory, through the head of his antagonist, which puts in the time from thenceforth until sunset in dying.

"Talk about 'seeing snakes!'" the captain continued. "Why, I was down on the coast a few years ago, after a heavy sou'east gale, and the beach was covered with drift and snakes for miles, and they were coming ashore continually. The place was full of snakes. There were thousands of them, and every log that drifted ashore had from six to ten snakes on it. Their numbers were countless, and as there were many species new to me, I think they must have drifted from the coast of Mexico or Central America. I talked to the captain of one of the Morgan steamships en route from Galveston to Brazos Santiago about it, and he said he had encountered the snakes and driftwood many miles out to sea, and they were so thick that it was necessary for the steamer to force her way through. When she reached Brazos Santiago there were a great many snakes, dead and alive, across her bow and sticking to her sides."

COLUMBIA.

Postoffice—Mail Facilities—Visitors—Personals.

The correspondent to The Hartford Courant who stated that Mr. Wm. H. Yeomans had been appointed postmaster in Columbia, vice G. B. Fuller removed, was doubtless correct, but his guess concerning the future location of the office was a little "off." If we are correctly informed, the office under the new management will be located in the store of Warren A. Collins, a few rods east of its present location. The Courant correspondent speaks of the improved mail service as compared with forty years ago, when we received a mail but three times a week. He might also have spoken of the improved system of mail distribution in the country postoffice. Forty years ago and for many years after there were no letter boxes, the letters and other mail matter had to be all looked over every time a person called for their mail. Now we have two mails each week day. Beside the Columbia office, there is an office at Hop River and Chestnut Hill, thus making three offices within the limits of our town, and recently an office has been located at Leonard's Bridge just over our town line in Lebanon. The amount of mail matter sent out and received in this town is very much larger than it was 40 or even 20 years ago. Yes, we are pretty well fixed so far as mail service is concerned, now just let the present administration give us free delivery and our happiness will be complete—in a post office sense.

The protracted drouth is making itself felt, potatoes and other crops are getting very thirsty and will pan out light unless we have rain soon.

Every one of the fifteen regular teachers in the Sunday school were present and in their places at the session of the school last Sunday. The sessions are being made quite interesting and instructive under the management of Superintendent A. A. Latham.

Mr. [illegible] A. Little of Manchester is spending a few days at his old home in this place.

Miss Julia White and sister of Coventry have been visiting [illegible] in town.

Mrs. Minerva [illegible] and daughters of Willimantic were visiting at Mr. A. A. Latham's recently.

Mr. Blacks of Brooklyn, N. Y., has engaged board of Mrs. J. C. Williams at the Center, and will spend a part of the summer here.

Mrs. L. H. Leonard of Los Angeles, Cal., is visiting relatives and friends in this and adjoining towns.

Mrs. William J. Loveland of Manchester has been visiting relatives in town.

A party of a dozen people from Manchester are camping out at the reservoir. "Chestnut point," on the west shore, is the spot chosen. They have engaged boats of Mr. Albert Brown and expect to remain in camp about two weeks.

Miss Mildred Hall of East Hampton is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Amasa A. Hunt of Pine street.

A full-blooded southern African negro is remarkable for his extraordinary length of arm, the Aymara Indian of Peru for the surprising shortness of the corresponding member.

One singular property of all animal bodies is that of maintaining within themselves an equable temperature. The blood of the Arctic explorer remains at a normal temperature, though he breathes air that will freeze mercury, and in India where the temperature of the air is 125 to 130 above zero the temperature of the blood is still 98° Fahr.

If you're tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."

Simply apply SWAYNE'S OINTMENT. No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, &c., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for SWAYNE'S OINTMENT.

[illegible] Colic, Constipation,
Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation,
Gives healthy sleep; also aids digestion,
Without narcotic [illegible].

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The Persian Shah has blotted out
All staring signs his realms about,
Save one, whose mission 'tis to bless
With beauty, health and happiness.
He paints on every mountain's front
The simple sign, "Use SOZODONT."

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

The Bulletin.

BARTHOLDI'S STATUE.

[illegible] mother, when the twilight falls,
With flaming candle high above her head
[illegible] from her cottage door and softly calls
Her loitering children who too far have strayed
And smiles to hear their [illegible] through the gloom,
Waving her faring light to guide them home—
So standest thou—great statue from thy height
Streams out the constant welcome o'er and o'er
While alien serfs and exiles catch thy light
And pull with eager hands for freedom's shore.
Their homes are founded on our prairies free,
They build their fanes within our mountains' shade
Or, [illegible], gentle 'neath the orange tree,
[illegible] abide where'er their feet have strayed.
No more we see the stinging lash cut deep
The dusky flesh of supplicating slave,
No more through cypress swamps the blood-hounds creep
To hunt him to his master—or his grave.
Though black, though white, of high or low degree,
The hand that feeds thy watch fire now is free.
Great, grand, majestic monument of love,
A [illegible] altar by the sounding sea—
Mizpah—imploring God to watch above
[illegible] our banner and the fleur-de-lis.

—Jaye Jacques in Youth's Companion.

THE REALM OF FASHION.

Pink accessories are still used on gray toilets, but a newer and sometimes more becoming color note on gray is that of pale yellow in crepe de chine, chiffon or striped silk.

The aspiring osprey, the nodding long stemmed flower, the waving plume and the erect, assertive bow of ribbon, lace or velvet are still prominent features of millinery.

The new silk warp clairette fabrics designed for demidress the coming summer are very lovely both in fabric and color, and their pretty ribbon garnitures will lend additional charm.

India silks with old rose or lilac clusters on a pale primrose ground make charming dresses trimmed with ecru guipure lace and [illegible] ends of velvet or old rose [illegible] ribbon.

[illegible] is a threatened epidemic of white petticoats now that women have made a desperate effort to purchase all the requisite assortment of handsome silk skirts to match their various gowns.

Among parasols for general uses are those of [illegible] silk lined with shot surah. India silk parasols in delicate tints or in white have a prettily wrought border at the edge or are finished with slightly gathered pinked flounces.

Rows of fringed or pinked ruches, ribbons set on in spaced lines, narrow bias bands of silk gathered twice through the center or box plaited, slightly gathered or festooned lace flounces, are the popular finishes for the bottom of summer dress skirts.

A dinner dress of white satin in pink and white has rose ruches on the demitrain, the gown opening in directoire style on a petticoat of striped white, pink and violet, the sweet pea colors. White lace plaitings show everywhere among the rose ruches.—New York Evening Post.

THE STOCK MARKET.

[illegible] In Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 17.—In the outside market call money is quoted at [illegible] to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market at its opening this morning was decidedly heavy. Despite the aggressiveness of the bears last week, however, there was no unusual early pressure from them and no forced liquidation of long stock. Losses range ¼ to [illegible] lower for the whole list. [illegible] money and the large short interest have [illegible] that factor.

The local market opened dull with a downward tendency. General Electric started off [illegible] down at [illegible], and rising to [illegible] weakened to [illegible]. Sugar common opened steady at [illegible] and then slid down to [illegible], while the preferred weakened from [illegible] to [illegible]. Bell Telephone declined ¼ to [illegible]. Atchison sold down from [illegible] to [illegible]. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy from [illegible] to [illegible], having in the interim touched [illegible], and Union Pacific from [illegible] to [illegible]. New England was also down from [illegible] to [illegible].

The early sales of bonds were without feature. Atchison 4s lost ½ at [illegible], and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy convertible [illegible] at [illegible]. Chicago, Burlington and Northern second [illegible] up ¼ to [illegible].

MURDER IN MAINE.

John Edgar of Danforth Killed With an Axe.

[illegible]

Quarrel in a Stable Ends in Death—Murderer Captured.

BANGOR, Me., July 17.—One of the most brutal murders which has ever occurred in this section was committed Saturday afternoon at Danforth, in Washington county, on the line of the Maine Central to St. John. The news of the crime has just reached here.

The facts in the case are as follows: John Edgar of St. Mary's, N. B., and a man named Noyes of Danforth engaged in a quarrel Saturday afternoon, about 3 o'clock, in Foss' stable. There was no one in the stable at the time of the row, but a man standing near there heard some loud talk, and he went to see what the trouble was.

Noyes had then gone, and Edgar had been thrown into the granary. Noyes, when he was found, said at first that the horse had kicked Edgar, but it is thought that he he hit Edgar or a bark spud. Edgar's neck was broken and his head crushed in.

Noyes ran for the woods, but was soon caught on the Calais road. He is now under arrest at Danforth. The victim lived about two hours after he was hurt. He had been drinking at the time of the murder, but Noyes was sober.

After killing his man Noyes went into a bakery next door to the stable and bought lemons. He was asked if Edgar was dead, and he said: "I hope so." After he saw that he had "given himself away," he turned around, and threatened to brain the first man who came near him.

Picked Up a Couple of Rocks

He was taken in charge, after a hot pursuit, by United States Marshal R. B. Stinchfield and kept in irons Saturday and Sunday nights. County Attorney Campbell of Cherryfield and Coroner Lincoln will arrive at Danforth today, and an inquest will be held. Edgar's remains will be taken home after the inquest today for burial.

The motive of the crime is a mystery. Noyes was sober at the time and had given no evidence of insanity. He is said to be a tough character, and people generally were afraid of him.

THE REVOLVER FOUND.

Weapon Used in State Prison Riot in Patrick Hanley's Cell.

BOSTON, July 17.—The revolver that was used in the riot at the Charlestown state prison some months ago by the prisoners in an ineffectual attempt to escape, and which produced a wound on the person of Officer Leary, was found this morning in a cell occupied by Patrick J. Hanley.

For some time the officers in the prison have been suspicious that Hanley had the firearm in his possession, but several searches in his cell proved futile. This morning, however, their suspicions were again aroused and without warning a posse made a sudden descent upon the cell with the result as above stated.

A further search was made of the cell and revealed the startling fact that, although the chambers of the revolver were empty when found, yet three cartridges were unearthed.

Hanly is incarcerated on the charge of breaking and entering and has already served four and one-half years of his sentence. He was considered as a bad character and a sharp watch has been maintained of his movements.

THE RACING QUARTET.

Our Four Cup Defenders Are Pronounced to Be Wonders.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The Herald this morning says: The three trial cup defenders, Colonia, Vigilant and Jubilee, are being given daily spins by their skippers under the personal direction of their representative owners, and in a short time the Pilgrim, the last of the quartet to be launched, will also be under canvas and tried on every available occasion.

This condition of affairs will continue until the August cruise of the New York club, when it is likely that all four will be at the rendezvous off Glen cove to take part in the [illegible] of that important yachting occasion.

It is quite certain that the Colonia, Jubilee and Vigilant will be here, and it is to be hoped that it will be the same with the Pilgrim.

Regarding the latter, opinion is freely expressed that she will prove to be a tough customer, all holding to the idea that if she is properly designed she must be very hard to beat. This conclusion is reached because she is a fin keel.

The same feeling exists among the friends of other boats. The Jubilee, say those who are acquainted with General Paine, is fast as a ghost, and that she is already showing speed enough to make her a strong candidate for the first place in the trial races.

The Herreshoff productions, the [illegible] and the Vigilant, are being talked of quite as much, if not more, than the Boston [illegible]. They have been "turning up" for some time, and much should now be [illegible] their good qualities.

It is currently reported in the yachting circles of this city that both Archibald Rogers and D. Oliver Iselin are satisfied with their craft, which, if so, is good without additional explanation that they will be great boats and most difficult to defeat.

LUCKY KANSAS.

State Will Have Largest Corn Crop in Its History, 1889 Excepted.

KANSAS CITY, July 17.—Secretary Mohler has issued a statement saying that if conditions continue favorable Kansas will have the largest corn crop in the state's history, with the single exception of that of 1889, when the yield was [illegible] bushels, from an acreage of [illegible] acres. For the first time since he became secretary of the board, Mr. Mohler says he is unable accurately to estimate the corn acreage.

He obtains his figures from county assessors, and their reports were in this year before farmers whose wheat had proved a failure had plowed their wheat fields and planted them in corn. He estimates that the acreage will be at least 12 per cent. in excess of last year's, when it was 5,000,[illegible] acres. This would fix the acreage this year at 6,[illegible].

F. E. Buck jumped from the third story of the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary and was killed.

Lincoln A. Taylor of Boston was the successful bidder for constructing the dam of the Hanover (N. H.) Water Works [illegible]

Ezra Wentworth, aged 15, of Saco, Me., fell under a frisky horse during a circus parade. His skull was fractured and the scalp torn. His injuries were not fatal.

The American privateer schooner Polly doing service during the war of 1812, carrying 12 guns, and built in 1804, is at Boothbay, Me., with a cargo of granite for Boston.

GOVERNOR ALTGELD

Will Tell the Whole Story of the Trial and Conviction of Anarchists.

NEW YORK, July 17.—A Chicago special says: Governor Altgeld is preparing, according to a statement made by a friend, an exhaustive review of the anarchist case, which will be very severe on those who secured conviction. He will reaffirm that the men were tried by a prejudiced judge and by a jury selected to convict. He will outline the alleged conspiracy among the police to manufacture evidence and suborn witnesses to testify against Spies and his comrades. He will make public certain information in his possession concerning police methods, and he will challenge denial of their truth.

Governor Altgeld will print the names of rich men who, he claims, contributed to a secret fund to be used to aid the prosecution and the amount each gave. He will say, it is asserted, that an immense sum was to be divided among certain persons in the event of the conviction of the anarchists, and, will assert that no means were left untried by some of the persons in interest to earn the reward which, it is claimed, the governor characterizes as "blood money."

Governor Altgeld will criticise the supreme court of the state a little more severely than he did the first time. From a lawyer's standpoint, he will review the court's action. He will assert that the supreme court never passed on the anarchist's case as a body, but that the decision was the personal work of Justice Magruder, in which the other justices concurred through courtesy.

Then he will allege that the action of the trial court is sustained, not because of the merit of the case, but because of Justice Magruder's friendship for Judge Gary. He will point out that Justice Magruder was the protege, as well as the friend of Judge Gary.

A WEDDING INCUBATING.

Fair Maiden's Hand Goes to the Lover Whose Egg Hatches First.

New York, July 17.—Miss Eliza Wynkoop is the prettiest girl in Watsessing, N. J. She has many admirers, but has expressed no preference for any particular one. She seemed to take more interest in her chickens than she did in her beaus.

Miss Wynkoop's beaus became so numerous that at last she concluded to reduce the list and cut the number down to three. One after another they proposed to her, but Miss Wynkoop reserved her answer until after she had received the three proposals.

One of the three beaus proposed that they should settle the contest by a fight with gloves, or a duel, and that the victor or survivor should have the girl.

Miss Wynkoop offered a novel plan for settling the question without a contest. She said she would set a hen on three eggs, marking one egg Algernon, another Henry and the third Thomas, the names of the three suitors. The egg which hatches out first will determine her choice of a suitor.

The three suitors agreed to the plan. Miss Wynkoop duly marked the eggs and set the hen, and the suitors will have to wait three weeks to know their fate.

ECHO OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Albert N. Hoxie Sues Senator Ratshesky for Alleged Libel.

BOSTON, July 17.—Albert N. Hoxie has begun suit against Senator Ratshesky to recover $25,000 damages for alleged libel. The action which has been brought in the Suffolk county superior court is the result of an article published concerning the senatorial fight of last fall. It will be remembered that Mr. Hoxie was the candidate of the prohibition party, and he claimed that Mr. Ratshesky offered him money to withdraw from the contest. The statements of which Mr. Hoxie complains were made in refutation of the charge made by Mr. Hoxie.

Several weeks ago Mr. Hoxie appeared before the Suffolk county grand jury and presented a statement with a view to having Mr. Ratshesky indicted, but the grand jury exonerated him from the charge of any criminal offence by reporting no bill against him.

RUSSIAN JEWS.

Mobs Break Into Their Houses, Drag Out Occupants and Beat Them.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 17.—The Jews of Yalta in the Crimea refused to obey the decree to return within the pale. For several days the clergy exhorted the rest of the population to rise and expel them. Last week an anti-Jew mob took possession of the streets, broke into houses occupied by the Jews and tried to drive the occupants from the town.

The Jews fought back. Dozens were dragged into the streets and were beaten. Many were killed. The houses owned by Jews were plundered and wrecked. Troops were called to the town to restore order. None of the rioters were killed and but few injured.

Rich Strike of Gold.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 17.—A rich strike has been made at a depth of nine feet in a mine at Bull mountain, Cripple Creek district. No assay has been made, but the vein shows a well defined streak of free gold and is eight feet wide. The Pike's Peak mine continues to show good returns. As a result of five hours' panning and pulverizing, one miner realized on assay $700.

Druggists In Court.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 17.—Edward Dillon, Joseph Bernard and Thomas Noonan were arraigned at the police court this morning, charged with violation of the pharmacy law by keeping drugs for sale and without being registered pharmacists. The cases were continued to next Saturday.

THE OLD FLAGSHIP.

Hartford, Admiral Farragut's Old Vessel, to Be Refitted.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—It is probable that Admiral Farragut's old flagship, the Hartford, will be refitted and once more fly a commission pennant from her mainmast.

The commander of the Mare island navy yard has received detailed plans and specifications for remodeling, rigging and refitting the vessel, and these have been in turn submitted to Commander Glass, in charge of the construction department, with instructions to prepare and forward estimates of the cost of remodeling, rigging and refitting the Hartford.

An examination of the engines and boilers of the Hartford shows them to be in excellent condition, and with care and a few minor repairs she could be made ready for service on short notice. Her new battery will be modern.

"Tom" King Is a Woman.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 17.—"Tom" King, the horse thief who escaped from the Oklahoma City jail three weeks ago, has been captured here. The prisoner proves to be a woman, though she has been dressed in man's clothes for months and affects the style and manner of a cowboy. She has been masquerading as a man and leading a daring band of horse thieves.

The wall of Severus, separating England from Scotland, was 26 miles long and guarded by 21 forts. It was 20 feet high and 24 feet thick, and to the north was protected by a moat 40 feet wide and 20 feet deep.

UNWELCOME REST

Coming to Many Toilers in Shops and Factories.

BUSINESS DEPRESSION GENERAL.

Worcester Manufacturers Running on Short Time.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 17.—The workers of this city are getting vacations with greater frequency than they desire. In all parts of the city shops are shuting down, some a few hours a day, some a few days a week, some indefinitely. Some are discharging some of their employes. Others are discharging more, and in a few of the shops the majority of the employes are gone.

The Worcester Carpet company has caused to be posted in its mills, the Packachoag mills at South Worcester, a notice to the effect that, beginning next Saturday, the mills will be closed the entire day Saturday until further notice.

The Washburn & Moen Manufacturing company has announced that some departments in its mills work but five days a week, beginning Saturday. A large number of the surplus men have been discharged.

The Cleveland Machine works on Jackson street, employing over 150 men, shut down Saturday night indefinitely.

Boynton & Plummer, drill manufacturers at 22 Lagrange street, have run the shop four days a week for the last three weeks, the members of the firm preferring to run in that way rather than discharge some of the men.

Prentice Bros., manufacturers of machinists' tools, drills, etc., [illegible] Cambridge street, let 25 men go Saturday night, and it is intimated that as many more will be discharged next Saturday.

The Knowles loom works and the Crompton loom works are further reducing the number of employes, and are curtailing expenses. The Vocalion organ works shut down Saturday night for two weeks.

The Worcester Corset company has reduced the hours in parts of the establishment to 40 a week, and its Union street shop is closed. Many female employes of the envelope factories are out of work.

CLOSE TO THE WIND.

Lowell Corporations Proceeding Carefully and Shut Downs Reported.

LOWELL, Mass., July 17.—There is a strong disposition among manufacturers here to keep things at as close a point as possible. The Merrimack mills have been selling yarn to another mill out of the state that has been affected by a strike, and it has been said that there was more profit in such sales than in the manufacture of cloth under present conditions. A couple of mules have also been shut down and a considerable number of hands laid off because of the decreased amount of roping now produced.

It is also announced that one weave room in the Lawrence corporation has been stopped, but nothing can be obtained from the management about the situation because of the policy of saying nothing about the corporation's affairs for the benefit of the public.

Pevey's yarn mill was stopped suddenly last Monday night for the balance of the week, but is now expected to remain shut down for a considerable time. It is understood that Mr. Pevey is embarrassed.

ATTLEBORO UNEASY.

Jewelry Business Very Dull and Workmen Are Being Discharged.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., July 17.—The condition of the jewelry business is such just now as to cause a great deal of uneasiness on the part of a majority of the employes who work in the big shops.

Salesmen have been unable to place orders this season, and a number of the large firms have let a part of their force go for an indefinite period.

It is a remarkable condition of affairs, and wholly unexpected. This is usually a very busy season. The shops generally have all they can do after June, preparing for the succeeding holiday trade, but this year either there will be no holiday business, or else the buyers will be asked to purchase from old stock.

Unless a change comes before long it is likely that there will be some suffering.

Railroad Federation.

PITTSBURG, July 17.—Delegates representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, Switchmen's Mutual Aid association and Order of Railway Conductors met here yesterday and formed a federation for mutual protection and aid. The Order of Railway telegraphers will be included in the federation at the next meeting, but the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will not.

Runaways Arrested.

DOVER, N. H., July 17.—Saturday Minnie Wentworth, the 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. Emma Wentworth, left here for Milton. Yesterday Herbert F. Young, aged 23, who lived at Mrs. Wentworth's, disappeared. Minnie did not arrive in Milton and Mrs. Wentworth gave the case to the police, who located the runaways in a house in Farmington and arrested them.

Mormons Convert Virginia Girls.

RICHMOND, July 17.—An organized band of Mormons, under the leadership of Elder W. G. Ellis of Salt Lake City, is at work in the neighborhood of Beaver Dam station in this state. The Mormons have, it is said, converted 32 persons, the most of whom are young women, who expect to return to Utah with Ellis in the fall.

Identified as John Mayer.

BRAINTREE, Mass., July 17.—The body of the man killed near Capen's bridge Saturday night has been identified as that of John Mayer, a stonecutter of West Quincy. Mayer was a native of Quebec and had been in this country only six months. He was a single man and about 32 years of age.

For Firemen's Relief Fund.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The paid admissions at the World's fair yesterday were 69,401. It is estimated that the amount contributed to the firemen's relief fund by concessionaires yesterday will amount to $6000, which, added to the proceeds from ticket sales, will swell the fund by about $26,000.

A Norwich citizen indulged too freely in the liquid that inebriates Monday afternoon and made his way to the Young Men's Christian Association headquarters, where he stretched himself out on the floor and went to sleep. The rooms were vacant at the time, but the intruder was discovered by members shortly after his arrival, and was ejected by Sheriff Rogers.

The New London Day hears a rumor that the state will not assume charge of the C. N. G. subsistence at camp this year, as provided under the new law, because so many difficulties were encountered. A Bridgeport caterer has offered to provide for a regiment at the rate of $1 a man a day. It was understood that such terms would be satisfactory, and that he would in all probability get the contract.

Mrs. Jane E. Stetson of Franklin street has in her possession a treasured heirloom in the shape of a shoulder shawl that was worn by Mother Bailey, the Groton heroine of Fort Griswold fame. Mrs. Stetson received the shawl from her mother, Mrs. Chapman of New London, who was the niece of Mother Bailey. Mrs. J. E. Woodward of Preston has a black silk calash, reputed to have been worn by Mother Bailey at the time she gave her petticoat for wadding.

The theft of bicycles is getting to be as common an occurrence now-a-days as horse stealing in a new country, and in many respects they are kindred crimes with very much the same sort of temptation and promise of safety, for the thief in either case can jump into the saddle and put long leagues between himself and the scene of crime before the theft is discovered. Of late a number of bicycle thefts have been reported to the police from other places and at the present time anxious owners are in search of their highly prized wheels, No. 8,381 from this city, and 15,689 from Bridgeport.

A colored woman of New London made known her purpose to dispose of a house she owned, when both a white and a colored neighbor became bidders for the place. The white man was wealthy and fixed his price at $1,800, all the house was expected to bring in the market. The colored man would give but $1,400. The woman reasoned that the white neighbor's purpose was to keep colored people out of the neighborhood, so she disposed of the place to one of her own race for $400 less than she might have got for it, thus upholding the dignity of the black man.

There are Others.

It is time that the public was relieved from the impositions of the small newsboy who nightly solicits custom by his pathetic stories of the money that he loses down the gratings. A well-known druggist, hearing the usual story that the boy had lost a quarter at his store, determined to probe the matter. He descended to the cellar and for some minutes searched for the missing coin, which, of course, was not to be found. The particular boy who claimed to have lost that quarter has given up his artifice, but there are others like him.

Lack of Training.

It is to be regretted that the best riders of the Rose of New England Wheel club have never received the careful training which those of the older established clubs in Eastern Connecticut receive. In more than one instance have local riders lost a race against the Rockville and Willimantic wheelmen simply because they had no knowledge of pace. There certainly is enough good material in the club and it is within the reach of its members to develop it.

Steve Farrell Third.

The Columbian 100-yard foot race for the professional championship of America was run at the fair grounds, east of Goshen, Ind., Saturday.

T. E. Morris of Santa Ana, Cal., won in 9 4-5s. He received The Police News championship diamond and gold medal, the purse of $2,200 and $175 gate receipts. James Collins of Edgerton was second. He received $109 gate receipts. Steve Farrell of Rockville, Conn., was third. He received $70 gate receipts.

"Old Glory" From the School Tops.

Secretary C. D. Hine in his recent report to the State board of education makes the following quotation of local interest:

The stars and stripes, the emblem of our great nation, has floated from each of our six schoolhouses when wise and practicable throughout the year. Its silent and impressive teachings have been supplemented by such lessons as can be drawn incidentally from the regular school exercises. Such opportunities as are afforded by elections and anniversaries have also been utilized to familiarize the pupils with the duties of citizenship, awaken in them a love of country, and prepare them for intelligent devotion to its interests.—[Norwich Central District, N. L. Bishop, Superintendent.

A Church on Fishers Island.

The Catholics residing on Fishers Island are rejoicing over the fact that the celebration of the mass took place Sunday on that island for the first time. The officiating priest was the Rev. Father Sheehy, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The service took place in the presence of 167 members of the faith.

Monday Father Sheehy, who has been visiting Father Joynt of New London for a few days, went over to Fishers Island and received from Messrs. Ferguson a deed to a nice plot of land, on which it is proposed to erect a neat and substantial church edifice in the near future. Fishers Island being an adjunct of the state of New York, the new parish will be attached to the arch diocese of New York, now presided over by Archbishop Corrigan.

INDIAN RELICS FOUND.

A Skull, Tomahawk and Chisels Unearthed Near Spalding's Pond.

Monday morning a man passing through the woods near the upper end of Spalding's pond, having occasion to move a few stones belonging to a heap, suddenly came upon a cavity between two fragments of rock, a search of which revealed a human skull, well preserved, an Indian tomahawk and two small stone chisels such as are supposed to have been used by the aborigines.

The skull was apparently that of an Indian, the cheek bones being noticeably high. The bones of the jaw remained firm. The head was of about the average size, and from the bleached whiteness of the bones may be believed to have lain in its hiding place for years.

The tomahawk was of ordinary rough stone, and measured five and a half inches in length, while the average breadth of the weapon was from one and one-half to two and one-half inches. The chisels were eight and ten inches in length, in shape not unlike a wedge.

It is probable that a further search would disclose the bones of the body of which the skull was a part. The Indians frequently buried the dead man's weapons with him, and thus the tomahawk and chisels were undoubtedly interred with their owner near the northern extremity of the pond.

CENTRAL DISTRICT SCHOOL.

Annual Business Transacted at the Meeting Last Night.

Indubitably illustrative of the public confidence in the present management of the public schools was the small attendance at the annual meeting of Central district voters in town hall Monday night. Dr. Patrick Cassidy presided and M. M. Whittemore acted as clerk.

The following estimates for the year were accepted unanimously:

OFFICE OF Board of Water Commissioners City of Norwich Water Works, Norwich, Conn., July 17, 1893.

To all Who Use City Water.

Your attention is called to Rule No. 13 of the Rules and Regulations governing the use of City Water, which reads as follows:

RULE XIII.

Street, lawn and garden sprinklers may be used from 5 to 8 o'clock a. m., and from 4 to 8 o'clock p. m., and at no other time. They shall not be converted into jets or set up in any manner to spray or as temporary or revolving fountains, without a permit, and shall the water be allowed to run to waste or to leak, or to be used in any unnecessary or excessive manner.

Whoever does or allows this, or uses the water for sprinkling purposes without first reporting the fact to the Commissioners or their agents, shall pay a penalty of three dollars, in addition to the regular rate.

The use of hose with "open butt," except where a meter is used, is forbidden; if so used, double rates will be charged.

For street, lawn and garden sprinkling and other [illegible] purposes, no larger nozzle than ¼ inch shall be used, except by special permit.

On and after this date this rule will be enforced. C. J. WINTERS, President Board Water Commissioners. jy18d

DENVER DEPOSITORS EXCITED.

Anxious Masses Surround the Clearing House Banks.

A STATEMENT

By President Tatcher of the Clearing House Association.

DENVER, Col., July 18.—No such scene was ever witnessed here as was seen this morning shortly after 10 o'clock when the banks were supposed to open their doors for business. The failure of three savings banks yesterday had greatly excited the masses, and at the hour of opening today the streets were crowded with anxious depositors. The eleven Clearing House banks, located within four blocks of each other, were surrounded, and far into the street the crowd gathered until officers and special police were called out to clear the way for traffic.

Those withdrawing their money are all small depositors, the large holders being satisfied to let their accounts remain in the banks. The banks are paying all demands except on time certificates.

President J. A. Tatcher of the Clearing House association, said at noon: "I am confident that today will see the worst of this and people will come to their senses. At the meeting of the Clearing House last night we decided that we could not help the banks and some of them have gone to the wall. All of them, I believe, have ample security to protect all depositors, but unfortunately at this time cash and not security is what the majority of the people are clamoring for."

At the state National bank of which J. D. McNeil is president, quite a run was in progress and a large number of men and women were in line waiting for their turn to come so they could get their money. The officers of the bank appeared to be in the best of humor and said they are confident they can weather the storm.

Everything was quiet at the Colorado National. It is understood a half million in gold was received there just before the doors opened this morning. President Kountz says he has no idea he will need a penny of the fresh supply of money.

There was quite a crowd of people around the doors of the Denver National, and it was rumored a run was in progress there, but it was soon found that the men were Union Pacific employes and that they were only getting their checks cashed for last month's work.

"This bank is closed by order of the board of directors," is the notice posted at every entrance to the National Bank of Commerce, of which ex-Governor Job A. Cooper is president. The condition of this bank is not known to the general public, its officers did not print a statement yesterday, as was done by almost all of the other banks.

At 10 o'clock the Union National, with a capital of $1,000,000 posted a notice that they would not open their doors. This started the panic, and following quickly the Commercial National posted a similar notice and then the National Bank of Commerce. A run was immediately started [illegible] on the People's National. The First National appears to be the soundest of all, it having over 60 per cent. of its deposits on hand with a private fund of $1,500,000 in addition to draw upon, making it impossible to close its doors. The Colorado National and several others are in equally as good condition.

John R. Hanna of the City National bank said that they felt themselves to be in as good condition as anybody. The bank recently borrowed $40,000 from the east and was paying in gold this morning. "If this thing keeps up," said Mr. Hanna, "it is only a question of time until every bank in the country will go down. The feeling is the same all over the country."

Several of the principal depositors made large deposits this morning.

THE VICTORIA DISASTER.

Investigation Continued—Testimony of Officers of the Squadron.

VALETTA, Malta, July 18.—The court martial which is trying Captain the Hon. Maurice Bourke and the other officers of the battle ship Victoria, which was run into and sunk by the battle ship Camperdown while manoeuvering off Tripoli, on June 22 last, resumed its sitting this morning on the Hibernia the flag ship of Rear Admiral Richard E. Tracy.

When the court arose yesterday Capt. Bourke was testifying [illegible] to the incidents that led up to the disaster. This morning he resumed his testimony. He said that he became aware of the danger of a collision almost directly the Victoria began to turn. He did not think that Staff Commander Hawkins Smith had ever been consulted by Vice-Admiral Tryon in regard to the manoeuvres; indeed, nobody had been consulted. When Vice-Admiral Tryon hoisted his flag on the Victoria it was customary to use a 30 degree helm. Vice Admiral Tryon altered this 28 degrees.

Lord Gillford, flag lieutenant of the Mediterranean squadron, testified that after the collision Vice-Admiral Tryon said to him: "It was all my fault."

Staff Commander Hawkins-Smith also gave evidence showing that Vice-Admiral Tryon took upon himself the responsibility for the disaster. The staff commander said that immediately after the Camperdown rammed the Victoria the vice-admiral said to him: "It was entirely my doing. It was entirely my fault."

A Young Girl Seriously Injured.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 18.—The 11-year-old daughter of Mrs. John Skally met with a serious accident Tuesday. While attempting to walk on the upper support of a picket fence she fell, striking a picket, which penetrated her abdomen, making a dangerous wound. While the wound is a serious one, it is not necessarily fatal.

Suicide of a Rockville Man.

ROCKVILLE, July 18.—William Spellenback, aged twenty-six, committed suicide this morning by shooting. Disappointment in love was the cause.

A Sunken Barge Raised and Towed to Harbor.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 18.—Barge McWilliams of New York, which was sunk off Penfield reef in a storm some months ago, was raised this afternoon and towed into the harbor. The barge is valued at $10,000. She was loaded with coal when she sunk. Many attempts have been made to raise her, but they all proved futile until this afternoon.

Federals Capture the Italia.

LONDON, July 18.—The Rio Janeiro correspondent of the Times says that the Italia, another steamer which escaped from Rio Grande, has been captured by the Federal fleet.

SCAFFOLD ACCIDENT.

Five Bridgeport Workmen Badly Injured by a Fall.

BRIDGEPORT, July 18.—A bad accident happened this afternoon about 3 o'clock at Black's coal yard, foot of Shelton street. Five men are hurt, two of them are seriously.

The accident was caused by the giving away of a scaffold at the top of the new coal sheds, which are being erected for [illegible] the builders.

The injured are Stephen Downey, left leg injured; Peter Mooney, left thigh thought to be fractured; William Fagan, right elbow injured; Henry Mosher, left foot crushed; Homer Bronson, contractor, injured about the right shoulder.

The ambulance and patrol wagon were summoned and the men were taken to their homes. They were lifting a heavy timber when the crash came.

A West Hartford Barn Burned.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 18.—An old barn in the rear of Mr. J. M. Foote's house, at Foote's Corners in West Hartford, was burned Monday night, together with two heifers, two bulls, and a lot of farming implements, including a horse rake, an ox cart and several other valuable farming utensils. The loss is estimated at $1,500, and the insurance but a small amount. The fire was started by tramps. At one time the residence of Mr. Foote was in danger, but with the aid of friends, who were attracted by the fire, the homestead was saved.

Dr. Pulford Out on Bail—Bonds Reduced to $6,000.

NEW HAVEN, July 18.—Dr. Pulford, who has been in the county jail since the 7th of July charged with the murder of Nellie Nesbitt of Ansonia by a criminal operation, was released on bail today, the bonds having been reduced from $10,000 to $6,000. It is understood that Daniel P. Dunham of Seymour had become surety in the above sum.

Found Guilty of Ill-Treating Seamen.

PORTLAND, Me., July 18.—Frank H. Reed and John T. White, first and second mates of the schooner Hale, were brought here today on the charge of ill treatment of seamen and were arraigned before Justice Bradley and found guilty of the crime. No sentence was given them today.

Suicide of a Farmer.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 18. George W. Willard, 57 years old, a farmer on the Ridge road, six miles out, committed suicide today. He cut his throat with a razor, severing a large vein, then hanged himself in his barn. He leaves a wife and six children. No cause is assigned for the act.

Shocked by a Live Wire.

BOSTON, July 18.—Stephen Willey, a lineman in the employ of the Boston Electric company, and living at 180 Eustom street, East Boston, received a shock from a live wire and fell from a pole at the corner of Atlantic avenue and Spring street. He was badly bruised about the body. There is only a slight chance for his recovery.

The President in Narragansett Bay.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 18.—Steam yacht Oneida with President Cleveland aboard came up from Newport this afternoon and viewed the beauties of Narragansett bay, as far as Pawtucket. It was not generally known that the yacht was there. The yacht was anchored there three hours.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The receipts from internal revenue today were $831,890; from customs, $261,759, and miscellaneous, $60,865. The national bank notes received today for redemption amount to $311,898.

Two Men Run Down on the Boston & Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 18.—Michael Lally, 36 years old, of Lowell, and an unknown companion, while track walking, were struck at Horton's grove [illegible] by the local express from Boston, due in this city at 10.20 o'clock. The unknown man died from the effects of his injuries. Lally's injuries will not prove fatal.

THE "BABY" ON A RAMPAGE.

One of Barnum's Elephants Uses the Keeper Roughly.

PANIC AMONG SPECTATORS.

The Keeper Rescued by Attendants—He Will Be Laid Up Six Weeks.

PORTLAND, Me., July 18.—There was a panic Monday at Barnum's circus, but no one was hurt. The panic was caused by the baby elephant getting on a rampage.

Henry Myers, one of the elephant men of the show, was passing between two elephants, and was caught by the baby elephant, who threw him down, doubled him up and used him like a rubber ball. Attendants rushed up and rescued the keeper by prodding the elephant with iron bars. All the animals in the tent set up terrific howls and so frightened the people in the circus tent that they rushed out in all directions, and the performance, which was nearly over, came to an abrupt end.

Myers was taken to the Maine general hospital, where it was found that a fracture of his leg was badly sprained, but no bones were broken. He will be laid up about six weeks.

WORCESTER DRIVING PARK.

Opening of the July Meeting—Good Track and Weather—Summaries.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 18.—The July meeting of the Worcester Driving Park company at the fair grounds opened this afternoon. The weather and track conditions were perfect.

The favorites won but in one race, the 2.28 trot. Those who backed the favorite had rather more excitement than they cared for when "Doctor," who was second, won the second, third and fifth heats from Stoneridge. There was some funny work in this race, as Doctor had what seemed to be a sure thing in the fourth heat until he made a bad break on the last quarter and lost to Stoneridge.

In the fifth heat Dexie won without being pushed, but the judges thought that the other drivers did not drive to win and decided it no heat.

In the sixth heat there was a shaking up of the drivers. The favorite was [illegible]. Allie Trout, who was put behind Stoneridge, steered him to a victory of the third heat which got $50. Charlie Abbott got $50 for driving Thelde into third place. Carpenter, the driver of Stoneridge, was fined $50. The summaries:

Burglars in Worcester.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 18.—The saloons of L. Varner and E. Cote, at Washington-square in this city, last night were entered by burglars and small sums of money secured.

A Barn and Animals Burned.

DANIELSONVILLE, July 18.—At about 12.30 o'clock Tuesday morning the barn of the Hutchins hotel on Franklin street, was discovered to be on fire. The fire department was quickly on the ground but the flames had made such headway that the building could not be saved, and with two horses, three cows, a large quantity of hay and other personal property was entirely destroyed. The barn belonged to the Hutchins estate (hotel property) and the contents to Israel Bennett, Jr. Mr. Bennett loses about $500. No insurance. The barn was worth about $800. Cause of fire unknown.

Dr. Joshua Perkins and wife and W. W. Woodward and family have returned from the World's fair.

Block Island Sword [illegible].

Captain Frank Dodge of Block Island, is a man of practical ideas and adaptable to the fishing trade. He has fitted up a small steam vessel in which to encounter the big swordfish of the Atlantic, and when returning from a cruise, the steamer sound as many whistles as there are fish on board, that those on shore may know the extent of the catch. Twenty-seven swordfish in a single trip is Captain Dodge's record for this season.

MRS. SIGOURNEY IN NORWICH.

Interesting Historical Facts Concerning the [illegible] Poetess.

The recent sale of Mrs. Sigourney's old home at Norwich Town suggests a number of historic facts pertaining to this gifted woman, who was a descendant of Paul Wentworth, one of the early settlers of this town.

Lydia Huntley was born Sept. 1, 1791, while her parents were living under the same roof with the famous Madame Lathrop, daughter of Governor Talcott of Hartford. Madame Lathrop, having lost husband and sons, lavished all her affections upon the future poetess. A writer describing the Sabbath in Norwich at the beginning of the century says: "The stout black horse in the wide chaise brings Lady Lathrop, attended by Mr. Huntley and his daughter, a pretty little girl of 8 or 9, whose poetic genius has since shed a ray of glory, not only upon her native town, but over her whole country."

She married Charles Sigourney of Hartford June 16, 1819.

A few years earlier in 1812, Miss Huntley and Miss Nancy Maria Hyde had established a select school for young ladies in "Chelsea Landing," as the city proper was then called. The project was a failure, however, the school continuing but little more than a year.

Mrs. Sigourney's first volume of poems was published in 1815. She died at Hartford, June 10, 1865.

At the celebration of the bi-centennial of Norwich in 1859, a hymn which she had composed for the occasion was sung by the choir. In it she referred to

"those cultured glades
Redeemed from thorns and savage sway."

The highest waves ever met with in the ocean are said to be those off the cape of Good Hope. Under the influence of a northwesterly gale they have been known to exceed 40 feet in height.

Bunco Men in Putnam.

PUTNAM, July 18.—Two bunco men appeared here Monday with the Forepaugh show, worked the nutshell racket and took in many people. They are said to have taken nearly $400. From two Dayville men they took $100. A Putnam shoe dealer lost $75. Toward night they offered to stake $100 to $5 and an unknown man beat them twice, but they refused to pay the money over. The bunco men skipped the town, and Officers Parks, Coburn, Carver and Langdon were notified and are looking for them. Some fifteen Putnam men gambled with them, and it is expected that several arrests will be made.

Oat—Smith.

A pleasant home wedding took place at 12 o'clock Tuesday at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Jane E. Smith, 226 West Main street, the contracting parties being John B. Oat and Miss Lila E. Smith. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only the two families by the Rev. A. S. Brown. The bride received many beautiful and substantial presents. At 2.45 the couple left for the White mountains, where they will stay for a week or ten days.

COMBAT WITH A SWORDFISH.

The Infuriated Monster Attempts to Swamp a Boat—Forty Shipped to Boston.

Last week was a great time for catching swordfish and Stonington fishermen improved each shining hour thereof. The water a few miles southeast from Block Island was the place of combat between this armed fish and its mortal enemy, man.

In one case a conflict took place in which the fish made a desperate resistance, and more than that, for he was the attacking party. The fish had been harpooned, and Mr. Harry Chesebro, one of the fishermen, started out in a small boat to pick him up, and bring him to the vessel.

He had approached within about twelve feet of the armed monster, when the fish in his fury made a plunge for the boat. It was too late for Chesebro to retreat, as the infuriated denizen of the deep sent his sword crashing through the boat. An idea of the force of the blow can be obtained by the fact that the sword went into the boat on the port side, near the bow, and came out on the starboard side. Its sword was about four feet long, and was so strongly wedged into the boat that the fish was held fast until the schooner Mattie and Lena came alongside and took him on board.

Sixty-four swordfish, weighing from 200 to 400 pounds each, were shipped from this port to Boston Monday.

REGARDING DEAD ITALIANS.

Their Consul to Be Notified of Those Dying Intestate.

Governor Morris has recently received a letter from Secretary of State W. Q. Gresham, calling attention to article xvi of the consular convention of May 8, 1878, between the United States and Italy. This article is as follows:—

In case of the death of a citizen of the United States in Italy, or of an Italian citizen in the United States, who has no known heir, or testamentary executor designated by him, the competent local authorities shall give notice of the fact to the consuls or consular agents of the nation to which the deceased belongs, to the end that information may be at once transmitted to the parties interested.

Secretary Gresham's letter states that the government of Italy alleges that the local authorities in this country fail in many instances to comply with the stipulations of the above article. Mr. Gresham requests Governor Morris to call the attention of all local authorities in the state to the provisions of the article. He also encloses a list of the Italian consular offices in the United States. The Italian consul for Connecticut, to whom local authorities should communicate on the subject, is Consul General Giovanni Paolo Riva, New York city.

STONINGTON'S DAY.

Preparations Being Made to Celebrate August 10.

A meeting was held Monday evening in the rooms of the Neptune Fire Engine company, to take action with reference to a proper celebration of Stonington's holiday, August 10. The meeting was largely attended and harmonious, and the feeling was decidedly in favor of having a proper celebration of the day.

In furtherance of the object sought a committee, consisting of William R. Palmer, James Quigley, Otho Sullivan and James Pendleton, were appointed to solicit contributions, and report progress at a meeting to be held on Friday evening of this week.

A vote was also passed requesting the fire department to participate in the celebration.

Various Matters—Cycling Association's Meet in Norwich Labor Day.

The members of the Thread City Cyclers who went to Rockville Saturday were warmly welcomed by the stay-at-homes and a brass band upon their arrival home Saturday evening.

The excavations for the new Murray block is being rapidly pushed, and it is hoped that the matter regarding the establishment of the building will be decided upon to the complete satisfaction of all concerned in a few days.

Chief of Police Hillhouse spent Sunday with his family at Montville.

Sewer extensions have been granted in Oak, Church and North streets.

Mr. D. Cochon, employed at Sloan & Calkins' quarry, had his finger so badly jammed Tuesday morning that Dr. Girard found it necessary to amputate the same.

It is expected that the next meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Cycling association, which is to be held at Norwich on Labor day, will be the most interesting of the [illegible].

A CYCLONE STRIKES CONNECTICUT

Much Damage to Hartford Property—No One Injured.

HEAVY LOSS TO TOBACCO CROP.

Worst Storm of Hail, Wind and Lightning Known in that Section.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 18.—One of the worst storms ever known in this section visited here about 5 o'clock this afternoon. In this city roofs were blown completely off of two large brick houses and a number of other roofs were raised. Families in the wrecked houses were obliged to move out. One roof was blown against a house opposite causing much damage. The large trees of many streets were blown down, obstructing the thoroughfares. No one was injured, but there were many narrow escapes. At one time hail stones came down. Small boats in the river had a hard time.

Lightning struck a house in South Glastonbury and killed a dog.

The damage to crops in the surrounding towns is great, the loss to the tobacco crop amounting to thousands of dollars.

PROMOTED A LOTTERY.

Holyoke Judge Finds Eleven Members of Club Guilty.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 18.—The Holyoke court was crowded this morning when Judge Bosworth handed down his decision in the Endowment Diamond association or watch club case.

There were 13 defendants, all except two of whom were found guilty. L. B. Coe, the alleged proprietor, was fined $100, and S. Burns, C. D. Landis, Frank V. Perrin, Alfred Garrivan, Clark P. Stone, Frank W. Aldrich, Timothy J. Regan, Herbert L. Coe, David Abert and John Murray $20 each. All the defendants appealed, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Coe furnishing the sureties.

The charge against the association members was promoting a lottery, and the commonwealth allege that its evidence showed that the club had weekly drawings at which some person's number was drawn which entitled the lucky party to goods valued at $45.

The contention of the defendants was that regular dues were paid, and the right to take the $35 worth of goods was voted to some member at each meeting.

Derailed Freight Cars at Niantic.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 18.—Travel on the Consolidated road between this city and New London was delayed for three hours this afternoon by a blockade caused by two derailed freight cars at Niantic, the station above Westerly. No one was hurt, and the rails were cleared by 5 o'clock. The Shore line "limited," due in Providence at 4.15 o'clock, did not arrive until 6.26 in consequence of the blockade.

Secretary Morton on Business Depression.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Hon. J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture, is a guest at the Holland house. Speaking of the business situation, Secretary Morton said: "I think the chief remedy for the present depressed condition of business is the repeal of the Sherman silver bill. That should be done at once and after that wise instead of pernicious laws should be passed. I think, also, that much could be done toward the restoration of confidence in business and monetary circles by the strictest economy in public expenses. There should be retrenchment in the expenses of the government in every way possible, and thereby keep the surplus in the treasury, instead of using it." Secretary Morton will probably leave the city tonight.

Had Yellow Fever on Board.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The steamship Nasmyth which arrived this morning from Santos, is detained at Quarantine because she has had yellow fever on board. While the Nasmyth was lying at Rio Janeiro harbor on June 15, two seamen, Walter Scott and Thomas Roberts, were attacked with the fever. Roberts died, and Scott was left ashore in a hospital. During the voyage up, another seaman, James Fisher, died of the fever, on July 5, and was buried at sea. The captain says there is no sickness on board now.

Robbed the Coachman's Room.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 18.—Burglars visited Princeton last night, and robbed the coachman's room in the barn on the old Boylston mansion, now owned and occupied by Miss Louisa P. Nightingale of Providence. They secured some clothing and left old garments and a dark lantern. They also entered the office of Dr. O. Howe, stealing some dental instruments, and the tenement of E. W. Gill.

Fell From a Load of Hay and Broke His Neck.

Walker; Treas., Austin E. Kingsbury.

A Good Boy's Diary.

A boy's diary was found on the streets in Waterbury Saturday and turned over to one of the newspapers of that city. It is dated April 25, 1893, and the probable owner signs himself "Archie." Here are some of the items: Saturday was my birthday. Sunday I was a good boy, except in the afternoon I was a bad boy. Monday I was a good boy all day. Tuesday I was a good boy all day, too. Wednesday I was the same. Thursday the same. Friday forenoon I was a good boy and Friday afternoon a bad boy. Saturday I was a good boy in the morning and in the afternoon a bad one. The same on Sunday. The same on Monday. Tuesday the same. Wednesday the same. Thursday the same. Friday I was a good boy all day.

Norwich Excursionists Assaulted.

The New Haven Register says: There was a small-sized riot at Belle dock late Sunday afternoon. The steamer City of Richmond landed at the dock about 3 o'clock with a large party of Norwich people. At 5 o'clock, just as the steamer was about to cast off her moorings some one on the boat threw a potato and struck one of the loungers on the dock. In less time than it takes to tell it, a fight ensued between the party on the boat and the lounger on the dock. Stones, coal and cinders flew thick and fast for a time and several people were struck. The people on the steamer fled from the deck to the cabin and some of the windows were broken.

A telephone message was sent to the Grand avenue precinct that a riot was in progress and a wagon load of officers hastened to the scene. By the time they arrived the trouble was over.

ANCIENT SNAKE CATCHERS.

The Time When Bounties Were Paid for Snakes Tails and Women Figured as Their Captors.

The seasonable snake [illegible] call to mind that there were days when venomous snakes were commoner than now, and when snake-hunting was a bounty-getting business as fox-hunting now is in some places.

The rocks and glens of old Norwich were renowned as haunts for rattlesnakes in particular; Rattlesnake Den and Rattlesnake Ridge are still reminders of those fabulous reptiles which grew to the size of a man's wrist, and to a length of three or four feet. "Wawekus Hill"—as they called it in those days—was famous for these reptiles; and the story goes that a cunning violin-player of "ye earlie tyme" once went to that hill with his instrument and enticed a large rattlesnake to follow him into the town street, fascinated by his music.

The town early put a bounty on these reptiles. In 1730 this bounty was four pence per head, and that year seventy-six were charged to the town, twenty eight by one Moses Woodworth.

In 1731 the season's record was 167, the widow Woodworth claiming premium for twenty-three, and David Knight, Jr., for twenty eight.

The following year 129 were brought in, Sarpeon Woodworth claiming bounty for forty-eight.

In 1734 David Wentworth was rewarded for twenty-nine of the sixty-nine killed.

By 1738 the returns had dwindled down to forty-six, and of these nine were credited to the Widow Smith.

Two years later the town voted "That whosoever shall kill a rattlesnake within this township at any time within one year ensuing, except in the three summer months, and produce one joint of the bone and its tail shall have two shillings for each snake so killed."

At this an earnest search for rattlers began, so that in 1781 the number claiming bounty was nearly 800; in 1782, over 180; in 1783, 174; in 1784, 68, and in 1785, 64.

Evidently things were not strictly according to Hoyle, for Dec. 18th, 1785, the town "voted to pay four shillings apiece for rattlesnakes next year. No pay to be given unless the snake be shown within twenty four hours to the selectmen or to two indifferent neighbors."

In 1786 nearly £36 were paid in bounty, 112 snakes being presented.

May, 1786. An account of rattlesnake tails brought to me. JOSEPH PERKINS.

	brought.
Jacob Perkins	brought.	7	Tails.
Thos. Pettis	"	1
Samuel Lawrence	"	2	Rattles.
Abijah Fitch	"	1	"
John Brogham	"
Robert Kinsman	"	4	"
Joshua Hutchins	"	3	"
Ezra Lothrop	"	2

In 1787 only twenty-one were destroyed; in 1788, seventy eight, and of these twenty-seven were by Jacob Hazen.

In 1789 the bounty was raised to ten shillings a head, provided the killer took oath that he went out for no other purpose than to destroy rattlers. Evidently the reptile race was dwindling, for the victims from this time on were few; one killed upon the farm of Mr. Zephaniah Lathrop, May 27th, 1801, which measured five feet, two inches in length, and had twenty-one rattles, is the last formidable one of which record is made.

BUILDING IN NORWICH.

Work Being Done and to be Done in the Near Future.

The following building notes show that there is, in "the Rose of New England," remarkable activity for the times:

B. H. Palmer & Son have contracted with Breckenridge Brothers for the construction of a large addition to their grist mill at Greeneville.

Arnold & Hiscox have completed the extensive changes to the residence of Mrs. Mary T. Johnson, 248 Broadway.

Contractor Beckwith has nearly completed the extensive new plant of the Uncas Paper company at Thamesville.

The new flats which Arnold & Hiscox are building in Speir block, are progressing finely. They hope to complete them by August 1.

Mr. Wm P. Greene and Mrs. Edward Chappell are making extensive alterations to their residences on Washington street.

H. Blackledge & Co. hope to finish the residence of Arthur Mitchell for occupancy August 1.

The alterations in the residence of Gustave Geduldig have been awarded to Breckenridge Brothers.

H. Blackledge & Co., have nearly completed the large addition to ex-Alderman Osgood's home.

Mr. Crouch is hustling the stone work for a large block for Mrs. M. Clay, on Laurel Hill avenue.

Contractor Beckwith has been awarded the contract for the large electric storage building for the New London Street Railway company. The building will be 40x150 feet.

S. and J. Gregson are having plans made for a large block for stores and tenements on the lot south of their laundry building on Franklin street. They will build immediately.

Captain Burlick is getting estimates for extensive alterations on his property on Otis street.

Rufus W. Tilden is to build a cottage immediately on Asylum street.

All this work is from plans from Architect Preston's office.

BLUEFISH WILL BE PLENTY.

Local Lovers of the Sport Anticipate a Successful Season.

All the rumors that bluefish are likely to be scarce in the sound this season are without foundation. The season is a little late but the lovers of bluefishing in this vicinity say that they will be abundant. They are expected in the sound now every day. Inspector Beckwith of New London says that he expects them in the race daily. Messrs. Sigar, Powers and Flint, who catch for the New York Markets, are at the race ready to drop the line at the first opportunity.

Saturday there were ten boats in the race all day but they did not catch a bluefish. Mr. Flint happened to run into a bunch and captured sixteen. At Bartlett's reef, near New London, the same day twelve boats caught no fish.

The bluefish appears in the race first where the water is very wild and rapid. Rumors came from Block Island that the fish are being caught there but it is known that such is not the case and that the hotel men send out such reports for business reasons only. The fish usually arrive in the sound about the twelfth of July. They start from Cape Hatteras about the first of January and follow a desirable temperature north, arriving off Barnegat, N. J., about July 1.

Large catches are now being made there. Those who are watching for the finny creatures say that they will certainly appear in the sound by the twentieth.

CAMP ORDERS.

General Haven's Instructions to Connecticut's National Guardsmen.

The following general order No. 3 has been issued by Brigadier General George Haven:

I. The camp of 1893 will be known as Camp Morris, (in honor of the commander-in-chief), state military rendezvous, Niantic, Conn.

II. The following daily routine will be observed:

Reveille	5.45 a. m.
Sick call	6.00 a. m.
Breakfast	6.30 a. m.
Police call	7.00 a. m.
Company drill (extended order) 7.30 to	8.45 a. m.
Inspection of quarters	9.00 a. m.
Guard mounting	9.00 a. m.
Battalion drill	9.45 to 10.45 a. m.
Regimental drill	10.45 to 11.45 a. m.
Orderly hour	12.00 m.
Dinner call	12.30 p. m.
School call	1.30 p. m.
Battery and machine gun drill 1.30 to	3.30 p. m.
Police call	3.30 p. m.
Regimental parade, Second and First regiments	4.30 p. m.
Regimental parade, Fourth and Third regiments	4.30 p. m.
Brigade formation, Wednesday and Thursday	5.15 p. m.
Retreat	6.35 p. m.
Supper	6.00 p. m.
Tattoo	10.00 p. m.
Taps	10.30 p. m.

III. Guard mounting on Monday, August 21, at 4 p. m.

IV. All calls will be sounded at brigade headquarters and immediately repeated from the right to the left down the line, except adjutant's call for brigade formation, this call will not be repeated.

V. Musicians' call will be sounded at brigade headquarters fifteen minutes previous to call for reveille, guard mounting, drills, parade, retreat and tattoo. Assembly for forming guard details and companies for drills and ceremonies will be sounded in the several organizations ten minutes previous to stated calls.

VI. The commanding officer of Battery A will cause one gun to be fired daily at reveille and retreat.

VII. At taps lights in the tents of enlisted men must be extinguished and thereafter no noise will be permitted. No company will be left at any time without a commissioned officer in charge, who shall see that all orders and regulations are obeyed.

VIII. All officers and enlisted men will be required to [illegible] within the camp lines.

IX. Passes will be issued by regimental, separate company and battery commanders only in case of urgent need and not extending beyond tattoo or the day of issue, all passes must be countersigned at these headquarters. The provost guard will be instructed to arrest every enlisted man outside the lines unable to show a pass, and no officer will be allowed to vouch for an enlisted man without a pass unless on detached duty under command of such officer.

X. There will be a daily inspection of quarters commencing at 8 a. m., except Saturday, 27, by brigade staff officers detailed for that purpose. The bill of dress issued at Camp White will be issued at this encampment and company quartermaster sergeants, under the direction of the regimental quartermaster, will be held responsible for the strict conformity to the bill of dress. The regimental quartermaster will accompany the brigade staff officers on these inspections.

XI. The First and Second separate companies will be encamped as such, but for the purpose of guard mounting and at brigade formations they will form as a provisional battalion under command of Captain Daniel S. Lathrop, who will detail a lieutenant as acting adjutant, and on all occasions requiring it these officers will appear mounted.

XII. Careful and thorough work will be expected in the company extended order drills, the armory being the time and place for proper preparation in other company drill.

XIII. The names of regimental and provisional battalion officers of the day and guard will be forwarded at orderly hour to brigade headquarters daily for the day following with consolidated reports.

XIV. Captain Walter Fitzmaurice, aide-de-camp, is hereby detailed as acting provost marshal in addition to his other duties.

XV. Commanding officers of the First and Second regiments will direct First Lieutenant Sidney M. Leonard, and Second Lieutenant James F. Plunkett, of their respective commands, to report to Captain Walter Fitzmaurice, aide-de-camp, at 4 p. m., August 21, for duty with provost guard.

XVI. Regimental commanders will be instructors in guard duty and will be held strictly responsible for the proficiency of the guard from their respective commands.

XVII. Major George E. Albee, inspector of small arms practice and ordnance officer, will have immediate charge of the sea coast battery and be responsible for the instruction in that drill. The details for this duty will be furnished in special orders issued at camp.

XVIII. Drum-majors of the First, Second, Third and Fourth regiments will report with their bands and field music at the right of the line at musicians' call before brigade formation and review. Drum-major William E Steele, First regiment, will have charge of bands when consolidated.

XIX. All trumpeters will report to the brigade trumpeter at the flag staff every evening at 6 35 o'clock and will sound the retreat.

XX. Commanders of regiments and battalions are directed to notify their organizations that officers and men keep their coats on and buttoned when out of quarters. The habit in lounging about in shirt sleeves and with coats unbuttoned has subjected the guard to criticism, and particular attention should be given to this requirement.

XXI. The brigade will be reviewed on Friday, August 25, at 2 p. m., by His Excellency Luzon B. Morris, governor and commander-in-chief.

SIAM AND FRANCE

Being Carefully Watched by Johnny Bull.

ALIVE TO THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Everything Possible Will be Done to Secure a Peaceful Solution.

LONDON, July 18.—The Earl of Rosebery, secretary of state for foreign affairs, replying to a question asked by Lord Lamington in the house of lords yesterday, said that the government was not in full possession of the facts regarding the dispute between France and Siam, but that Great Britain was fully alive to the responsibility attaching to her and would not lose any opportunities of obtaining satisfactory solution of the matters at issue.

In the house of commons Sir Edward Gray, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, made extended reference to the announced intention of Mr. Curzon to move the adjournment of the house in order to discuss the situation in Siam. Sir Edward appealed to the house not to discuss the matter until further information should have been received. He promised that by Great Britain to arrive at a pacific solution of the questions involved. It was imperative, he added, to keep distinct from the main issues certain allied questions, especially the question of Siamese independence. This statement evoked cheers.

Continuing, Sir Edward said that all the questions required the closest and most careful consideration. The government was fully alive to the need of securing the safety of British interests in Siam, and if more warships were required at Bangkok or elsewhere in Siam water, they would be promptly dispatched.

Sir Edward further said that France had informed the British government that the French gunboats had ascended the Menam river, without instructions to do so, but had added that the commanders of the war ships

Had Been Provoked to This Action

by the Siamese. He concluded by stating that he was able to assure the house that the government had every hope that the affair would be settled in a peaceful and satisfactory manner.

When Sir Edward finished, Mr. Curzon said that, in view of the statement made by the representative of the government, he would abandon his intention to move that the house adjourn.

THE NEW CABINET.

Men Whom President Zavala Will Rely Upon In Nicaragua.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Herald's Managua (Nicaragua, correspondent cables: President Zavala began operations by organizing a cabinet, which was yesterday announced as follows:

Minister of state—Anselmo H. Rivas.

Minister of war and interior—Frederick Alorsano.

Minister of public works—Jose d'Rodriguez.

Minister of finance—Manuel Lacayo.

General Aviles will remain in command of the army.

Revolutionary troops are reported to be advancing toward Esteli, and are expected to make an assault upon the town. The garrison there would be ready to meet them.

General Gutturrier, with 200 soldiers, started across the lake yesterday to re-enforce the garrison at Esteli, while the troops stationed in Matagalpa are being held in readiness to aid in defending the position, if necessary.

A general feeling of relief has been shown since General Zavala assumed control of the government.

A proclamation has been issued prohibiting mail steamers from touching at Corinto.

SOUTH AMERICAN MUDDLE.

Rebel Navy Wiped Out—Land Forces Active In Rio Grande do Sul.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Rio Janeiro correspondent of The Times says that the Italia, another steamer which escaped from Rio Grande, has been captured by the federal fleet. The telegraph service between Rio Grande and other Brazilian cities will be resumed shortly.

The Herald's Valparaiso correspondent cables: The capture of the Italia wipes out the insurgents' squadron, and forces them again to depend for success upon their land forces.

Apparently undismayed by the loss of their navy, the land forces of the revolutionists in Rio Grande do Sul have become more aggressive than ever. Generals Tavares and Salgado have combined their forces and are now besieging Yaguaron City. The town is well defended, and its capture will be difficult.

It is reported that an attempted revolution in Rio Janeiro failed.

SIAMESE BUILDING FORTS.

They Are Routed by the French Forces After a Severe Struggle.

PARIS, July 18.—A dispatch from Saigon to The Temps says: The Siamese have long been massing troops on both sides of the Mekong river in order to stop the passage of French gunboats. They were especially energetic in building forts on the left of the bank, and showed a disposition to a fresh blockade of the French force on the island of Khong.

With a view to preventing this, Captain Villier, on July 14, took Dontane-Taphun. After a severe struggle he routed the natives and captured 22 prisoners. Considerable military operations continue to be necessary as a basis from which the work of preserving free passage for the gunboat and a small craft is carried on."

TRADE AT LOWEST EBB.

Haverhill Shoe Manufacturers Doing Little at Present.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 18.—Trade is at present at its lowest ebb, and it will probably be several weeks before the tide turns, if it does at all before the winter months. The weekly statement of shoe shipments, gathered from the books of the Boston and Maine railroad, shows about one-half of the production of three months ago.

All manufacturers declare that the outlook, as far as the condition of the market is concerned, is good, and that whenever business revives it will not be handicapped by a long market or over supply. The causes for the general shutting down may be found in the general tightness of money, distrust of the situation and a dislike to buy or contract on the existing uncertainty.

Chick Brothers are about the only large firm which is running on anywhere near its full capacity. They report little change. J. H. Winchell & Co., perhaps the largest single producers of foot goods in the city, have about half their usual force of hands at work. Knipe Brothers' large factory at Ward Hill is practically shut down, although the firm has orders for fall work. They may start up any time.

Griffin Bros., who have been shut down for two weeks, have begun to start up. C. W. Arnold, one of the largest leather dealers, has good courage, but is not buying any stock at present. Sumner Bros., large producers, are starting up slowly.

The banks report considerable money on deposit, largely from recent collections. Very little leather is being bought at present by local dealers or manufacturers and all industries and works requiring capital are handicapped by the scarcity of cash.

The savings banks report a good business, but that the withdrawals exceed the deposits in amount, as many large depositors have withdrawn their money tempted by the high rates of interest obtainable from private borrowers on good security.

ACCIDENT TO THE PRINCE.

His Carriage Collides With a Hansom Cab and Shakes Him Up.

LONDON, July 18.—The Prince of Wales met with an accident last evening which, while it had no serious result, gave him a bad shaking up. While the prince was riding in his private hansom cab through St. James' street, a vehicle that was debouching from King street, caused the prince's driver to swerve sharply in order to avoid a collision with it.

The prince's carriage was being driven at a fair rate of speed, and in swinging out of the way of the vehicle turning the corner it smashed into another hansom cab. The shock of the collision was so violent that the prince's horse fell, and the prince himself was dashed against the side of his hansom. He was not seriously injured. He alighted from his cab and walked the remainder of the distance to Marlboro House, his London residence.

LONDON'S WAREHOUSE FIRE

Entirely Destroys Thirty Buildings and Causes a Loss of £1,500,000.

LONDON, July 18.—Last night's warehouse fire, in the district bounded by Leadenhall street and Bevis Marks and Camomile streets, burned over an area of 500 yards square before the flames were extinguished. Thirty buildings were entirely destroyed. These buildings were occupied by more than 25 firms, who dealt in stationery, clothing, tea, wines, furniture, imported goods, etc.

The porters and their families living on the premises had narrow escapes. Many of them rushed to the street in their nightdresses. It is expected that the loss will reach £1,500,000.

The burned district is but a short distance to the eastward of the Bank of England, the Royal Exchange and the Mansion House, the residence of the lord mayor.

EXHIBITS ARE RUINED.

Foreign Exhibitors at World's Fair Would Make Uncle Sam Settle.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A special to The World from Chicago says: The foreign exhibitors at the fair held a meeting yesterday, and decided to bring claims against the government for damages amounting to $400,000. They assert that exhibits have been ruined by rain, snow and sunshine. They have collected evidence and say the claim is good. They go to the government, because the fair is a government enterprise.

In support of their claim they hold that the government paid $300,000 for damages at the New Orleans exposition. Congress, however, passed a bill declaring that the government would not be responsible for damages incurred by the Chicago directory.

Wants His Name on the Ticket.

BOSTON, Mass., July 18.—Rev. A. A. Miner, Prohibition candidate for senator in the Seventh Suffolk senatorial district, today brought a petition for a writ of certiorari in the supreme court to have the ballot law commissioners show by what authority of law they refuse to place his name upon the official ballot. The petitioner claims he has conformed to the law, but the commissioners have declined to put his name upon the ticket to be voted for next fall. The case will be a test one.

Uncle Sam Intercedes.

LONDON, July 18.—The Anglo-Armenian association learns that the United States government has interceded for Professor Thoumaian and Professor Kayayan, instructors in the American college in Marsovan. These men were tried in Angora for sedition, found guilty and sentenced to death. The sentences were commuted to banishment. The American government is urging the porte to allow them to return to their missionary work in Marsovan.

English Residents Leaving.

LONDON, July 18.—The Bangkok correspondent of The Times says that many Englishmen, with their families, are leaving the country. They are taking with them all their portable property. The correspondent adds: The captain of the French gunboat, seeing the Siamese flag floating above the French on the captured steamer Jean Bay, himself hauled down both flags, thus creating another incident. The Siamese afterward hoisted their own flag.

Marden Not a Candidate.

LOWELL, Mass., July 18.—This city does not appear to have any active candidates for state offices besides Mr. Greenhalge. Some days ago, George A. Marden, the present state treasurer, was approached regarding the rumor that he was a candidate for the office of lieutenant governor, and in response to the question regarding his position denied that he was a candidate for the position.

Outlaws Close Up a Town.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 18.—For several days members of the Starr gang of outlaws have been in the vicinity of Stillwater. The people becoming aware of this fact the banks were closed, guards placed upon them, and every storekeeper armed himself thoroughly. The town is now a veritable arsenal.

Was Crossed in Love.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Charles Orth, aged 40, committed suicide at 108 South Fifth avenue last night. His body was not found until 10 o'clock this morning. He was seen entering his house Sunday night. He is said to have been crossed in love.

Part of New Trotting Circuit.

MILFORD, Mass., July 18.—The proprietor of the Charles River Driving park at Milford has perfected arrangements whereby the Milford track will be part of the new trotting circuit, which includes Saugus, Mystic and Worcester.

Bank Officers Arrested.

ARMOUR, S. D., July 18.—In connection with the Douglas County bank failure President George W. Lumley of Pierre was arrested yesterday; also Directors F. H. Lichter, James A. Wilson and E. M. Foster of this city.

Dr. Meyer in Court.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Dr. Meyer, the wholesale poisoner, who plied his trade to defraud insurance companies, was arraigned in the court of sessions this morning and remanded. He will plead on Thursday.

Richard Auchmuty Dead.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., July 18.—Colonel Richard Auchmuty died at his home in Lenox at 5 o'clock this morning.

A man's home is his golden milestone from which he measures every distance.

But however much he may lavish expense and skill, it will only be a house until the baby comes to make it into a home.

"Of course you love your babies," said one of the best physicians America ever had; "then watch them intelligently in June, July and August. Look out they do not drink milk exposed to contamination. There are many ways in which reliance upon cow's milk alone becomes a source of danger.

"If a baby in arms is not fed with absolutely healthful mother's milk, the best substitute is, of course, lactated food. Sugar of milk is the basis of mother's milk, and it is the basis of lactated food. With it is combined pure barley malt, the finest wheat gluten, and the nutritious elements of the oat. It is thoroughly cooked by high steam heat, and a predigested, nutritious food that fulfills every requirement of the growing child is the result.

"For an infant that has been weaned and is getting teeth, there is nothing nearly so good as lactated food. It is a better preventive of the much-to-be-dreaded cholera infantum than all the medicine ever discovered. You can get it at any drug store, and it is so inexpensive that every mother can afford it.

"By using lactated food you will avoid the real dangers of summer and free your mind from constant apprehension."

Any practical physician will tell you that the lactated food is commended upon by his most eminent fellow practitioners as the best substitute for pure mother's milk, and that it can be absolutely relied on for purity and freedom from any possible source of contamination.

You can rely on lactated food above everything else to carry the weaned baby through the trying days and nights of summer.

If the little one is inclined to be nervous and fretful in the summer heat, lactated food sustains the strength and wards off summer diarrhoea and prevents cholera infantum.

It saves babies' lives.

Here is the experience of a sweet baby boy. His mother, Mrs. W. H. P. Cross, resides at 20 North First St., Meriden, Conn., writes:

"I take pleasure in sending you the picture of our little Walter. He was a very sick baby and would not nurse. We tried everything we could, but he never got well until a friend recommended lactated food to us. We gave it to him and he improved rapidly. This is his second summer and is very trying to him, as he is cutting teeth, but in spite of that he is larger than a good many as old as he is. He is very bright and has a lovely complexion, and everybody takes him for a girl. He will eat nothing but lactated food. I hope that I may have many chances to recommend it, for I know of nothing else that deserves so much praise as lactated food." jy19d

TWILIGHT.

Sing, sweet; it is the twilight hour;
Thy voice brings rest and peace,
And unto thee is given the power
To bid all discord cease.

Let day fade with its load of sorrow;
Now is enough for me;
I care not for the coming morrow,
For they may banish thee.

Oh, that this eve could last forever,
Ambition's turn be o'er,
For with thee near my heart would never
The busy world regret.

Only count us as Love's immortals;
Let each be one in soul;
Bid Night halt at the western portals
And Death collect no toll.

Then twilight would be fraught with splendor,
Bathed in Faith's golden stream,
And each touch of love would render—
Sing, sweet, and let me dream.

THE STUFFED CAT.

I was all alone one evening in my study.

Do you not know this study? That is natural because I never have introduced you to it. Perhaps you would not like it. I like it very much—first of all because it is mine, and then because I have arranged it according to my tastes.

There is a little of everything in it—a colossal writing desk with an infinity of drawers and pigeonholes, a bookcase, some shelves for books, two tables, one large and one small; a divan, an armchair, on the floor rugs and cushions thrown down everywhere, pictures on the walls, a gas lamp in the center. In one corner on top of a column of black wood is a stuffed cat—a magnificent tiger striped cat with sparkling green eyes that seems ready to spring down from its pillar, tired probably of acting Simeon Stylites.

In this den or study, as you please to call it, I pass beautiful hours, day or evening, writing, reading, meditating, smoking and doing nothing.

It is here that I retire in hours of the blues, in those hours of unconscious, instinctive ill humor which one cannot explain or justify and which exactly on that account one translates into an extraordinary nervous irritation.

This den is the despair of my wife and the rest of the household because they are positively forbidden to touch, to even move a book or a paper under that pretext of putting into order which reduces itself into real disorder. I will wager that if my wife, my sister-in-law, my nieces, could arrange my den according to their tastes, turning it upside down, they would be happy. But they do not venture for fear of me. Only when I speak of my study all those feminine lips curl with smiles, disdainful, ironical or compassionate.

It is especially the stuffed cat that jars upon their nerves. My wife absolutely wished to throw him away, give him away, destroy him. I was obliged to declare to her that such an outrage would immediately provoke on my part a demand for legal separation pending the approval of divorce by vote of the Italian chamber of deputies.

Now that I have premised, so to say, the surroundings, I will go on to relate the fact, the terrible, frightful fact that had taken place in my delicious den and to which I am indebted for the gray hairs that embellish my 30-year-old locks.

One evening in the autumn all my family was in the country. I only had staid in town to attend to some urgent work.

I was all alone in the house. A woman came every morning to clean, to sweep and air the rooms and went away after noon. I dined at a restaurant.

Now, for some days I thought that I noticed in my study something strange, odd, unaccustomed. It had the same effect upon me as if something were not in its place. I would have taken my oath that certain books had been moved, certain papers had been rummaged.

I questioned the domestic, who swore and perjured herself to the effect that, faithful to her trust, she had touched nothing, but had limited herself to sweeping the floor and dusting the furniture. And no one else ever entered the room.

One morning it seemed to me that the stuffed cat, my good cat with the green eyes that I called Tic when he was alive, had been touched. Certainly his attitude was not the same or I was dreaming. Yes, yes, his head was turned another way, and the expression of his face, that of an honest feline, was different from that which I was accustomed to have before my eyes. How in the world had such a strange phenomenon happened?

But this was nothing. For two or three evenings, shut up in my study, writing—alone in the large apartment—I thought I heard singular noises here and there. I arose from the desk, went out of the study and all through the house, carefully examining every room, stopping now in this one, now in that, to listen. Nothing. The rooms were deserted; the silence was complete, profound.

Then I returned to my study and set to work again. But the noises persisted and became more decided and frequent. I would have sworn that some mysterious and invisible being was scratching in the walls or forcing some lock. One evening indeed it seemed to me that the noise was just behind me, and I turned mechanically.

Well, I would have taken my oath that I saw the cat Tic move almost imperceptibly, and his eyes gleam brighter, and his back arch, and his bold, majestic tail stretch itself in an act of defiance.

But surely it was an hallucination, because the cat was still in his place, impassible, and gave no sign of moving from his column.

All these small things, insignificant and extraordinary at the same time, had impressed and disturbed me. By instinct, by nature, I don't fancy what I cannot explain. I am a foe to the supernatural, the marvelous, the mysterious. I like to see clearly within and around myself.

I, you see, am of a well balanced and sound temperament. Nervousness, morbidness and such nonsense annoy me and are repugnant to me.

And as I think I know myself pretty well, I was surprised and bored by a state of mind so contrary to my habits and nature. Evidently my physio-psychological system was in a moment of crisis.

How could I get out of it—be cured? Must I, too, take the first train and go into the country? Perhaps that would be the best way. But unfortunately I could not. I had an important engagement to supply some work, and I could not run away and leave it for whims of a dreamer fit for a hysterical woman.

"Per bacco!" I told myself, "Pay no attention to the thing! Let us be a man, what, the deuce!"

And I returned home that evening as usual, after having dined and visited the cafe.

I had planned to work hard that evening, in order to make haste to finish.

Having entered the house I made as usual an inspection of the apartment and found everything as before. Not even a chair out of place. Then I went into my study and lighted the gas, to begin work.

But as soon as I seated myself at the desk and cast a glance upon the manuscript where I had left off writing, a marvelous, amazing surprise awaited me.

You must know that I was writing a novel—oh, what a novel! Something fine, exceptionally fine! A romance like that surely no one ever wrote. The real and the fanciful, the romantic, the classic, the naturalistic, were skillfully mingled in it.

Now that day when I went out I had interrupted the story at a very interesting point, and the period ended thus:

"He burst into a sonorous laugh of scorn; he was very sure that the time of phantoms and specters was long past! That apparition then gave him no fear. It must be a trick."

I had left it there.

Taking up the pen in order to continue, with my good cigar lighted in my mouth, I cast my eyes on the paper, and what did I see?

Just heavens! What indeed!

Directly below the last line written by me had been written one word only: Fool! There it was, ironical and menacing, in Gothic letters, which showed the handwriting of a former age.

Who had traced this scornful and mocking word? You can imagine whether I remained amazed. I will say even more—I felt an impression of terror. My servant did not know how to read or write. No one had come into the house during the day. Then by whom had the words been written?

I grew livid and felt myself shudder.

I sprang to my feet. I felt the hair stand on end upon my head and a cold perspiration trickle down my forehead!

Tic, the accursed stuffed cat, looked fixedly at me, and his green eyes seemed to dilate and become variegated with a thousand colors. But was that cat really stuffed? Or was he not rather alive by virtue of some witchcraft?

All at once I roused myself. I had a feeling of shame and rage; and furious, striking with a heavy fist on the writing desk, I exclaimed:

"But who is the demon who has written this word? I would like to know him to twist his neck!"

If I were to live a thousand years, I shall never forget what happened then.

I had hardly finished speaking those words when the study resounded with mocking laughter—dry, strident, infernal.

Then the wall opened suddenly, and there came forth a woman wrapped in a great black mantle. And Tic, the accursed cat, made a leap from his pillar, and mewing as he had never mewed in his lifetime went to rub himself against that mysterious being.

I drew back more dead than alive. Still, I had enough presence of mind to stretch a hand behind me, open a drawer of the desk and take out a loaded revolver. As soon as I had seized the weapon I felt safer.

I raised my arm and pointed the revolver at that being, with the exclamation:

"Now, we will see who you are!"

Alas! Once, twice, thrice I touched the trigger, but the revolver was no longer obedient.

The mysterious figure made two steps toward me. The black mantle that enfolded her fell to the floor.

What a fearful sight! It was not a man nor a woman. It was a skeleton—a skeleton with two lights flaming in its empty, cavernous eye sockets—a skeleton that laughed satanically, while the cat Tic made fantastic and wild leaps.

It was—it was Death!

* * * * * *

In the morning they found me insensible in my den. The servant ran to call a physician, who found me in a high fever. My family hastened from the country. I was taken care of, treated and cured. But the fact remains, my hair had turned gray.

When I was able to return to my den, the cat Tic was no longer there. My wife had made a coup d'etat and sent it to be thrown into the river. The column had also disappeared. It had been given away, I do not know to whom.

My manuscript was, however, still in its place. Only the word "Fool!" was no longer there.

Then it had not been written?

Still I was very sure of having read it.

Who knows? If the cat Tic had still been there, perhaps he could have told me. But poor Tic was there no more.

Then, what am I to think?

What shall I believe?—Translated From the Italian For Short Stories.

Curious Offer of Marriage.

A piece of evidence some time back in a Quebec breach of promise case was a cuff with an offer of marriage written on it. One night, while the defendant was holding the plaintiff's hand and whispering fervid words, he popped the question on the smooth linen of her wrist. She was sentimental or shrewd enough to keep that article out of "the wash."

Making Marble Out of Chalk.

In nature marble is made out of chalk by water, which percolates through the chalky deposits, dissolves the chalk particle by particle and crystallizes it, mountain pressure solidifying it. It has been found that similar results may be accomplished by chemical means. First, slices of chalk are dipped in a color bath, staining them with tints that will imitate any kind of marble known. For this purpose the same mineral stains are used as are employed in nature. For example, to produce counterfeit "verde antique" oxide of copper is utilized. In like manner green, pink, black and other colorings are obtained. Next, the chalk slices go into another bath, by which they are hardened and crystallized, coming out to all intents and purposes real marble.—London Science Siftings.

INVITING OLD AGE.

SOME OF THE WAYS IN WHICH WOMEN LOSE THEIR YOUTH.

Mothers Neglect Their Own Needs In Exaggerated Devotion to the Children. Those Who Claim the Immunities of Age When Only In the Midday of Life.

The oldest woman I ever knew was 28. At marriage the graces of girlhood passed forever from her life. Economy became the god enthroned on every altar of her home. Ruffles and ribbons were the insignia of levity and extravagance. Dresses robbed of a yard or two grew ungracefully short and narrow. Books and papers were regarded as luxuries—not necessities. An hour spent in reading left a feeling of guilt for wasted time. Devotion to "Will and the children" came to mean self assumed slavery. Luster left the eye, elasticity the frame. Through a mistaken sense of duty she grew unkempt, narrow souled, repulsive. It has been said that the true age is what we look and feel. I have known sweet, fresh faced women of 70 who were younger than she.

In the great middle class of America the wife too often invites age by concentrating all ambition in money getting. To save the wages of servants she destroys the joy of life, the buoyancy of health. Pushing the growing daughter to the front, she sees less and less of society, dresses with increasing plainness and sinks to a household drudge, self made and valued at her own estimate.

Thirty-five has no more right to the styles and tone of 70 than to those of 17. The appropriation of the one is scarcely less ridiculous than the assumption of the other. Far better than the expensive boarding school is the example of the mother in imparting to the daughter the faultless taste of dress, the gentle repose of manner, the gracious spirit so admirable in woman. A part of the money devoted to the education of the daughter would be well spent in procuring to the mother the time for self culture. As the fair, snowy page is not so useful or beautiful as the one written with pure, uplifting thought, so the immature maiden is less valuable to home and society than the ripe, cultured woman.

People of 40 and 50 should not shelve themselves and claim the immunities of age. They are in the midday of life; the time for the exercise of knowledge, power, grace and beauty, for the uplifting of humanity. These gifts may be enhanced by dress and manner. The influence of the attractive, self respecting wife, mother, sister or friend is more potent for good than that of the one with neglected person and unlovely mind.

Discontent invites age. Indulging the unrest of the dissatisfied is destructive to looks and temper. In his "Story of a Country Town" Mr. E. W. Howe says, "Be contented if it kills you." The advice is not so bad as it looks. Contentment and stagnation are not necessarily synonymous. One may be free from worry while striving for higher planes or work. Woman should have the courage of repose. It is infinitely better than the morbid conscientiousness that goads to endless toil. Effective work requires effective rest.

Judicious mental work may help to lift one out of the ruts of premature old age. Read and think of what you read. Don't use your mind as if it were a sieve and you were trying to see how much you could pour through it. There is a belief extant that knowledge, if gained at all, must be acquired in youth. Fallacious theory! Behold Galilei at threescore and ten pursuing his studies with unflagging zeal, Cato beginning Greek when advanced in years, Ogilby commencing classical studies when past 50! Gladstone is as much the student today as when the bloom of youth mantled his cheek.

Be kind to the feelings and fancies of youth. If they prove perennial, so much the better. Don't forbid yourself glad, recreative thought and action. Don't be ashamed to make yourself as pretty as you can. A sensible woman may feel a thrill of pleasure innocent as a maiden's when receiving a glance of respectful admiration from a manly man. Smile without affectation, be pleasant without being silly—in short, be young as long as you can.—Alva Rosse in Kate Field's Washington.

Cradles Hundreds of Years Ago.

In manuscripts of the ninth and tenth centuries we had pictures of cradles formed of part of a tree trunk dug out, with holes bored through the sides for the passage of straps intended to tie the baby down in his bed. These dug out cradles are still common in modern Greece. When we come to consult the manuscripts and bas-reliefs of the fifteenth century, we notice that the cradles are no longer mere baskets or beds on rockers, but little swinging beds suspended between two pillars, the prototype of the modern bercelonnette.—Harper's Bazar.

Yes, It Is Strictly Grammatical.

The following is quoted from a leading article in the New York Tribune:

"By his death the community loses the foremost and the best of American actors, and one of the greatest tragedians that have ever lived."

To settle a dispute, will you kindly state whether the above is strictly according to English grammar?—New York Sun.

An Author's Apology.

A clever story whose hero is a young rector speaks of his removing his "biretta" during a protracted walk. "I wantonly put it on his head," says the author, with a laugh. "I knew he ought not to roam the country in that headgear, but it was so becoming that I let him do it."—New York Times.

THE BRUTE AND THE HAT.

Nature of the Man Who Is Constantly Complaining of Woman's Headgear.

There is something extremely fatiguing in all this talk about the big hats at the theater. From every point come shafts of ridicule and even abuse to the woman who wears to the theater a bonnet larger than a saucepan. Those who make all this hubbub are the very ones who have the least right to, and I'll prove it.

It is generally man—plain, horrid, crabbed man—who finds so much fault with our hats. Now, I don't mind telling you that it is this same man who does more to spoil a lady's evening at the theater than all the hats in Christendom. You know him as well as I do, for you meet him at every theater. He seems to have nothing in the world to do but to go to playhouses and cause people to wish they had never been born.

This man, whom we all know, never gets to the theater until the play has begun. And, what is more astonishing and even more aggravating, he always selects a seat midway between two aisles and in the most crowded section of the house.

Down the aisle he—this horrid man—tramps, every step drowning at least two lines of the dialogue. At his row he stops and gloats over his victims as he counts how many there are. Adjusting his overcoat so that it will hit every hat in the line and dishevel every bang under those hats, he begins his mad plunge for his seat. His cane he carries so that it will catch every thread of lace or every ornament, while he so handles his feet as to take an inch of patent leather off every shoe.

Gained his seat and he casts his eye along the wreck he has wrought, looks into the face of every auditor in the house, bangs up his chair, then down again, throws his overcoat over it so that it will hit the victim behind him, and down he plants himself with a grunt of sublime satisfaction at having for once in his life made his presence felt by scores.

This is the individual who usually makes remarks about big hats in theaters.

And I am going to tell you how this ubiquitous acquaintance of ours was most beautifully "sat on" the other evening.

It was at a down town theater. The prettiest, daintiest, most exquisitely dressed little girl came in. Her hat was a perfect dream, though I'll admit it was rather large, yet it was so bewitchingly becoming that only a brute could have breathed a word against it. The girl had hardly seated herself and arranged a rebellious lock of hair that persisted in looking into her eyes, when this horrid brute of a man of whom I have been speaking gave vent to the following piece of pure, unadulterated brutishness:

"Oh, Lord! How am I expected to see through that hat?"

He rather flattered himself, I think, if he imagined the girl had any expectations in regard to him when she put the hat on. However, a dubious look passed over her face, she hesitated a moment, then raised her hands, unpinned her hat and took it off with a deep sigh that should have gone straight to that man's heart. She then turned around and with a charming smile, which went to show that a woman never does anything by halves, she asked:

"Is that better now?"

And this horrid man, this foe to hats, bangs, laces and ornaments, this trampler on rights and patent leather shoes, had the boldness to say that he believed he would go out to see a friend.

The girl? Oh, she held her hat throughout the performance.—Blanche Hastings in San Francisco Examiner.

Interesting Shy Men.

One of the characters in a modern novel is made to say: "I love a shy man. He is getting so scarce." Perhaps that is why he is so really delicious. When he blushes palpably, but without looking awkward, one is drawn toward him by a certain sentiment of affinity, and so long as he is just shy enough, but not too shy, he wins more and more upon one. To draw a really shy man out of his shyness is a pleasing task, and the more so as he is generally disinclined to give expression to the thoughts and ideas that he usually keeps locked fast away within himself. One comes upon a stray jewel or two now and then, in such cases, in the shape of an unexpected thought that astonishes the discoverer because it seems so different from the person from whom it emanates. I assure you, I think shy men are sometimes very charming, but then one must be a little shy one's self in order to appreciate them. Do you know any nice ones, and do you find that they only come out of their shell in a tete-a-tete, and not always then, so that there is a pleasing element of uncertainty about them which adds to the interest they inspire?—Cor. London Truth.

Riding Home Without Money.

The "bright young man" must be set down as being as full of resources as his much quoted sister, the "bright young woman."

One of the former escorted one of the latter the other evening to a theater. He is a young law student with more brains than money at the present writing, and he frequently counts pennies in making an estimate of expenses. On the evening in question he did so with such scant margin that a call for a quarter to pay for checking umbrellas more than exhausted it.

A sly search of his pockets just before they went up on the elevated station to take the train home produced only one 5-cent piece. It would never do to proclaim his dilemma to his fair companion. He could neither beg nor borrow the other nickel at that time and place, and for a moment he was desperate.

Then he took a chance. As they were about to pass the ticket window he let the young woman precede him, and when he reached his hand through, saying, "Two, please," he left his solitary coin and his pocketknife in front of the ticket seller. That functionary glanced up quickly, took in the situation and without an instant's hesitation passed out the two bits of pasteboard.

Everybody was satisfied. The agent had a good knife for a trifling sum, the future barrister had escaped a mortification, and the young woman remained blissfully ignorant of the whole transaction, as it was desirable she should.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

A Lifelike Stone Camel.

One of the most curious rock formations in the world is to be seen in Arizona. It is a short distance east of the stage road between Tucson and Oracle and stands on a knoll several feet above the surrounding sand hills. When first seen, the effect is startling, and the mind has to get over a shock before the peculiar object can be comprehended. It is a most perfect representation of a camel and is formed of one piece of granite.

This curiosity is of colossal size, but perfectly proportional. It is about 60 feet high and is very white and smooth. There are very few fissures on the surface, and they strangely are in the proper places to form features. The only real projection from the surface is exactly placed for an eyebrow. The two humps are plainly to be seen, and the neck is curved beautifully.

The rock is really a solid piece rising from the ground, but the effect of legs is produced by a clump of dark colored brush that grows beside the stone. The white stone shows plainly at both sides of the brush, and the effect of the legs is unmistakably produced.—Philadelphia Record.

Virginia Beet and Sorghum Sugar.

The beet sugar factory of O. K. Lapham & Co. at Staunton, Va., has now been in operation for nearly two weeks, each day converting about 100 tons of beets into sugar. The machinery has worked with remarkable smoothness, and every part of the plant is in satisfactory condition. During next fall Mr. Lapham will probably require some 10,000 tons of sorghum cane, in addition to all of the beets which he and the farmers can raise.—Manufacturers' Record.

Said the man to the Irish boy: "What are you fishing for?" "Frogs," said the boy. "What do you bait with?" "I bate 'em wid a stick," replied the boy. Frogs and some people's ideas about paints are the same as they were a hundred years ago. The Chilton Paint Co. is trying to convince the public that given the proper materials, mixed and ground by the proper machinery, the result can but be a better paint than it is possible to make by hand. Does it not seem reasonable that where the materials used in making a paint are seven times passed through machinery that does not vary in its action, the mixture is going to be more perfect than where a man or boy stirs them with a stick, adding a little oil, stirring a few times, then a little more lead and color, a few more stirs with the stick, until he gets tired and says he guesses it will do. Think this over. You must see that the man cannot do the work of a machine. We have the latest and best paint machinery that can be bought.

GEN. HAVEN FOR WARDEN.

The name of Gen. Haven is undoubtedly being presented as a candidate for warden of the state prison as a recognition of excellent temporary service, not because he has sought the office. It is said that a majority of the members of the board of directors are in favor of his permanent retention as warden of the prison. It is not strange, if that is so. The board are men of such good sense that the office will not, probably, be given to a hack-politician as a reward of merit. They realize that they must all share in the responsibility for the management of the prison, hence, a man of recognized ability is the one they will give precedence. Gen. Haven is that man. His opponents say that "he has performed the duties in an entirely satisfactory manner." He has shown fitness for the place—he has recognized opportunities for reforms and has made them. Probably the appointment of no man in the state would give more general satisfaction.

One or two democratic papers are urging the appointment of a democrat because this is a year of democratic rule and opportunity. They do not see that the appointment of Gen. Haven must make a vacancy in the national guard, and that Gov. Morris would have an opportunity to appoint his successor.

The board of directors can do no better than to retain Gen. Haven where he is if he will accept the position

CONNECTICUT TAX LAWS.

The New Britain Herald says with truth "the Connecticut tax laws sadly need revision;" and it might with just as much truth have added the Connecticut taxpayer needs regeneration. No tax law ever has been framed and no tax law ever will be framed that cannot be evaded for the simple reason that man cannot be restrained by provisions he can readily evade. Taxpaying can never be made popular, for a tax is popularly regarded as a burden instead of a privilege. This is everywhere taught by example if not as a precept. Nobody likes to pay taxes. Everybody believes it is a shrewd thing to keep the tax list down. The individual is alert to evade the local taxes, and the towns are striving to keep the grand list low to evade the state tax. The strife to get rid of taxes is intense. The success of many taxpayers is apparent when the tax lists are comparatively examined. The inequalities shown by comparison of town lists are traceable to this single endeavor which knows no partisan line.

Taxpayers enjoy every privilege which results from taxation; and usually complain because more privileges are not accorded than the tax will pay for.

What Connecticut needs more than revised tax-laws is less evasiveness and more public spirit—a recognition of the advantages, protective, attractive and educational, which result from taxation, and a willingness to pay liberally for the betterment of the town and the good name of the state.

THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION.

It is apparent that the Hawaiian issue is not dead. It remains to be seen whether it is to this country a lost opportunity. The provisional government is determined to no longer submit to the ruling family, and President Dole is reported to be determined if the United States refuses to annex the islands to invite Great Britain to take them under its protection.

Blount pulled down the American flag, but he cannot pull down the provisional government which seems to have power enough to hold authority and to make negotiations with other powers. The United States has been closely allied to the Sandwich Islands for a century, and her people have large vested interests there. The people of this country were in favor of honorable annexation and had the republican administration been continued the American flag would have been flying in Hawaii today, and the compact concluded.

The American people do not desire to see Great Britain take charge of the Hawaiian islands, and if they should pass to foreign hands because the present administration refused to accept them, the people will rout at the polls the party who forced to the protection of foreigners these islands of the Pacific which by every tie are allied to the United States.

The Worcester city council takes a vacation until September. That is a good example for "city fathers" in Connecticut to follow.

ANOTHER GOOD ROAD ARGUMENT

One of the best arguments yet made for good roads has been presented by the Hartford Post, upon the ground that they would facilitate the mail service of the state. That newspaper says: "There are about 1,100 miles of railroad in the state of Connecticut and the mail is largely carried by the railroads, but there are what are called mail messenger routes using the highways and roads. There are 130 such routes in the state of Connecticut covering 880 miles, the length varying in the several instances from one mile to twenty miles on an average of 6 1-4 miles per route. The regular speed of transportation of mails over these routes by the time scheduled is four miles per hour. The mail messenger routes of this state where mails are carried in carriages over ordinary roads is 800 miles as against the 1,000 miles of railroad transportation.

Improved highways would mean a reduction of more than 50 per cent. in the time in which mails can be carried, and an increase in the number of mails that can be provided per day, and the rapid extension of the free delivery service in towns and villages. It would mean a reduction to the government in the expense of transportation because a man can afford to carry a load over an improved stone road at much less rate than he can afford to do the same over a road that is at times almost impassable."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The naked-eye comet, which is so hard to find, is now alleged to have another comet in its tail.

The trolley vandals on the historic field at Gettysburg have been outgeneralled by the government's engineers and must go!

In Naugatuck and Meriden the police and the press are at odds and there is music by the full band. If the press keep hitting hard the police may resort to their billies.

The world is running now for the sole purpose of corroborating Lieut. Totten's theory that the end of the world is near at hand. He recognizes omens with the eye of faith, and records them as we go. Since he counted the Osawattamie Brown meteor-fake as one, the people have had less confidence in him.

The New London Telegraph has quietly celebrated its eighth anniversary and is receiving well-earned and deserved praise from the press. The Telegraph is a wide-awake, well-edited and well conducted newspaper, and is a credit to "the city at the mouth of the Thames." THE BULLETIN wishes it abundant success!

Col. McClure, of The Philadelphia Times, who couldn't find anything in the republican record to praise when he spoke to Norwich democrats in the last campaign, now says, "Instead of criticising the republicans for the passage of the measure, the truth should be admitted that the Sherman bill was accepted to escape the greater evils which then threatened us by free silver coinage."

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

A Puzzler.

It is still puzzling the brains of the mugwump philosophers to demonstrate how a party, two-thirds of whose senators and representatives vote for free coinage, can decently be claimed as a better honest money party than one four fifths of whose senators and representatives vote against it.—[Boston Herald.

Father Adams.

Judged by his letter of resignation—which was given an undue amount of publicity in several of Monday's papers—"Father" Henry A. Adams, late of the Episcopal church and now of the Roman Catholic persuasion, is neither a convincing writer nor a young man of strong mental caliber. By this act he has probably reached his maximum of notoriety.—[Hartford Post.

Platitudes in Order.

Platitudes may be ponderous and platitudes may be flat, but after all they are safer and more wholesome for the country than heresies, political or otherwise. A few financial platitudes from the president to the majority of congress would just now be in point, and might do some good. It is hardly fair to the people to inflict all the platitudes upon them when the democrats of congress need them so badly.—[New York Press.

The Effect of Repeal.

The question has been raised whether the repeal of the present silver law would operate to revive the Bland law, which was in force prior to the enactment of the so called Sherman law and was repealed by the fifth section. This question is settled by the twelfth section of the Revised Statutes, which provides that "Whenever an act is repealed which repealed a former act such former act shall not thereby be revived unless it shall be expressly so provided." The Bland law could not be revived, therefore, except by direct legislative action re-enacting it.—[Boston Journal.

No State Bank Notes in Ohio.

There is at least one state in the union where wildcat currency is not likely to be revived, even if a Bourbon congress and president should repeal the salutary tax on state bank notes. The constitution adopted by the state of Ohio about forty years ago contains a clause declaring that thereafter no banks of issue should be authorized in that state. That provision stands today. State bank notes can only be issued after the state constitution has been amended. This will not occur while John Sherman and William McKinley are alive. It is an interesting fact that the principal author of this clause of the Ohio state constitution was Salmon P. Chase, the founder of the national banking system.—[New York Press.

Horse-play.

It ought to occur to the bicyclers that this horse play with cow bells, gongs and so on does not strike the great and patient public at all pleasantly. The majority of the community are not wheelmen, and they are impressed with the fact that the "silent steed" adds a new peril to our complex civilization. In prescribing certain reasonable regulations in the interest of public safety the city fathers are performing a plain duty in answer to a clear and reasonable demand of the people. Do the good people who ride wheels care to stand committed to anything like the impudent doctrine: "The public be d—d?" Some of the riders come very near this, and it is such an attitude as the people will not view with patience. Let it be remembered that the greatest good of the greatest number is the true American doctrine, to be recognized by all and submitted to with cheerful philosophy. The horse-play of the home bicyclers is at the best bad manners copied from other places and commendable in nothing.—[Springfield Republican.

EASTFORD.

A Barn and House Burned—The Buell Reunion—Personal.

The inhabitants of our little village were aroused from their slumbers on Saturday night, 15th inst., about 11 o'clock by the alarm of fire. It proved to be A. H. Reynold's, of Putnam, barn and house which was unoccupied. The fire started on the southwest corner of the barn and spread rapidly to the adjoining dwelling house. The sparks and fire flew in every direction, the people fearing lest other buildings would be caught, but fortunately only one other blazed. That was extinguished with some difficulty. It was evident that whoever set the building on fire intended it to burn, as there was a strong odor of kerosene oil. The flames were beyond control. Nothing was saved except a small shop and hen house. The house had been built for many years, and was one of the most attractive residences in this place. It was insured.

Henry Bosworth had two of his oxen killed recently in his pasture by lightning.

A reunion of the Buell brothers was held on Sunday last at Mrs. Henry Bosworth's home. There were present Sylvester Buell of Kansas, Alpheus Buell of Southbridge and William Buell of this place. They were also guests of John Miller, Jr., accompanied by their aged mother.

A. H. Sherman of Orange, N. J., and family are at their summer home.

Mrs Timothy Walker, Miss Mary Bowen, Miss Nellie Molyneux visited in Dudley last week.

Mr. S. S. Guild and mother attended the funeral of their cousin in Hampton who was recently drowned.

Miss Annie Buell raised sixteen nice pigs, feeding them from a bottle, as their mother died.

If you are tired taking the large old-fashioned griping pills, and are satisfied that purging yourself till you are weak and sick is not good common-sense, then try Carter's Little Liver Pills and learn how easy it is to be free from Biliousness, Headache, constipation, and all Liver troubles. These little pills are smaller, easier to take and give quicker relief than any pill in use. One a dose. Price 25 cents.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

Imitators and Impostors.

The unequaled success of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous parties to offer imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of ALLCOCK'S. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with ALLCOCK'S a false pretense. The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS the best external remedy ever produced. Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhœa, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc. The long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are considerably weakened.

Physicians generally fail to recognize the importance of this fact, but treat the organ itself instead of the cause of the trouble. The noted specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., has given the greater part of his life to the study of this subject, and the principal discoveries concerning it are due to his efforts.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the unrivaled brain and nerve food, is prepared on the principle that all nervous and many other difficulties originate from disorders of the nerve centers. Its wonderful success in curing these disorders is testified to by thousands in every part of the land.

Restorative Nervine cures sleeplessness, nervous prostration, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is free from opiates or dangerous drugs. It is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid.

Ah, fair one, blame me not too much!
I know it's not the thing
For me to scorn thy beauty's touch

PRESSURE AT LOWELL.

Cartridge Factory and Bleachery Curtailing to Meet the Times.

LOWELL, Mass., July 18.—The rumors of curtailment of production in this city are this week verified by the closing down of the cartridge factory for two weeks in conjunction with the New Haven and Hartford factories. The cartridge company has been manufacturing 12,000,000 metallic cartridges, 3,200,000 paper shells and 9,000,000 primers per month, and a shutdown of two weeks will help considerably toward a reduction of stocks on hand.

The Lowell bleachery has also reduced its working time to five days per week, and there are rumors of other reductions coming unless the market takes a sudden start, which is possible if money continues to grow easier.

AFTER A LONG CHASE.

Frenchman Who Stole Hayward's Money Captured at Rehoboth.

TAUNTON, Mass., July 18.—Arthur Dionne, the Frenchman who stole A. E. Hayward's money at Bridgewater last week, was caught in Rehoboth yesterday by Detective Seaver, after a long and hard chase through the woods.

Beside the $600 which had been recovered out of the $900 stolen, there was found on Dionne a $25 gold watch, which he had bought, and a small amount of money.

He had been to Pawtucket and was working his way back here to get $300 which he had left with his brother, intending then to go to Canada. He was taken to Brockton today.

In some parts of Russia the snow actually is preserved in great straw and sand covered heaps as a means of irrigating the land during the summer heats.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 18.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

Today's market opened with London as the most important factor in it. Quotations from there came from ½ to ¾ below the closing figures here, and all the big New York bear houses had large orders from that side to sell. This apparent fright on the part of [illegible] operators are said to result from two things. One, the recent bank failures in Kansas City and Denver, the size of which has been evidently exaggerated in the reports sent by cable, and disturbed in connection with the buffoonery of some of the Colorado silver men, notes and the declaration of certain Kansas idiots, that that state was ready to secede from the Union as soon as Colorado should lead the way, all of which Englishmen are taking seriously. The other is the report that a large international house is embarrassed, and that its American railroad shares are being put on the market.

The feature of the movement is the weakness of the transcontinental stocks. Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Great Northern all bear the marks of the hammer. The earnings of these roads all show a decline, and there is a fear that the traffic will become lighter than now.

But the local specialties came in for some hard raps, notably Atchison, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy and General Electric. Atchison started ¼ down to 18¾ and rallied only to 19, while Burlington and Quincy was 1¼ weaker at the opening at 78½, declining subsequently to 78¼. General Electric opened at 52½ as against the final sale yesterday at 53¼, and declined irregularly to 50. Sugar was down from 79¼ to 78¾. Bell telephone is off ¾ to 172¼ and Mexican Central ½ weaker to 6½. The bond market opened dull.

MOHICAN DISABLED.

Fired Upon by Sealing Steamer Alexandria.

SHELL INJURES HER MACHINERY.

Forced to Anchor Six Hours to Make Repairs.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 18.—The steamer City of Topeka, from Alaska, which arrived here last night, brought the following advices, which finally settles the mystery concerning the steamer Alexandria, which was fitted out in San Francisco some time ago, ostensibly for a fishing cruise:

The Alexandria, under command of Captain McLean, sailed from San Francisco for Honolulu last April, and later left Honolulu at night. On June 25 the Alexandria was intercepted in Behring by the United States war ship Mohican. The Mohican ordered the Alexandria to lay-to, but instead of doing so the Alexandria increased her speed and attempted to escape.

The Mohican Pursued Her

and fired two blank shots across her bow as a signal for her to heave to.

In supreme disregard of the order the Alexandria steamed faster, and when the Mohican fired another blank cartridge the Alexandria trained her six-pounder on her pursuer and sent a shell crashing through the sides of the war ship and into her gun room. The ball played havoc among the ship's machinery, and completely disabled the Mohican.

At this juncture a dense fog arose and the Alexandria made her escape, while the Mohican had to anchor for six hours for repairs.

The Mohican was built in 1872, and is one of the old-fashioned ships of the navy. She is barque rigged, 218 feet long, 37 wide, and draws 16.18 feet. She has a displacement of 1900 tons, and her engines are capable of 813-horse power. Her armament consists of eight nine-inch smooth-bore guns, one eight-inch muzzle-loading rifle, one six-pound breech-loading rifle and half a dozen small guns.

The boat is in very poor condition, and reports of her troubles have been of common occurrence lately.

TWO SCHOONERS SEIZED.

Both Are Searched and Sealskins Found on Them.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., July 18.—The revenue cutter Richard Rush seized the schooners Alexander and St. Paul on July 1 in a little cove near Okoniak, situated 90 miles southeast of Kodiak. Both vessels claimed to have been taking wood and water. The Alexander was examined and passed muster.

When the lieutenant attempted to board the St. Paul he was met with resistance, but finally succeeded in finding six seals aboard. This so incensed the St. Paul skipper that he informed the lieutenant that the Alexander also had sealskins aboard. The lieutenant then paid a second visit to the Alexander and found 16 sealskins.

Both [illegible] were then formally seized [illegible] prize crews placed aboard them. The schooners were sent to Alaska, where they will be held until the next term of the district court.

PROMISED TROUBLE.

China Refuses to Make Reparation For Killing Missionaries.

LONDON, July 18.—A dispatch to The Standard from Shanghai says that the Chinese government has refused to make reparation for the killing of Wickholm and Johannsen, Swedish missionaries, by a mob in Macheng some three weeks ago.

Foreigners in Hankow, which is but 60 miles from Macheng, and in Shanghai have been summoned to attend mass meetings for the purpose of calling on the European powers to Compel China to respect her treaties and punish the viceroy of the province and the authorities of the city in which the murders were committed. The Standard's correspondent also says that the situation promises trouble.

The Oldest Mason Dead.

BOSTON, July 18.—Charles Breck died at Milton this forenoon, aged 95 years. Mr. Breck was born in Medfield, Jan. 11, 1798. He had been a Mason since 1825, was in and of the tremendous convulsion that a year later swept over the country at the time of the Morgan (alleged or otherwise) exposure, and was the one survivor of the "Three Macedonians," so well known to Masonic history in the United States, who rendered such wonderful and telling aid to Union lodge of Dorchester and Masonry of the world during the great struggle of 60 years ago for Masonic liberty and freedom.

General Marston's Property.

EXETER, N. H., July 18.—Attorney General Eastman has filed in the probate court a settlement of his accounts as executor of the will of the late General Gilman Marston. He has charged himself with $30,024.22; has disbursed $27,518.87, of which $20,150 was for legacies, and has a cash balance of $2,505.35. At the time of his death it was hardly believed that the general's estate would realize sufficient for the payment of the legacies contained in his will.

Strung Up and Shot to Death.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., July 18.—Near Cornerville, Lincoln county, Thursday last, a negro entered the house of Mrs. John [illegible] and made an assault upon her. She screamed, and her husband hearing her ran to the house. The negro made his escape. A posse was formed and the country scoured, and the fiend was apprehended Saturday. He was strung up to a limb and shot to death.

Boy and the Cherry Tree.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 18.—Carlton R. Sanford, 13 years old, son of David T. Sanford of 29 Cedar street, fell from a cherry tree this morning, breaking both arms and his left leg. A double fracture of both arms above the wrist and a double compound fracture of the left leg above the ankle were sustained. It is thought that he is maimed for life.

Struck For Increased Pay.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 18.—The laborers employed laying pipes for the gas company struck today for an increase of 25 cents a day and a nine-hour day. This the foreman on the work refused to accede and the men quit work.

Six Banks Go Down.

TOPEKA, July 18.—Six Kansas state banks went down in the financial flurry yesterday. They are the bank of Riter & Doubleday of Columbus, the Johnson City bank of Johnson City, the Bank of Weir City, the Bank of Pleasanton, the Caney Valley bank of Caney and the Bank of Meade at Meade Center.

Distilling Company Assigns.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Thomas Parker has been appointed receiver for the Independent Distillery company; assets, $50,000; liabilities, $40,000. It is alleged that the secretary of the company appropriated to his own use $5000 of the profits of the concern and $10,000 assets.

TOTAL DISAGREEMENT.

Conference Between Iron Operators and Amalgamated Association.

PITTSBURG, July 18.—The financial conference between iron mill operatives and representatives of the Amalgamated association held in this city resulted in a total disagreement.

Pending this conference, most of the mills in the Pittsburg district, so called, including the valley of the Monongahela, besides the mills in the Shenango valley in this state and the Mahoning valley in Ohio, have been shut down.

Meanwhile, 40,000 workingmen and their dependents have been awaiting the final conference, which has come to naught except to render more remote the prospects of an amicable settlement.

The manufacturers declare that the conditions of the iron market are such that the Amalgamated wage scale must be cut materially in all the better paid branches. The puddling price could be agreed on, but other reductions affecting rollers, heaters, etc., could not.

CAPTURED BY TRAMPS.

Fannie Post Floats Her Sad Story to the World In a Bottle.

SCHUYLER, Neb., July 18.—Fannie Post, an attractive young lady of this place, is thought to be held a prisoner by tramps in an island in the Platte river. It is said that a telephone message was received by received by G. H. Wells, the postmaster, stating that a bottle had been found floating in the Missouri river, near Union, which contained a letter reading thus:

If anybody should find this paper, come to a little island north of the Franz farm, three miles southeast of Schuyler. I am captured by tramps, and I am badly treated. Come quick. Yours, hoping. FANNIE POST.

The matter was at once placed in the the hands of Sheriff Kreeger, who deputized several citizens and proceeded to the island supposed to be the one designated in the letter. No trace can be found of any living being on the island, and it is thought that another is referred to. Further investigations will be made.

The Good Man Slipped.

RANDOLPH, Mass., July 18.—Rev. Fr. J. Keegan, while coming down stairs this morning at his home on North Main street, slipped and sprained his ankle. He will be unable to officiate as chaplain at the town's anniversary tomorrow.

SHE KEPT THE WATCH.

Now Mary Mulligan Will Be Arrested [illegible]

PROVIDENCE, July 18.—Mrs. Annie King, a member of fashionable society circles in this city, was plaintiff in a peculiar watch case in the supreme court today.

Mrs. King had in her employ Mary Mulligan, who became very much infatuated with Mrs. King's timepiece. The Mulligan woman finally asked Mrs. King to show her the watch, which Mrs. King did. Then the Mulligan woman walked off with it and refused to return it to the owner, even upon demand from Mrs. King accompanied by an officer.

At that time the Mulligan woman said it was at a jeweler's having a new crystal put in.

The case has gone through three courts upon appeal, although the Mulligan woman has not appeared to defend herself in either.

Judge Rogers gave judgment against Miss Mulligan and an execution for her arrest will be issued.

WORKING FOR ARBITRATION.

Governor Lewelling of Kansas Promises to Aid Striking Miners.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Times Topeka (Kan.) special says: Governor Lewelling yesterday declared that if the coal operators attempted to use non-union labor there would be trouble and possibly bloodshed. He is endeavoring to secure arbitration, and in the meantime is encouraging the miners to hold out. He sent his secretary to the Leavenworth mines, and he induced those who had gone to work to come out again. He has promised aid to the miners.

Orders have gone from Topeka to the strikers to hold out and oppose any foreign labor brought into the state. Trouble is anticipated, as one company has erected stockades and has engaged 1000 negroes from Alabama, who are now on the way here. The mines are guarded by armed men, excepting the Leavenworth, which have permanently closed.

SMUGGLERS ARRESTED.

Several Ex-Office-Holders Are Among Those Indicted.

PORTLAND, Or., July 18.—James Lotan, ex-collector of customs, has been arrested on an indictment charging him with smuggling opium and landing Chinese from British Columbia on fraudulent certificates. Robert G. Paddock, deputy customs inspector, and C. D. Cardinell, who was dismissed from the customs service a few months ago, were also taken into custody. All were released on $10,000 bail.

William Dunbar and Nathan Blum were arraigned jointly, yesterday, to answer 10 additional counts for smuggling. They were agents for the steamship Haytien Republic.

The grand jury found a number of other indictments against parties alleged to have been connected with the smuggling ring, but as the arrests have not been made, their names have not been published.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Largest Receipts of Butter for Many Seasons.

STILL NO DROP IN PRICE RESULTS

Cold Storage Business Is Enormous—Vegetables Plenty.

The butter market has not seen such large receipts for many seasons as can now be recorded. Since the 1st of May last receipts have shown an increase of 3,000,000 pounds over the same period last year. The financial pinch has undoubtedly caused this, but even with this flush of supply the market today is little flurried. One would expect a marked drop in prices, but this has not been the case.

The increase of cold storage business has been marked during the past few months. Today there are 15,000 more tubs of butter in the Quincy house than there was last year at this time.

But to come down to the facts of the present situation. In Boston selling prices are 21 to 21 1-2 cents for western extra creamery, and 22 cents for northern extra in large lots. For lots not well up in quality, such as grade firsts and extra firsts, 19 to 20 cents is about the price, but a very small proportion of the receipts can be said to be such.

is very quiet now. Almost every summer variety [illegible] the marketable stage and the market gardner that can't send one load to market each day must have an unproductive farm.

Cucumbers are plenty at $1.50 to $2 a hundred; native squash, $6 a hundred; new potatoes, $2.50 to $3 a bushel; beets in boxes, $1; the same in bunches of six, 25 cents per dozen; parsley, 50 cents a box; native cabbage, $5 to $6 a hundred; spinach is becoming scarcer and is worth 60 cents a box; lettuce is a drug, and the best not worth more than 50 cents a box; green peas fluctuate about $1 to $2 a bushel; egg plants, $2.50 a dozen; string beans, $1.50, and Mohawks bring $1.25 a bushel.

In the Fruit Market

the berry trade is important. The strawberry has dropped from sight and the blueberry, raspberry, blackberries and currants take its place.

Native blueberries sell for 12 to 15 cents a box, Delaware blackberries 12 1-2 to 15 cents, and raspberries in cups bring 5 to 8 cents. Currants and goose berries bring 10 cents a box.

Poultry.

With the advent of continued warm weather the summer resorts begin to buy largely in the poultry market. Strange to say, with the increasing business, prices seem to remain stationary or perhaps drop off a trifle.

Live fowl sells at 10 to 12 cents; dressed fowl at 14 to 15 cents, dressed chicken at 25 to 30 cents a pound, turkeys at 20 cents, green ducks at 18 cents and goslings at 20 cents a pound.

The Quotations.

BEEF—Beef is dull and the market is overstocked, though some of the stalls were pretty well cleaned out yesterday. But this was done at lower prices than prevailed last week. Choice to fancy steers, [illegible]; prime, [illegible]; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; extra heavy hinds [illegible]; good, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; fores, [illegible]; light, [illegible]; backs, [illegible]; rattles, [illegible]; chucks, [illegible]; rounds, [illegible]; rumps, [illegible]; rumps and loins, [illegible]; short ribs, [illegible]; loins, [illegible].

OATS—Oats are quiet, and shippers are not pleased with the [illegible] market, for the same reason as prevails in corn. On oats to arrive the quotations are at about [illegible] for ordinary clipped, with fancy at [illegible]. No. 2 white are quoted at [illegible], also to arrive, with clipped mixed nominal. The spot market is quoted at: Clipped, [illegible]; fancy, [illegible]; No. 2 white, [illegible]; No. 3 white, [illegible]; clipped mixed, [illegible].

BUTTER—Butter is showing a rather better demand, particularly for the low grades, some of which were sold yesterday at pretty good prices: Western creamery, extra, [illegible]; firsts, [illegible]; imitation creamery, [illegible]; factory, [illegible]; northern creamery, extra, [illegible]; northern dairy, [illegible]; eastern creamery, extra, [illegible]. These are prices for round lots. Jobbing lots and fancy lots cost more.

CORN—Corn is quiet. Some of the principal shippers have withdrawn quotations on corn to arrive, for the reason that other markets are much better than New England. The quotations on corn to arrive are at [illegible] for No. 2 yellow, and about [illegible] less for No. 3 yellow. The spot market is rather quiet, with quotations at: Steamer yellow, [illegible]; No. 3 yellow, [illegible]; steamer mixed, [illegible].

LAMBS AND MUTTONS—Muttons and lambs are dull, and the market is easier. Veals are pretty well sustained: Choice spring lambs, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; poor and ordinary, [illegible]; Brightons, [illegible]; yearlings [illegible]; [illegible] Brightons [illegible]; choice eastern veals, [illegible]; common to good, [illegible]; Brightons and fancy, [illegible].

HAY—There is considerable more interest in the hay market on the outlook for an export demand. Bran is steady to firmer, with sack spring to arrive at [illegible], and with sack winter at [illegible].

CHEESE—Cheese is quiet and steady; Northern full creams, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; western choice, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]. Liverpool is quoted at [illegible] on white; colored, [illegible].

POTATOES—Potatoes are a little easier, from a full supply, though the demand is very fair. Bristols, $3 per bbl; Norfolk extra, [illegible]; fair to good, [illegible]; culls, [illegible].

EGGS—Eggs are quiet and little changed, either in price or demand: Western, [illegible]; Michigan, [illegible]; island, [illegible]; eastern and northern, [illegible].

MEAL—Cornmeal is quiet at [illegible] for bag meal, and at [illegible] for barrel meal. Oatmeal is very quiet, without changes in prices.

PORK—Pork provisions are rather quiet, with the market not further changed in the way of quotations.

FLOUR—The flour market continues dull, with no noticeable changes in prices for a couple of days.

Emery Bound Over.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 18.—In the Saco municipal court, this morning, William Emery of Worcester, Mass., appeared to answer to several charges of obtaining money by false pretences. Emery put in no evidence, but waived examination and was bound over to the York county supreme court. He is unable to get sureties.

Court Messenger Resigns.

BOSTON, July 18.—After almost a half century as messenger of the supreme judicial court, William Estabrook has tendered his resignation, to go into effect when that court shall have moved into the new court house.

The Spree Is Over Now.

BROOKLYN, July 18.—John Mackin, aged 35, committed suicide this morning by hanging himself in a stable. He had been on a protracted spree.

Park Theater's New Manager.

BOSTON, July 18.—Edward E. Rice, author of Evangeline, is to become the manager of the Park theater, the plum falling into Mr. Rice's hands yesterday. At the close of the present summer season of the Park Mr. Rice will begin his season with a new opera entitled "Venus," which will then be produced for the first time on any stage. The book is by Louis Harrison, and the score by Gus Kerker, the well-known orchestral leader.

Among New York ladies who are members of the World's fair congress of photographers are Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, Mrs. Thomas C. Platt, Miss Martin, Miss Laura Marquand and Miss Catherine Wood Barnes.

ANNALS OF THE LAW.

B. C. 461—The powers of the court of Areopagus much curtailed by Pericles.

B. C. 449—The laws of the Twelve Tables were made and promulgated. This famous code remained in force until the time of Justinian, or nearly 1,000 years.

B. C. 63—A great collection of Roman laws made by Alfenus Varus, a civilian.

B. C. 53—Servius Sulpicius made a collection comprising several hundred volumes of Roman laws.

290—The Gregorian and Hermogenian codes were compiled and promulgated.

380—The first ecclesiastical canon, or church law, was promulgated.

429—The Theodosian code was begun in this year by order of the Emperor Theodosius. The compilation was concluded in 438.

447—The constitutions of Theodosius were promulgated in the Western empire as the supreme law.

534—The digest or pandects, institutes and novels of Justinian promulgated throughout the Roman empire. This compendium of law comprised the contents of over 2,000 volumes reduced to 50.

540—The British laws in force in the island were translated into Saxon for the benefit of the Saxon settlers.

607—The first court of chancery is said to have been established in England.

673—Regulations made by Lothaire and Edric, kings of Kent, for conducting trials.

690—The Saxon laws of Ina were published in manuscript form and any person allowed to copy what he pleased for his own information.

696—Larceny above the value of 12 shillings made punishable by death under the Saxon law, though the criminal could redeem his life by restoration and ransom.

889—The right of appeal was granted, and dissatisfied litigants could take their causes from any of the king's courts to the king in person.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE PROPER CAPER.

Entire gowns of red tulle, crepon, bengaline, china silk and veiling are worn.

Few really stylish milliners nowadays use artificial flowers which do not correspond to them in season.

The fiat has again gone forth in London's best society that bare arms shall appear at dreamy afternoon fetes as well as in the evening.

Red of every shade, red triumphant, absolute and insolent, will flourish in tones and demitones all the summer and autumn seasons through.

The enormous neck ruffles of black, white or ecru lace or stiffened india muslin with a lace edge, that ultra fashionable women now affect, are very unbecoming.

The pale, shadowy broche patterns produced by the jacquard looms are noticeable in many of the beautiful diaphanous materials imported for midsummer wear.

Sword grass makes up into smart bows for the adorning of pliant, zephyrlike summer hats, and being so good an imitation of the natural variety is in excellent taste.

Accordion plaited skirts of white crepeline, trimmed with many rows of apple green satin ribbon, are worn with blouse waists of white lace, with ribbon girdle and shoulder trimmings to match.

Lovely transparent wool toilets in cream and lily white, those with a crapelike surface particularly, are much used for 5 o'clock tea gowns, and also in princess and in empire styles, with full round skirts for summer evening concerts.

Cool and dainty summer dresses in white and green, or white and mauve or gold, are of white crepeline with a garniture of china silk arranged as a soft, easy empire vest, with bretelles of lace beyond. Sometimes the silk is of a solid but very delicate tint in pale gold.—New York Evening Post.

QUAINT LEGALITIES.

"A legal fence" has been defined in Kentucky as one that is "pig tight, horse high and bull strong."

The use of torture in legal proceedings was permissible in Austria until well within the present century.

The right of an accused to appeal to the trial by single combat with the accuser was not formally repealed in England until 1819, though of course it lay a dead letter.

The legislature of Jamaica, to put down the "obeah" practice, has passed a law authorizing the infliction of 36 lashes on persons convicted of practicing the black art and 18 lashes on any one found consulting an obeah man.

Before the new parliamentary legislation turning them over to the charities commissioners the London guilds enjoyed—and generally wasted—incomes ranging from the Mercers' annual $415,000, the Drapers' $380,000 and the Goldsmiths' $300,000 down.—New York Recorder.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

The Pennsylvania has begun applying the vestibule attachment to all new coaches.

Street car conductors at Hannibal, Mo., are forbidden to aid women in getting on or off the cars except when requested.

Leonard F. Barton, roadmaster of the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis, laid the first rail for that road on Dec. 12, 1869.

The Manhattan Elevated railway, New York, carries a larger number of passengers than any other American railway. The figures are given as 525,000 a day, or 191,625,000 yearly.

The most surprised people in Maine are the old stockholders of the Rumford Falls railroad, who have received the startling news of a dividend after a quarter of a century's waiting.

At three of the large London railway stations—Charing Cross, Cannon street and London Bridge—as many as 21,900 movements for signal and point levers have to be made every 24 hours, quite apart from the telegraphic operations.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

A male adult has half an ounce of sugar in his blood.

The theory of Jones, the English scientist, is that the earth is a huge balloon and that it will finally collapse as the result of drilling for natural gas.

One heat unit equals 772 foot pounds, and the heat that must be extracted from one pound of water to convert it into ice equals 109,264 foot pounds.

The ruddy color of Mars is thought by Herschel to be due to an ochery tinge in the soil. By others it is attributed to peculiarities of the atmosphere and clouds. Lambert suggests that the color of the vegetation on Mars may be red instead of green.

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL.

It's an off day that fails to find something interesting for the readers of this column.

This time it is Hosiery—Women's Hosiery—not the ordinary kind, but something extraordinary. Just read and digest this item.

1,000 pairs—yes, more, nearly 1,100 pairs of Women's Fine Imported Hose—every pair of which were imported by us—will go on sale Wednesday morning.

They are our regular 50c Hose, and if we didn't have too many the price would never have been less than 50c pair. But we have got more than we want, and to reduce the surplus we will do this:

For four days, beginning Wednesday, we will offer our entire line of Women's Half-a-dollar-a-pair Black Hose for 25c a pair, 5 for $1.00.

Bear in mind Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week, are the days. We make it a four days' sale so that everybody, out of town people as well as those in town, can have an equal chance to take advantage of this offering. Here is a partial description of the styles:

Lot 1.—300 pairs Cluster Rib Lisle Hose—the design is new this season—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 2.—150 pairs Richelieu Rib Lisle Hose—white tip heel and toes—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 3.—150 pairs Fancy Rib Imperial Lisle Hose—neat styles—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 4.—120 pairs Ladies' Opera Length Hose—length 36 inches—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 5.—50 pairs Ladies' 54 Guage Cotton Hose—the finest guage hose made in Germany—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 6.—60 pairs Ladies' 38 Guage, 4 Thread Cotton Hose—unequalled for wear—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 7.—100 pairs Ladies' Cotton Hose—Gloria make, high spliced heels and double soles—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 8.—75 pairs Ladies' Black Hose with Maco feet—excellent for women who cannot wear black footed hosiery—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 9.—75 pairs Ladies' Fine Guage Outsize Hose—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 10.—100 pairs Men's Ribbed Bicycle Hose—sizes 9 to 11—25c a pair, 5 for $1; regular price 50c.

Subscribers who fail to receive it by that time will confer a favor by reporting the fact to the Bulletin Co.

The Weather Today.

Indications for Connecticut: Fair weather; slight change in temperature; northwest winds.

NORWICH AND VICINITY
CITY NEWS.

Additions will be made to bills for city water after tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles E. Rogers is the guest of New London friends for a month.

A private party of fifteen Norwich people take dinner at Bushy Point Thursday.

Daniel Mullen of Cedar street is passing a few days with friends in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The rails for the electric railroad extension to Yantic were distributed along the route Tuesday.

Misses Annie and Mary McNamara of Jail Hill, have returned from a two weeks' visit to Franklin, Conn.

The West Side has an eleven year old boy, of Hebrew nativity, who weighs only twenty-five pounds.

A stray musician, a house painter by trade, walked from New London to Norwich Tuesday, in search of work.

Seventy-five Italians came up on the steamer City of Boston Tuesday morning and passed through this city northward.

Harry W. Trafton, Albert Raynolds and Walter M. Buckingham go into camp in the Columbia boat house, Gales Ferry, today.

Hadlai A. Hull of New London has received his appointment as prosecuting attorney for the criminal court of common pleas.

Manager Stannard of the telephone exchange, who was so badly injured on the Fourth, is expected out to business again today.

The Otological society, embracing recognized experts on ear diseases, held its annual meeting at the Fort Griswold house Tuesday.

Propeller Chelsea is being painted. The steamer is anchored off the Transportation company's wharf, and the Delaware is in commission.

The Arcanum club board of directors contemplate arranging either for a dinner at the Fort Griswold house, or a "Ladies' Night," in the near future.

The workmen who are excavating for the new brick block on Hill street have dug up the roots of a tree, the butt of which measures four feet in diameter.

Tuesday the City of Richmond took the members and friends of St. Aloysius society from New Haven to Fort Lee, New York. President B. F. Mahan accompanied.

The public pavilion at Ocean Beach park will be completed by Sunday. The building is to be 25x50, though the original plans call for a structure of 25x100 feet.

The City of Boston, while passing the Pennsylvania ferry slip near pier 40, North river, ran into the ferryboat Baltimore. Little damage was done to either boat.

T. W. Potter, a New London cottage owner at Ocean beach, had a gold watch, $12 in money and a $100 check stolen from his clothes while in bathing Tuesday.

Lightning in the storm of last evening damaged the motor in electric car No 50, at the Falls, and it had to be disconnected. The car was run to the repair shop with the other motor.

"Pick a bunch of sweet clover," says The Boston Traveller, "and hang it up to dry in your living room. It will drive away more flies than any one square yard of sticky paper."

Sixteen carloads of passengers passed through here from Stafford Tuesday morning and took the Block Island for a day's outing. The Stafford brass band accompanied the excursionists.

Contractor London expects to finish the concreting of the Laurel Hill bridge today. Five thousand square feet, weighing approximately one hundred and seventy-five tons, will have been covered.

The Rev. A. J. McLeod of Stafford Springs, formerly pastor of the Congregational church, Groton, is to make a voyage to Norfolk with Capt. Randall, on schooner Mary Adelaide Randall, leaving New London today.

Last evening's New London Globe says: "Chief Bowen of the Norwich police force paid a professional visit to Chief White this morning. Mr. Bowen has been in search of a bicycle stolen from Norwich yesterday. He was in Greenwich, R. I., and from there went to Providence, but returned without finding the machine."

The several hose companies of Middletown have decided to hold a biennial parade of the fire department on Thursday, October 5. Companies of other cities will be invited to participate in the occasion, which it is expected will be more elaborate than anything of the kind ever held in Middletown.

President Cleveland and party left Gray Gables Monday on the steam yacht Oneida. His destination and purpose are not publicly known but it is believed the party will spend a few days fishing in the Race and thereabouts. The yacht may come into New London for a short stay, but it is not known that she will.

A remarkable piece of marine architecture was the house-boat of Mr. Sanford B. Meech of Eastern Point, which spent Tuesday in the waters of the harbor. In tow of a natty launch it pushed its nose up the Shetucket nearly to the Preston bridge, attracting considerable attention. The craft is well constructed for a pleasant summer's outing.

It is estimated that there is enough work ahead at Palmer's shipyard at Noank to keep them busy there until January of next year. There are three large barges for the New Jersey Central in frame, one nearly completed. Also in frame is a float 240 feet in length, for transporting freight cars. Two large floats are also being raised up for New Haven parties.

Attorney George E. McKenna of Stonington, who served in the last legislature from that town, and who has many friends here, is one of the leading candidates in the race for prosecuting attorney from that place and stands an excellent chance of being chosen to that position. At the present time Mr. McKenna holds the position of town attorney for the police court of Stonington.

Frank Fisher, engineer at the Connecticut River drawbridge, at Saybrook, died July 8, after an illness of a week. He was 49 years old, was a Mason and a member of the Grand Army. He had been in the employ of the Shore Line road for twenty years, and at the time of the blizzard was the first man to break a path from the bridge to New London.

The Hon. E. P. Shaw, Sr., the father of Superintendent E. P. Shaw of Norwich, entertained the senators of Massachusetts at his home in Newburyport, Tuesday, and gave them a sail upon the Merrimac river on one of his steamers. Senator Shaw is a good entertainer, and there is no doubt the distinguished party had a good time.

The Countess di Brazza Savorgnan, president and representative in America of the committee for the Italian lace exhibit to the woman's building of the World's fair, is now at her mother's summer home in Groton, detained there by the protracted illness of her child, and therefore unable for the present to give personal attention to the exhibit in the success of which she has taken such a deep interest.

Mystic's Peace Meeting.

The executive committee and members of the Connecticut Peace society will meet next Thursday at 3 o'clock p. m. in the hall at Quakertown to set the time and otherwise arrange for the annual Peace convention at the grove near Mystic. As some of the old speakers will be engaged at the World's Peace congress in Chicago, it will be necessary to engage new speakers to take their places.

Grocers' Excursion.

Tomorrow the grocers and their friends will go to Boston. The special train will leave Norwich, union station, at 6 30 a. m., Ferry street 6 30, Greeneville 6.35, Tafts 6.40, Jewett City 6 55, and Plainfield at 7.10. Due Boston at 10 a. m. Returning, special train leaves Boston at 7.05 p. m. Tickets good going and returning by special train only July 20, and returning by regular trains July 21. Tickets at the station and on the train.

WILL PROBABLY DIE.

Serious Accident to an Old Resident of Gales Ferry.

Mrs. Diana Williams, a nonogenarian of Gales Ferry, the oldest person living in the place, was the victim of an accident Tuesday morning, which, at her advanced age, will, it is feared, lead to her death.

She fell and broke a hip. Many skillful surgeons have been called, but it is thought the chances of saving the old lady's life are dubious.

Mrs. Williams came from the Green family of Waterford, and is one of the owners of the prominent headland of Massecuka, in the Thames river.

A FARMER ROBBED.

Relieved of a Bank Book and Other Possessions While Asleep.

Thomas Lehman, a Gardner's Lake farmer, came into town Tuesday, and drew a small sum of money from his account in the Norwich Savings society. Then he got drunk, threw discretion to the winds and started to walk home with his bank book, containing deposits of $770, on his person. Becoming sleepy at the end of the West Side electric car line, he sought [illegible] behind Attorney [illegible] barn.

Lehman awoke about 8 o'clock last evening to find his bank book, $3 in money and two bottles of whiskey, the former contents of his pocket, missing. Payment on the book was stopped, and the theft was reported at police headquarters.

MAJOR TIBBITS NEAR DEATH.

New London's Popular Ex-Consul Reported Hopelessly Sick.

The many friends of the Hon. John A. Tibbits will be pained to hear that he is in a critical condition. He has gradually been failing for weeks past, in fact since his return from England it was apparent that his case was hopeless and notwithstanding he was hopeful of mending under the influence of his native air and the presence of his life-long friends, the hope was not verified in the least, and there was but one conclusion left.

His medical attendants have given no encouragement from the first, though there was a chance, in their opinion, that he might survive weeks, or even months. For several days past Major Tibbits has been feeling bad and growing weaker daily and at present he is in a semi-conscious condition and unable to recognize those about him.

The Pope Congratulated.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 18.—The News announces that there is now on the way to Rome a letter from President Cleveland to the pope, congratulating the holy father upon the fiftieth anniversary of his elevation to the episcopacy.

TO THE PROBATE COURT FOR THE District of Colchester.

The application of Henry N. Brown, Administrator on the estate of Hiram A. Daniels, late of Colchester, in said district deceased, showeth that it is for the interest of said estate that such of the real estate of said deceased as is hereinafter described should be sold, said real estate being all of the real estate owned by the said Hiram A. Daniels.

And your applicant further showeth, that the real estate of said deceased, proposed to be sold, consists of a certain piece or parcel of land, with buildings thereon, situated in the town of Colchester, Westchester Society, in said Probate District.

And that said land cannot be beneficially divided for the purpose of sale.

Your applicant therefore prays said Court to inquire into the truth of the foregoing allegations, and on finding the same to be true, to order the sale of the whole or a part of the real estate hereinbefore described, or an undivided interest therein, as shall appear to said Court most for the interest of said estate and your applicant, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Dated at Colchester, this 18th day of July, A. D. 1893.

District of Colchester, ss. Probate Court, July 18, A. D. 1893.

Ordered, That the foregoing application be heard and determined at the Probate Office in said Colchester on the 7th day of August A. D. 1893, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, of that day; and this Court directs said Administrator to give public notice of the pendency of said application and the time and place of hearing thereon by publishing a notice thereof before the 4th day of August, A. D. 1893, in some newspaper having a circulation in said district.

TWICE MARRIED IN ONE WEEK.

A Distinction Seldom Enjoyed in This Section.

OBJECTION TO FIRST WEDDING

Was Raised by Papa Sanford, So it Was Repeated.

NORWALK, Conn., July 19.—A. W. Noble and Miss Lillian Sanford of New Canaan enjoy the distinction of having been married twice in one week.

The first time was on Sunday, when Miss Lillian, who was supposed to be attending church, accompanied Mr. Noble to Pound Ridge, where pastor Lane tied the nuptial knot. The girl's father did not like the comments of the neighbors, so he induced the bride and groom to be married again. A license was procured and the Rev. C. B. Ford performed the ceremony.

The second wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents.

FELL INTO A RAVINE.

An Old Lady Slips and Is Dashed to the Rocks 240 Feet Below.

MARLBORO, N. Y., July 19.—Mrs. Maria Corwin, wife of Samuel Corwin, a grocer here, was killed on Monday by falling 240 feet into a ravine, near her home, and at the rear of McMullen's hotel.

The ravine is one of the most remarkable natural formations in this section, it being a narrow opening between perpendicular rocks, through which the waters of the Hudson run.

Mrs. Corwin fell into the ravine about 5.30 p. m. It is supposed that she was throwing away ashes and slipped through an old wooden fence at the top of the ledge.

Mr. Corwin, on reaching home later in the afternoon, became alarmed at her absence and began a search.

He heard her groans at the bottom of the ravine and got six men to assist him. She must have died in the meantime.

The body was taken out with much difficulty. It was terribly cut and bruised. Mrs. Corwin was 60 years of age.

Northern Pacific Receivership Story Denied.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A story was current this afternoon that the Northern Pacific was in danger of passing into the hands of a receiver. President Oakes emphatically denied the report and also stated that there is no difficulty with the guarantee syndicate which is to finance the company's new collateral loan for $12,000,000.

Treasurer Baxter and Henry Clews of the security holders' committee, corroborated President Oakes' statement. The company has just gained an important suit involving the possession of several million acres of timber land along the Columbia river. The decision was rendered by the United States court at Tacoma yesterday. The case was a test one involving the question of the priority of a grant of land to the Northern Pacific over a grant to the Oregon & California. The interior department sustained the latter, but the courts have decided in favor of the Northern Pacific.

American Institute of Christian Sociology.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 19.—A society to be known as the "American Institute of Christian Sociology" was formed here today. Some of the leading educators of the country are interested, Bishop Vincent being one of the chief promoters of the organization. Committees were appointed and will report tomorrow, when the election of officers will take place.

It is expected that Dr. Richard T. Ely will be chosen president. The objects of the society are to claim for the Christian law the ultimate authority to rule social practice and to apply the teachings of Christianity to social and economic difficulties. Treatises and other interesting matter is to be distributed. All colleges and schools will be asked to assist in carrying on the scheme.

Placed in the Hands of Receiver.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Dickinson Bros. and King, dealers in Portland cement and building material, went into the hand of a receiver today. The receivership was ordered on the filing of a bill by stockholders in the concern. Complainants say the firm has property valued at $260,000 in excess of the liabilities. The pressure of the times it is said to have made the business unprofitable and it should be wound up. The assets, it is represented, can be administered so that all creditors will be fully paid and a substantial balance left for distribution among the partners.

A Bather Drowned.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 19.—A young man, named O'Neil, was drowned this afternoon while bathing off the King Philip boat house. The body has not been recovered.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., July 19.—John H. Drew, 19 years old, was drowned while bathing in the Connecticut river Tuesday night at Ryegate. He went too far out, and being unable to swim was drowned. His body has not been recovered.

Arrival of Foreign Gold.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The steamship Yumuri, which arrived this morning from Havana, brought $575,000 foreign gold consigned to the Western National bank. It will be deposited in the United States Assay office.

Historian Jones Dead.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 19.—Col. C. C. Jones, Jr., historian, died this morning of Bright's disease, aged 62.

ANTI-FAT BARRED.

A Queer Wager Made by Two Young Men of Ansonia.

ANSONIA, July 19.—A queer bet has been made by two of the best known gentlemen of this place. One of them has grown stout very fast lately and now has a girth of thirty-six inches around the waist and the other bet him a silk hat that in four years, or on July 17, 1897, if alive, his girth would have increased to forty-two inches.

The young man who is gaining in flesh, at once took up the bet and it was registered before witnesses. He believes he has about reached his growth, but the other one thinks not, and is positive that he will increase in girth at least one and one-half inches per year for the next four years. The taking of any anti-fat compounds during the time is prohibited.

Additional Bank Failures

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The comptroller of the currency is informed of the failure of the Bozeman National bank of Bozeman, Montana.

TOPEKA, Kans., July 19.—Information has been received at the office of the state bank commissioner of the failure of the State bank of Parker, Linn county, and of the Woodson State bank of Yates Centre, Woodson county. Both are small concerns.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The comptroller of the currency has been advised that the Hutchinson National bank, Hutchinson, Kans., closed its doors to business this morning.

DENVER, July 19.—The long-expected closing of the People's National bank came about at 11 o'clock when President Lawrence had a notice posted on the doors stating that the stringency of the money market was so severe that it was impossible for the concern to longer withstand the storm. Their statement published on the 13th showed that they had less than $60,000 in cash on hand, while the individual deposits subject to check, not counting any other, amounted to $310,000. The capital stock of the bank is $500,000.

This afternoon the run on the Denver National was over with an enormous amount of money still in sight. The same is true at the City and all the other banks, and business men are beginning to breathe freely.

A Coney Island Bather Attacked with an Oar.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Charles Miller, a clothing manufacturer of Pennsylvania, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Francis Le Count, a life guard at Coney Island, Tuesday, for striking him on the head with an oar. Miller says he is an expert swimmer and swam to the end of the Iron pier. The guard rowed out and warned him against the tide, which was ebbing. Mr. Miller says he told the guard that he was all right. He declares that the guard struck him with an oar.

Le Count tells a different story and says that Miller was in danger of being struck by one of the iron steamboats, which was about to land. He declares that when he pushed the complainant with the oar the steamer had stopped, and was blowing her whistle to warn him to get out of the way. The guard was released on bail.

Reed's Road Team Breaks the Road Record.

ERIE, Pa., July 19.—The Hon. Charles M. Reed's famous road team, Lunette and Evangeline, broke the road record this morning. The race was for a wager of $2,000, the distance from Girard, Pa., to Mr. Reed's barn in this city, 16½ miles, and the time allowed 55 minutes. The distance was covered in 48½ minutes. The road was rough and full of sandholes, one of the hills a mile and a half long with a grade of twenty degrees.

This record beats the Boston 20 mile track record which was fifty eight minutes.

Lunette is by King, he by George Wilkes, dam by Norman D. Evangeline is by Elevator, he by Hambletonian, dam by Vallive, a son of Mambrino Patchen.

Farmer Assaulted by a Tramp.

PALMER, Mass., July 19.—A brutal assault which may prove a murder took place on a farm about a mile from here. A farmer named Lawrence was cutting hay in a field when a tramp appeared and asked for work. Mr. Lawrence said he could give him a job unloading hay in the barn and the tramp said he would take it. Lawrence took the man to the barn and was giving him directions where to put the hay, when suddenly the tramp struck Lawrence on the back of the head with a stone, knocking him senseless on the floor and splitting his head open. The tramp then made his escape. A thorough search is being made for him. It is thought the motive was robbery, but it appears that the thief was frightened away before he had completed his work. It is thought Lawrence will die.

To Walk to San Francisco.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Four athletic young men left this city yesterday with the intention of walking to San Francisco. They expect to reach the Pacific coast in 171 days. Their names are Gustad Kogel, a cloth cutter; Fritz Meyer, formerly a broker in Berlin; Ludwig Blache and August Jacoby, both musicians. They are not walking for a wager, but merely to see the country. Their route is to Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo, Chicago, Dodge City, Santa Fe and San Francisco.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Four hundred and fifty-four thousand ounces of silver were offered for sale to the treasury department today at prices ranging from 71½ to 73 cents. Seventy-five thousand ounces were purchased at 71½, the balance being declined, and the same rate tendered. This makes the total purchases of silver for the month thus far 1,023,000 ounces.

Cholera at Naples.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Surgeon General Wyman has received the following cablegram from Passed Assistant Surgeon G. B. Young, at Naples: "Cholera in Naples. Four fatal cases Sunday and Monday. Widely scattered. Bacillus found in all. Origin untraced. No cases since Monday."

A Danielsonville Pastor Called to Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—The Rev. C. B. Bristol of Danielsonville, Conn., has been called to the pastorate of the Church of the Good Shepherd. Mr. Bristol is in the prime of life and is a very energetic man and is well endorsed by Bishop Williams of the diocese of Connecticut.

Fatally Burned by a Gasoline Stove.

CINCINNATI, O., July 19.—The residence of John Ulrich, at 116 Dunham street, North Fairmount, was destroyed by fire this morning by the explosion of a gasoline stove. Mr. Ulrich was fatally burned, while his wife and five year-old child were seriously injured.

NEW YORK & BOSTON PLAY 2 GAMES

Boston Victorious in the First, but Loses the Second.

WEDNESDAY'S SCORES.

Philadelphia Wins Last Game of Series With Washington, 14 to 3.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Philadelphia took the last game of the series with the Washingtons by batting Esper all over the field. The Senators were never formidable opponents. Delehanty and Lacross made home runs. Attendance 2,000. Score:

Washington .... 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—3

Umpire McLaughlin Laid Off.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—Owing to the great dissatisfaction with the work of Umpire McLaughlin in the recent games in the west and at Baltimore this week, President Young has temporarily laid him off and assigned Snyder to this city. The probabilities are that "Baby" Carouthers will take McLaughlin's place on Mr. Young's staff of umpires.

Washington has released Pitcher Duryea and signed John Graff, a local phenomenon.

Stockdale, the John Hopkins pitcher, who has been playing with the Wilkesbarre club, will join the Washingtons at Philadelphia.

DUTY ON WOOL.

An Important Change Made by the Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—An important change has been made by the treasury department in the classification of wool that will lower the duty on some grades of the article nearly 100 per cent. The change follows conclusive evidence offered by wool importers that certain grades of high class wool were practically analogous to grades classified lower in the wool schedule of the McKinley bill. Hereafter the material known as 149 and 150 Samantine skin wool, and 179 Kamsapchatka skin wool; second quality of the first or highest class, will be known as Servian skin wool and 380 Kamsapchatka skin wool as second quality of the third class.

The changes in duty cannot be made clear to the layman through the language of the wool law, but the statement may be accepted as true that the duty is considerably lowered in some cases, as previously stated, nearly one hundred per cent. This statement is made to the treasury department.

Wool growers and importers will be interested in the extent of the change as shown by the law. First class wool, which included the three kinds transferred to class 3, is provided for in the tariff act as follows: "Duty upon all wools of the first class shall be 11 cents per pound."

Wools of the third class are dutiable as follows: "On all wools of the third class, and on all camel's hair of the third class, the value whereof shall be 13 cents or less per pound, including charges, the duty shall be 32 per cent. ad valorem."

On wools of the third class and camel's hair of the third class, the value whereof shall exceed 13 cents per pound, including charges, the duty shall be fifty per cent. ad valorem.

Difficulty in classifying wool known as "145 Turkey improved, fleece unwashed," caused the department to omit the wool altogether from the schedule, leaving it with the appraiser to determine its quality. The value of this wool differs according to its condition.

ANTHONY J. DREXEL BURIED.

Simple Services Held in His Philadelphia Home Wednesday.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—The remains of Anthony J. Drexel were consigned to the tomb this morning. Only the simple burial ritual of the Protestant Episcopal church was read.

The services were held in the Drexel mansion at 10 o'clock, and were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Bodine, rector of the Church of the Savior, which Mr. Drexel attended.

The funeral cortege then proceeded to Woodlands cemetery, where interment was made in the Drexel mausoleum. There were no pallbearers.

Only the family and immediate friends accompanied the remains to the cemetery, among the latter being George W. Childs, J. Pierpont Morgan, J. H. Harris, Jr., John Lowber Welsh and John C. Bullitt. Governor Pattison and staff attended the services at the residence.

INDIAN FIGHTERS.

Surprised in Camp by a New Haven Detective.

NEW HAVEN, July 19.—Detective Sergeant Donnelly of this city, while hunting for thieves who had broken into a yacht anchored off Branford Point, discovered eight boys whose ages ranged from 13 to 16 years, camped in the woods near Branford.

They had a small tent and a complete outfit of modern cooking utensils. The boys were all dressed in complete traditional Indian outfits—buckskin jackets and leggins, moccasins and feathered head-dresses, with tomahawks and revolvers.

They also had a large store of provisions. John McManus and Homer Clonet, the leaders, were arrested and brought to New Haven. They confessed that they had stolen the outfit from Healey & Bigelow of this city, manufacturers of Indian Sagwa remedies, who have several bands of pretended Indians on the road advertising their medicines. Some of the boys had worked in the shop. They were entranced with wild western literature, and the gang was about to start for the west to annihilate the redskins.

CONSOLIDATION AT BRIDGEPORT.

Car Lines Under One Concern—Capitalized at $2,000,000.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 19.—The Bridgeport Railway company, the Bridgeport Horse Railroad company and the East End Railroad company consolidated today under the name of the Bridgeport Traction company. The capital stock of the new corporation is $2,000,000. New officers elected are: President, Colonel N. H. Heft of the Standard Oil company, who is a resident of this city; vice president, Elias S. Ward, Newark; secretary, General T. L. Watson, Bridgeport; treasurer, William Scherer, Newark; directors, Colonel N. H. Heft, General Watson, D. M. Read, S. W. Baldwin, Henry Selzer, Jr., Stanley Heft, all of Bridgeport; Elias Ward, Andrew Haddell, William Scherer, U. H. McCarthy, H. M. Doremus and Judge Godfrey Krueger, all of Newark, N. J. The roads are soon to be operated by electricity.

HIS ACCOUNTS WERE SHORT.

Surprising Revelations Made at a Meeting of the Foresters.

ANSONIA, Conn., July 19.—At a largely attended meeting of Court Otter Rock, A. O. F. of A., held in Birmingham Tuesday evening, some surprising revelations were made.

A few days ago a fire broke out in the house of Charles W. Rowan, the financial secretary of the court. His books were badly burned and charred and it was with difficulty they could be audited by the committee at the semi-annual examination.

Suspicion was aroused by one member reporting that he had paid $3 dues and had been credited with but $1. An examination was concluded yesterday, and at the meeting last night, the committee reported that the books called for $1,810, while but $1,400 could be found.

Rowan gave no explanation and when an opportunity was given to him by Chief Ranger Cook to resign his office, he emphatically refused. Grand Chief Ranger Smith of Ansonia, who was present by virtue of his office, suspended Rowan pending a thorough investigation.

The Foresters are greatly excited over the discovery of the shortage in Rowan's accounts.

Serious Charge Against a Middle Haddam Man.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—The authorities of Middle Haddam are looking for Elmer Brainerd, whom they arrested a week ago on the very serious charge of having assaulted the 11-year-old daughter of Edward Rood. Brainerd escaped from custody the day after he was arrested, and all efforts to locate him have proved futile.

The story told by the little girl is revolting. She was employed as a maid in the family of August Bartrie. The crime was committed one night last week when Brainerd entered her room. Upon leaving her the wretch threatened to kill her if she told any one. Through fright the girl kept quiet and not long after Brainerd repeated his visit. It was after this second assault that the girl gave way and told all.

Feeling runs high and every effort is being made to capture Brainerd.

Serious Accident to a Windsor Locks Man.

WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn., July 19.—Patrick Johnson, a well-known citizen of the town, who has been employed for a time at the works of the Windsor Locks Water company, slipped and fell into some gearing this noon and had his left arm crushed and mangled from the shoulder to the elbow. The accident happened while he was oiling the machinery. He was taken to his home on Chestnut street, and Drs. Coyle, Coogan, Burnap and Oates were summoned, who made the injured man comfortable.

A Big Meteor Seen at New Haven.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—A big meteor, apparently about as large as an electric arch lamp, fell at New Haven last night at 10.20 o'clock. Its fall was prolonged for at least fifty seconds and was seen by many persons. It was no shooting-star or common asteroid. It was an unusually big ball of fire. Just before it sank below the horizon it lost its light.

Mill Storehouses Overflowing with Manufactured Goods.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 19.—The Pepperell and Laconia mills will not run Saturday this week. A member of the firm says the company's storehouses are rapidly filling up, and some arrangement for curtailing the production will have to be made.

Appointed President of State Board of Charities.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 19.—The new state board of charities today elected Dr. Andrew W. Tracy of Meriden president and adjourned to next Wednesday, when a secretary will be elected.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The receipts from internal revenue today, $440,849; from customs, $569,096, and miscellaneous, $25,170. The national bank notes received today for redemption amount to $157,060.

Failure of Lace Importers.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Adolph Cohen, Gustave Saenger and Isidor Cohen, composing the firm of A. Cohen & Co., lace importers at No 117 Prince street, assigned today. Liabilities $40,000; nominal assets $50,000.

Will Back the Iron Man.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Michael J. Doyle of Newark says that he will back James Walter Kennedy, "the man of iron," to lift either against Eugene Sandow, Chas. A. Sampson, or any other strong man, in harness and with hands, for $1,000 a side.

COLD FACTS FOR HOT DAYS.

An Ice-Bound Pool Discovered in Rhode Island Woods.

SUMMER TEMPERATURE NEAR BY.

Providence People Covered with Perspiration Visit the Locality.

PROVIDENCE, July 19.—The people in the town of Gloucester have discovered a strange phenomenon, that of an ice-bound pool.

The pond in question is solid with ice, and the surrounding vegetation has not started to develop, as yet, this summer.

The ice on the pond covers about ten square feet and is entirely surrounded by trees in a dense thicket.

The discovery was made by some of the townspeople while plodding along through the woods.

Not far away there are little streams and ponds filled with sparkling water, and where the temperature is at the high summer point.

Those who found the ice-bound pool were covered with perspiration when they walked upon the strange curiosity.

Several Providence people drove out and saw the phenomena yesterday and today, and the ice shows no signs of disappearing.

TO MAINTAIN HER RIGHTS.

Chili Intends to Conduct Financial Affairs in Her Own Way.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A Herald cable from Valparaiso says: An attempt has been made by the British minister to induce the Chilian government to favor London banks in its arrangements for the collection of the duties on the nitrates from the Tarapaca bank.

The law requires the banks to guarantee first-class bills in payment of nitrate duties. The deposit of sufficient security by the banks for the payment of the duties is required to be made.

The bank of Tarapaca, which controls, through Col. North, a majority of the nitrate concerns, gave security for only a small sum in comparison with that given by the national banks. The Chilean government demanded that the securities be increased, and then the Tarapaca bank offered to deposit the required security in London.

This plan the British minister asked the Chilian government to adopt, but the minister of foreign affairs refuses to look upon the British minister's suggestion as anything more than an informal one.

The Chilian government maintains the attitude that it has the right to direct its financial affairs in its own way, unembarrassed by foreign intervention.

BURTSELL TO BE RESTORED.

Mgr. Satolli Issues the Order, and It Must be Obeyed.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Rev. Dr. Burtsell must be restored to his parish in this city, or in case he is not anxious to return to the Church of the Epiphany, a parish equally as good must be found for him within the city. This in substance is the order of Mgr. Satolli, the apostolic delegate, in regard to Dr. Burtsell, and this order must be obeyed.

Another pill which Archbishop Corrigan will also in all probability be forced to swallow is the giving back to St. Stephen's of Dr. McGlynn, and the payment to him in full of his stipend for each of the six years which he spent under an unjust bann. Mgr. Satolli is supreme in the affairs of the Catholic church in this country, and he must be obeyed in all things, just as if his orders or instructions were signed by the pontiff himself.

A recourse is permissible, that is to say, a humble petition may be presented professing fidelity and absolute obedience and praying that one may be heard. No prayer or petition will, however, be heard in Dr. Burtsell's case, which is considered a particularly serious one by the apostolic delegate.

The President Again at Gray Gables.

BUZZARD'S BAY, July 19.—The steam yacht Oneida, having on board President Cleveland, Dr. Bryant and the owner, dropped anchor off Monument Rock late this afternoon. A few minutes later the little launch was lowered and the parties brought to shore. The party has been cruising since Monday along Long Island and Narragansett Bay.

A caller at Gray Gables this evening found the president at home. He expressed himself as having enjoyed his trip. In speaking of his physical condition he said he was in splendid health and that the rheumatic trouble had left him. He could not give any definite time when he would leave for Washington. Dr. Bryant still remains at Gray Gables.

The amount of iron in the human blood is about an ounce to the 100 pounds, or a little over a quarter of an ounce to the individual.

CONNECTICUT TRAP-SHOOTERS.

Frank Potter of New Haven Makes the Best Individual Score.

ANSONIA, Conn., July 19.—The sixth tournament of the Connecticut Trap-Shooters' league was held here today. There were about forty shooters present. The scores made were low owing to a bad back ground and a heavy wind across the range. The best individual score was made by Frank Potter of New Haven, who made 26 out of a possible 30. The championship is virtually New Haven's, its club having won five out of six tournaments, with but two more meetings to be held. The score of today is as follows: New Haven 78, Willimantic 72, Bristol 70, New London 63, Ansonia 66, Bridgeport 50.

Hartford was not represented.

MOHICAN NOT FIRED UPON.

The Steamer Not in Bering Sea at the Time Stated.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Any doubt that may have existed in the mind of the acting secretary of the navy as to the improbability of the story that the United States steamship Mohican was fired upon and disabled by the Alexandria, the Hawaiian gunboat, has now been set at rest.

All the latest versions of this preposterous narrative now agree in fixing the date of the alleged engagement as May 25.

The records of the navy department show that the Mohican was at Port Townsend as late as May 27, and that she did not leave for Bering sea until some time after that.

Schooner Bentley Released.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 19.—Collector Winchell this morning received from Nova Scotia the bill of health made out in regular form for the schooner Bentley, which was detained in the harbor because it had come in without one from the port from which she hailed. The collector released the schooner. This permission was given the schooner in the absence of any instructions from Washington regarding the matter.

Earthquakes in Mexico.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 19.—Special dispatches to The Globe-Democrat from Mexico say that there is much alarm felt among the people of Otumba over recent severe earthquakes in that section, and it is feared that Cerro Colorado mountain is about to become an active volcano. There is a constant subterranean noise heard at the base of the mountain, and the vibrations have been so heavy at times as to destroy a number of houses.

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Many Disappointed.

Since the introduction of bicycles for the use of the state signal corps the commandants of the various sections have had any number of applications for membership, but as the entire corps is limited to thirty-six, there are a great many disappointed aspirants. Those who have seen the machine say that they are beauties.

State Attorney Penrose Resigns.

State Attorney John J. Penrose of Windham county has sent his resignation to Chief Justice Charles B. Andrews, to take effect immediately, his action being due to the fact that the duties have become too burdensome for his advanced years. His successor will be selected by the judges of the superior court, who will soon call a special meeting for that purpose. It is understood that George W. Meloney of Willimantic will be chosen to fill the vacancy.

The State Prison Wardenship.

The Waterbury American published the following: Those on the inside learn that there is no doubt that General Haven will succeed General Chamberlain as warden of Connecticut state prison. It is also just as certain, says the American's informant, that Colonel Doherty will succeed to the command of the brigade and Colonel Burpee to the command of the Second regiment. In case General Haven is appointed to the wardenship before camp, it is thought that he would continue in command of the brigade until after camp, as there would not be time for a new brigade commander to organize his staff.

Impartial writers are quoted with saying that the gold contained in the medals, vessels, chains and other objects preserved in the vatican would make more gold coins than the whole of the present European circulation.

POPULATION OF STATE.

Gain of Over 50,000 Shown Since Last Census.

The energy of Secretary Lindsley of the state board of health, supplemented in about 118 cases by the aid of town clerks and in fifty cases by the assistance of the latest school enumeration, has provided Connecticut with a new population. The new census represents the estimated number of inhabitants in each town on the 1st of January last. The revised population is the basis on which the death rate of the state is computed. Total population in '93, 797,995; in '90, 746,258. According to the estimates the thirty-three large towns in the state have made a net gain in population of 44,903 since June, 1890, while the increase for the state at large is 51,742.

BRUTALLY ASSAULTED.

A Farm Hand Pounded and Left Insensible.

On Sunday afternoon Edgar Gardner aged nineteen, and Oliver Brown, aged sixteen, attacked a farm hand named Wilson, who is in the employ of John P. Williams of North Stonington, and beat and kicked him into insensibility, after which they sought to complete their fiendish work by pounding the victim's head with a stone in a terrible manner. The man was discovered soon afterward and medical aid procured for him. Gardner was arrested Monday and brought before a justice on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He pleaded guilty and was sent up to jail to wait the action of the higher court.

Gardner's previous record has been bad. He has been to the reform school; and afterward served one year in the Norwich jail for burglary.

His accomplice, Brown, while Sheriff Billings was after the leader in the crime, escaped from the state and is still at large.

ADJUSTABLE WHEEL TIRE.

An Important Invention Turned Out by a Hartford Citizen.

Alvin S. Flint of Hartford is the inventor of an improved tire for wagon wheels, the description of which will be interesting to all who own carriages. The new tire is simple in its mechanism and can be easily understood. The tire is in two sections. These two sections are not welded but held by a screw. This screw is threaded at the ends with a right and left handed screw having transverse screw threaded bearings which when turned by a key draw the ends of the tire together, thus tightening the tire equally on all parts of the wheel. The power of this screw is easily seen. When tightened it will cause the strongest wheel to dish.

Rivets and bolts are done away with and in their place clamps are used on either side of the tire. The clamps prevent the tire from slipping off. With the new tire every man becomes his own blacksmith and wheelwright. It does away with the necessary heating of tires and the tire can be adjusted or entirely removed without taking the wheel from the wagon. By means of this tire the effects of shrinkage of fellies and spokes may be done away with. This is particularly advantageous in dry countries and seasons and with wagons on long journeys where the facilities of a wagonsmith cannot be had.

The new tire is lighter than the old ones now in use and need not necessarily be more expensive. Mr. Flint has received his patent rights and preparations will probably be made to put the new tire on the market at once.

COL. TYLER'S ORDERS.

The Usual Circular to the Third Regiment for Camp Week.

Pursuant to general orders, dated June 26, Colonel Tyler has issued the usual circular ordering the Third regiment to assemble at Niantic, August 21, not later than 10 o'clock a. m., for a six days' tour of duty and inspection.

Company commanders are to see that their men are provided with white trousers, white gloves and regulation leggings. Transportation will be furnished through the regimental headquarters.

Company commanders will receipt to brigade commander for the number of tents occupied by their commands, and will be responsible for any injury done to them.

Battalion commanders will establish schools of instructions to be held each day between 1 and 2 p. m., Monday and Saturday excepted, for officers and non-commissioned officers, dividing the time and making such arrangements in regard to the same, as they may judge proper.

At 2 p. m. each day, Monday and Saturday excepted, the officers off duty will assemble at regimental headquarters for the purpose of instruction, if necessary, and to confer with the regimental commanders on matters concerning the good of the regiment.

Monday, August 21st, at 3 p. m., the non-commissioned officers will assemble at regimental headquarters for such instruction in their duties during the encampment as the colonel commanding may deem necessary.

Battalion and company commanders will be held strictly accountable for the discipline of their commands, and any noise or disturbance of any description in the company streets must be promptly checked.

AS TO GAME AND FISH.

Warden Collins Explains Some Laws Recently Enacted.

In conversation with a reporter of The Hartford Post Monday, Game and Fish Warden A. C. Collins expressed the opinion that in both fishing and gaming there are now twenty sportsmen to where there was one a few years ago. This condition necessitates propagation of game and fish by artificial means and legal protection to the same during the breeding season. The law prohibits fishing for trout and gaming for partridge, duck, wild geese, brant, gray squirrel and the woodcock at this time. Fishermen for black bass are apt to be disappointed. They will seldom bite during the day, as they feed principally at night time.

Mr. Collins spoke especially of the law passed by the last legislature to protect deer in the state. Many had laughed at this law as useless, as there were no deer in the state. He said that there were a number in Connecticut. They swam the sound from the New York shore, where they were more plentiful. Not long ago a deer was shot while swimming the river at Glastonbury and it floated down the stream. Deer are often seen in localities along the sound shore.

He also spoke of the Mongolian or Chinese pheasants, of which there are soon to be a considerable number liberated by several gentlemen who have been breeding them in this vicinity. A law was also passed by the legislature of '93 protecting these birds. They are brought from China, are very hardy and are excellent eating. Noah Wallace of Farmington now has four cocks and eight hens. The eggs are hatched out by bantam hens and they are as easy to raise as are turkeys. They take to the woods as easily as ducks to the water.

HAPPY RANDOLPH.

Her One Hundredth Anniversary Duly Celebrated.

SALUTE USHERED IN GALA DAY.

Public Buildings and Private Residences Decorated.

RANDOLPH, Mass., July 19.—Randolph was dressed in her prettiest today, and the celebration of her 100th anniversary was elaborately and fittingly observed.

The booming of cannon and ringing of bells announced the rising of the sun and the opening of the natal day.

The public buildings were all beautifully decorated, and the homes of citizens draped in bunting, exhibiting a varied display of artistic tastes. Open hearts and welcome hands greeted the native born who years ago strayed away from the home of their childhood.

The streets were early filled with teams, and the walks lined with pedestrians, all coming from far and near to participate with the townspeople

In This Event of One Hundred Years.

The sub-committees were all busily engaged with their respective duties. The guests as they arrived were received in the rooms of the Turner free library.

At 8:30 a. m. the interest was centered at Main street bridge, where a bicycle race was started over a route of 1 1-8 miles, the riders to travel the route three times. Three prizes were offered. The entries were: Jesse Tabor, Elmer B. Paine, Louis B. Clarke, William H. Cole, Clarence M. Jones, James Bailey.

The race, four miles with two turns, was won by Jesse Tabor; time, 11m. 35s; James Bailey second, Elmer B. Paine third.

At 10 a. m., the pupils of the public schools, numbering about 500, neatly attired, adorned with badges and the national emblem, under the charge of Hugh J. Molloy, A. M., principal of the Stetson high school, Thomas H. West, principal of the Prescott Grammar school, and Joseph Belcher, principal of the North grammar school, assembled upon the steps and grounds in front of Stetson hall, and accompanied by Baldwin's Cadet band of Boston,

Sang Four Selections:

"Morning Invitation," "Columbian Ode," "Columbia the Gem of the Ocean," and the centennial ode, to the music of "America," written by Mr. Molloy for the occasion.

At the close of their exercises the children entered the hall, where an entertainment was given.

At 10:30 a. m. a 100 yards' foot race took place on Warren street. Among the contestants were John A. Sullivan, Michael F. Hand, Patrick Tobin and Mr. O'Brien.

The Procession Began to Form

at 10:30 a. m. in Central square. The order of formation was as follows:

Platoon of Police.
Chief Marshal John Peach and aids.
FIRST DIVISION.
Baldwin's Cadet band.
Captain Horace Niles post, 110 Grand Army, Commander Marcus M. Poole.
Rising Star lodge, 78, W. A. Tabor, noble grand.
St. Mary's Young Men's Catholic association, President John J. Brady.
Invited guests.
Town officers.
Committee of day.
SECOND DIVISION.
Randolph brass band.
Chief of Fire Department Charles A. Wales and assistants.
Steamer 1 and hose company, Foreman James Farrell.
Steamer 2 and hose company, Foreman Charles F. Bean.
Pioneer hook and ladder company 1, Foreman Frank W. Taylor.
Chemical extinguisher company 1, Foreman James F. Sullivan.
Float representing various trades.

The route was North Main street to West corners, countermarching to Central square and South Main streets to district No. 1 school house, thence to the dinner tent, where dinner was served.

After music, a poem written for the occasion by Hugh J. Molloy was read by that gentleman. Music followed, and then

The Orator of the Day,

John V. Beals was introduced, and delivered a long and carefully prepared address covering the history of the town from its earliest record. The address was replete with interesting incidents to the old-time residents, and was listened to throughout with profound interest.

Letters of regret were read by Asa P. French from many prominent people and former residents.

Hon. S. White Belcher proposed sentiments which were responded to by Lieutenant Governor Wolcott, Hon. E. A. Morse, Brooks Adams of Quincy, representing the Adams family, Mayor Henry O. Fairbanks of Quincy, Hon. Asa French of Braintree, Robert O. Harris, district attorney, Erastus Worthington, clerk of courts of Norfolk county, Judge Oscar A. Marden, Rev W. F. Gleason and others.

At the close of the exercises a band concert was given in the tent by Baldwin's Cadet band.

A band concert was given on Alden's field at 2.30 p. m. by the Randolph brass band, followed by a game of baseball, between the Elliot club of this town and the Holbrook club of Holbrook for a prize.

A salute was fired at sunset, and a promenade concert and ball held in the evening closed the festivities of the occasion.

KEEP WHAT YOU GET.

Appears to Be Motto of World's Fair Directors With Uncle Sam.

CHICAGO, July 19.—When the local directory of the World's fair adopted a resolution in favor of opening the gates on Sundays, it was also determined to return the $1,929,121 derived from souvenir coins, which had been appropriated conditionally by the federal government. The condition attached to the appropriation was that the fair should be closed on Sundays. Last Friday the directors, by a vote of 24 to 4, adopted a resolution rescinding that providing for Sunday opening and for the return of the money.

It is now questioned whether the directory intends to give back the appropriation made by the government, though the fair has already been opened on several Sundays, notwithstanding the act of congress to the contrary. The majority of the directors are not in favor of returning the money, and if a vote was taken at the present time it is likely that the government will not come out ahead.

A vote, however, is not necessary, as a clear majority of directors decline to rescind the rule providing for the giving back of the souvenir coin appropriation. This was considered a sufficient expression of the opinion of the directors at the time concerning the matter.

SERIOUS FREIGHT WRECK.

Three Trains Collide and Smash Things Near Ashland.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 19.—A serious freight wreck occurred about 2 o'clock this morning on the Boston and Albany road, near the Ashland station. An inward freight broke apart near the station and the engineer, discovering the accident, went back from the vicinity of South Framingham to pick out the rear part of his train.

A freight train that was following ran into the few cars that had broken from train No. 1. The locomotive of train No. 2 was smashed, and some of the cars were piled up.

About this time an outward Boston freight came along, and, as the opposite or inward track was blocked and also the outward track, this train dashed into the first wreck. The locomotive was somewhat damaged. Tracks were blocked for some time.

The 3 o'clock outward passenger train was delayed about an hour. Traffic was, however, resumed later, the outward track being used for all trains. So far as learned no persons were injured.

SENSATIONAL FIRE.

Funeral in a Church Interrupted and Mourners Stampeded.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 19.—The most sensational fire that Manchester has ever seen occurred this morning in the church of St. Anne. The priest was in the midst of a requiem mass for the soul of Mrs. Mary McLaughlin when it was discovered that the altar was on fire. An alarm was hurriedly sent to headquarters, followed by a general alarm from box 21, summoning the entire department at the central station to the scene.

The people, including the undertaker and his assistants, fled from the church en masse, leaving the coffin of the unfortunate woman in the aisle to be cremated if necessary. Fortunately the flames were stopped in time to save the structure, and after the excitement had subsided the bearers went back to the church, procured the remains and proceeded to the cemetery.

THE KNOT HOLDS.

Frederick Borneman Married in Fun Is Now Repentant.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 19.—Frederick Borneman, through his attorney commenced suit yesterday afternoon against Lillian Long, asking that a marriage contract between himself and the defendant be annulled by the court.

The two visited a disreputable house on Monday night, and the subject of getting married in fun was broached. Justice Hayes was sent for, and as he did not propose to get caught "on a pin hook" he went to the county clerk's office and secured a marriage license, after which he married the parties in legal form.

The next day Borneman was chagrined to find that he was lawfully married, and at once sought out counsel, who filed a petition in the superior court asking that the marriage be annulled.

The Malta Court Martial.

MALTA, July 19.—The court martial of the officers of the British war vessel Victoria was resumed this morning. The first witness called was Rear Admiral Markham. The official dispatches sent by him to the admiralty were read, and Admiral Markham said he had nothing to add. When asked as to his impressions upon receiving Admiral Tryon's order he replied that he considered it impossible to execute with safety and pronounced it then and there an impracticable maneuver.

Did the Job Thoroughly.

MATTOON, Ills., July 19.—Mail Carrier Charles Miller last night went to the residence of Miss May Mack to prevail upon his sweetheart to revoke her decision in discarding him. This she refused to do, whereupon Miller fired two shots from a revolver, fatally wounding the young woman. Miller then fired three balls into his own body, and finding that death was not likely to ensue threw himself into a pond where his body was found this morning.

Fund For Victoria's Sufferers.

LONDON, July 19.—The lord mayor's fund for the relief of families who lost members in the Victoria disaster has been closed to contributors. It is £50,000. In his letter of thanks to the donors the lord mayor says that the fund probably will relieve all sufferers, beside sufficing for the foundation of a trust fund to be used in case of a similar disaster in the future.

Coal Company Assigns.

TERRE HAUTE, July 19.—The Hoosier Coal company, with headquarters at Brazil, made an assignment last evening. The company operated several mines in Clay county, and by its collapse hundreds of miners are thrown out of employment. The liabilities will probably reach $40,000, leaving the company insolvent.

Pinmore Wins Ocean Race.

QUEENSTOWN, July 19.—The British bark Pinmore, which arrived at this port on Monday last, was one of the four contestants in the long race from San Francisco, and was the first of the racers to arrive. The other three vessels in the race were the British ships, Bowden, Lord Templemore and Lochee.

Vigilant Police.

LAWRENCE, Mass., July 19.—The police seized 80 gallons of whisky in two barrels which Thomas Crosby, the job teamster, was preparing to unload from his wagon at his premises on Broadway last night.

HONDURAS AGAIN.

Bonilla Declares That Hostilities Will Soon Be Resumed.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A Panama cable to The Herald says Policarpo Bonilla declares that hostilities will soon be resumed in Honduras.

Bonilla has recovered from the wounds he received during the recent revolution in that republic, which resulted in the victory for General Vasquez, who is now ruling the country in a most tyrannical way.

Bonilla is anxious to renew the fight, and has gone to Honduras to join his followers, who are still in arms in the eastern provinces.

Just before he started the revolutionary leader declared that active war would soon begin. He is convinced that Vasquez will be finally overthrown. General Gutierrez, Davila and Fiallos accompanied Bonilla on his journey.

Murderer Morse Insane.

BOSTON, July 19.—If the opinion of Dr. Jelly and other eminent experts on insanity will have weight with the superior court on next Friday, Amos L. Morse, who is under indictment for the murder of Dr. W. T. S. Wardwell of Roslindale, will be committed to an insane asylum. Dr. Jelly has investigated the case and reported his opinion to District Attorney Stevens. He says in his opinion Morse is now insane and was not of balanced mind when he fired the three shots that killed Wardwell. Other insanity experts are stated to be of the same opinion as Dr. Jelly.

Export Prices Were Low.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The report of the bureau of statistics show that during the fiscal year just ended the export prices of bread stuffs were exceedingly low. The average export price of wheat was a little less than 70 cents a bushel. We furnished corn to the foreigners for about 48 cents a bushel, barley at 47 1-2 cents, rye at 60 cents, and wheat flour at $4.44.

Killed by the Heat.

NASHUA, N. H., July 19.—George W. Barnes, a farmer of Londonderry, died in a hay field last evening from the excessive heat.

SUMMER STYLES.

The new silk grenadines show alternate stripes of silk in small openwork lacelike flowers and vines.

The fashion of matching the hat or bonnet with the gown, while still in vogue, is not so obligatory as formerly.

Some of the delicious tints in [illegible] pale corn color and primrose yellow are even more becoming to blonds than to brunettes, which is saying a great deal.

Striped chiffon with silk dots on every alternate stripe is new; also beautifully flowered pompadour batistes with colors not at all pronounced, but in faint, shadowy tints like those in china silks.

Improved qualities of storm serge are made into stylish and serviceable beach and mountain dresses, with widened bell skirt, open English walking jacket and blouse waist of red or blue polka dotted taffeta silk.

Cobwebby crape lisses are figured with faint, shadowy leaves and flowers in natural colors, and even the stamped swiss and organdie muslins are as beautiful in effect as some of the treasured pompadour patterns in silks.

Black silk blouses with spreading puffs and close forearm pieces of the silk have the forearms, revers and collar thorn stitched with white, silver gray or lilac silk and are worn with afternoon costumes of "half" mourning.

Victorian corsages, glove fitting, almost seamless and laced up the back, are to be very general this summer in evening dress. These bodices were very largely worn at the queen's latest drawing room; hence their popularity.—New York Evening Post.

TERSE TURF EPIGRAMS.

Train your colt if he is worth training. There is money in it.

A slow spring generally makes a fast summer in horseflesh.

A stallion that is worthy of public patronage is worthy of being trained.

"What makes you call that horse Spike?" "'Cause you's got to pound him to drive him."

Let only a first class trainer have your horses. If they are not good enough for him, keep them at home.

Don't experiment with shoeing if your horse is going all right, even if a "country man" did put the shoes on.

Fashionably bred stock will always sell at a profit, and the man who breeds poor stock has only himself to blame.

Cleanliness is the best remedy for skin disease. Animals breathe through the skin as well as through the lungs. Keep the pores open.

No pygmy ever makes himself any larger by claiming to be a giant. No dishonest horseman makes himself any better by claiming to be the soul of honor.

Too many fast quarters and halves in the early spring are many times the cause of losing races when the time comes to trot for the money.—Turf, Field and Farm.

A DISH OF EGGS.

Asparagus tops are nice in an omelet.

Eggs fried without ham are best done in a little fine olive oil.

Toast spread with pate de foie gras and covered with scrambled eggs is a fine lunch dish.

A squeeze of lemon improves scrambled eggs. It should be added while they are cooking.

Cold fried eggs can be used for salad or revamped by dipping them in fritter batter and frying.

A few drops of vinegar in the water for poached eggs make them set properly and keep the white from spreading.

Stewed tomatoes, grated cheese and a couple of chopped up boiled sausages is a fine sauce to serve with fried eggs.

Fresh eggs taken from the shell and boiled in half a pint of sweet cream seasoned with salt and pepper make a delicious breakfast dish. They should only cook two minutes in the boiling cream.—New York Recorder.

ARCHITECTURAL.

The roofs of Egyptian temples are composed of huge blocks of stone laid from column to column.

The palace of the kings of Babylon may still be easily traced. It is a vast mound 700 yards square. The walls were 8 feet thick and strengthened with buttresses.

Chinese hotels are all built on the same plan—a large courtyard, around the four sides of which are built rows of small rooms, the restaurant and office being in front.

The city of Bamian in Bokhara is set in the side of a mountain. There are 12,000 artificial caves, some very large, and two statues, one 120, the other 70 feet high, each hewn from a single stone.

The Spanish Escurial is built in the shape of a gridiron. The buildings form a parallelogram 640 by 580 feet, and at each angle is a tower 200 feet high. There are three large churches in the inclosure, one containing the tombs of most of the Spanish kings and queens.

The Bulletin.

One of the Greatest Americans.

One hundred years ago this May Eli Whitney perfected his cotton gin and put it to practical working. Of its effects on the destinies of this country Macaulay, the historian, said, "What Peter the Great did to make Russia dominant Eli Whitney's invention has more than equaled in its relation to the power and progress of the United States."

It is interesting to know that the first idea of a machine which should separate the seed of cotton from the fibre was a woman's inspiration. What is more, Eli Whitney could probably not have made it if he had not been a trained mechanic before he was a student, teacher and inventor. Whitney was born in Westboro, Mass., in 1765. During his early years he was a nailmaker, and in that humble occupation he earned money to start to Yale college. After a brief stay there he was scholar enough to teach a country school. That was his first step upward. He taught school and saved money sufficient to graduate him at Yale.

Time out of mind, teaching first, then studying law, has been the plan of impecunious young college graduates. It was Whitney's plan. He was visiting the widow of General Nathaniel Greene on the Savannah river in 1792, pursuing his law studies. Some of Mrs. Greene's guests were one day saying what a pity it was that the seed could not be separated more readily from green seed cotton, for then it would be the most profitable of all. At once Mrs. Greene proposed that Whitney should be set at the task of inventing a seed cleaning machine. "Whitney can do anything," said Mrs. Greene.

Whitney began the work and more than justified her expectations. But so few machinists were there in the south at that time that he himself had to weld work and draw every part of the iron he used both for the machine he made and the tools with which he made it. Before his invention only one pound of green seed cotton could be cleaned by hand in a day. The cotton gin at once placed the United States triumphantly at the head of all the cotton producing nations, where it has remained and will remain. But the ingratitude with which Whitney was treated by his countrymen is almost on a par with the treatment Columbus received from the Spanish nation he enriched. The greatest benefactors of mankind fare the worst.

When We Have Enough Money.

The farmer who owns his home and lands could live very comfortably and happily with a free income of $50 a month. He could even save something for a trip to the World's fair in case the Chicago hotel keepers lower their rates to the bounds of reason and common sense. In the city, however, an income of $5,000 a year would be required to live as comfortably as the thrifty farmer who owns his home can do in the country. Five thousand a year would therefore not be an immoderate limit of desire for the city man of family. In our American cities one individual can live in modest luxury on $2,000 a year.

If a man is elected president of the United States or appointed ambassador to France or England, $50,000 a year will not be too much for him to maintain the style of living that is expected of those who represent the dignity of a great and wealthy nation. Best of all, however, we like Cy Warman's poetic expression of how much money a man needs. Cy writes in the New York Sun:

I want to find a place for me
 Where nature's harps are all in tune,
A calm or a still on life's rough sea,
 A place where it's always afternoon—
A quiet, peaceful place [illegible]
Between the tramp and the millionaire—

Where it's not all joy and not all pain,
 Not too much shine nor too much shade—
Just a place to hide me from the rain,
 An easy place where the rent is paid,
And not too close to the man of care
And not too far from the millionaire.

Of the 180,000 civil offices under the United States government, 43,700 have now been embraced within the scope of the civil service law, which forbids removals except for cause. Under each presidential administration since the Pendleton civil service act was passed the number of offices brought within the protection of the law has rapidly increased. The changes in political parties have added to the list greatly. As the Republican or Democratic president retires he wishes to keep as many of his own party in office as possible; consequently he issues as he goes out the order placing one or more classes of government employees under the ægis of the civil service law.

We hear much of Delsartism these days. We who are of the people have no very clear idea just what it is, we confess. We are sure it must be something very grand and tremendous and soulful and shall be glad if we can be like that too. A high priestess of the Delsartean cult has, however, at length undertaken to supply a long felt want and tell us common people what her school is driving at. We give you herewith her own definition, confident that you will thereby be as much enlightened as we are: "Psycho-physical culture is the perfect union of harmonic gymnastics and dynamic breathing during the formulation of noble ideals in the mind." Dear, dear!

At the rate at which the sculptors are using up our silver to make life size statues, pretty soon there will not be any more complaint that we have too much of it.

There was company in the schoolroom that morning when the beginning class in geography was called. To the question, "What is a cape?" every hand went up. "Nannie may tell," said the teacher. "A cape is a point of land objecting in the water."—Exchange.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE WOMEN'S CONGRESS.

In mute astonishment we bend,
 With all our male inferior race,
Before the ladies who attend
 In great Chicago's wondrous place!
Who [illegible] are now become
Discreetly still, [illegible] dumb.

Seven days they met—and then dispersed,
 With nothing further left to done
For every question, last and first,
 They [illegible] one by one.
In [illegible] they saw
Philosophy and [illegible]

They spoke of science, of charity,
 And science found its proper part.
Religion and philanthropy
 Were joined with literature and art.
No theme too great, and none too small;
They simply finished one and all.

O politicians [illegible] of life,
 Whose unceasing [illegible] strife,
These ladies in a week could treat
 The past and future of the state!
Philosophers, who truth pursue,
A week sufficed to deal with you!

So, acting on this noble plan,
 Henceforth [illegible] government resigned—
Tammany and other [illegible]
 To fair, [illegible] of womankind.
On every point [illegible]
And just her judgment in a week!

WOMEN'S GIFTS TO COLLEGES.

What Massachusetts Women Have Done For Educational Institutions.

Those who inspect the statistical charts and the bound volume of historical and educational monographs contributed by the women of Massachusetts to the Chicago fair will gain a new idea of what women have done for the cause of higher education. The facts contained will be a revelation to most people, who have only an inadequate idea of what women have accomplished in this way. One of the most extraordinary showings is the table containing a list of the sums of money given to Massachusetts colleges by women. It is as follows:

Harvard university	$1,301,305 00
Institute of Technology	208,085 00
Williams college	189,071 50
Boston university	90,380 [illegible]
Amherst college	79,000 00
Smith college	411 00
Harvard annex	109,000 00
Mount Holyoke	84,380 00
Tuft's college	144,750 00
*Wellesley college	871,000 00

*Combined gifts of Mr. and Mrs. Durant.

Here is a total of $2,898,079.18, a magnificent sum, and larger by many thousands than the total gifts made to all the colleges in some of the older states. Harvard university received more than half of this amount, and yet that institution has only recently admitted young women to its courses and even now does not give them the same advantages as young men. To President Eliot's request that women contribute $500,000 to endow the woman's annex of Harvard university it might be pertinent to ask why it would not be right to use for this purpose a part of the $1,300,000 given by women in past years to the funds of the university. The scholarships, the botanic garden, the divinity school, the library and the departments that have been enriched by this bounty of women show how well they can discriminate in their gifts.

This does not include all, however, that women have done for education in Massachusetts. Public libraries have received gifts amounting to $811,186, and public and industrial schools have been given $122,608. Another way in which education has been aided by women is by gifts to the free kindergartens, which have received $344,319. Even this does not cover all the money women have given to aid others in getting an education, many being too modest to allow the amount of their gifts to be known, but it is enough to show how strong an interest women have taken in colleges and education. This interest is not of recent origin either. As early as 1664 Bridget Wynde gave Harvard college £4, and in 1719 Mme. Hutchinson gave the same institution £10. These sums look small beside the recent bequests to Harvard of $230,000 by Mrs. Elizabeth Fogg and $180,953 by Mrs. Ellen Gurney. But it is the spirit and the ability and not the size of the donation that measure the value of the gift.

It is a long call from the earliest of these expressions of woman's interest in education to the present time, when colleges are opening their doors to female students and placing them on the same level with male students. All have not done this, but some have, and others will be compelled to follow. The results of college training for women have more than justified the efforts made and swept away most of the prejudice that once existed against the higher intellectual training of women. The New York Sun not long ago gave the following illustration of what a college bred woman can do. It said: "One college woman in New York, wife of a busy physician, does all her husband's reading for him both of current literature and medical publications. With the trained intelligence peculiar to the thoroughly educated woman she grasps the salient points of the articles, and in a few words gives them to him at dinner or in the afternoon drive."

With such proof of how a college bred woman can enter into an intelligent partnership with her husband and the proofs given in the exhibit at Chicago of the liberality of women toward colleges there will be a general agreement that the day has passed when the demand for equal facilities for the higher education of women can be brushed aside as unworthy of notice.—Philadelphia Press.

She Belongs to the Past.

The recent election of Miss Emily Louise Gerry of this city as regent of the Society of the Daughters of the Revolution makes an interesting point of connection between the present and the past in American history.

Miss Gerry's father, Elbridge Gerry, was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, a member of the committee which framed the constitution of the United States and vice president of the United States in Madison's administration. He was born 150 years ago a subject of King George II, and his daughter at the age of 91 years is a citizen of what is now the oldest republic on the face of the earth. She is the last living child of a signer of the Declaration of Independence.—New Haven News.

A Young Boy Who Wears a Man's Hat.

Eddie Johnson, a Kentucky lad, who is 11 years old, weighs 60 pounds and is regarded as the largest child of his age in the state. He wears a man's hat and a 9½ shoe.

Dr. Sargent's Model Woman.

Dr. Dudley Sargent, physical director in Harvard university, is well pleased with his "average woman." He declares that some people have a wrong idea as to what the model means.

"People," said the doctor, "think that it is my perfect woman, while in reality it is a woman 50 per cent removed from the perfect woman."

As a type of Harvard girl the doctor thinks the model is encouraging. Compared with other American types, he thinks it is better and that it compared favorably with the shopgirls and other classes engaged in physical labor.

He also believes that it shows up well in comparison with the average male figure, but he does not think it makes so good a comparison with the average young married woman, who may be said to belong to a picked class.

Dr. Sargent declines to give the measurements of the figure, as he proposes to take the matter up scientifically in the near future and demonstrate several important questions bearing upon the subject.

The doctor says that 100 years from now such a figure, so far as actual value to the human race is concerned, will be invaluable.—Boston Letter.

A Woman Diamond Broker.

Mrs. T. A. Lynch is the woman jeweler in New York, and her big corner building on Broadway is a brilliant testimonial to one woman's knowledge of diamonds, for that is the cornerstone of her success.

"Women are proverbially fond of the sparkling gems," she smiled pleasantly, "and not a few of them put money into them instead of banks and bonds. I not only make money out of their value, but pleasure out of their beauty, and you may find me in their midst at my store at almost any time of every day, except Sunday. I do not care for social life—that is the means of existence to other women. I have a large family, and we are happy within ourselves, but if there is any entertaining and keeping up a calling list to be done my children have to do it for me.

"How did I happen to go into the business? Well, my first venture was in a single diamond that I bought as a child with my spending money. My father was a fruit dealer and did not approve of gewgaws, but when I sold the gem for twice what it cost me he sanctioned the transaction and encouraged my later efforts at others. I go abroad and select in person the gold and silver curios, the carvings set with jewels and the antiques, as well as the newest patterns in jewelry. I am an Irish woman from Dublin—Americanized, of course—and I have reason to believe that the Irish-American combination of business ability, added to a woman's instinct, is as good a one as can be found for metropolitan use."—New York Telegram.

Wedding Bells For Miss Gould.

The children of the late Jay Gould are beginning to experience some practical results of the testamentary provision which makes the marriage of one of their number a forbidden thing hereafter unless all the others consent. Miss Helen Gould, I am assured, may shortly become a bride. Who the happy man is remains unknown in New York, but that the heiress has refused more than one good offer is well known. Miss Gould is a high spirited young woman, and her resentment of interference with the course of her affections, based upon this proviso in the deceased wizard's will, nearly precipitated a family catastrophe. The young lady has been concerned enough to ask whether the provision could stand in a court of law, and it seems it might be declared void under the decision condemning all sumptuative conditions even lightly in restraint of marriage as against public policy. But all the heartburnings are over, and by another twelvemonth New York's reporters will be writing up one more great wedding. This whole matter is being kept very quiet by the family, George Gould especially poohpoohing any prospect of a marriage to come.—Philadelphia Press.

Kind Words For a Foreign Visitor.

We must now say "Adieu!" to our lovely, amiable and accomplished visitor from Spain, the fair Eulalia. And again "Adieu!" most inestimable infanta! And once more "Adieu!" most worthy representative of the queen regent, Maria Christina! Soft be the airs that waft thee across the seas, and pleasant be thy memories of the land of which thou hast been the welcome guest. Long be thy life and ever happy! And when in far off years, in the ancient capital of Spain, you recall New York, may it always appear before you as worthy of the admiration which you have expressed for it.

But one word before parting: We are rejoiced to know that ever since the cannon thundered as your ship approached our harbor, until you returned here from Newport, bound for Spain, we have been able to please you in everything. Your own qualities and demeanor have commanded a measure of esteem rarely ever given to a stranger, and proud we are to be assured that this esteem is mutual. We shall always be happy to see you. And now, ho! for Spain!—New York Sun.

The Late Lady Ailesbury.

Shrewd, able and experienced, most genial, always sociable, worldly wise without being worldly, it may be said of the late Lady Ailesbury that she never made an enemy and never lost a friend. A tall, graceful, striking woman, she was possessed of a very marked individuality, a quality singularly scarce in the society of our day. By her death almost every member of the royal family loses a much valued and intimate friend, and English society suffers the loss of its most prominent figurehead. For a full half century the late Lady Ailesbury has been an acknowledged leader in our midst, she has been behind the scenes in almost every event of consequence affecting in any way our social life, and her advice, always sound and practical, has frequently directed the course of affairs which have ultimately attained to public importance. The late Maria, Lady Ailesbury, would have been a historical figure in any other generation but her own. And wen, she was a great lady hopelessly out [illegible] by insignificant surroundings.—London Truth.

Why Willie Likes the Doctor.

"I like our doctor," said Willie. "He 'vits me stick out my tongue at him."

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Princess and Little Boy.

A fellow guest at the Savoy with the Princess Eulalie tells of the satisfactory achievement of the full measure of one small boy's ambition. The little fellow greatly admired the Spanish woman, but always at a distance until one day he took his place at the end of the corridor leading from her rooms with the avowed intention of at least waving his hands as she passed. When his patience was finally rewarded by her approach, the child's speaking face at once arrested the infanta's attention.

Stopping, she said, reaching out to her delighted admirer: "What a dear little boy! I must have a kiss!" and she got it at once, with a hug thrown in, an enthusiasm which so pleased the royal woman that she asked the name and residence of the young hero. Finding he was living in the hotel, at her next leisure she sent an invitation to his parents to come with him to her apartments, where they were received with great cordiality and the small boy petted by the child loving princess to his heart's content.—New York Times.

In the Dollroom.

I'm going out a little while,
 And you must promise, Dolly,
To sit as quiet as a mouse,
And not go romping o'er the house
 With pussy cat and Polly.

For pussy's claws are very sharp,
 And they are sure to scratch you,
Or if you get in Polly's reach
She'll give an awful, awful screech,
 And with her beak she'll catch you.

And don't go mussing up your things
 Or get your dress in creases;
Don't put your hands up to your hat;
Your bangs are loose—remember that—
 And they may come to pieces.

Don't pull the buttons off your shoes
 Or laugh when Dolly chatters;
You mustn't mind her talk a bit,
But only shut your eyes and sit
 And think of other matters.

And promise, Dolly, not to pout,
 It makes you look so simple,
For every time you frown, you know,
It makes the horrid wrinkles grow
 And spoils your pretty dimple.

You'd better go to sleep, for then
 I'll have no cause to scold you.
By by, my dear—now try and see
How good you really can be—
 Remember what I told you.
 —C. M. Snyder.

Rather Sour For a Little Girl.

Midget was such a very busy little person that she could never see anything lying on the table in her reach without handling and sometimes tasting it. One day her mother had left an open package of lump alum on the table, and no sooner did she turn her back when Midget put a large lump in her mouth. When her mother turned around, the little girl said, with a very wry face, "That is awful sour ice, mamma."—Youth's Companion.

Named After Baby Ruth.

In Sixteenth street there exists a military organization known as the Baby Ruth guards. It is composed of about 20 little boys, the oldest of them from appearances not more than 9 years of age, while the youngest is probably barely 6. Their uniform is not elaborate, but eminently correct, and their firearms are of the reversible pattern, which enables them to use either end for stock or muzzle, as they choose. Their great forte is their marching, and they do this in a manner which would reflect credit on the best drilled regulars ever stationed at Fort Myer.

The only serious handicap under which the young citizen soldiers suffer is their size, for one of the members owns a large St. Bernard dog which he cannot always induce to stay at home during parade time, and when the dog insists on marching with the company and thrusts himself into the middle of the ranks the privates on one side of him have great difficulty in seeing over his back and finding out whether they are properly "dressed" with the privates on the other side.—Kate Field's Washington.

Where the Baby Was.

Great-grandfather's folks were moving and had left the bedding to pack the last thing, so picking up the first feather tick he came to great-grandfather laid it, together with the covers, on a quilt on the floor, and doubling them all up he put his knee on the tick and tied the corners of the quilt firmly. "There!" he exclaimed, "I don't think that will come untied in a hurry."

Just then great-grandmother came in. "Why, where's the baby?" she asked, looking from the empty bedstead to her husband.

Great-grandfather did not wait to answer her. He then seized those firmly tied knots and untied them in a great hurry, and there lay the baby safe and still sleeping. Great-grandmother snatched her to her breast and held her close.

"Your coming in just now was providence, wife," great-grandfather said as he wiped the great drops of perspiration from his face. And great-grandmother did not deny it.—Youth's Companion.

The Most Wonderful Dolls' House.

In a London store there is on exhibition a dolls' house which is the most wonderful that ever was made. It is a large, substantial building made of wood, with windows that open and shut. It is provided with lace edged blinds and a hall door; indeed even an electric bell that rings through the house. Before you enter there is much to surprise you—a well laid out garden with full grown trees and a fountain in the center playing. The hall and every room is papered and carpeted. The kitchen is provided with a sink and tap of real water. How delightful this would be to the rising generation, and so would the bath, supplied in like manner from a tank in the roof. Every want of Mme. la Poupee, her spouse and family has been duly recognized. The nursery is a large room from back to front and specially airy. There is a back door as well as a front, and a suit of rooms, dining room, drawing room, morning room and many bedrooms, afford luxurious accommodations.—London Queen.

A Smart Little Girl.

The youngest telegraph operator in America is little Euphra, the 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. E. N. Dunn of West Point, Ga. The child has been about the office a great deal and quickly picked up the Morse alphabet. She can call up other operators and receive messages with remarkable accuracy.

The "Only" Lemonade.

Almost every housewife thinks she knows how to make lemonade, but only those who use this rule are right in their belief: To every quart of water use 3 lemons and the rind of 1, taking care to peel the rind very thin, using nothing but the yellow outside. Cut this into pieces and put with the juice and powdered sugar in a jug with a cover, using 2 ounces of sugar to every quart. Boil the water as for tea, then pour it over the lemon and sugar. Cover, let it cool, add ice and serve.—St. Louis Republic.

A Queen's Interest In Jewish Music.

The queen of Italy, who is one of the most cultured of sovereigns, has displayed great interest in ancient Jewish music. In order to fully inform herself on the subject she sent for Professor Consoto, who visited her in the royal palace, and unfolded to her the history of Jewish music, to the earnest study of which he has devoted himself for several years.—Jewish Chronicle.

The Real True Way to Catch Bullfrogs.

When we were at Chattanooga, we learned how to catch bullfrogs where they inhabit ponds. Just take a light and wade in around the edge after dark, and they will sit on the edge and look at the light until some one on the bank can catch them. Mr. Saunders, near Ringgold, was the man to try it, and he caught 36 the first night.—Walker County (Ga.) Messenger.

Suffered Every Minute
Since I came out of the war, with catarrh in my head, chronic diarrhœa and rheumatism, says Mr. J. G. Anderson, a well known blacksmith in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad at Scottdale, Pa. "I had pains all over me, my sight was dim, and there seemed to be floating specks before my eyes. The food I ate seemed like lead in my stomach. The rheumatism was in my right hip and shoulders. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills did me more good than everything else put together. They are the only medicines I use now. All my disagreeable symptoms have gone."

GROCERS' DAY.

Here's to the grocers of Norwich! May they, with their families and sweethearts, find pleasure every moment of this day! May the skies above them be bright, and the breezes blow gratefully wherever they may seek pleasure.

The grocers take but one day off in the year, and this brief respite from active business life puts a Sunday-like spell upon the town. It is when their stores are closed and they and their friends are away, that Norwich realizes how much noise and bustle, how much push and hustle, how much life and vim, the grocers put into the town.

The stay-at-homes will miss them, but they will join THE BULLETIN in wishing them a round of pleasure and no mishaps, whether they be at the beach or in the country, at the bat or at the table.

This is grocers' day, and those who do not share it with them will follow them with their best wishes, and welcome them back to the good old town which their presence honors and enlivens and which their business energy helps to make the town of Eastern Connecticut to live in.

OUT OF PLACE.

The editor of The Bridgeport Farmer is not in sympathy with the flag-flying sentiment of the day. He is a democrat and cold toward the national flag. We do not think he has any antipathy against the flag. We do not think he has the heart of a rebel; and we know he has not the heart of a soldier. There are American citizens to whom the flag excites pleasurable feelings, and they love to see it daily flying in the breeze.

Perhaps the editor of The Farmer loves to see it floating on high; but he seems to lose sight of the fact that it is the people's emblem as well as the nation's. He thinks every-day usage makes it "too cheap," and declares "The nation's flag is out of place anywhere except flying over the nation's property, save on national occasions."

The national flag does not seem to us to be out of place on the excursion steamers or the ships in the harbor; or on the summer hotel, or in the summer camp, on the school house or in any civic or military parade, whether the occasion is a national one or not. It looks grand everywhere.

No doubt most of the readers of The Farmer would think the national flag was not out of place if it was seen flying daily over the office of that paper. If we should see it there, we should not think the flag was cheapened, or that it was out of place. Because it is not there does not make the editor of The Farmer less patriotic. But these sentiments show he is not in step with the times, and is in danger of becoming a back number. To true American eyes the flag always looks stately, no matter how frequently it is seen.

THE FLOWER MISSION.

Norwich, like many other cities, has a society for the distribution of flowers among the sick. This is a modern charity, which places at the bedside of the apprehensive sick in close quarters, fresh flowers, which bear with them the odors of the garden, and the beauty and sweetness of the fields. To a lover of flowers their presence in the sick room is like the presence of a friend—a friend that does not weary one, but that inspires the invalid with hope, and impresses him with the Divine wisdom which strewed the face of nature with lovely blossoms and health-restoring herbs. And when flowers are sent to the bedside of those who have not learned to love them, the recipient is quickly aroused with a sense of the brightness and joy which spring from these innocent beauties, and learn a new pleasure while convalescent and on the road to health. This is both a consoling and educational work. These flowers are a testimonial of regard, as well as messengers from the fields with messages of truth for those who may interpret them; and they cheer the depressed, and enliven hours which would be gloomy and sad without them.

DISCLOSURES DEMANDED.

The best citizens of Hartford are excited over the apparent sympathy between the new city court officials and the criminal classes. Instead of working in the interests of law, there seems to be a tendency on the part of the court to make the conviction of law-breakers more difficult. A Hartford paper stating a case says:

During the trial of a baker charged with keeping a place where liquors are reputed to be sold, and also with selling liquors without a license, a police officer, who was testifying, was asked where he got his information. He replied that he did not wish to reveal the name of his informant. The judge said that the witness must show the basis upon which the information is formed. "Then," said the prosecuting attorney, "I had rather all his evidence on this point be stricken out than he should give the man's name," and stricken out it was. Chief Woodbridge, Captain Bill and other officers of the police department afterward stated that it is one of the unwritten laws of the police court that an officer shall not divulge the source of his information when such disclosures would tend to lessen the efficiency of the department.

No one knows better than the court officer or lawyer who attempts to draw from the police or witnesses such information, that it makes the informant immediately subject to the resentment and revenge of the prosecuted party. It is done to make complaints more hazardous and to screen those whom the court is established to try, convict and punish. This practice is too common in courts everywhere. If the moral portion of the community were as alert and determined to make things as unpleasant for the law-breakers and their sympathizers as the law-breakers are to have things their own way, or else make it unpleasant for the rest of the community, no judge or prosecutor would be found who would try to force a witness to disclose the source of such information, when such disclosure is a menace to the informant, and a discouragement of the enforcement of law.

A BIG DEMAND FOR HAY.

The hay crop in Eastern Connecticut is good, and the farmers have reason to be happy. The failure of the hay crop in Great Britain and Europe has greatly increased the demand in this country for hay for exporting. This is the first time for several years that there has been a shortage of hay abroad. In England the price for good hay is now said to range from thirty five to forty dollars a ton and is scarce at that. The poorer owners of stock are killing off their cattle because they cannot afford to keep them. The New York Produce Exchange has appointed a committee to draft rules to govern the hay trade, as the trade with foreign ports this season promises to be enormous. Most of the hay now exported is the baled hay from Canada, the price of which now ranges from $16 to $18 a ton.

Australia is the only country that has a surplus, and France and Germany are receiving supplies from her crop.

The result of this shortage of the hay crop abroad will advance prices all over the United States.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Remember!—A good advertisement needs no vacation!

France sustains her record for promptness. She bombards Siam and explains afterwards!

Massachusetts has a "Lizzie Borden" Temperance club. Its emblem is an axe and the pass-word "not guilty!"

The cup-defenders this year will break previous records. Under favorable conditions the best boats may make 15½ or 16 knots an hour.

Gov. Waite of Colorado has not started much blood yet, but he has frightened the people, and as a bank-buster he has proved a great success!

Now that the Sioux chief, Young Man-Afraid-of-His-Horses, is dead, there is danger of strife to settle who shall be his successor. Little Cloud and Red Cloud are the aspirants, and as there is a feud between them, it looks as if one or the other of them would be on his way to the happy hunting grounds before the chieftainship is determined.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

Take Heart.

Congressmen who shrink from an August session should take heart when they observe the splendid example of endurance afforded by Mr. Gladstone, who, in spite of his more than eighty years, steers the home rule bill triumphantly through the commons in these midsummer nights.—[Boston Journal.

Hindsight.

In the near future the people of the United States will all see the folly and unwisdom of the administration in its treatment of the Hawaiian question. Uncle Sam, if he runs a navy and his commerce, will before ten years, be willing to give many millions for what has been offered as a free gift.—[Chicago Inter Ocean.

To Satisfy Confederate Hate.

No blind soldier was ever deprived of a pension by a republican secretary of the interior. No republican official ever treated with cold and cruel inhumanity the claims of the union veteran. The sightless eyes of Joseph King, in his desolate home, speak more eloquently than flashing orbs could speak of the barbarity and injustice of the policy which would crush the union veteran to gratify confederate hate, and to answer the mugwump demand for sham economy in the interest of British free trade.—[New York Press.

Where Democracy Is At.

Rev. Sam Jones says the democratic party will "make a spoon or spoil a horn in the next ninety days." They will likely spoil a good many "horns" when accomplishing their task.—[Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Respectably."

Mayor Coughlin of Fall River explains that all the liquor which is now sold in that city is sold "respectably." It is all sold in violation of law and against the expressed wish of the people. Does the mayor call that "respectable."—[Boston Journal.

Illinois is the only state in the Union that has a governor that could not be elected constable in any other state.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NORTH STONINGTON.

A Chance for Naturalists—Home-Comers—Visitors—Hay Crop Not Quite an Average.

Col. James F. Brown and wife have returned from a few days outing at Narragansett Pier.

Misses Bessie and Hattie Brown are away for a few weeks' visit.

Mrs. R. O. Main and youngest daughter are the guests of her mother.

Miss Lottie Stillman of New York is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Irving W. Miner, at "Summit farm."

Mr. Eugene Chapman has captured and encaged a skunk and five young ones whose nocturnal perambulations were in close proximity to his barn and poultry yards. Students of natural history now have an opportunity to make a study of this odoriferous animal.

The hay crop, a portion of which has been already secured in excellent condition, will fall below an average in quantity, much to the surprise of farmers who expected earlier in the season to have a larger crop.

A Florida man has conceived the idea of building a big hotel among the branches of a grove of live oaks in that state. He is one of the largest land owners of Florida, and the live oaks on his tract are of great size and height. He is said to have the backing of a syndicate of English capitalists and to be so confident of his novel scheme that he will begin work upon it immediately.

Laughter Lends a New Charm

To beauty when it discloses a pretty set of teeth. Whiteness, when nature has supplied this element of loveliness, may be retained through life by using the fragrant SOZODONT.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. Try them.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."

Simply apply SWAYNE'S OINTMENT. No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, &c., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for SWAYNE'S OINTMENT.

Castoria.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation;
Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation,
Gives healthy sleep; also aids digestion,
Without narcotic stupefaction.

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pill may well be termed "Perfection."

It's an off day that fails to find something interesting for the readers of this column.

This time it is Hosiery—Women's Hosiery—not the ordinary kind, but something extraordinary. Just read and digest this item.

1,000 pairs—yes, more, nearly 1,100 pairs of Women's Fine Imported Hose—every pair of which were imported by us—will go on sale Wednesday morning.

They are our regular 50c Hose, and if we didn't have too many the price would never have been less than 50c pair. But we have got more than we want, and to reduce the surplus we will do this:

For four days, beginning Wednesday, we will offer our entire line of Women's Half-a-dollar-a-pair Black Hose for 35c a pair, 3 for $1.00.

Bear in mind Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week, are the days. We make it a four days' sale so that everybody, out of town people as well as those in town, can have an equal chance to take advantage of this offering. Here is a partial description of the styles:

Lot 1.—200 pairs Cluster Rib Lisle Hose—the design is new this season—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 2.—150 pairs Richelieu Rib Lisle Hose—white tip heel and toe—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 3.—150 pairs Fancy Rib Imperial Lisle Hose—neat styles—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 4.—120 pairs Ladies' Opera Length Hose—length 35 inches—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 5.—50 pairs Ladies' 54 Guage Cotton Hose—the finest guage hose made in Germany—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 6.—60 pairs Ladies' 36 Guage, 4 Thread Cotton Hose—unequalled for wear—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 7.—100 pairs Ladies' Cotton Hose—Gloria make, high spliced heels and double soles—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 8.—75 pairs Ladies' Black Hose with Maco feet—excellent for women who cannot wear black footed hosiery—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 9.—75 pairs Ladies' Fine Guage Outsize Hose—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

Lot 10.—100 pairs Men's Ribbed Bicycle Hose—sizes 9 to 11—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.

GENTLEMEN'S
HALF -:- HOSE.

We have recently given extraordinary values in Merchandise, more particularly pertaining to Ladies' wear. It is now the Gentlemen's turn, and we offer them today such bargains in Fine Cotton, Lisle Thread and Balbriggan Half Hose as was never before heard of.

The opportunity to get hold of such marvelous values came to us through the financial excitement in New York. Almost anything to turn goods into cash, is their cry, and the result is we offer you the best values ever known in this or any other city.

There are four lots in all, comprising 250 dozen pairs, and are as follows:

75 dozen at 12½c a pair, full regular made, and never before sold for less than 25c a pair. The colors are Grey, Tans, Black, Modes, Goblin Blue and Unbleached.

75 dozen at 19c a pair, usual price 37½c. They are in Plain Black, Black Drop Stitch, Silk Embroidered and Balbriggan, in Superfine and Medium Weights.

50 dozen at 29c pair, usual price 50c pair. This lot is composed almost entirely of I. and R. Morley's Hand Seam goods, and are in Modes, Tans, Grays, Plain Black and Fine Cotton Drop Stitch.

50 dozen at 39c pair, usual price 75c. In this lot are Silk Plaited, Black, Embroidered and Lisle Thread in Tans, Grays, Modes and Goblin Blue.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

"With All Her Faults."

Her nose is slightly "snub," I know,
But that's a small defect.
Oh, yes, she squints a bit, although
It isn't easy to detect.
Her hair is red, so is her hat,
Which shows her taste is bad,
But other charms make up for that;
That shall not make me sad.

Her figure's neither Greek nor yet
A model for a fashion plate.
Indeed you may have never met
A form so angulate.
Complexion fair, that you must own—
Oh, yes, it may be paint;
But then so long as 'tisn't known
The difference is faint.

Her eyes are such, I must confess,
A poet never sung;
But then, 'tis not for ugliness
That people should be hung.
I recognize her each defect,
And yet with love I'm mad.
She's lovable in this respect—
She never had a "fad."

PHILOSOPHICAL COGITATIONS.

People never become too old to "wish" for things.

Control your mouth. Your temper will control itself.

In a fight always remember that the other fellow is probably as cowardly as you are.

When a man destroys old letters, he always sorts out the complimentary ones and saves them.

Until you have done wrong, you never know how much you care what other people say about you.

The old philosophers are very disagreeable. They are always telling you things you have long been afraid were true.

It is a horrible sight to see an old man in a rage. A man's red flag should all have faded to an indistinguishable color by the time he is 50.—Atchison Globe.

In the East Indian exhibit is a wedding cloth. It required two years' work by Jat and Baishnava women. The red ground is woven. The rest of it is embroidery. This cloth is worn only on the wedding day.

Among the objects of extreme mechanical interest at the Chicago exposition is an original iron boiler of one of Trevithick's high pressure engines, of which several were made and used principally for threshing purposes in or about the year 1812.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

Boston, July 19.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 10 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

If the bull crowd had had cash and confidence this morning they might have opened the stock market with something of a rally. There was some short covering late yesterday afternoon, but the market in certain specialties is still largely oversold. Furthermore prices in London show an improvement, and as they are above those on this side there was an appreciable number of orders to buy in the hands of brokers here.

The New York representative of Crowe Liebenstadt & Co., too, has been authorized to deny in toto that that house is in trouble. Rumor has it, however, that the firm has disposed of between 20,000 and 40,000 shares of stock during the past week, but liquidation from that source is now well over.

In any event London was not the bear factor that it was yesterday. But despite it, and because the bull operators lacked one or both of the requisites above noted, the Omaha, Cordmack and Wall crowd opened still in command. The new series of failures in the West and the recent decline in railway earnings were used to disturb and perplex.

The local market reflected these conditions. Irregular attempts to cover led to rallies, but as soon as these ceased all support was gone. Atchison showed a little improvement, opening at [illegible] but sold off [illegible] subsequently, while Burlington and Quincy was [illegible] up at 7[illegible] at the opening, sold down then to 7[illegible] and rallied to 77¾. Union Pacific opened [illegible] weaker at [illegible]. New York and New England declined [illegible] to [illegible] and West End railway [illegible] to [illegible]. General Electric is still a special object of attack, opening [illegible] down to [illegible], then [illegible] to [illegible], but strengthened to 54[illegible]. Sugar started off 1[illegible] at 77, dropped to 76[illegible] and rallied to 76[illegible], while the preferred sold 1[illegible] down to 7[illegible].

The bond market opened dull.

DEPUTIES CHEERED.

Statements of Foreign Minister M. Develle.

ENGLAND MUST REMAIN NEUTRAL.

This Is What Roseberry Promised in Siam Affairs.

[illegible] July 19.—Beside referring to the [illegible] murder, the Khone islands incident, and the bombardment of Bangkok, M. Develle, minister of foreign affairs, in the chamber of deputies yesterday spoke at some length concerning Great Britain's part in the difficulty. To fulfil his promise of a complete explanation, which he took great pleasure in giving, he said, he must answer the accusation that he had acted humbly toward England.

Now, the fact was that both the Earl of Roseberry, British foreign secretary, and the Marquis of Dufferin, British ambassador in Paris, had given positive assurances that England would not interfere in Siam. The statements of Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the British foreign office, in the house of commons Monday, had, therefore, greatly surprised the government. The remarks made by him as to to Siamese waters were regarded by the ministry as quite irreconcilable with the promises mentioned.

Baron d'Estournelles, French charge d'affaires in London, had visited the Earl of Roseberry, therefore, to express the intense surprise felt by the French government in view of Sir Edward Grey's declaration. The Earl of Roseberry had replied that Sir Edward's words had been misinterpreted, as the mission of the British gunboats already in Siamese waters, as well as of those that might be sent thither later, would be merely to protect British subjects in Siam, and not to back Siam in her quarrel with France.

M. Develle's statement of the government's attitude was applauded loudly by the deputies. When he referred to the performance of the gunboats Cometa and Inconstante in crossing the bar of the Menam river, he was answered with shouts of "They did well," "That was their duty," etc. As M. Develle left the speaker's tribune the deputies cheered and applauded.

A dispatch published by the Paris Soir yesterday to the effect that M Develle, the French foreign minister, had telegraphed to M. Pavie, French minister resident in Bangkok, the terms of an ultimatum that the minister resident is to present immediately to the Siamese government is confirmed today. According to the ultimatum only 24 hours are given for Siam to make answer to the French demands.

Figaro says that the French ultimatum sent to Siam demands that the Siamese evacuate the left bank of the Mekong river.

It also demands that guarantees be given by the Siamese government for the faithful performance of its treaty obligations and that indemnity be paid for the outrages perpetrated by the Siamese upon the French.

The French are already in possession of the lower Mekong river, and now made upon her the river will be made almost entirely French.

It was but a short time ago that the river was acknowledged to be a considerable distance to the westward of the French sphere of influence in Annam.

A mountain range lies a long distance to the eastward of the Mekong river, and the French claimed no jurisdiction to the westward of this range.

Recently France claimed the entire watershed to the westward of the mountains to the river, and now she demands that the Siamese evacuate the western bank, which if they do, will place both banks of the river for the greater part of its length in possession of the French.

The reply of Foreign Minister Develle to the interpellation of M. Dreyfus in the chamber of deputies yesterday, explaining the position of France in the dispute with Siam is considered a master stroke of policy.

It not only secured a unanimous vote of confidence in the government, but has evoked unanimous praise from the press.

WILLIAM IS JOYFUL.

Congratulating Caprivi on the Passage of the Army Bill.

BERLIN, July [illegible].—The text of the emperor's message [illegible] Chancellor von Caprivi is as follows:

My Dear Chancellor, I greet with joyful satisfaction the successful passage of your measure to [illegible] the army. These measures guarantee not only the safety of the empire but also the peaceful development of internal affairs. [illegible] the large class of the nation who patriotically supported these measures and to the majority of its representatives in parliament you merit the most credit at the time as you have consummated the work with technical ability, statesmanlike judgment and strenuous devotion—qualities displayed by you at every stage of the proceedings. In their estimable [illegible] services I know myself [illegible] with my exalted allies. It is [illegible] me to express to you my [illegible] and fullest gratitude [illegible] that your invaluable [illegible] reserved to me and [illegible] affectionate WILLIAM.

SEVERAL WERE KILLED.

Result of Attack on an Indiana Saloon by Desperadoes.

WHITING, Ind., July 19.—A long series of [illegible] culminated last night in an attack on the saloon of William Timm by an organized band of desperadoes. The place is [illegible] mile from Roby.

The gang entered the barroom in a body and called for liquor. Timm, the proprietor, turned to wait on them, and was struck in the mouth by a revolver. This was the signal for the shooting. A man called "Butch," one of the intruders, fell dead, shot by his own companions. The nephew of the proprietor received a bullet in the abdomen while entering the door.

Terrified by the death of "Butch," the thugs fled, but their leader, a young desperado named Gallagher, returned to the attack and wounded a bystander, when he was shot by Timm, and died shortly after. The other three desperadoes were badly wounded.

Burglars Made a Good Haul at Wellesley Farms.

BOSTON, July 19.—Shortly before 12 o'clock last night the residence of H. J. Jacquith, president of the [illegible] this city [illegible] Wellesley Farms [illegible] through [illegible]. The thieves [illegible] the [illegible] cured considerable valuable property, the whole [illegible] two gold watches, various articles of jewelry and a number of pieces of solid silver.

The job was professional apparently in every detail, and the tour of the premises was evidently conducted by a cool customer, prepared to meet almost any emergency. Mr. Jacquith's trousers were even rifled, and the stud and sleeve buttons taken from his shirt.

It is supposed that the same visitors went to R. Williams' house, securing there some silver and a small sum of money.

OUTLOOK FAVORABLE.

Secretary of Agriculture Says We Will Have Abundant Harvest.

NEW YORK, July 19.—J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture, spent yesterday in New York, and started last evening for Detroit. He spoke of the general condition of the crops throughout the country and said there was every indication of an abundant harvest. Corn, hay and oats, he thought, would be produced in unusually large quantities, and large supplies of these productions would be shipped to foreign countries.

The secretary said that his department at present was trying to compile accurate statistics of the production and consumption of beef in the United States. On no meat, he thought, had the feeder lost so heavily in the last year as on beef. This, he thought, was due in part to the increase in the consumption of pork.

BARBAROUS WARFARE.

Revolutionists Shoot All Prisoners Taken Near Rio Grand do Sul.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Herald's Valparaiso correspondent cables: Vigorous fighting is reported to be in progress in Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil.

General Saraiva, in command of the revolutionists, pushed forward toward Yaguaron.

The advance posts occupied by government troops were taken. All prisoners captured were shot by the revolutionists.

Efforts of the insurgents at Santa Anne were unsuccessful. The Castilistas forces charged upon the revolutionists and drove them back. Seven men were killed. The revolutionists met with a further reverse by the seizure of arms intended for them by the Uruguayan authorities at Montevideo.

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARED.

Lima Business Man Has Been Missing For Over a Week.

LIMA, O., July 19.—E. L. Guss, a prominent insurance and loan agent, is mysteriously absent, and there are many stories afloat to the effect that he has gone wrong or been foully dealt with. He left here for Chicago several weeks ago, where he was to obtain some some money to place in strengthening up some business matters at Hartford, Conn.

His wife received a letter from him about a week ago, dated New York, in which he stated that he was going from there to Hartford, but telegrams to that city have failed to reach him, and the New York letter is the last tidings of him.

Purified the Place by Fire.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 19.—Deputy Sheriff Fred W. Gould of Hillsboro' Bridge brought Carlos C. Childs of Weare to this city today and lodged him in jail on the charge of arson. It is alleged that Childs visited a house of unsavory repute in Deering and was thrown out by the inmates. He vowed vengeance and a few moments afterward the building was discovered to be in flames and before they could be subdued it had burned to the ground.

Driving Out Insurance Companies.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 19.—Suits will be instituted shortly by a firm in this city to shut out from doing business in Nebraska some 40 insurance companies, on the ground that they have formed a trust for the purpose of maintaining inequitable and exorbitant rates, to avoid compliance with the valued policy law and to stand by one another in refusing full payments of losses in cases where, by technical avoidance, they can do so.

How English Look at Us.

LONDON, July 19.—In a letter on the fall of American railway securities, the Financial News says: We decline to believe that the depreciation is justified by the condition of American railways. It is due, rather, to the overloaded state of the speculators here and the utter inability of Americans to support their own stocks.

Another Kansas Bank Gone.

ARMOURDALE, Kan., July 19.—The Citizens' bank suspended payment yesterday, with assets of $151,300 and liabilities of $138,000. State Bank Commissioner Breidenthal took possession of the bank. Among the heavy creditors of the bank is the county of Wyandotte, which had on deposit some $40,000 of its funds.

Yellow Fever Death.

LEWES, Del., July 19.—The American bark Alice Reed, from Cienfuegos with sugar, arrived at the Delaware Breakwater last night. Both mates had yellow fever on the passage. One died and was buried at sea. The vessel is quarantined and will be fumigated.

Indian Soldiers Dismissed.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 19.—By special order of the war department all the Indians enlisted as soldiers at Fort Reno have been dismissed from the service.

Order of Equity Receiver.

BOSTON, July 19.—M. Sumner Myrick the lawyer, today was appointed receiver of the United Order of Equity, by Judge Aldrich in the equity session of the superior court. The assets amount to about $30,000, consisting principally of securities deposited with the state treasurer.

Rain Breaks the Drouth.

DALLAS, TEX., July 19.—The drought which extended over an area of 40,00 square miles in western Texas, was broken yesterday by good rains.

ALIENS IN PARIS.

The 60,000 Belgians are mostly day laborers, hatters and domestic servants.

The 14,000 Englishmen are in domestic service, mostly as coachmen and grooms.

The 25,000 Swiss are nearly all journeymen butchers, clockmakers, hotel waiters, painters and glaziers.

The Russians, 12,000 in number, are grouped around the [illegible] districts and in the Val de Grace quarter, and are either tanners, [illegible] or students.

Nearly all the laborers employed at the Metropolitan gas works and slaughter houses, as well as by the city sewer department, are of foreign nationality.

The 40,000 Germans are to be found chiefly among the liquor dealers, hotel keepers and clerks of merchants and bankers. Their headquarters are in the Faubourg Montmartre.

The Italians, who are quite as numerous as the Germans, affect the districts around the Jardin des Plantes and the St. Victor quarter. They are, as a rule, plumbers, glaziers, street musicians and artists' models.

The American contingent of foreign residents numbers about 4,000 and is mostly settled in the neighborhood of the Arc de Triomphe. They may be described as the most aristocratic portion of the foreign colony.—Boston Globe.

SUPPOSED BURGLAR.

Abram Mills Shot In the Breast at Lawrence.

GATES HALL WAS HIS ASSAILANT

Mills Was Trying to Get to His Room Quietly by Means of a Ladder.

LAWRENCE, Mass. July 19.—The police circles were stirred with excitement during the early hours of this morning over a shooting affair which took place sometime after midnight last night.

The victim is Abram Mills, and he now lies at the general hospital suffering from a bullet wound in his left breast, the result of the hasty discharge of a revolver in the hands of Gates Hall.

The circumstances attending the shooting and the proceedings that followed are of rather a peculiar nature.

Between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock this morning the body of a man was found lying face downward in Morton street, not far from engine 4's quarters. An inquiry as to what he was doing there brought the reply in stifled tones:

"I Am Shot."

An investigation proved such to be the fact. The police were notified, and the wounded man was taken to the general hospital.

First, however, he was able to tell that his name was Abram Mills, and that he had been shot at 22 Margin street by a man named Hall.

The police hastened to that place, and upon arriving there the blinds of a window of the second story were thrown open and a man's head appeared.

He seemed to be excited and warned the officers not to enter the yard.

"Why don't you fire on them," said a feminine voice at his rear, and the police were quite certain that they had

The Assailant at Bay.

This proved not to be the case, however, for after over two hours of watching outside the police gained admittance to the house, and Hall was found sitting on a lounge in the lower tenement.

He denied having been up stairs at all. He was placed under arrest and taken to the police station.

At the hospital Dr. Flanders probed for the bullet in Mills' breast, but was unable to locate it. It is feared that the leaden missile is lodged in his lung.

At the hospital Mills was questioned regarding the affair. He said he had been boarding with the family of James Crabtree, who occupy the tenement above Hall. About a month ago he left town to visit friends elsewhere and did not return until late last night.

Finding a screen in one of the windows he planned to remove it by means of a ladder and go to his room quietly without disturbing the household. He was on the ladder when his presence was discovered by the Hall family.

He then came down, and despite the fact that Mills told who he was,

Hall Fired Upon Him.

The injured man then wandered to the locality where he was found, a quarter of a mile distant.

The assailant told the police that he did not know he had shot Mills, and said he had supposed the visitor was a burglar. The weapon used was a 32 caliber, and is now in the possession of the police. Hall is 50 years of age and a carpenter by occupation.

Hall was arraigned in court before Judge Stone this morning upon a complaint charging him with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon upon Mills.

"I haven't anything to say," was his reply when called upon to plead to the charge.

A plea of not guilty was entered, and owing to the fact that Mills was unable to appear in court on account of his injuries, the case was continued 10 days.

Hall was fixed at $500, and was furnished by C. A. Church.

RAILROAD DEALS.

Illinois Central Takes Possession of Pacific Short Line.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., July 19.—It is said on tolerably reliable authority that the Illinois Central has closed a deal whereby it takes possession of the Pacific Short line, including the incomplete bridge across the Missouri river at this point.

President Fisher was here a few days ago, and is said to have relieved the Garretson combine of its lease at that time. The Journal gives it as the statement of an official of the road that the Short Line will be extended to Ogden with probably a stub into the Black hills within the next two years.

"I won't!" growled Mr. Grump, who hung to a strap near the door.

"Oh, you needn't! I asked only the gentlemen."—Truth.

HAUNTING EYES.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor is very fond of white for dresses.

Miss Fawcett, the young English woman of recent "above the senior wrangler" fame, has adopted the profession of electrical engineer.

Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt always drives out every morning about 10 o'clock. She is not much given to that feminine diversion, "shopping."

Mrs. August Belmont, Jr., has a profusion of large and costly pearls. A ribbon of diamonds at least an inch wide for the neck and a string of pearls are her favorites.

Perhaps the best authority on theosophy among Washington women is Mrs. Effie Boome Osborn, who is state regent of Illinois for the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. C. T. Yerkes, wife of the Chicago millionaire who is building a palace on upper Fifth avenue, New York, is very blond, very gracious and very picturesque as regards her dress.

Mrs. Cleveland does not interfere in any way with the letters that are addressed to her, and most of them she does not even see. Most of the women of this administration have adopted the same rule.

Mrs. Sophie Wanzer of Sheboygan has grown rich by a peculiar industry. She built a gas works several years ago and sold it to the town at a great advance. Now she is building the village waterworks.

Mrs. Susannah Chadwick of Emporium, Pa., is a Revolutionary pensioner and receives $8 per month. She is 74 years of age and the daughter of Lieutenant Elihu Chadwick, who served in the New Jersey militia.

Donna Maria y Pilor, daughter of the Duke of Veragua, is about 18, wears an American looking straw hat over a pair of uncommonly pretty bright eyes, and altogether manages to make an extremely agreeable impression in a quiet way.

Miss Florrie Bryan, a young English woman, has forsaken Christianity and married the maharajah of Patiala in India. She was received as a member of the Sikh religious community just before the marriage, which was celebrated according to Sikh rites.

Miss Louise Morris is now generally conceded to be the most beautiful girl in New York, is tall, exquisitely but not insipidly fair, with a skin of silk and cream, big blue eyes, a perfect brow and mouth, a nose just irregular enough to impart character to her face and the bonniest brown hair imaginable.

THE PROPER CAPER.

Butter colored and deep ecru laces outrival the pure white laces in popularity as trimmings for dressy summer gowns.

Beige colored crepon trimmed with guipure lace and a girdle of two or three bands of satin ribbon is a favorite dress this season.

The handsome English crepes manufactured wholly without dressing are soft, lustrous and entirely unlike the stiff, wiry crepes of former times.

Gay little Eton, Spanish and mess jackets are sold for garnishing summer silk and fine wool dresses. All black jackets are of rich cut jet or black cord dotted with jet beads.

A pretty new fabric resembling Oxford shirting is shot so that in any color—pink, blue, mauve, yellow, etc.—there is a shade of white. This is used for entire dresses, or it is made into blouses, Eton jackets and vests.

All shades of green appear this season in greater variety than ever. Some of the new tints are exquisitely delicate and beautiful, and novel combinations of green with certain shades of blue, brown, rose, yellow and Venetian red are seen in Paris gowns.

White leghorn hats turned up in the back, piped on the under edge of the brim with dark green velvet and trimmed with ecru guipure lace, maidenhair fern in shaded velvet and sprays of apple blossoms, mauve orchids or pink gladiolus blooms, are pretty for morning or afternoon wear in the country.—New York Evening Post.

QUAINT FOOTGEAR.

Most shepherds wear sandals of goatskin, as in Rameses' day. Sometimes, when worn by women, they are quite neat.

Asian peasants still wear the sandals of old, sometimes tied on, sometimes only held in place by a knob or peg between the great and second toes.

German, French and Dutch peasants wear wooden shoes. Those at Scheveningen are painted white. Occasionally a pair of wooden shoes are ornamented with carving. Wooden shoes are still worn by the habitants of lower Canada.

In Lancashire and Yorkshire shoes for both sexes are soled with heavy, square hobnails, whose clatter in the morning is almost intolerable. The men's shoes have a curious spadelike prolongation at the toe not seen in southern England.

The most comfortable shoe known is a modification of the Indian moccasin, without beads or fringe and almost heelless. This kind of shoe is much worn by hunters and guides, even of the white race, and is always called by its Indian name.—New York Recorder.

WHITE CITY WAIFS.

The horse and cattle exhibits at the World's fair will begin on Monday, Aug. 21, and end on Thursday, Sept. 21.

An American traveling in the Sahara recently wrote to one of the Chicago newspapers saying that he had found a bird's-eye view of the Columbian exposition hung up in an Arab tent on the edge of the desert.

The original pipe of the Indian chief Powhatan, which is among the relics in Virginia's World's fair exhibit, is the property of Mrs. Sallie Harrison Reid of Henry county, and its authenticity is well vouched for.

ANNALS OF THE LAW.

B. C. 1807—The first Attic laws, so far as known, were those of Phoroneus in the kingdom of Argos.

B. C. 1556—Cecrops is said to have established the areopagus at Athens, an irregular popular tribunal. It is said to have heard causes in the dark, as judges should be blind to all but the facts.

B. C. 1491—The Jewish code of laws was promulgated by Moses to the people of his nation.

B. C. 1490—The Jewish council of the highest jurisdiction, the sanhedrim, is usually considered to have been established by Moses.

B. C. 1179—A court of Ephetae was established by Demophoon of Athens for the trial of murder cases.

B. C. 884—The laws of Lycurgus were made. They remained in force for 700 years and formed a people of stern military character entirely different in many respects from any other nation before or since.

B. C. 623—The code of Phoroneus was reduced to writing in a regular system by Draco for the benefit of the Athenians. This was known as the "Bloody Code," as it prescribed death for even minor offenses, such as larceny and drunkenness.

B. C. 594—The powers of the court of areopagus greatly enlarged by the code of Solon.

MARTYRS TO HEADACHES.

The Experience of Miss Louise Lincoln Tucker, a Boston Saleswoman.

The women who are martyrs to sick headaches are numbered by thousands, and among the victims none suffer more than the employes in stores and shops, says The Lynn Sunday News.

Their work is confining, the hours are long, and the surroundings are often such as to aggravate any tendency to headaches.

The experience of one of the best known clerks in Chandler & Co.'s large store on Winter street, Boston, is worthy the attention of all similarly situated.

Miss Louise Lincoln Tucker has been employed in this establishment for the past four years, and during that time, as for years before, she has suffered with sick headaches to such an extent as to compel her many times to leave her business and return to her home in West Roxbury.

So violent have these attacks been that she has often been unable to walk from the store to the depot, and has been compelled to call a carriage.

This succession of tortures continued until last March, when Miss Tucker's attention was attracted by the story of another woman's experiences, published in a Boston paper.

She had spent large amounts of money on physicians, who had been unable to relieve her sufferings. She decided to try the merits of the highly extolled Paine's celery compound.

She took it without the knowledge of her family or friends.

But the change in her appearance soon attracted the attention of the members of her family and her business associates, and, thoroughly convinced, she one day told how Paine's celery compound had wrought for her the cure which physicians had been unable to accomplish.

For the first time in the years of her employment she had gone through an entire month without a return of the attacks, and not only a relief but an absolute cure has been effected by the compound.

So grateful is Miss Tucker for the cure in her case, that she is willing to let all who suffer as she did, know of the only remedy she ever found. jy20d

Mrs. W. P. Myers of this city is spending a few days with New London friends.

The holiness meeting will be held at 3 p. m., today, led by the Rev. H. N. Brown.

The work of concreting the new Laurel Hill bridge was finished yesterday afternoon.

The new Clay building, next below the Chandler property near Sunnyside is staked out.

Miss Hattie B. Gallup and party of Groton friends have been heard from from Indianapolis.

The Misses Kate and Lucy Landon are visiting with relatives on the shores of Lake Champlain.

J. E. Bentley was appointed postmaster at North Stonington Wednesday, vice W. H. Hillards.

The Neptune Hose company's nine defeated the Norwich Town team by a score of 9 to 3, Wednesday.

A number of Norwich people took the noon train for Kitemaug Wednesday, returning in the evening.

The annual meeting of the Opthalmological society was held at the Fort Griswold house, Wednesday

The annual collection of the local Catholic churches this year is much larger than was that of last season.

Mrs. Everet Chandler and sister, Josie Mitchell, of Franklin street, are spending a few weeks with relatives in Providence.

Yaeger's orchestra has been engaged to furnish dance music at the Mystic Island pavilion during the remainder of the season.

Westerly excursionists thronged the city Wednesday. The trip was the second of a series given by the Hancock Woman's Relief Corps.

Mr. Archibald Mitchell has opened his summer cottage on Fishers Island and his family will occupy it for the remainder of the season.

The 12.30 train for New London Wednesday made the distance of thirteen and a half miles in 26.30; allowing two minutes' stop at stations.

The skillful manner in which the Southern New England Telephone company plants the new 60 foot poles about town commands universal admiration.

Charles William Hillstrea, a student of the Connecticut Literary institute, lectured on Temperance in the Gospel Temperance Union hall on water street last night.

The condition of ex-Consul John A. Tibbits of New London was unchanged at a late hour last night. He was in a comatose state and the end was not far distant.

A delegation of Willimantic 'cyclers will wheel to this city Sunday, and take the Ella to Watch Hill. Local riders will meet them at Yantic, and form an escort into town.

Capt. C. E. P. Noyes of Latimer Reef lighthouse claims to be the first American to salute the Viking ship, which was again hailed while passing the Ram Island Reef lightship before entering New London harbor.

About sixty fresh air children have arrived at Plainfield under the care of Mr. Bishop, and forty or fifty more are expected for a two weeks' stay this week.

It is understood that the Southern New England Telephone company, the Electric Light company and the Street Railway company will utilize the same poles for their wires along Laurel Hill avenue.

The street railway tracks have been laid on the West Side to the Thames street watering trough. A stretch of five hundred feet at the foot of the hill will require the potent breath of powder to perforate.

C. P. Butler and F. P. Tyler of New Haven will go to New London and Groton today with the intention of working up two new councils of the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

Thomas Caproe, engineer on the Stonington division of the Consolidated road, is one of the oldest engineers in continuous service in the country, having now started on his forty-first year of duty.

The Hartford police officers have been instructed not to talk while on duty, and The Times irreverently remarks: "Hereafter it will always be safe to ask a policeman to drink. He won't dare to say yes."

Several lower North Main street young men apparently derived huge pleasure Wednesday afternoon in fighting their dogs. A repetition of the offence will result in the prosecution of the parties concerned.

Miss Lizzie and Clara Smith of Norwich Town left Monday evening for Philadelphia. Thursday evening Miss Lizzie Smith, accompanied by her cousin, leaves for the World's fair to spend the month of August.

The bank book of Theodore Lehman, who was robbed while asleep Tuesday night, was found by a boy on West Main street Wednesday morning and restored to the owner at police headquarters. The thief has not yet been apprehended.

At a special meeting of the Rose of New England Wheel club Wednesday night, it was voted to give a moonlight excursion on the steamer Block Island, next week Thursday. The riders propose to make the affair a huge success.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Second Congregational church, has decided to discontinue its regular Monday evening meetings until August 31. The congregation and Young People's society of the Greeneville church are holding union meetings during the summer.

Recent statistics seem to prove that residents of Essex are unusually long lived. The united ages of three of the oldest inhabitants is 276 years. There are about a hundred people in town between seventy and eighty, fifty between eighty and ninety, and two over ninety.

Jas. Raleigh, a fireman on the New London Northern railroad, met with a painful accident Wednesday noon. While turning an engine on the turntable at the union station he caught his right forefinger between the turntable lever and a car on the switch, badly jamming the member.

The New London electric street cars ran into Ocean Beach park for the first time Wednesday afternoon. The park commissioners had in anticipation of the completion of the extension built a broad board walk from the car terminus to the walk along the beach and a walk has also been built leading up to the boys' bath house.

The Crescent beach correspondent of The Hartford Times writes: Fishing parties are on the increase. The latest to report good luck is that of Dr. Herr and party, who, during a short excursion last week, captured 143, mostly bass; some black fish and flounders. The party were under the guidance of Captain Clark, a veteran of these waters.

A number of swimmers in the Yantic river near the elevator building Wednesday evening attracted a crowd of observers. One young man named Brock leaped from the top of the coal sheds north of Asael Clark's brickyard into the middle of the stream, and later sprang backward off the wharf in the rear of the Norwich Belt company's building.

The semi-annual meeting of the Past Grand Commanders' Association, Knights Templar, of Connecticut, will be held in in this city today. Dinner will be served in the Wauregan house, and the day will be spent in viewing the beauties of the Rose. P. St. M. Andrews of this city was the first president of the association. The other Norwich members are Charles W. Carter and Costello Lippitt. Judge Carter is president of the association for 1893.

Farmers in all parts of the surrounding country are much troubled with a scarcity of help. Hay is a good crop this year but needs to be housed or stacked now. Notwithstanding that every city and town is overrun with unemployed men, men who have no prospect of employment at their usual vocation, it is impossible for farmers to get enough help to gather their crops. There is a fascination about waiting on the sidewalk for a job that many men cannot resist.

Amos Frederick Towne, fifty years old, about five feet ten inches in height, erect and well formed, short gray hair, sandy mustache, full blue eyes, very gentlemanly in speech and manner, has for some time been soliciting funds throughout the state for the Whipple Home school for the deaf at Mystic. He is usually accompanied by a dwarf, John Runyan, aged twenty-four, who was formerly a pupil at the school. Towne is a fraud and the Charity Organization society of Hartford has been asked by the school to warn people against him.

To New Haven by Wheel.

Wednesday morning Harry E. Comstock of the Rose of New England Wheel club left Norwich for a ride to New Haven and back on his wheel. He reached New London about noon, took a spin around the streets, meeting several of the Pequot riders, and then continued on his run westward. The roads along the coast are reported to be in good condition. The round trip is about one hundred miles, and Mr. Comstock expects to be absent about a week.

Riding in the Black Maria.

A Norwich police official, while in New York recently, accepted an invitation from Superintendent Byrnes of the Metropolitan police to visit the Tombs, the city prison. Mr. Byrnes and a companion left the office by one door and the visitor by another. The former stepped into a hack to be driven to the prison, and the Norwich man got into another and was whirled away. When he reached the prison and alighted he was immediately apprised of a ludicrous mistake. He had been riding in the "Black Maria," the coach used to convey prisoners to the Tombs.

City Court—Kellogg, Judge.

James Mitchell was in the city court for drunkenness Wednesday morning. He was found guilty and fined $1 and costs, amounting to $8.88. Mitchell was committed.

"Meechy" Brewer was charged with stealing a gold ring. His case was continued until Friday, and bonds were fixed at $100. Brewer could not obtain a bondsman and was committed to await trial.

Harriet Davis of the West Side was called upon to answer to a charge of assaulting Reuben Miller, a Russian Jew, who occupies a tenement in the house with herself. The case was continued until Friday morning.

In Collision with a Barge.

While the steamer City of New York was passing under the East River bridge on her east bound trip Wednesday night she came into collision with a Standard Oil Co. barge and stove a large hole in her bow above the water line. The New York came through to New London all right, arriving about 3.30 a. m. this morning. No one was injured. The blame for the accident lies wholly with the tug towing the barge, as she was sent across the steamer's bow when there was not a ghost of a chance for her to clear the New York with her tow.

People's Excursion to Newport.

The steamer City of Worcester will make her people's annual excursion to Newport tomorrow. The boat will leave New London at 10.00 a. m. Arrive at Newport 1.00 p. m.

Returning, leave Newport at 3.30 p. m., connecting with train leaving New London on arrival of steamer.

Excursionists from Norwich can take the steamer Block Island, leaving Norwich at 8.15 a. m., or train from union station at 9.15 a. m.

SEC. HERBERT AT NEW LONDON.

Arrives Aboard the Dolphin and Inspects the Naval Station.

United States steamer Dolphin, with Secretary of Navy Herbert on board, steamed up into New London harbor at 9.30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Her trip from the Brooklyn navy yard was uneventful and without any mishaps. As the long draw opened for the beautiful craft to pass the Consolidated road's bridge, the secretary appeared on deck and took in the beautiful scenery that both sides of the Thames affords.

The Dolphin made no stop at New London, but, business-like, pushed her prow at a fourteen-knot speed up to the naval station, where the secretary was met by Commodore Belden, in full uniform of his rank. The usual salutes were fired and the Dolphin came to anchor a short distance above the naval station.

Secretary Herbert inspected the buildings and grounds, going into the matter thoroughly in detail, after which he held a conversation with the commandant of the station regarding the availability of the deep and comparatively fresh water as a rendezvous for warships not in commission.

The secretary's stay was brief, for at 11 o'clock the parting salutes were fired. At 11.30 the natty white steamer turned her prow toward the Pequot, where Secretary Herbert landed and was entertained at dinner by Col. and Mrs. A. C. Tyler.

TAFTVILLE.

Mr. George Sylvia of Waltham, Mass., is visiting friends in this place.

Miss Rose Fountain is visiting relatives in Canada.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Crescent Social club was held last evening in their rooms, and all reports read were accepted.

The recent report that Miss Alice Beardman, who is visiting friends in Fall River, had met with a serious accident while out riding is untrue.

Last Friday John P. Meech was prostrated by a shock of paralysis which ended seriously, and Saturday he was taken to the almshouse where he died Tuesday evening. Mr. Meech has been in the Ponemah boarding house for the past ten years, and gained many friends by his courtesy and good nature. Mr. Meech was 70 years old, and the last member of the family.

A MOST PROFOUND SENSATION.

The Connecticut School Fund Defrauded by Agent Gunn

SHARP TACTICS.

How Gunn Operated to Deceive Home Office and His Victims.

LIMA, Ohio, July 20.—The shortage of E. L. Gunn, the insurance and loan agent of the Connecticut school fund, whose flight from the city was announced in The Enquirer, has up to this time reached $30,000; and each day's absence increases the amount.

The affair is one of the largest of the kind that has ever happened in this part of the state, and has caused a great sensation, as Gunn is known all over the state, being quite prominent in religious as well as business circles. His flight, therefore, is all the more a surprise.

Lately Gunn's business in the loaning of money has been principally with the Connecticut school fund of Hartford, and he has more than $200,000 loaned in this (Allen) county alone, and much more than that in adjoining counties; and his victims will no doubt turn up in other places beside Lima.

Gunn came here about six years ago and engaged in the loan and insurance business, acting in the former as agent for the Gunn Loan and Investment company of Fort Scott, Kansas; his uncle, a man of considerable wealth, being at the head of the company. Several years ago he left that company, and up to the time of his hurried departure was loaning money for the Connecticut people.

Seldom has an entire stranger so completely gained the confidence of the people as he did. He was a "clever fellow," a "hustler" in his business; but, it seems, a very poor manager. He has been instrumental in some large loans being made in this county, both for Connecticut people and others. His business for the former amounts to over a couple of hundred thousand dollars.

The affairs of the insurance department are in good shape. T. J. Wilkins has looked after that part of the business, and that is in a healthy and flourishing condition. But the loan branch is very badly tangled. His brother, it has been learned, was here a week or ten days ago, making an effort to straighten out his affairs and place him on his feet, but he failed.

The Connecticut school fund seems to have had implicit confidence in Gunn, and in addition to allowing him to make the loans and handle their money, they also gave him the privilege of collecting the interest on their loans. It is in this manner that he "got in his work," to a large degree. In collecting the interest he would hold the amount out, instead of forwarding it, and having the payer's receipt returned to him.

This manner of conducting business has just cropped out since his leaving the city. It is in that manner alone he is said to have secured an immense sum, as the interest collected by him would run from $14,000 to $20,000 a year, and he has been doing work for them for the past four years.

Gunn stood so well in the community that anything dishonest in him was not suspected or even hinted at, and he was the last man in the world who would be expected to do a dishonest act.

For several days prior to his disappearance, stories cropped out that he was short with the company, and that was added to by the appearance in the city of his brother from Fort Scott, who made an effort to help him out; but he was deeply involved.

When he received money from the School Fund to cancel what mortgages there might be upon the property they wished to make a loan upon, he would receive the money, but instead of cancelling the mortgage, as was intended, he would convert the amount to his own use in an effort to help him out of the hole. These amounts ranged from $1,000 to $4,000.

Nothing has been heard from him, and the family profess to know nothing of his whereabouts. Some people are of the opinion that he is in California, but it is safe to say that wherever he is he is well supplied with money.

It is probable that an effort will be made to run Gunn down and bring him to justice.

AMOSKEAG COTTON MILL.

The Proposed Closing Down of the Plant Overestimated.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Evening Post says: The effect of the proposed closing of the large Amoskeag cotton mill plant in Manchester, N. H., during the month of August, it is asserted, has been generally overestimated. This at all events is the view of many of the leading cotton merchants of this city.

It is regarded as probable that many other mills in New England, such as the Manchester mills, the Pembroke, Webster and China mills and the York Manufacturing company of Saco, will shut down, but nevertheless the situation is not considered an alarming one by the New England merchants.

One who combines cotton with banking trading said today: "The closing of the Amoskeag mills will undoubtedly be followed by the closing of other large manufacturing concerns in New England and perhaps New York. It will be done as a precautionary measure to prevent a large accumulation of goods during the autumn. There is already a large accumulation of ginghams which will be forced down in price if the production continued at the present rate. A large proportion of these are goods for the spring trade. In view of the present financial disasters it is hardly to be expected that the country will have quite recovered from the drain by spring, so that trade then will probably be anything but brisk. In view of a smaller demand, therefore, it is but natural that the mills should diminish their output accordingly."

A. J. DREXEL'S WILL.

Admitted to Probate—Estate Estimated at $25,000,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 20.—The will of Anthony J. Drexel was admitted to probate today. The estate is estimated at $25,000,000 and $30,000,000. The executors include George W. Childs and John Lowber Welsh. The executors are authorized to arrange for keeping up the banking business of Drexel, Morgan & Co., to support the Drexel institute. Over $6,000,000 is bequeathed to grandchildren. The greater portion of the estate is to be invested by the executors, who will hold the net income in trust for the surviving children, and the issue of those dead other than the daughter, Emily Biddle. The trustees shall retain a part of the estate during the life of the last surviving children and last surviving grandchildren and for twenty-one years thereafter. At the termination of the trust the estate is to be divided among the issue.

EVENTS ON THE TURF.

Sensational Trotting at Detroit—Three Records Broken.

DETROIT, Mich., July 20.—Today's races at the Detroit driving park were marked by sensational trotting, three track records being broken in as many races. Yesterday's unfinished 2:15 pace was decided in the ninth by Maggie R. The best time made in the race was by Wilson, who took the fourth heat in 2:12¼, thus breaking a record. The free for all trotters were then called out for the fourth heat of the scheduled. Continued race: Nightingale, Hamlin, won the race in the fifth heat; Nightingale, Anderson, came under the wire first in the record breaking time of 2:12. The judges have decided the heat in favor of Hamlin's Nightingale. Summaries:

THE WORCESTER RACES.

Fast Trotting Witnessed by a Delighted Crowd—The Summaries.

WORCESTER, Mass., July 21.—The fastest trotting ever seen in the half mile track on the fair grounds delighted a crowd of 1,600 people. Heats were fought in better than 2.30 and the trotting races, the 2.30 and the 2.35, the track record of 2.21¼, was equalled three times and beaten three times. Judge Austin in the first race established a new record of 2.20¼ in his second heat, but later in the day Harry C. took it to 2.20 in his second heat. It was a bad day for the favorites, only one out of three winning. He was Judge Austin in the 2.30 and he pulled out a victory in straight heats.

In the 2.35 trot Purity Wilkes was looked upon with favor, but she was not in trace with Harry C., who won in straight heats. The summaries:

An Elopement Mystery Solved.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 20. The mystery of the elopement of James T. Scribner, who has a wife in Brooklyn, with a Hartford woman, has been finally cleared up. The woman was Bertha Cragland, the divorced wife of John Ragona, who was at one time a supernumerary policeman. Mrs. Ragona secured a divorce from her husband about a year ago, on the grounds of cruelty, and later went to work at the Hotel Heublein as a chambermaid. It was there she met Scribner, who represented himself as a widower. They became engaged, and Scribner took out a marriage license on May 31. The marriage did not take place until June 21. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Parker.

On applying for the license Scribner swore that he was single. From the time the license was issued until it was presented to the clergyman, the figures representing the woman's age were changed from 33 to 30. The couple are now in Chicago.

A Phenomenal Find of Oil.

TOLEDO, O., July 20.—Intense excitement prevails in the little hamlet of Waterville, fifteen miles west of this city, over a phenomenal oil find. This territory was abandoned as worthless thirty years ago, but late indications induced a few old farmers and one or two oil speculators to lease all the territory possible. The work was conducted very secretly.

All at once several wells were opened almost simultaneously. Two wells are flowing 600 barrels a day. Several others are running 200 and 400. The secret was out, and oil men came flocking in on every train.

HUNTED BY IRATE CITIZENS.

Alleged Swindling Newspaper Publishers of Buffalo Wanted.

STARTED A REBUS SCHEME.

Distributed as Prizes Diamond Rings Worth About 80 Cents.

BUFFALO, July 20.—The office of Sunday Truth is decidedly the hottest place in Buffalo these days. Sidney G. Sherwood and Russell Osgoodby, until recently proprietors of the paper, are being hunted by irate citizens, but cannot be found. Sherwood and Osgoodby acquired control of Truth some six months ago. To make money and incidentally boom the circulation of the paper they started a rebus scheme. It was so simple that any one could solve it almost at a glance. The usual conditions were attached, that the person sending in the first correct answer with fifty cents and three months' subscription to the paper would receive a choice of pianos, watches, diamonds, etc. Other puzzles in rebus form followed one another and the money came in lively. It is said that in this fashion 35,000 names were added to the subscription list and some $20,000 in cash received. Four persons succeeded in getting prizes, but they were a great disappointment. No one got a piano or a gold watch, and the diamond rings were worth 80 cents. The deluded contestants made descents upon the office, and it became so hot that Sherwood and Osgoodby transferred the paper to Messrs. Kirkpatrick and Miller, who are now so besieged by the angry contestants that it is a matter of discussion whether they will continue the publication of Truth.

Messrs. Hausauer & Smith, the original proprietors, who hold heavy mortgages on the plant, say they will not publish the paper while it rests under its present stigma. The girls and printers employed by Sherwood & Osgoodby have not been paid, and creditors are busily looking for the rebus pair.

BASE BALL.

Boston 13, New York 5.

BOSTON, July 20.—The score of today's game is no criterion of its character. The Champions batted with the greatest luck, scratch hits being the order of the day. Every base on balls which they gained except one counted in the score. The Giants on the other hand hit Nichols a great deal harder than the score shows. Two-thirds of the hits to the outfielding on a line strangled at the fielders. Five hits, two of them scratch and three bases on balls, caused Rusie's retirement at the end of the first inning. Davis was hit hard only in the fourth inning. The fielding of Lowe, Duffy and McCarthy and the batting of George, Davis, Connor and Nash was the feature. Attendance, 4,128. Score:

Boston	7	0	0	1	2	0	3	0	0—13
New York	1	1	0	1	1	0	0	1	1—5

Philadelphia 3, Washington 1.

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—Philadelphia defeated Washington today in a well played game by good pitching and superior fielding. Attendance 2,182. Score:

Philadelphia	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	0—3

Hits, Philadelphia 15, Washington 6; errors, Philadelphia 1, Washington 2; batteries, Taylor and Clements; Maul and Farrell.

Baltimore 5, Brooklyn 2.

BROOKLYN, July 20.—The finest kind of fielding by Baltimore today prevented Brooklyn from winning. McGraw made a home run. Attendance 3,500. Score:

Baltimore	1	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	1—5
Brooklyn	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	0—2

Hits, Baltimore 2, Brooklyn 7; errors, Baltimore 3, Brooklyn 3; batteries, Lovett, Haddock and Kinslow; McMahon and Clarke.

Chicago 2, Pittsburg 9.

CHICAGO, July 20.—By fine fielding and excellent pitching Pittsburg won today's game. Score:

Chicago	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	0—2
Pittsburg	3	0	0	0	2	3	1	0	0—9

Hits, Chicago 12, Pittsburg 12; errors, Chicago 2, Pittsburg 0; batteries, McGuire and Schriver; Ehret and Sullivan.

Louisville 9, Cleveland 15.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20.—Louisville was defeated by Cleveland today in an amateurish game. The score:

Louisville	3	0	0	5	1	0	0	0	0—9
Cleveland	3	2	1	0	0	0	4	0	5—15

Hits, Louisville 14, Cleveland 18; errors, Louisville 4, Cleveland 3; batteries, Rhodes, Hemming and Grimes; Clarkson & O'Connor.

At Wilkesbarre:

Springfield	4	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	7—15
Wilkesbarre	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	3	0—4

At Binghamton:

BURGLARS AT FAIRFIELD.

They Enter the Post Office, but are Frightened Away.

BRIDGEPORT, July 20.—Early this morning burglars effected an entrance to the Fairfield post office, but were disturbed while at work by E. W. S. Pickett, in whose store the post office is located.

A burglar alarm connects Mr. Pickett's residence with the store. This morning at 2 o'clock the alarm rang, and Mr. Pickett quickly arose, dressed himself, and arming himself with a revolver, started for his store.

On approaching the post office he saw light inside and heard some one drilling at the safe. Pickett fired his revolver into the air several times in order to summon assistance.

The burglar quickly sprang through a window, joined his companion and both disappeared, leaving six bits and two small drills behind them. A hole quite deep was found in the safe and the burglar would have blown it open if he had a few minutes more time.

Liquor Raids—Mill Shut-Downs.

PUTNAM, July 20.—Officers Carver, Lodgdon and Corbin raided the places kept by Mal Ryan, Louis Chapdelaine, Peter St. George and Prim Prallicus, on Wednesday night at 10 o'clock. The officers secured a quantity of liquor and beer at each place. The law breakers were held in $200 bonds each for appearance for trial on Saturday.

The Willimantic base ball team will cross bats with the home team Saturday.

It is reported in Grosvenordale that the cotton mills are about to run only four days a week; also in North Grosvenordale.

It is rumored in Putnam that the cotton mills here will soon begin to run on short time.

Fatal Naphtha Explosion.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 20.—This afternoon a can of naphtha exploded in the sweat-band factory of J. D. Campbell, killing J. D. Campbell, Louis E. Campbell, his son, John Weis and Jacob Weiss. Matthew Derring was badly injured. Several of the employes escaped unhurt. The building, a two-story frame structure, was wrecked.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Three Persons Badly Injured at Winsted—Fatal Results Feared.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 10.—A serious runaway, in which three persons were badly injured, occurred on Main street in Winsted, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. George Maxfield of New Hartford was driving a carriage drawn by two horses and containing his wife and Mrs. Charles Maxfield. Mr. Maxfield was unable to control the horses and opposite Candy's bottling works, some distance up the street, they turned in toward the stone wall and both of the ladies were thrown out. The horses then went directly across the street and turned around and started back down the street. Mr. Maxfield succeeded in keeping his place in the carriage and had it not been for this fact the maddened animals would have run over both of the ladies, who lay in the street. Mr. Maxfield turned them to one side and was himself thrown out.

All three were removed to houses near by and doctors were summoned. It was found that Mr. Maxfield had two ribs broken, and one arm is broken above the wrist, while a dislocation and injury to his shoulder is also severe. It is also feared that he is injured internally. Mrs. George Maxfield's arm is broken and Mrs. Charles Maxfield's hand is badly mangled. The latter was taken to her house in New Hartford. The others are being cared for at the Winsted house.

After the horses had thrown Mr. Maxfield from the carriage they continued down the street and collided with three other teams, all of which were more or less damaged.

Dr. Swett of New Hartford went to Winsted and found that Mr. Maxfield had been more seriously injured than at first appeared. At 10 o'clock this afternoon he was very low and not expected to recover. His failure to rally is due, the doctor thinks, to severe internal injuries.

FROM MAST TO PULPIT.

Remarkable Conversion of a Nyack Pastor While a Sailor.

NYACK, July 20.—A singular fact was told by the Rev. Thomas Nichols of Milford, Pa., last night at the installation of the Rev. A. Pape as pastor of the German Presbyterian church. Mr Nichols said that Mr. Pape, after being educated in Germany, was twelve years a sailor. During a terrible storm at sea, which threatened the destruction of the vessel and all on board, Mr. Pape was sorely troubled over the sinfulness of his past life. While the storm was raging he went to his berth and, looking upward, saw this inscription on the wood: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live, and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die." This inscription changed the whole course of his life, and led to his conversion and determined him to enter the ministry.

He took several honors at Bloomfield Theological seminary, was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of New Jersey, was called to Nyack as the first charge, was fully ordained here yesterday and was last night installed.

Prof. Siebert of Bloomfield seminary preached the sermon, the Rev. D. F. B[illegible] of Florida, delivered the charge to the pastor and the Rev. F. Vallemeyer of Clarkstown, the charge to the people. The occasion was very impressive.

An Elopement at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 20.—Annie Ott, a pretty Swedish girl, whose home is at No. 105 Humphrey street, this city, has eloped with William Heck, a heavyweight lifter attached to one of the New York dime museums. They left Monday night and it is believed that they have gone to New York city and been married there.

It is said that Heck coerced Annie to elope by threatening to shoot her. She met Heck in New York a few days ago and he became infatuated with her. She came back to New Haven to avoid Heck, but he followed, with the above result. Annie is 18 years old. Her father is dead and her mother is an inmate of the Middletown insane asylum.

A Child Fatally Burned While Sleeping in a Baby Carriage.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 20.—While an infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hennessy of No. 142 Grove street was sleeping in a baby carriage behind the house, Wednesday afternoon, the carriage took fire. Mrs. Hennessy and some of the neighbors ran to the child's rescue and took it from the burning carriage. Dr. J. E. Root was called and assisted by Miss Ella Smith of the Danbury Training school for nurses, he alleviated the child's sufferings as much as possible.

The hands, face and neck were horribly burned and the little right hand was burned to a crisp. The child died in the evening.

How the carriage took fire is not known, but it is thought to have been caused by children playing with matches.

A Quebec Village Threatened by Fire.

ST ANNE DE LA PARADE, Que., July 20.—Fire broke out in a dwelling house here shortly after noon today and fanned by a strong wind spread to adjoining buildings with great rapidity. The whole village is now threatened.

No Cable Messages for Brazil.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Commercial Cable Telegraph Co. was advised this morning by the Eastern Telegraph Co. as follows: "Pernambuco says do not allow cable messages to pass for Brazil. Government more severe than ever."

Seized With Cramps and Drowned.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 20.—Charles Hughes, 11 years old, while bathing in the Blackstone river near Central Falls, this afternoon, was seized with cramps and drowned. Body was not recovered.

$150,000 Fire in a Michigan Village.

DETROIT, Mich., July 20.—A special says that the village of Ewin, Mich., was partially destroyed by fire this evening. Loss $150,000; partially insured. Several persons are missing.

Colored People of Asbury Park Indignant.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 20.—Preparations for the indignation meeting called by the colored people of this place, who own property and pay taxes, is going on at a rapid rate. The committee has secured noted speakers and will resent the attempt of Mr. Bradley to exclude them from the beach. The colored people claim that they have invested upwards of $150,000 in Asbury Park real estate and when they did so it was with the understanding that they were to have as many privileges here as other persons. They also claim that by virtue of a law passed by the New Jersey legislature in 1884, the colored man has as much right to a public place of amusement as a white person and that Mr. Bradley is laying himself liable to the law in prohibiting them from all the privileges accorded the whites.

10,000 IDLE MEN IN DENVER.

Arrangements Being Made to Send Them East.

A $5 RATE ASKED FOR

To Enable Those Out of Employment to Seek Other Fields.

DENVER, Col., July 20.—It is estimated that today there are 10,000 men in Denver unable to secure employment. There are 30,000 in outside towns in the same condition, half of whom are making their way to this city where they will become a public charge if conditions do not speedily change. In order to avoid this all the commercial bodies in this city will meet with representatives of eastern roads tonight and the latter will be asked to make a $5 rate from here to the Missouri river for this class of people. It is argued that these men are not paupers, but if they can get into the agricultural districts they will be able to secure employment in the harvest fields, where men will soon be in demand.

A conservative estimate of the men discharged by railways, mines, business houses and factories since the silver panic started places the number at 15,000. It is also estimated that Colorado, Utah and New Mexico merchants have countermanded on New York wholesale houses for goods during this time amounting to over $12,000,000.

Manhattan Club House Sold at Auction.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Manhattan Club house was today sold at auction under foreclosure proceedings for $455,000, to Adrian Iselin & Co. The Iselins held the first mortgage of $400,000, and the interest and tax charges swelled the total an additional $70,000. Under the sale the second mortgage bondholders to the extent of $250,000, and other claimants for about $90,000 are wiped out.

Suspicious Death of Three Infants.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., July 20.—The death of the four days' old child of Miss Elizabeth Adams, (colored, of the "School of Colored People," has caused suspicion of the people.

This is the third child born to Miss Adams, who is unmarried, which has died within a few days after birth. The undertaker called refused to bury the child and notified the town officers. A postmortem examination will be held by the medical examiners who say the death was due to starvation and loss of blood by hemorrhage. No arrests have yet been made.

Carload of Paper Stock Burned at North Windham.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., July 20.—A car of paper stock standing on a spur track at North Windham was set on fire by a passing engine about 10 o'clock this evening and was entirely consumed. It was consigned to Smith Bros. Chaplin, Conn. Loss $1,000.

To Take the Place of Striking Miners.

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., July 20.—It is current here with the railroad officers as authority that 1,000 colored men were put on the cars at Birmingham, Ala., last night, and started for Kansas to take the places of the striking miners. It is thought they will go to Pittsburg and from that place be distributed to all the affected mines in the state. Trouble and perhaps bloodshed will undoubtedly follow such an attempt.

A Brakeman in Trouble.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 20.—George M. Stone of this city, a brakeman, aged 28, was held for trial in the Jefferson Market court, New York, on Wednesday, on a charge of showing two girls immodest pictures.

Survived a Thousand Volts.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 20.—Frederick Weidhaus, a painter employed at the J. T. Prowitt company at Bridgeport, while engaged in painting the Norwalk Tramway company's piles on the Washington street bridge, Wednesday, accidentally grasped the copper plate that carries the current across the draw. He received an electric shock of nearly 1,000 volts that tumbled him head foremost and unconscious twenty feet. He recovered. A fellow-employe named Edward Muckridge, also received a shock in a similar way, but his injuries were slight.

From 1876 to the present time over 100,000 acres annually have been reclaimed from marsh and sea by the people of Denmark.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

Nervous Prostration

And Dyspepsia in its worst form pulled me down until I could not eat nor sleep and felt if I did not soon get relief, I should surely die. As a drowning man catches at a straw, I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had used three bottles I had increased from 125 to 150 pounds, was able to work again and felt a thousand times better. My friends are surprised to see such a change. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine, and its claims are fully justified in my experience." E. O. POWELL, Bigelow, N. Y.

RICHARD MANSFIELD'S YACHT.

An Attachment Levied by the Groton Sailmaker.

Richard Mansfield, the actor, seems to have had a falling out with the builder of his new yacht, the Royal Highness. This is the first yacht the eminent actor has had built, and when Charles Ferguson, the builder, presented a big bill for extras, not in the contract, he kicked. The contract was not ironclad in its terms as some that the actor no doubt had signed before he became the prominent star in the theatrical firmament, but it was strong enough to hold Mr. Mansfield to the payment of the bills.

When Benj. F. Bailey, the sailmaker, presented his bill for the sails of the new boat Mr. Mansfield refused to pay it, claiming it should be paid by Ferguson, the builder. So Mr. Bailey got out an attachment Wednesday and put a keeper on board the yacht, then lying off the Pequot. Yesterday morning Mr. Mansfield concluded he would settle the bills, which he did, including some other claims besides Mr. Bailey's, and the yacht was given into his possession again. Capt. Griffin has been given command of the yacht. Mr. Mansfield is contemplating a trip to Europe in August.

Joseph S. Crouch of Ledyard to Alden A. Crouch of Ledyard, a parcel of land on Laurel Hill avenue, below Laurel Hill.

YE ANCIENT MERCHANTS.

Business as it Used to be Conducted in the Last Century.

While the streets were pervaded by a Sabbath stillness Thursday, and the grocers with their friends were "reveling"—as our forefathers would call it—in Boston, there was a temptation to go back in spirit to mercantile Norwich of one hundred and twenty-five years ago, when the grocer as a specialist was a character unknown, and grocers' day was a holiday not so much as foreshadowed.

Back to the time when the old bank corner—where Steiner's pharmacy is now—was the most conspicuous place in Chelsea Landing, its broad, high step-stone serving as a horse-block for women from the surrounding country, as with voluminous gowns and immense calashes they came into town to do their "tradin'." Back to the days of 1755, when the mercantile establishment of Jacob De Witt was in its glory, when the shipping store of Gershom Breed—later Jonas Breed & Co., now Eaton, Chase & Co.,—had just been erected, when John Baker Brimmer offered almost everything for sale, and gave "cash for ox-horns, old pewter, and hoops," when Ebenezer Colburn, ironmonger and cutler, gathered in shining shillings at the sign of the "Black Horse," when Isaiah Tiffany kept "ribbons, fans, calicoes, lawn and china ware just imported from London," and Nathaniel Backus, Jr., amassed a comfortable fortune at the bank corner aforesaid.

Those were busy days in old "Chelsea," even though before the evolution of the grocer proper. Instead of exhibiting—as a few years earlier—nothing but shipyards and warehouses, fishermen's cabins and sailors' cottages, a number of respectable and creditable buildings had begun to rise. At the wharves, too, were to be seen the coasting sloops Defiance and Ann; the London packet, Ebenezer Fitch, Master, the Norwich packet, Captain Thomas Fanning; the brig Two Brothers, Captain Asa Waterman; sloop Betsey, Captain Wm. Billings; the Nancy, Captain Uriah Rogers; the Charming Sally, Captain Matthew Perkins, and others.

Every shop seems to have been a variety store in those days if we may judge by the advertisements in The Weekly Packet, wherein, for example, was announced that:

> Ebenezer Freeman, from Boston,
> Blue-Dyer,
> Informs the Public that he carries on > the business > of dyeing Cotton, Tow and Linen a most beautiful blue (in indigo) with the greatest despatch.
> Also takes in genteel Boarders.
> Has a Handsome Chaise to let.
> Ladies' Gauze Caps, Fly's, Handkerchiefs, Aprons,
> &c. Ready made in the newest taste at his house > leading to the Landing, mostly opposite to Capt. Hubbard's.

"Felt hats, nails, paper, loaf sugar snuff and spices, all imported" were advertised. Ribbons, crapes and laces, such fanciful articles as "Barleycorn necklaces," "London dolls," and "London lettered gartering" were among the attractions. One man offered:

> "Sheep's wool, codfish, West India produce, and an assortment of European dry-goods.
> N. B.—As the subscriber has an interest in a still house at Chelsea, he expects to have New England rum constantly to sell."

That family groceries—as we use the term—are not made prominent note of is natural in those days which antedate concentration and co-operation, when merchants catered to an agricultural community, and when trade and barter was the rule. The merchants were only afforded larger scope in other directions, especially in the line of dry-goods and furnishings. In these they offered a bewildering temptation, to wit: "Hum-hum, wild-bore, alasticks, moreens, durants, callimancos, tammys, royal-rib, shalloons, arminetts, stockinetts, satinetts, rosettas, German serge, duffles and taffety."

Later on, if the feminine heart yearned for something mental, less vain and worldly than creature-comforts, there was Patten's bookstore to visit; Nathaniel Patten, bookbinder and stationer from Boston, who promised "to bind, gild, and letter books in as splendid a manner as can be done in London," and who, in addition to Blair's Grave, Milton's Looking-glass for Laity and Clergy, King Philip's Bloody War, Rev. Mr. Sampson Occum's much-approved Collection of Hymns and Spiritual Songs, and other improving books—in the list of which, by the way, doth not appear any giddy reference to Ouida, or Zola—offered school books, and stationery in great variety. He added the following seductive list, which doubtless charmed many a hoarded shilling from vain and improvident women of those times:

> "A famous tincture for taking out stains.
> "Surprising excellent tooth-drops.
> "Venetian tooth-powder.
> "Imperial lip-salve.
> "A most curious eye-water.
> "A most excellent worm-powder," &c.

A memorandum of private expenses in those early days gives an idea of the prices which Norwich merchants were in the habit of receiving for their goods:

> Wheat, 5s. per bushel.
> Rye, 3s. per bushel.
> Indian corn, 2s. per bushel.
> Oats, 1s. 6d. per bushel.
> Turnips, 1s. per bushel.
> Milk, 1½d. per quart.
> Wool, 1s. 6d. per lb.
> Beef, 2d. per lb.
> Pork, 3d. and 3½d. per pound.
> Butter, 6d.
> A bowl of toddy, 6d.
> A meal of victuals at a tavern, 8d.
> A barber's charge for one shaving, 2d.—a year's shaving, £1.
> "A fals tail" (copied from a barber's account), 2s.
> Cheese, 4d. per lb.
> Tallow, 5 d.
> Sugar, 6d.
> Molasses, 2s. 4d. per gallon.
> Quire of paper, 2s.
> Pane of glass, 1s. 2d.
> Pair of shoes, 5s.
> Day's work of laborer, 2s. and 3s.
> Day's work with team, 6s.
> Town clerk's salary, £1 10s.
> A bell-rope, 3s.

How many things they missed in those "surprising excellent" days, when cottolene and glucose, the McKinley bill and cheap railroad rates were undreamed of! What would be the thoughts of an honest eighteenth century dame alighting from a pillioned cob at the Bank corner Thursday and gazing for the first time at the plate-glass barbicans of the Bailey corner!

MUST STAND OR FALL TOGETHER.

Best Skill and Industry Asked to Keep Factories Running.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 20.—Rice & Hutchins of Boston, who operate shoe manufactories at Marlboro, and also in six other localities, have sent a circular to their employes, in which they say: The business outlook is threatening and unsatisfactory. The fear that the government will be unable to maintain the gold standard for our currency has caused widespread distrust.

It is hoped that congress will promptly repeal the Sherman law, which compels the secretary of the treasury to purchase monthly 4,500,000 ounces of silver and issue currency therefor; but the improvement that may result from legislation will come too late to be of much assistance to this season's business.

The prosperity of employer and employe stand or fall together.

In the present trying season, we ask you to contribute your best efforts in skill and industry, so that the superior quality and reasonable cost of your product will enable us to make sales and keep our factories running, thus giving you fairly steady employment. We must all do our best.

We depend on you; you may depend on us.

SERIOUS SITUATION.

Miners Ready to Face Death Rather Than See Families Want For Bread.

TOPEKA, July 19.—The strike situation in southern Kansas is serious, and but for the appearance of a sheriff's posse at Weir City yesterday a bloody battle would have been fought.

In the Kansas and Texas company's mines a number of men have been working for two weeks. President Walters of the Miners's union was determined to make them quit work at all hazards. All Tuesday night striking miners were gathering east of Weir City, and by 4 o'clock Wednesday morning 1000 strikers were ready to commence the march for No. 18 shaft, belonging to the Kansas and Texas Coal company, for the purpose of forcing them to quit work.

The No. 18 men, 25 in number, were heavily armed, and when warned to return to their homes, declared that they would face death rather than see their families want for bread, and with drawn revolvers marched into the mines. The sheriff had been telegraphed for, and was on the ground with a posse.

COLORADO BANKS

Pull Down the Blinds and Suspend Business Operations.

GREELEY, Colo., July 20.—The Union bank closed its doors at 1 p. m. yesterday, and half an hour later the Greeley National pulled down its blinds and turned the key in its door.

The Union's statement says that owing to the suspension of certain Denver national banks, which had on deposit several thousand dollars of its money, and the fact that there was a steady withdrawal of deposits, about $80,000, in the past 90 days, they were compelled to suspend business. They say their liabilities are about $100,000, with assets and paid up capital of $200,000.

As soon as the fact of the suspension of these banks became known a steady run was made on the First National, but it continued to honor all checks and drafts, and even after the regular closing hour cashed two checks presented.

EXCITEMENT AT NASHUA.

Security Trust Company Suspends by Order of the Court.

NASHUA, N. H., July 20.—Considerable excitement was created this morning when the Security Trust company, doing a loan and check business, and having a savings department, posted a notice that it had suspended business, by order of the court, at the instigation of the bank officials.

Treasurer Sargent stated that this action was made necessary by the withdrawal of many savings deposits and the failure to realize, without loss, in the present condition of the market, upon the institution's securities.

There was no question, he said, that all claims would be paid in full, as the bank had not sustained any loss on securities, or been in any way involved in failures in the west or elsewhere. It has a capital and surplus of $650,000. It is considered certain that the suspension will be only temporary.

REACHES NEW BEDFORD.

Lack of Confidence in Business Outlook is Being Felt.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 20.—The lack of confidence in the business outlook is beginning to be felt here, and the officials of several mills who expected to run their mills through the summer now think differently. A majority of the mills will no doubt remain in operation, but some of the agents are beginning to doubt the advisability of manufacturing goods for storage.

At Hathaway, Soule & Harrington's shoe factory, one of the largest in the state, notices have been posted up that the factory will run but three days a week, and at the Morse Twist Drill and Machine company's shop notices have been posted to the effect that the concern will furnish employment but five days a week.

FOR THREE MONTHS

Waumbeck Company Will Close Its Mills at Milton Mills.

MILTON MILLS, N. H., July 20.—The agent of the Waumbeck company has issued orders for closing the mills here for three months, as soon as the goods now in process of manufacture are finished. The reason assigned for this action is a lack of orders, except at ruinous prices.

This is the first time in the history of this company that work has been ordered to cease on account of the condition of the markets, and the result of the present action will be a serious blow to the many employes who are dependent upon their earnings in these mills for support.

Union Stock Yards Attached.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—Attachments aggregating several thousand dollars have been filed against the Union Stock Yards company, whose packing establishment is at Bay [illegible], Contra Costa county. These claims are said to be preliminary to larger suits by eastern holders of the company's bonds. The immense plant, it is said, has practically shut down. The plant cost $1,000,000 and was started May 12.

Wagon Works Shut Down.

TOLEDO, July 20.—The Milburn wagon works, employing 1500 men, shut down yesterday. A reduction of wages had been made, which the men refused to accept. Mr. Milburn threatened to shut down for six months if the men refused to work, and gave them an hour and a half to decide, at the end of which time he shut down.

San Francisco Bank All Right.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—The national bank examiners, who have been looking into the affairs of the First National bank of this city, have made a report to Controller Eckels, recommending that the bank be allowed to open at once. They state that they find the affairs of the bank in good condition.

Three Days a Week.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., July 20.—The E. W. Chapin woolen mill, at Northboro, is running but three days a week at the present time. There are rumors that the establishment may be closed for several weeks.

Copper Mine Closed.

ISHPEMING, Mich., July 20.—The Centennial copper mine at Houghton closed down yesterday, throwing 100 men out of employment. The suspension of work is caused by the low price of copper.

Dry Goods House Assigns.

DENVER, July 20.—The Flanders dry goods house, one of the largest in Denver has assigned. The company carried a stock valued at $100,000 to $150,000.

SOCIAL SENSATION.

Fair Haverhill Society Leader Goes Into Insolvency.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 20.—The announcement of the filing of a petition of insolvency at Salem by Emma D. Thompson of this city created a sensation in social circles this morning. E. B. Savage, the assignee, estimated the liabilities at $8000, nearly all the creditors being big Boston firms, several of whom do not appear in the statement of the petitioner.

The petitioner lives in a large house on Mt. Washington with her daughter, who is about 25 years old. The real estate of the family is in the name of the daughter. Three Haverhill attorneys had attachments against the assignor for Boston creditors, which were vacated by the assignment. An endeavor will be made, declares Mr. Savage, to find more visible assets than are stated in the petition. The petitioner moved in Haverhill's aristocratic circles, but none of her creditors are Haverhill merchants.

IMMIGRATION FIGURES.

Where the Many People Come From Who Land Upon Our Shores.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The chief of the bureau of statistics reports that during the month of June there arrived at the ports of the United States from the principal foreign countries, except the British North American possessions and Mexico, 67,716 immigrants, and in June, 1892, 73,193. During the 12 months ended June 30, 1893, the number of immigrants was 497,936, and during the preceding year, 610,930.

Of the number arrived during the 12 months ended June 30 last, 86,312 came from Germany, a decrease of 34,309; from Italy, 72,405, an increase of 11,236; from Sweden and Norway, 52,973, a decrease of 3881; from Russia (except Poland), 42,657, a decrease of 40,631, and from the United Kingdom, 105,710, a decrease of 5202.

THE DREAD CHOLERA.

Rampant Among the Poor in Moscow. No Cases in St. Petersburg.

LONDON, July 20.—The cholera is rampant among the poorer classes in Moscow.

Much indignation is felt in Russia because the director of prisons, upon learning that there was cholera in the Moscow prisons, ordered a majority of the prisoners to be removed to four other cities, thus increasing the danger of a spreading of the infection.

There have been no cases so far in St. Petersburg. In Podolia and other infected places the death rate has not lessened.

Anxious to Trade.

CHICAGO, July 20.—Foreign commissioners held another conference yesterday with the council of administration in regard to the sale of duplicates of exhibits. A final meeting was set for Saturday to settle the question. Director Schwab said it was more than probable that the foreigners would be allowed to make a limited number of sales, although the council would not permit anything like a wholesale disposal of goods.

Mechanics Have a Clambake.

PROVIDENCE, July 20.—The Order of United American Mechanics went on its annual pilgrimage down Narragansett bay today and had a clambake at Crescent park. A street parade was made in the morning, in which some 3000 members of the order participated. Governor Brown and the lieutenant governor were among the invited guests, and other officials went to Crescent park with the excursionists.

One Burglar Killed.

ROCHESTER, July 20.—A special to The Union from Ovid, Seneca county, says that burglars broke into the postoffice last night at that place. J. R. Thomas, cashier of a bank next to the postoffice, heard them, and going down to the street called to them to throw up their hands. He was shot twice, but not seriously. He returned the fire, and one burglar was killed. The man is unknown.

Shedd Case Settled.

NASHUA, N. H., July 20.—The Shedd vs. Boston and Maine railway case has been settled by the board of arbitration. The board decided to award Mr Shedd $1700 damages, which will be paid by the city. The injunction against the Boston and Maine railroad will not be released, and the company can go ahead building the new $300,000 improvements and freight houses.

Wants a Hearing.

NASHUA, N. H., July 20.—Ex-Captain E. E. Chase, who was dismissed from the police force Monday, has petitioned the board of police commissioners for a hearing on the charges against him. This right is conceded to Mr. Chase under the law, and will undoubtedly be granted.

Farm Hands Quarrel.

HINGHAM, Mass., July 20.—Franco Ambrio and Cherrio Lancio, at work on the farm of William L. Bradley, got into a dispute last night which ended by Ambrio stabbing Lancio. Ambrio is still at large.

General Escobedo Very Sick.

CITY OF MEXICO, July 20.—General Mariana Escobedo, the greatest living general of Mexico, is seriously ill with pleurisy and little hopes are entertained for his recovery. General Escobedo is the conqueror of Maximilian, and is said to be the only man in Mexico who could have the presidency for the asking. He recently visited the World's fair at Chicago.

Gladstone Shaken Up.

LONDON, July 20.—While Prime Minister Gladstone was proceeding to the house of commons yesterday afternoon, his brougham collided with a van in Parliament square. Though he received no serious injury he was considerably shaken up. After a very short delay he was driven to the house.

City Solicitor Bailey Dying.

BOSTON, July 20.—City Solicitor Andrew J. Bailey was stricken with apoplexy on Washington street near Clark's hotel, early this morning and is now lying in a dangerous condition at the Massachusetts general hospital. He is unconscious, and the doctors have given fears for his recovery.

ODDITIES OF GREAT FOLKS.

Swift liked to write in bed.

Tamerlane was an expert chess player.

Mary Stuart had a lap dog that followed her to the scaffold and soon after died of grief.

Descartes had a small garden where he spent all the hours not devoted to mental labor.

Domitian spent his leisure in catching flies and piercing them through with a needle.

Walpole, according to Thackeray, "spent his holidays bawling after dogs or boozing with boors over beef and beer."

George III was passionately fond of music and during his madness could always be calmed by the sound of an organ.

Louis XVI in early life learned the trade of a locksmith and during his imprisonment amused himself by making locks.

Cardinal Richelieu hated children and loved cats. When he died, his favorite Angora pet refused to eat and soon perished.

Henry III of France was so fond of spaniels that he went about in public with a litter of pups in a basket suspended from his neck.

Suwarrow, the Russian general, was fond of jewelry and always carried about with him a bag of unset diamonds. At night, when seated by his campfire, he would take them out and enjoy their brilliancy.

Beethoven was fond of bathing and while doing so would splash the water over the floor so that it ran down into the rooms below. While composing he would howl and groan in the most dismal manner so that the neighbors complained, and he was frequently obliged on this account to change his lodgings.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHITE CITY WAIFS.

Duke Ernest of Schleswig-Holstein, the brother of the empress of Germany, will visit the World's fair as the representative of the German empire.

Rabbi Max Heller of Temple Sinai, New Orleans, has been elected one of the speakers at the religious congress to be held during the World's fair, beginning Aug. 22.

The exposition Fine Arts building has five large panels above the main porch looking on the water, and for these panels Mr. Olin L. Warner modeled the heads of Michael Angelo, Raphael, Rembrandt, Velasquez and Titian.

It is likely that Dona Isadora Cousino, the wealthy Chilian business woman, will visit the World's fair. She is known in newspaper literature as the "Countess of Monte Cristo" and is said to be the richest woman in the world.

The chief of the interpreters at the World's fair, Charles A. Barry, is master of 16 languages. He is president of the Columbia International Association of Interpreters, the members of which are employed by exhibitors to talk to visitors in their own languages.

THE JEWEL CASKET.

A bunch of acorns made of catseyes, with diamond cups and leaves, gives a pretty effect on a pale colored corsage.

Shoe buckles, girdle clasps and tippet fasteners in snow white pierced silver adorned with a few pink pearls or turquoises look very refined.

A pretty diadem is formed of laurel leaves which consist of assembled peridots flatly set, with bunches of black pearls imitating berries spreading here and there at regular intervals.

Thoroughly artistic bracelets exhibit very fine arabesques in platina filigree work, with chased gold heads or figures in high relief projecting from a hollow medallion. The gold employed is very pale and of a soft appearance.

Fashionable bracelets consist of several rows of precious stones forming serpentine lines. These rows are either placed quite close, or they are divided by a very light gold pierced work. Varicolored stones of different sizes and cuttings are employed concurrently with diamonds and pearls.—Jewelers' Circular.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

In Persia when a railroad train kills a man the natives pull up the track for miles and boycott the trains.

The Canadian Pacific railway has issued instructions that American currency of all descriptions, including silver, be accepted at par over the entire system.

Joseph S. Harris, who succeeds Mr. McLeod as president of the Reading system, is a civil engineer by profession and in early life was connected with the coast survey.

The railroad constructed by Stephenson south of Liverpool and opened for traffic in 1833 remained in use almost as the great inventor left it until a few weeks ago, when a new line was constructed.

Eugene V. Debs, well known in the Firemen's brotherhood, is making a great effort to establish the American Railroad union, an organization consisting of various classes of railroad men, without an insurance branch.

CURIOUS CULLINGS.

In Sicily when a daughter is born they hang out a black flag to signify sorrow.

A female quartet in Windham, Me., is called "Gracemaudanem," from the names of the members, Grace, Maud, Anna and Emma.

A sign in front of a restaurant at Georgetown, Md., bears this inscription: "Meals open at all hours of the day and night by the week or month except Sundays."

Many of the South Sea islanders believe that paradise can be inherited only by persons of perfect physical forms. Where this belief prevails a man will die rather than submit to amputation.

The "thirteen superstition" is in full force in Germany. Several streets in Frankfort-on-Main have been renumbered without any No. 13, as landlords declare that they cannot let rooms in houses bearing that supposed unlucky number.

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

Professor Dewar, who lately succeeded in liquefying air, has now succeeded in freezing it into a transparent solid.

Big heads do not always indicate intellect. A scientist points out that the Greeks, one of the most intellectual of nations, were one of the smallest headed of races.

The whole solar system, astronomers say, is strewn with particles of matter known as star dust, while larger bodies, known as meteoroids, chase one another about the sun at intervals of a few miles.

If the heat of the sun were produced by the burning of coal, it would require a layer 16 feet in thickness extending over its whole surface to feed the flame a single hour. With the sun a solid body of coal, it would burn up at this rate in 46 centuries.

Effect of a Practical Joke.

MILFORD, Mass., July 20.—M. J. Buckley, assistant manager of the Milford Shoe company, is suffering from the effects of practical joking. Monday evening a friend struck him on the arm with a large brass pin. He did not notice any bad effects until last evening, when the pain and swelling became so intense that he had to call in a physician, who pronounced it a case of blood poisoning.

PEARLINE.

It Hurts

nothing that can be washed or cleaned — Pearline. The purest soap is no safer—the poorest soap is no cheaper. It is more effective than the strongest—it is more convenient than the best. Pearline saves labor and wear in washing clothes or cleaning house. Said the man to the Irish boy: "What are you fishing for?" "Frogs," said the boy. "What do you bait with?" "I bate 'em wid a stick," replied the boy. Frogs and some people's [illegible] paints are the same as they were a hundred years ago. The Chilton Paint Co. is trying to convince the public that given the proper materials, mixed and ground by the proper machinery, the result can but be a better paint than it is possible to make by hand. Does it not seem reasonable that where the materials used in making a paint are seven times passed through machinery that does not vary in its action, the mixture is going to be more perfect than where a man or boy stirs them with a stick, adding a little oil, stirring a few times, then a little more lead and color, a few more stirs with the stick, until he gets tired and says he guesses it will do. Think this over. You must see that the man cannot do the work of a machine. We have the latest and best paint machinery that can be bought.

DIVORCE IN BURMAH.

An Original and Exhaustive Method of Settling Family Troubles.

In Burmah, as in civilized Europe, suspicion often disturbs the family circle, but instead of filling lawyers' pockets and giving society papers highly spiced paragraphs the following effectual mode of divorce procedure is adopted: The family relatives on both sides are called in—even distant cousins living a long way off—and many are the long journeys made in jolting bullock carts, and many the animated discussions by the cigar puffing circle of relatives squatted ceremoniously on the bamboo matted floors.

If an amicable settlement can be obtained thus—and very difficult it is to smooth down the quarrels, as a rule, for the Burmese are a spirited race—the elders or patriarchs of the village or district are called in, and after the circumstances are explained arbitrators are appointed from among them, who proceed as follows: Two candles—wax if possible, but generally rushlights—are selected of equal length and thickness, and being simultaneously lighted are placed on the table if the establishment boasts of one; if not, on the floor.

This is done with the greatest gravity, care being taken that neither party has any advantage over the other in the shape of drafts through the doors and crannies, and that all present are seated at sufficient distance to prevent their breathing from affecting the flame. The gradual burning down of the flames is then watched with breathless and solemn silence, which culminates as one or the other of those slowly burns down and splutters out its life in the waters of the basin in which it is fixed.

A deep "Ah!" a guttural sigh of relief, greets this termination, and if it be the husband's candle that burns out first he and his relatives walk slowly out of doors, solemnly and silently, leaving his better half in possession of the goods and chattels contained therein. If the wife's candle expires first, she and hers do likewise, and with a small present to the judges and umpires the divorce is completed.—Chicago Herald.

Advance In the Value of Pictures.

At the sale of the art collection of the late Mme. Denain, once a famous actress of the Theatre Francais, a comparison of prices with those obtained at the auction of the Didier collection in 1868, from which most of the paintings, etc., brought to the hammer were derived, is most instructive as showing the wonderful variations in the value attached to masterpieces of art. Thus "The Four Seasons" (Prudhon) brought 90,000 francs, against 33,500 francs in 1868; a portrait of Mme. de Sombreval and of her son (Nattier), 40,700 francs, against 6,000 francs; a portrait of Rembrandt (by himself), 40,000 francs, against 4,000 francs; "The Rainbow" (Th. Rousseau), 17,500 francs, against 4,700 francs; "A Riverside View" (Bonington), 17,500 francs, against 4,200 francs; "The Reconciliation" (Fragonard), 18,300 francs, against 1,450 francs; portrait of Mlle. Olivier (Greuze), 15,000 francs, against 6,000 francs; portrait of a Monk Confessor (Rubens), 12,800 francs, against 2,000 francs; "A Forest Landscape" (Diaz), 18,000 francs, against 8,000 francs. On the other hand, a few works by Prudhon and Decamps were knocked down at prices far below those obtained in 1868, and a portrait of a girl by Velasquez, presumably his daughter, was sold for 10,000 francs, against 15,100 francs at the Didier sale.—London Telegraph.

Roses All the Year Round.

Splendid as the blooms of the June ones are, we want roses all summer long, hence have to look to the teas, Chinas, Bourbons and similar ones to give them to us, and they won't disappoint us. Summer roses, as we call them, bloom from first to last, giving us their smaller, though sweet scented, flowers until freezing weather comes. When the cool nights of fall come, they make a glorious display of flowers, allowing of the cutting of many a bouquet. The well-known Hermosa, Louis Philippe, Malmaison and Agrippina are members of this class. Other good representatives are Appoline, Edward Desfosses, Louise Odier, Bougere, Caroline Marniesse, Homer, Gloire de Dijon, Mme. de Vatry, Souvenir d'un Ami, Marie Ducher and Sombrieul. These are all hardy in this latitude with but little protection, and in many places with no protection at all.—Joseph Meehan in Pittsburg Dispatch.

An Eskimo Trick.

The short, chunky, wooden looking Eskimo men wheedle silver out of the populace by playing a game requiring considerable skill. This consists in lifting a donated nickel or dime out of the ground by the crack of a whip. The whips these chaps use are like an ordinary bull goad, with a number of leather lashes added to the total length of 34 feet. They shoot these long lashes along the ground like snakes straight at a coin set edge up in the dirt, and as each tip reaches the spot it curls with a snap like a pistol shot and likely as not lifts the coin high in the air. It goes to whosoever gets it in that way.—Chicago Cor. New York Sun.

Different Schools of Music.

Each generation, tired of the outworn devices which furnishes its predecessor with excitement, demands newer and stronger effects to stimulate its emotions. As the devices of the classicist grow pale, the listening public demands a romantic school with new forms and strange progressions. The romantic school would, if some hearers had their way, be succeeded in turn by a chaotic school, and in the race for new sensation all vestige of artistic form would disappear.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Unique Holiday Gifts.

One [illegible] and well to do old lady in Harlem, being at her wits' ends for presents to meet all tastes procured from the bank a packet of new $10 bills and stacked them upon the parlor table, whence she dispensed them through the day to family and friends as they came in.—New York Sun.

Easily Accounted For.

Harduppe—Did you notice the stony glare Miss Coupon-Bond favored me with as she passed?

Rackstie—Yes, but she can't help it, my boy. It's all owing to her rocks.—

At the Summer Hotel.

On, on the lithe young maiden sped,
With parted lips and eyes
That burned with the resolution which
All obstacles defies.
On, on she sped, scarce touching earth,
O'er beach and gravel walk,
Till she stood on the porch of the big hotel
With barely breath to talk.

"I saw"—she screamed; then stopped for breath,
Exhausted, faint, undone
While ninety maidens gathered round
And screened her from the sun.
"I saw"—she gasped again, and stopped,
And then, while they plied the fan,
"I saw"—she said with a final gasp,
"I saw—I saw—a man!"
—New York Sun.

A POINT OF HONOR.

There was a commotion in Scratch Gravel, Wy., on the morning of June 23, 1875. Jack Langworthy, a local celebrity, had killed a tenderfoot from Pennsylvania, and there was naturally some curiosity, if not to say excitement, over the affair. The circumstances of the case were about like this: Jack and the Pennsylvanian were having a little game of cards, when the former noticed a slight deception on the part of his adversary in the way of dealing himself from one to four cards too many and concealing them in his coat sleeve.

"Sich proceedings are entirely foreign to the customs of this yer camp," finally remarked Langworthy, and at the same time sent a pistol shot into the "tenderfoot's" head. The ball passed diagonally through the head from the base of the left ear, and ranging downward made a final entrance into the side of a whisky barrel which stood in one corner of the room.

"You'll lose some of yer whisky if you don't regulate the hole I've just made in that 'ere barrel," quietly remarked Jack to the proprietor of the place, adding parenthetically, "and it's good liquor too."

As for the "tenderfoot"—well, he was dead.

The rude law of Scratch Gravel took cognizance of this fact and also of the manner of his death, and Jack was arrested. A few weeks later he was arraigned for the murder and pleaded guilty. The judge sentenced him to be hanged. Then Jack made a speech. Among other things he said:

"I killed the man, I know, and perhaps it's fair enough that I should die too. Leastwise I don't set up my judgment agin that of the court. The laws of Scratch Gravel should be enforced, but just now I'm sort o' sorry the enforcement is necessary. The deal is a hard one, and the worst of it all is that the roughness is not agin me alone—oh, no, not agin me, but Sally and the twins. I don't care for myself—just as soon go as not—but when I think of the twins I think—I think, by mighty! I'll have to tell you I can't stand it. You see, the twins are boys—both boys—and they are a rattlin pair an no mistake. I allers reckoned on the twins 'mounting to something in the world, but if their father is to be hanged—that settles it. What would the twins ever amount to then? Now, if I could go some other way, it wouldn't look so bad—the twins might pull through—but to be strung up like a common thief, it would be a weight on them 'ere twins that 'ud keep 'em down forever. So you see it ain't for myself that I care—not for me and not for Sally so much, either, although I do kinder like the old gal—but the twins. Well, it breaks me all up to think of leaving 'em, it does for a certain fact. Judge, when will the performance take place?"

The unfortunate man was informed that the 10th of July was the date fixed for his execution, and that he should make preparations to be on hand at that time punctually so as not to delay the proceedings.

"You see, Jack," said the judge familiarly, "we ain't goin to be mean enough to lock you up, not you—it wouldn't be right—not with an honorable man like you. It ain't for any dislike for you or bad feeling that we're going to hang you, Jack, but it's the law, you know, the law. So you'll make it a point of honor, Jack, to be on hand when the time comes."

For the next week Jack staid about home pretty much all the time. Occasionally some of his friends would drop in to ask about his health and the health of the twins. The slightest mention of the latter would set his tongue in motion, and somehow he seemed to think there were no other children in the world worth talking about.

"They'll pull way ahead of their old dad in a few years," he had often said. "Maybe one of 'em 'll be an auctioneer or a bank president, and the other a steamboat captain—who knows? Them boys are smart."

It was the month of June. Wonderfully bright the sun shone, wonderfully sweet the birds sung, wonderfully gray and bare and cold were the distant mountains. It seemed to Jack that all creation was smiling over his misfortune and mocking him for a coward who was afraid to die.

One evening, just a week prior to the date fixed for his execution, he seated himself on a bowlder near his cabin door and took the twins in his arms. They were little fellows and climbed all over him. One of them got his little brown arm around the paternal neck and pulled the grizzly hair and beard with his chubby fingers. Then looking into the upturned face he said sorrowfully:

"There's water in your eyes, dad. What'yr matter?"

Jack put the child down rather roughly, and remarking as he brushed his eyes that the "bugs was mighty troublesome that evening" he walked into the house.

The 10th of July arrived. In the morning, quite early, Bill Drake, an old time friend of Jack's, came to see him.

"Seems like thar ought to be some way to get out of this," remarked Bill.

"I'd just as soon go," said Jack, half apologetically, "ef it wasn't for the twins. You see, I've sort o' banked on them twins for a long while. I reckon thar'll be good turnout at the gallus, Bill."

"You wouldn't slip away, would you, Jack?" finally whispered Bill, with a strange light in his eyes.

Jack reached for his revolver.

"I don't want to shoot you, Bill," he said fiercely, "but I'll do it, sur, if ye repeat that insult. Thought ye knew me better than that. I'm ashamed of ye."

"But ye don't understand me!" exclaimed Bill excitedly. "Listen! The judge sentenced ye to be hanged [illegible] of July, but he forgot to name the year! The 10th of July 10 years from now will do, or longer. He only said the 10th of July!"

"But he meant today," said Jack, trembling in every limb.

"But he didn't say it. You may suit your own convenience about the year, Jack, fer yer own sake and fer the sake of the twins, skip."

There was much disappointment that afternoon among the citizens of Scratch Gravel when it was discovered that Jack was gone. Search was made of his cabin, but there were no signs of Sally, Jack or the twins. They were gone for good.

And now comes the strangest part of this story. The 10th of July five years later a gray old man, bent nearly double, thrust his shadowy form into the presence of the chief magistrate of Scratch Gravel and demanded a hearing.

"I am Jack Langworthy," he said, "and I have come back according to promise to be hanged. You see, the twins are dead—both dead—and Sally she's gone to—run away with another man, and now I've come back to meet the requirements of the law. There has been some delay, I'll admit, but I was bound to come back some time, and here I am."

The laws and customs of Scratch Gravel had changed somewhat since Jack departed the place five years before, and as the affair in which he was interested was no longer a sensation of the day he was simply told to leave the town as soon as possible. He went at once, and the last seen of him alive he was tramping slowly out of town with his face toward the setting sun.

A little later in the year, when the chapparal bushes began to shed their leaves and the vines that tumbled over the gray rocks were touched with frost, the fleshless frame of a man was found suspended from a rock over a deep ravine. It was Jack Langworthy. Failing to find an executioner when he wanted one, he had taken the matter into his own hands and hanged himself.—J. M. Hoffman in Chicago Inter Ocean.

Pleading a Friend's Case.

An excuse so absurd as to put an entire courtroom in good humor was given not long ago before an English magistrate. A name was called by the usher, a voice answered, "Ere!" and a man with a lame leg stumped up to the table and said the defendant could not appear.

"Why?" asked the magistrate.

"Well, your worship, he's ill. He's werry bad indeed, sir."

"What's the matter with him?"

"He's got a werry bad leg, sir."

"What's the matter with it?"

"Well, your worship, it's like this 'ere. It's got wrong in the j'ints, sir."

"Has he got rheumatism?"

"Well, sir, 'tain't that 'zackly. It's a cork leg, and the spring in the j'int 'as gone wrong."

The magistrate himself could not help joining in the laughter which filled the court at the absurdity of one man with a disjointed leg pleading the cause of a similarly afflicted friend and at the doleful tone in which he added:

"I do assure your worship that it's werry, werry bad, and he can't walk."

The summons was held over until the broken spring could be repaired, and the advocate stumped out of court with a smile on his face and making a solid sound which proved that all his own "j'ints" were in good working order.—Youth's Companion.

Economy Among Women and Men.

An esteemed correspondent takes issue with a recent comment on the deficiency of humor among women, as evidenced by the fact that they are rarely seen buying funny papers on the railway trains. "Don't you know," writes this protesting suburban friend, "10 cents seem to a woman a good deal to spend for a few moments, while to man, who are constantly throwing dimes and more away on cigars, drinks and the like, the sum is of no value."

To which may be added the remark heard not long ago of a man who is possessed of what might be called average habits in the matter of drinking and smoking.

In that moment of genial introspection which not infrequently assails a man after a glass or two of wine and in the enveloping clouds of a good cigar he was discussing with the partner of his joys and sorrows the merits and demerits of his manner of life.

"You are quite right, my dear," he replied, as his wife finished a little homily on the injustice of her trying to save 30 cents on the quality of the children's underwear while he tossed away a dollar a day in dimes and nickels for things that did him no good. "You are quite right. It's my change pocket that keeps us hard up all the time."—New York Times.

Composer Gluck at Work.

When Gluck composed his immortal works, a bottle of champagne was always placed on either side of the piano, and its effervescence helped to inspire the great arias of "Iphigenia," "Armida" and "Alceste." When the final rehearsals were held of the "Iphigenia," Gluck had not yet written the melody to the "Dance of the Scythians." Naverre, the ballet master, becoming uneasy over the delay, went to him one morning to urge him to hurry it up. As he entered the composer's anteroom he heard unusual and terrific noises emanating from Gluck's library. He approached stealthily, and through a crack in the door saw Gluck in shirt sleeves, his face as red as fire and distorted by horrible grimaces, singing, gesticulating and jumping about like a madman. Naverre, frightened by the extraordinary spectacle, pushed the door open. "Ah, there you are," exclaimed Gluck. "I am just finishing your dance and will let you have it right away." It was then that Gluck had composed that grand orgie of the savages which created such a profound sensation on the stage.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

She Liked the Old Kind Best.

It was down in a Chautauqua village that a gay young soldier had his sweetheart. Such a beauty she was too!

It happened once that he sent her down from Buffalo a pot of cold cream to keep her cheeks as fresh as the budding rose.

When he came down to visit her again, he asked how she liked his little gift.

"The taste was very nice," she said, with rather a sickly smile, "but I think I like the other kind of cream best."—Quips.

THE GLOOMY SIDE.

SOME POINTS ON THE WOMEN WHO DOTE ON THE GREWSOME.

Gloating Over the Things Which Cause Them Pain—Gathering Pansies, but Looking For Snakes—Episode of a Newspaper Woman's Street Car Ride.

The other day I was riding in a street car. There were 11 women and 3 men in the same quarters. We jogged along our way as people do out of whose life all interest had been taken by a hot day, as a rude nurse snatches playthings from helpless children. Whether "school kept or not" was a matter of not the slightest moment to any of us. Indeed I had reason to hope that I should never again be confronted with bulletins as to the rise and fall of that mythical educational bureau whence we all draw more or less of knowledge fraught with bitter experience. Its pupils are so stupid and its head preceptor so unrelenting that I have long been a-weary of its curriculum.

Opposite in the car sat a young woman whom I often meet and shall continue to meet, I suppose, until the sexton shovels a few feet of dust between our faces. If she were a man, she would be in the attitude of one who is "spoiling for a fight." What is mere combativeness in men takes the form of insolence in women and is harder to bear. This young person eyes my clothes. She gloats over my shabbiness. She knows exactly how many times a day my poor old gown is groomed. She is cognizant of the fact that my off shoe has sprung a leak, and as she tosses her head and smiles the smile that, passed from woman to woman, means more than a blow I seem to hear her say: "Ha, cumberer, are you here yet? Last time I met you I thought I stared you down, but such rubbish seems hard to kill! A trifle more ridicule, though, slightly veiled, like poison in a capsule, will lay you low, and I shall have the pleasure of turning my battery upon some other God forsaken crank who appears to have more brains than style!"

We were tumbling along in the old street car, a tired and dirty lot of us, bound for the depot. As we passed a certain undertaker's shop on the way we noticed that a big crowd had collected at its doors—a hushed crowd, with white faces and bated breath. A police patrol was drawn up to the curbstone and four brawny officers were lifting something out of the wagon and carrying it within the undertaker's open gate. The something that lay beneath the old tarpaulin was very still and outlined itself sharply beneath the sable folds of the pall that covered it. I turned away from the sight, for there is that within me that revolts from such sights as the butterfly does from the thistle or the swift running boat from a capful of head wind.

I knew well enough what the "something" was. Ten minutes before perhaps it had been a man, swinging like a sailor on the uplifted ladder where the painter pursues his craft, or a careless vagabond knocked down by a passing vehicle and straightway ushered into the audience chamber of the great and only King, or a merry hearted boy spurned by a flying wheel, or a tired old woman "lifted high as heaven" by the tender arms of death. I knew very well that the awful something was once a breathing, blundering mortal like myself and that a sudden calamity had transferred it into clay, how or in what terrible manner I did not care to see. But every woman in the car in which I rode jumped from her seat to watch the gruesome thing I turned away from.

"Oh, I wish the cover would fall off so that we could see!" cried one.

"Lift Willie up so that he can look!" exclaimed a careful (?) mother, making room as she spoke for the nursegirl to place the little boy in a better position.

No sooner did all these women gain a vantage point from where they could best behold the dreadful burden which the policemen bore without either tenderness or care into the waiting station of the morgue than they began to tremble and to cry.

"Oh, dear, how dreadful!" moaned they in unison, while their fascinated gaze was unaverted and their necks were craned to see it all.

And then because I am a philosopher in my own poor fashion and can no more help philosophizing than a spider can help spinning webs I said to myself: That is the way with all of us! We seek out our own discomforts and we cultivate them with our own tears. We gloat over the very things that bring us pain and take a front seat to witness our own tragedies. Given, the most of us, a chance to spend an afternoon among the tombs or to go fishing for goldfish out of a crystal pond, and we will trot along with the mourners every time. We are always in the attitude (most of us) of the Peterkin family at the seaside. They were continually looking off shore for whales, and they saw whales and nothing but whales from season's start to season's close! What we look for we find, what we sow we reap, what we dread we draw and what we expect comes to us.

Take two girls and send them out through the divine beauty of these June woods with a basket apiece. They are after violets, we will say, although the purple drapery of the blue spirit flower has been almost withdrawn from the woods already, like a curtain uplifted by an eager hand. One of the girls is afraid of snakes and declares the sight of one would kill her on the spot. How she looks for them! How eagerly she watches every tremor of the underbrush! How she starts at a floating timothy and shrieks when a clover jostles in the wind! And she sees snakes—plenty of 'em! She goes home with an empty basket and has to take a powder to quiet her nerves. The other girl keeps her mind on violets and never sees a serpent's trail. She goes home with a basketful of flowers and dreams that she is setting sail for paradise in a purple boat with the tender green of violet stems for its oars and a sail that smells of the wood flower's perfect soul.—Amber in Chicago Herald.

In the Street Car.

Fogg—No, I never give my seat to a lady unless she is advanced in years. (To young lady who has been trying to eye him out of his seat) Would you like my seat, madam?

Young Lady—Thanks! Prefer to stand!

But she looks mad enough to bite Fogg's head off.—Boston Transcript.

The Growth of a Metropolis.

Things seldom seen in New York nowadays: A runaway, a man trying to ascertain where he is from the sign on a lamppost, sheep or steers being driven to slaughter houses, a man carried on a stretcher, girls selling newspapers, boys sweeping crosswalks, advertisements pasted on the curbstones, a torchlight parade, a chowder party keeping step coming home, a goat south of Fifty-ninth street, an omnibus on the west side of town, a barber shop in the second story of a building, or a woman as ready to take pennies in change in a street car as to give them for fare.—New York Sun.

Asking the Wrong Party.

"Some of you," said a political orator, "remind me of Johnny Bixirs, who undertook to break the yearling bull, and to make sure he did not get away tied the rope around his waist. The breaking process angered the yearling, and he split a crack in the atmosphere toward the swamp. Johnny only hit the ground in the high places. In their mad career they passed a neighbor, who yelled to John, 'Where are you going?' 'Blanked if I know,' he replied as he sailed through the air. 'Ask the bull.'"—Northwest Magazine.

Not a Paying Occupation.

Hicks—What a chance for a fellow to grab these women's pocketbooks that they hold in their hands so temptingly!

Wicks—Excellent, as you say. An industrious thief might snatch scores of 'em every hour and make as much as half a dollar a day.—Boston Transcript.

CAUSE FOR CONGRATULATION.

Norwich has reason to feel well over the local state of trade and the general condition of business during the past four months. While there has been a general disturbance in manufacturing in all parts of the country, the business here has gone steadily forward, and promises to go forward without marked disturbance. There is a feeling of confidence manifested on every hand, and faith in the future of business and of the country. Of course, the effect of business failures and the stoppage of manufactories elsewhere does in a slight degree effect business here; but as yet there has been no signal embarrassment. The spirit which exists here seems to exist throughout the state, and Connecticut appears to be as little disturbed by the crisis as any state in New England. The indications are that August will be a month of enforced rest for most of the mill operatives in other states. This is on account of a dull market and a desire of some of the large concerns to repair machinery while congress is engaged in outlining the future policy of the government with reference to these industries which are of such importance to the people and to the country.

THE SECOND SOBER THOUGHT.

There is little to be expected from the western silver fanatics who are anxious to have a sanguinary conflict with the conspirators who are depriving them of their liberties; but it is probable that the two million people of the nine silver states will upon the second sober thought see the absurdity of the attitude of the radical silver men upon the subject of a silver currency. The laws of supply and demand govern the price of silver as much as they do the value of any other product, and congressional legislation cannot make for silver a special place in the market of the world. Silver is in the market like other metals and its fluctuations in value result from various causes. Whether those causes are legislative or otherwise there is no excuse for rebellious conduct, or for screaming for blood.

In consequence of fluctuation of values the agriculturists of the country have in some years shouldered losses amounting to six hundred million dollars without crying that they were the victims of a conspiracy, or that they were looking for revenge.

The great woolen industry is paralyzed on account of recent administration rulings and proposed changes in the tariff, and the losses in consequence of it must foot up already hundreds of millions; but the sheep-raisers, the manufacturers and the employes are not howling for blood, and threatening to rebel if their special interests are not fully protected by the government. They are waiting and hoping that wisdom may prevail in the councils of the nation, and that confidence may be restored by the declaration of a sound business policy and prompt legislative action when congress assembles on August 7.

The good of the country calls for action that will at once benefit all business, and not for a sectional concession which will prove ruinous even to those who are so loudly clamoring for it.

TELEPATHIC EVIDENCE.

Telepathy seems to be all the rage, and one of the staid, New England magazines ordered all its short-story writers for the July number to have telepathic effects in their plots. The result of this endeavor to keep up with the public demand for evidence of this marvellous power of the mind, did not yield a great amount of positive evidence that this power is real and not imaginary.

It seem to us that there is plenty of evidence that telepathy is as much of a science as telegraphy. Editors are pretty well up in the science although they do not write much upon the subject. Those editors who are not up in the science generally confuse these telepathic evidences with evidences of plagiarism.

It has been apparent to THE BULLETIN for some time that "telepathy" is a great convenience to the press of Connecticut and the country. THE BULLETIN prints a good piece of local news and the other papers have a "telepathic" reprint which appears as a telegraphic special to them. Other papers in the state may have noticed this same peculiarity in THE BULLETIN. These "coincidences" for awhile were puzzling. How a single item could appear in half a dozen papers word for word, specially received from half a dozen different representatives, was not clear; but when considered from a telepathic point of view it is tolerably certain that mind is in it, and that said piece of news is of the mind. There is one source for it and there are many readers.

No paper in the state ought to understand this better than The Times of Hartford, whose "occult" editor is always reaching for clear evidences of mental and spiritual phenomena; and yet because he sees under Norwich dates word for word pen pictures that were in The Times, he insinuates there are literary pirates, or something worse, here in Norwich. THE BULLETIN has seen its own matter in The Times used "telepathically," and The Times, no doubt, has seen its news used "telepathically" in THE BULLETIN. We never could think The Times guilty of theft, but we know it has the "telepathic" power.

We think the press of Connecticut can furnish the students of telepathy in this country with word for word marvels in their line of inquiry, and this may be as good a field as any for the psychical societies of the United States to dig for chunks of material evidence which cannot be easily refuted.

HOKE SMITH'S PENSION ORDER.

There is a general desire among veterans to see Secretary Smith's pension revision order. The action was based upon the decision made by the pension bureau in the case of Charles T. Bennett, Co. F., 13th Indiana regiment, who claimed he had suffered lost of hearing from a sunstroke received at Raleigh, N. C., in June, 1865. The syllabus of the decision is as follows:

(1.) The basis of pensions under sections 4692 and 4693, R. S., is disability by reason of wound, injury, or disease contracted while in the service and in line of duty.

(2.) The basis of pension under section 2, Act June 27, 1890, is incapacity, due to any permanent mental or physical disability not the result of vicious habits, to such a degree as renders claimant unable to earn a support by manual labor.

(3.) Disabilities incurred while in the service and in the line of duty, and incapacity for earning a support befalling a claimant for pension after his service had ceased, are placed by the pension laws on an entirely different footing.

(4.) Disability incurred during service and in line of duty is pensionable without regard to capacity to earn a support, and is rated under the provisions of the revised statutes without reference to this condition.

(5.) Disability resulting from causes other than of service origin are pensionable only under the provisions of the second section of the Act of June 27, 1890, when incapacity to labor joins with incapacity to earn a support, and the grades of rating thereunder are dependent upon these two conditions.

(6.) When by Order No. 164 of the commissioner of pensions, October 15, 1890, it was declared that disabilities under the act of June 27, 1890, should be rated as if of service origin, the very principle which governed ratings under said act was disclosed, and a rule applicable to a different law was substituted.

(7.) Neither the secretary of the interior nor the commissioner of pensions can, by order or by practice, supersede an act of congress. The power of the department, so far as its orders and practice are concerned, is limited to an execution of the law; it ceases when an effort is made to supersede the law.

The decision was prepared by Assistant Secretary Reynolds, was approved by the secretary of the interior and submitted by him to the attorney-general, who also approved it. The secretary of the interior then issued the following order:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27, 1893.

To the Commissioner of Pensions:

Sir: Order No. 164, signed "Green B. Raum, Commissioner of Pensions," and approved, "Cyrus Bussey, Assistant Secretary," of date October 15, 1890, is hereby revoked. You will prepare, for approval by the secretary, new rules and regulations covering the proof of the right to pensions and rates of same in accordance with the provisions of section second of the act of congress approved June 27, 1890. Your attention is directed to the fact that the disabilities which are pensionable under this section must be of a permanent character, incapacitating for the performance of manual labor to such a degree as to produce inability to earn a support. You will observe, also, that the rate of pension is fixed at not less than $6 nor more than $12 per month, proportioned to the degree of inability to earn a support.

You will have an examination made to determine what pensions have heretofore been allowed under section 2 of the act approved June 27, 1890, in disregard to the terms of said act, and in conflict with the ruling of this department, in the case of Charles T. Bennett, this day transmitted to you.

Respectfully, HOKE SMITH, Secretary.

The last paragraph of this order indicates the purpose of the pension bureau not only to apply this rule to future applicants, but to extend the examination and overhauling to cases which the new secretary may interpret as having been wrongfully adjudicated. It is alleged that this new ruling and order will affect nearly a half million applications, including both "original" and "additional" cases under the second section of the act of 1890.

VOICE OF THE PRESS.

He Prefers a Sound Body.

No one will seriously question Grover Cleveland's democracy; but there are many reasons for believing that he would be glad to begin the work of the extra session with a sound republican majority in both houses of congress.—[The Omaha Bee.

Booming.

Captain Adams' boom for the chief command of the Grand Army seems to be moving with a spirit which speaks well for his popularity and the loyalty of the comrades of the Massachusetts department.—[Boston Journal.

Nature's Wonderful Way.

Bounteous crops throughout the country never were more welcome than they will be this autumn. Nature sometimes has a wonderful way of remedying the blunders of man.—[Boston Journal.

Upon What It Depends.

The extent of the democratic vote on the sound money side depends largely on the number of post offices which Cleveland is willing to put at the disposal of congressmen.—[St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Reversed Economic Conditions.

The Press is sincerely desirous that every American workingman shall receive wages sufficient to enable him to live in comfort, to educate his children and make provision for sickness and old age. This is what a protective tariff is designed to accomplish; but it must be remembered that the election of Grover Cleveland and a democratic congress on a free trade platform has reversed the economic conditions of one year ago. Menaced by the competition of foreign employers of pauper labor, and unable to dispose of the usual quantities of their own goods, manufacturers in many branches find it an absolute impossibility to maintain the former scale of wages. Hence our advice to Pittsburg iron workers and employes of other manufacturing establishments whose output is necessarily restricted is to act with reason and moderation, and not to demand the impossible.—[New York Press.

A Satisfying Spectacle.

The chivalry of Charleston threaten to "make it warm" for the state officers who are there to enforce the new liquor law. When the born rebels of South Carolina rebel against South Carolina, and thus prevent their rebellious waste energies from accumulating, the rest of the country ought to be satisfied and happy.—[The Binghamton Republican.

A Short-Sighted Policy.

Holmanism is now making itself felt in the post office department, and will thus be brought home to the people in a way they will not relish. The first branch of the service to feel its influence is the free-delivery system, for which inadequate provision was made by the last congress, and the railway mail service is bound to suffer from the same cause. The post office department is powerless. First Assistant Postmaster Jones places the blame unhesitatingly upon congress. A more short sighted policy was never entered upon than that of crippling the arm of the government which most constantly and directly serves the people.—[New York Tribune.

[illegible]

If it were lawful and moral, we'd be willing to wager a dozen big red Connecticut apples against a Georgia watermelon that Hoke Smith, LL. D., never in his life wrote a letter more dignified in tone and more irreproachable in its English than the letter written to him the other day by Chief Jones of the Choctaws.—[Hartford Courant.

Among the peculiarities of Quakerism, a correspondent points out, Quakeresses are not allowed to wear gold ornaments, or to have their ears pierced for earrings. If a mother permitted her daughter to undergo this operation both mother and daughter would be "read out" of meeting.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness and give strength and rest. Try them.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

Castoria.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Imitators and Impostors.

The unequaled success of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS as an external remedy has induced unscrupulous parties to offer imitations, which they endeavor to sell on the reputation of ALLCOCK'S. It is an absurdity to speak of them in the same category as the genuine porous plaster. Their pretensions are unfounded, their vaunted merit unsupported by facts, their alleged superiority to or equality with ALLCOCK'S a false pretense.

The ablest medical practitioners and chemists and thousands of grateful patients unite in declaring ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS the best external remedy ever produced.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

For Over Fifty Years

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of Cutting Teeth, send at once and get a bottle of "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for Children Teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething is pleasant to the taste and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Price twenty-five cents a bottle. Sold by all druggists throughout the world. Be sure and ask for "MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP."

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pill may well be termed "Perfection."

A Retired Business Woman

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: "I had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was again a strong healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so long that they seemed almost petrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are taking this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 589 W. Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

PORTEOUS & MITCHELL.

It's an off day that fails to find something interesting for the readers of this column.

This time it is Hosiery—Women's Hosiery—not the ordinary kind, but something extraordinary. Just read and digest this item.

1,000 pairs—yes, more, nearly 1,100 pairs of Women's Fine Imported Hose—every pair of which were imported by us—will go on sale Wednesday morning.

They are our regular 50c Hose, and if we didn't have too many the price would never have been less than 50c pair. But we have got more than we want, and to reduce the surplus we will do this:

For four days, beginning Wednesday, we will offer our entire line of Women's Half-a-dollar-a-pair Black Hose for 35c a pair, 3 for $1.00.

Bear in mind Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week, are the days. We make it a four days' sale so that everybody, out of town people as well as those in town, can have an equal chance to take advantage of this offering. Here is a partial description of the styles:

Lot 1.—200 pairs Cluster Rib Lisle Hose—the design is new this season—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 2.—150 pairs Richelieu Rib Lisle Hose—white tip heel and toes—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 3.—150 pairs Fancy Rib Imperial Lisle Hose—neat styles—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 4.—130 pairs Ladies' Opera Length Hose—length 35 inches—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 5.—50 pairs Ladies' 54 Guage Cotton Hose—the finest guage hose made in Germany—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 6.—60 pairs Ladies' 38 Guage, 4 Thread Cotton Hose—unequalled for wear—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 7.—100 pairs Ladies' Cotton Hose—Glorla make, high spliced heels and double soles—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 8.—75 pairs Ladies' Black Hose with Maco feet—excellent for women who cannot wear black footed hosiery—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 9.—75 pairs Ladies' Fine Guage Outsize Hose—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 50c.
Lot 10.—100 pairs Men's Ribbed Bicycle Hose—sizes 9 to 11—35c a pair, 3 for $1; regular price 60c.

Too Hot.

Too hot to be merry,
Too hot to be sad,
Too hot to be very
[illegible]
Too hot to be floating
O'er mountain and main,
Too hot to be eating,
Or drinking—champagne.

Too hot to be wishing
For winters gone by,
Too hot to go fishing—
To stand or to lie,
Too hot to know whether
You'll melt and will make
A streak in the weather—
A chop or a steak.

Too hot for the screeching
Of trains through the state,
Too hot for long preaching
And passing the plate,
Too hot for your laughter—
To live or to die,
And a blazing hereafter
To finish the fry!

PULPIT AND PEW.

Massachusetts has 579 Congregational churches and 105,943 members, leading all her sister states in this respect.

The pastor of a Baptist church at Ukiah, Cal., was asked to resign for prophesying that the end of the world will take place before the end of the present season.

Miss Marian Murdock and Miss Buck, both regularly ordained Unitarian ministers, have received a joint call to a church in Cleveland. It is stated that they will not accept separate churches.

The Rev. Dr. Sabato Morais of Philadelphia, one of the most distinguished Jewish rabbis in this country, celebrated the seventieth anniversary of his birth a few days ago. His congregation is the oldest in Pennsylvania, and he has served it for more than 45 years.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

A telephone line 3,600 miles long is planned in Canada to connect Halifax with Vancouver.

The combined length of the world's telegraph lines is 861,000 miles, necessitating the use of 2,280,000 miles of wire.

One of the latest developments in France is an electric locomotive which not only carries its generators, but a battery of storage cells as well.

Electricity, when unretarded by atmospheric influences, travels at the rate of 288,000 miles a second. Along a wire it is of course vastly slower, and a perceptible period of time is occupied by the electric current in sending telegrams over long distances.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities In Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 20.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 7 to 9 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

There was a better feeling in the market this morning at its opening. London came higher and showed a disposition to buy. St. Paul, Louisville and Nashville and Union Pacific were each more than 1 per cent higher. The returns from the far west continued discouraging, but these had been more than discounted in the recent decline. The result was that, with the large short interest anxious to get its stock back, trading opened briskly, with prices on the up grade.

What is more important, there was a more confident tone in the conversation of some who have been very disconsolate over the situation. The suggestion even was made that prices had touched bottom. But, be that as it may, it is certainly true that the market, with prices as they are now, offers some rare bargains to those who have money to buy and lay away in securities. And this, too, not in uncertain stocks, but in gilt-edge, dividend-paying securities. Two things are all important to the realization of this, however, judgment in selection and cash to pay for.

That something of this is being done is shown by the number of odd lots of stock which are now being sold. In the local market the announcement of the [illegible] down of the Centennial mine sent that stock down [illegible] 3¼ to 2. Such a result has been figured [illegible] in quotations for some time, as [illegible] months ago the stock was selling at 6¼.

Chicago, Burlington and Quincy opened ⅝ up at 78¼ and advanced to 79¾, while Atchison, opening ⅛ stronger at 18¼, rallied to 19¼. Union Pacific advanced ¼ on the opening. General Electric rallied from 59¼ to 62, but slid then to 59¼, while Sugar common was up to 1 at 77, weakening subsequently to 76¾, and the preferred was up ⅛ to 78¼.

VERY SHORT CROPS.

Report Comes from Every County of Texas.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS SWEPT AWAY.

Corn Crop Greatly Injured by Continued Dry Weather.

GALVESTON, July 20.—The News this morning publishes a crop report from every agricultural county in Texas. The greatest care has been exercised in the collection and editing of these data, and they represent truly the condition of Texas crops on the 15th to 17th inst., the dates on which the reports were made.

The statement is far from encouraging. The bright prospect for an abundant yield of corn has been swept away by the continued dry weather, and the yield will fall far short of what was anticipated.

The drouth has done great harm to the cotton crop, except in eastern Texas, where too much rain has fallen, and where dry weather was just what the farmers needed. Even here, however, there is beginning to be too much sunshine and heat, and complaints are heard.

In central Texas, where something over one third of the cotton crop is produced, the cotton has suffered from several causes and the Prospect Is Not Bright.

Grasshoppers and other insects did injury in the northern part, while worms are reported from many points in the south.

Northern Texas is badly spotted. Dallas, Collin and Fannin counties reporting fairly good prospects, while elsewhere in the district conditions are by no means favorable. The importance of these indications is at once apparent when it is stated that central and north Texas produce 67 per cent. of the Texas cotton crop.

The reports from southwest Texas are almost uniformly bad. Complaint is made of drought, and the plant is shedding badly in some neighborhoods.

The Coast District Needs Rain

in some portions, but on the whole is in a better condition than others.

Worms are reported in many localities, and the farmers are busy destroying them. In western Texas the long drought has parched everything, and even with good rains now scarcely more than a small crop can be made.

From a careful study of the reports as a whole, it is apparent the Texas cotton crop is in a most critical condition, and considerable harm has been done already, and if the present dry weather continues 10 days longer the whole crop will be badly damaged.

SHORT WHEAT CROP.

Farmers Should Not Sell a Bushel at Present Prices.

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—The Journal of Agriculture of this city, treating editorially of the condition of the present wheat crop and the probable advance in prices says the best American and European authorities agree that the world's deficiency will be at least 100,000,000 bushels.

The most reliable figures now place the total American crop of 1893 at about 395,000,000, which, added to surplus carried over, will make less than 455,000,000 bushels.

England will probably take 370,000,000, and the home trade needs 370,000,000 bushels. The Journal believes that in view of the fact that the American crop is 120,000,000 bushels short as compared with last year, and as Europe with a short crop is now grabbing upon American wheat as fast as she can without attracting too much attention, the time has come when American farmers should not sell a bushel of wheat at present prices.

For, granting that prices do not advance, it says, it will pay much better to feed to the stock than to sell at present figures.

MOHICAN INCIDENT.

Captain Hallett of the Garnet Does Not Believe She Was Fired Upon.

VICTORIA, B.C., July 21.—H. M. S. Garnet, from Behring sea, came into Esquimalt yesterday.

Captain Hughes Hallett of the Garnet, speaking about the reported Mohican-Alexander incident, said: "I do not see how it can be true. I know that it cannot be if the statement in the press dispatches is to be credited. [illegible] we met the Mohican at [illegible] Sand Point with her.

"We [illegible] and I remained alongside [illegible] the 25th, 26th and 27th [illegible] shortly after, and when we left Dutch Harbor on Sunday, July 9, she was [illegible] coaling. She was to resume cruising Monday morning, and could hardly finish that day. Up to that time she was not all-ahead by any means. On June 12 we heard that the Pioneer had been seized and taken to St. Paul's. We went there to [illegible] and found the report untrue. Subsequently she was sighted by the Nymphe and we also heard of her on June [illegible]."

CHARLES F. WASHBURN.

Head of the Washburn & Moen Manufacturing Company Dead.

WORCESTER, July 20.—The death of Charles F. Washburn, the head of the great wire firm of the Washburn & Moen manufacturing company, occurred at 1 o'clock this morning. Mr. Washburn was vice president of the corporation. He was stricken with apoplexy July 1.

He was born in Harrison, Cumberland county, Me., Aug. 20, 1827. His father was a descendant of the seventh generation from the puritan Governor Bradford.

Charles Washburn, the father, began his business life as a lawyer in Maine, but came to Worcester, where he joined his brother Ichabod in his industrial sphere, which has developed into the enormous concern, the Washburn & Moen manufacturing company.

BARBAROUS PRESIDENT.

Vasquez Executing Opponents—Many Families Turned Into the Street.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A Herald special from Panama says: General Vasquez, the acting president, is confiscating the property of the leaders of the opposition. In many instances families have been turned into the street.

The wife of Colonel Juan Angel Arias, who is especially disliked by Vasquez, was attacked in her home. Her furniture, clothing and jewels were taken, and when she asked for passports she was refused permission to leave the country. She was given shelter in a neighbor's home, but is virtually being held in Tegucigalpa as a hostage, and is under constant police surveillance.

Executions of opponents of the government occur almost daily.

Aida a Total Loss.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 20.—The steam yacht Aida, ashore on the rocks near Cedar Tree Neck, Vineyard sound, will prove a total loss. She is owned by the Homer brothers of this city. The steam tug Volunteer, which went to her assistance yesterday, is unable to get within an eighth of a mile of the wrecked pleasure craft, and there is no doubt that her fate is sealed. The Homers carried no insurance on the vessel. She was valued at $10,000.

Edward Devlin Shoots Himself.

BOSTON, July 20.—Edward Devlin, 30 years of age, committed suicide by shooting at an early hour this morning at the lodging house, 5 Hudson street. Proprietor George A. Howard of the house and other inmates were awakened about 4 o'clock by a pistol shot. Howard and several others rushed to the room occupied by Devlin, and the latter was found in bed suffering from a bullet wound directly back of the left ear. He died soon after.

The Captured Italia.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Herald's Montevideo, Uruguay, correspondent telegraphs that the Brazilian insurgent vessel Italia arrived there last night in charge of the Uruguayan gunboat, General Rivera, which captured her near Maldonado, Uruguay. Colonel Pintos and 20 other revolutionists landed in Noleodo before the Italia was captured.

School For Teachers.

CHICAGO, July 20.—The ninth annual session of the National School of Methods and Sciences was opened yesterday in the M. E. church at Stewart avenue, under the charge of Charles F. King of Boston. About 200 teachers were present. The session will continue until Aug. 1.

Haverhill Has Lead Mine.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 20.—Superintendent Beardsley, while at work this morning on Primrose street, near the corner of Fifth, putting in the police signal system, made a lucky strike. He discovered on the city's land a rich vein of lead ore.

No Idea of Foul Play.

FITCHBURG, Mass., July 20.—John Wealson, an employe of Armour & Co., was paid off at 4 o'clock last Saturday, and has not been seen since. His wife thinks he has "skipped out" and left her. There is no idea of foul play here.

Prominent Attorney Shot.

KANSAS CITY, July 20.—Last night A. W. Little, cashier of the First National bank, and ex-president of the Armourdale bank, shot and killed Benjamin E. Johnson, one of the most promising of the rising attorneys of Kansas.

Banca Romana Scandal.

ROME, July 20.—The Tribuna gives a semi-official confirmation of the report that 100 senators, members of the chamber of deputies and journalists are implicated in the Banca Romana scandals.

Fay for Cape Cod Canal.

BOSTON, July 20.—At the council meeting today the governor sent in the name of C. M. Fay as Cape Cod Canal commissioner, in place of Sigourney Butler, who refused to serve.

Has Not Been Captured.

PALMER, Mass., July 20.—The colored man who attacked E. W. Lawrence yesterday and nearly killed him with a stone, has not been captured. Officers are still searching for him and many private individuals are taking part in the search.

Will H. Morton Insane.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Will H. Morton, the well known theatrical manager and husband of Lily Post, the comic opera singer, has become insane, and has been taken to Bloomingdale asylum.

INTERESTING FACTS

Brought Out by the New Features of State Department Register.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The department of state has just issued a new register, containing some new features. One of these is an historical sketch of every secretary and assistant secretary from Thomas Jefferson down to the present day.

Another is a record of the persons in the diplomatic and consular service, which is interesting from its exhibition of the number of such officers who have remained for years in the service undisturbed by the mutations of politics. The Nestor of the consular corps appears to be William S. Campbell, who was originally appointed consul at Rotterdam April 27, 1849.

The new register also discloses a reform that has been effected in the methods of the state department itself. For many years the clerical force has been organized under a system which placed each clerk in charge of correspondence of certain specified subjects. As a consequence it has happened that some clerks were unduly taxed, while others were comparatively idle. The register shows that this practice has been abolished, that the various special designations have been done away with, and that all of the clerks in the diplomatic bureau, for instance, are subject to assignment by the chief of the bureau to any work in hand.

PEN, CHISEL AND BRUSH.

Miss Mary Redmond, the Irish sculptress whose colossal statue of Father Mathew was recently unveiled in Dublin, is only 30 years old.

Miss Mary Wilkins, the New England novelist, is is said, is partial to artificiality and believes that a woman should keep young as long as possible.

The medal of honor for oil color painting at the Champs Elysees salon has been awarded to Roybet, whose most formidable competitor was Benjamin Constant.

CHINA TO AID SIAM.

Russia Believed to Be Supporting France.

MATTERS GROWING COMPLICATED.

China's Position Will Result in Modification of French Demands.

PARIS, July 20.—Information from Peking, today, is to the effect that the Chinese government had decided to support Siam in its struggle against France. For many years Siam has paid tribute to China and is closely connected with that country. The Chinese think it is time for them to take a hand in the controversy and will now assist the Siamese. It is believed that the interference of China will result in the material modification of the demands of France as contained in her ultimatum.

RUSSIA SUPPORTS FRANCE.

Fleet Will Proceed to the Gulf to Give Assistance.

PARIS, July 21.—The statement is published that Baron Mohrenheim, the Russian ambassador to France, officially informed the French government, prior to the session of the chamber of deputies on Tuesday last, when M. Develle, the foreign minister, defined France's position in the Franco-Siamese dispute, that Russia would support France on all the points involved in the Siamese difficulty.

It is said that the Russian fleet in Chinese waters is under orders to proceed to the gulf of Siam for the purpose of protecting the French residents in Siam. The fleet is expected to shortly arrive in Siamese waters.

ENGLAND'S ATTITUDE

Depends Entirely Upon the Action Taken by the French.

LONDON, July 20.—A special dispatch to The Times from Bangkok says that the recent statement on the Siamese difficulty made in the house of commons by Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, and particularly that portion of it referring to France's declared desire to maintain the integrity of Siamese territory, has created a favorable reaction in native and foreign feeling in Bangkok. The dispatch adds that the present and future position of Great Britain in Siam depends on the action that shall be taken by the French.

UNDER REDUCED EXPENSES.

Comstock Lode In Nevada Can Be Worked at a Profit.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—A general reduction in the cost of mining on the Comstock lode in Nevada will soon take place. The Comstock contains millions of tons of low grade ores, which at reduced expenses can be made available and can be worked at a profit. Much of this low grade ore assays 75 per cent in gold, so that the heavy discount in silver does not much affect it.

The reduction in general expenses contemplated will amount to between $60,000 and $75,000 per month along the Comstock. Even with silver below its present quoted value, the leading productive mines can not only live, but be made to yield a profit with expenses so reduced.

The miners for years have been paid $4 for eight hours' work, but the union sees that these prices cannot be maintained, and a compromise will be made on $3.

"NOT GUILTY."

Dr. Henry C. Meyer Answers to Charges Against Him.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Dr. Henry C. Meyer, the alleged wholesale poisoner, was arraigned in the court of general sessions this forenoon in the presence of a crowd that filled the court room to overflowing. When the doctor's name was called and the charge read to him, he simply stood up and said, "Not guilty."

He was again remanded to the tombs immediately. A dispatch from Toledo this noon stated that under the direction of Detective Julian of the Mutual Life Insurance company the house of the Shults family, where the Meyer's lived, has been searched and some medical instruction books and photographs found, as well as a receipt to J. Baum for $8.00 for the piano used in the Meyer's house in this city.

Down an Elevator Well.

PENACOOK, N. H., July 20.—Alfred Elliot, for more than 20 years night watchman at Amsden's furniture factory, fell five stories down an elevator well last night and was killed. His body was terribly mutilated. He leaves a widow and daughter.

Unknown Man Found Drowned.

HAVERHILL, Mass., July 20.—The dead body of a man was found in the river this morning near the steamboat landing. The remains have not yet been identified, but it is supposed that the dead man is Joseph Passmo, who has been missing for several days.

SUMMER SUGGESTIONS.

Sponge your babies with cold water at bedtime.

For insomnia in summer take a cold bath at bedtime.

Camphor ice and buttermilk both give relief from sunburn.

Have your house gowns made with open necks and elbow sleeves.

Bathe daily, save your steps and eat your meals and drink milk slowly.

Have mercy on your cook in your arrangement of meals for hot days.

Press towels folded as usual through your clothes wringer and save your laundress.

Allow double the amount of time in catching boats and trains that you do in winter.

Do not make too many visits, and where you go be sure that your visit is a convenient one.

Give your children water to drink during the hot weather. They need this to make up for the loss from perspiration.

Do not entertain too generously. Summer should be a time of rest, and it is difficult to rest with a house full of guests.

Place a large dish of water in a room where the heat is very oppressive. Change once or twice, and the temperature will be perceptibly lowered.

Before going for a midday call rub your face, neck and hands with simple cream and powder gently with cornstarch. Wipe the powder off, and on returning wash the complexion well in warm water and with castile soap.—Ladies' Home Journal.

NORWICH AND VICINITY

CITY NEWS.

Royal Arcanum meets tonight at 7.45.

Mrs. I. E. Roath of Preston is visiting friends in New York city.

The new moon is now visible before 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Grace Moore is spending the summer in the Berkshire hills.

Miss Lizzie Kiehnle has returned from a visit to friends in New Haven.

Sherman W. Bishop has returned from a stay at the Adrian house, Block Island.

It was the steamer City of Boston in whose way the Standard Oil barge got to her cost Wednesday afternoon.

New London is to have a toothbrush factory located by Prosper Sanguinet of Brooklyn, employing seventy-five girls.

Mr. Chandler W. Robbins, president of the Monarch Wheel company of Chicago, Ill., was the guest of Mr. Abraham Plaut yesterday.

The Montville Sunday School union will hold a meeting at the Congregational church, Montville Center, next Sunday at 4 o'clock p. m.

Messrs. Guy and James Dolbeare, George Nash, Arthur Gates and W. T. Crandall have been visitors at the Willimantic camp ground.

Mrs. J. M. Moses of Hackensack, N. J., accompanied by her friend, Mrs. Sarah G. Fisher, is visiting her daughter, Mrs J. Palmer Story of River avenue.

Mr. John Wetherbee of this city has returned from his trip to the World's fair. His companion, Frank Bent, will spend a short time visiting friends in Ann Arbor, Mich.

F. A. Wells & Co., exhibit in their window an excellent negative of Mr. Wells' speedy gelding Country Boy, driven by Charles McChesney, and taken when the horse was trotting at a 2.26 clip.

Patrons of the Newport excursion today can take the steamer Block Island, leaving at 8.15 a. m., or train from Union station at 9.15, connecting with the steamer City of Worcester at New London.

Captain F. A. Johnson of the Yale university boat crew, is making a short stay at his home in this city, and his friends are improving this first opportunity to congratulate him on his athletic triumphs.

The district deputy at Norwich has notified Niantic tribe of New London that he will raise up their chiefs this evening. The tribe will work the warriors' degree on that evening.

Willard H. Palmer, a Norwich teamster employed by the street railway in New London, had his scalp laid bare yesterday by the falling of a live electric wire. His escape from a more serious injury was fortunate.

The new memorial hospital in New London, it is expected, will be dedicated and formally opened for patients next week. Dr. Buckley of the New York Cancer hospital has been invited to make the formal address.

The Clipper battery in the ball game on the Greeneville grounds tomorrow will be Moore and Counihan. The White Rocks will run an excursion to this city, bringing along a band. Donohue of the Millbury Giants will be in the box.

The steamer City of Richmond took the Emerald society of Hartford and their friends to Watch Hill yesterday. Several boarded the Block Island by mistake on her return trip and were carried to New London, whence they got home by train.

The new church edifice in Danielsonville, to be dedicated in August, has been built during the residence there of the Rev. C. G. Bristol of Danielsonville, who has been called to the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford. He is 31 years old, a married man, and very energetic in his parish work.

Two young ladies, mounted on spirited horses, came dashing down Washington street early last evening, and turned into Main street. As one of the horses' feet struck the cobble stones in front of B. S. Bartlett's store, he slipped and fell prone to the ground. Terrified bystanders expected to see the dashing horsewoman mangled under the fallen steed; but not so. No less skilfully than gracefully, she slid out of her saddle as the animal went down, and before the spectators could comprehend it all, was smilingly helping the horse to his feet. Officer Ebberts readjusted the saddle, Officer Maher assisted the rider to her seat and off she galloped, serenely and imperturbably, down the street.

The Yantic Extension Hearing.

The railroad commissioners have fixed the 27th day of this month for the hearing relative to the crossing by the street railway company of the track of the New London Northern Railroad company at grade, this side of Yantic.

D. of L. Officers Installed.

At the meeting of Virginia Dare Council, No. 26, D. of L., last evening, the following officers were installed: Coun., Maggie Hart; A. Coun., Sadie Dale; V. Coun., Hattie Lane; A. V. Coun., Hattie Dunbar; Guide, Addie Brown; I. G., Nellie Brown; O. G., Wm. Worthington; Trustee, W. J. Babcock.

The Y. M. C. A. Building.

The architect of the new building for the Young Men's Christian association spent the forenoon in town Thursday with the board of management considering special features and appointments of the building. Plans in detail will be made out without delay while the canvass is being pushed to completion.

The Peace Meeting.

The executive committee of the Connecticut Peace society met at 3 p. m. Thursday and set as the time of the annual peace meeting the last three days of August, in the Mystic grove. They voted to supply the people attending with free ice water, and appointed various committees. Eminent speakers will be engaged and the management will spare no pains to make the meeting a successful one.

County Commissioners in Session.

P. D. Murphy was empowered to sell liquor at Thamesville by the county commissioners yesterday morning. J. J. Desmond, his attorney, presented a petition signed by twenty-five villagers, and no opponents appeared. The liquor license granted last fall to Peter Cooper of the Germania hotel was transferred to Henry J. Kilroy and the name of the place changed to the Town street hotel.

In the afternoon the commissioners paid their first visit to the County home in Preston. They meet in this city today at 11 o'clock.

Connecticut Fruit.

The small fruits in Connecticut have not done so well this season as the larger ones. Blackberries were entirely winter killed in some sections. Apple trees are more free from worms than they were last year, but there are plenty of cutworms and other insects about. There is some dropping of winter apples, but the yield is likely to be as good as in '92. Rose bugs have been taking grapes, and yellows the peaches. Red raspberries point to a light crop. Pears and quinces are doing well.

The Case Continued.

The suit of Mary Ready of New Haven against the People's Industrial Insurance company of Norwich to recover $100 due her on the policy of her brother, John Liddy, deceased, came up before Justice J. C. Gallagher of New Haven, Wednesday, on a question of pleadings. Attorneys Bush and Arvine appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Sidney E. Clark of Hartford for the defendant. The case was continued without any evidence being submitted until September 19.

Stole the Signs.

Some miscreant took six signs from the store of T. H. Eldridge, hardware dealer, Wednesday night. Thursday when Attorney Thresher came down to his office in Breed opera house building he found one of them labelled "Bird Seed for Sale" upon his door. Mr. Eldridge means to find who the offender is and bring him to justice.

Connecticut Tobacco Ruined.

The storm of Tuesday was the worst that has visited the Connecticut valley in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The most damage to the tobacco seems to have been done in the Hockanum and Willow Brook districts. In this section the tobacco is much earlier than in any other part of the valley and so far advanced that some of the growers were to begin cutting next week. Now the tobacco is so badly damaged that many of them are of the opinion that it will be more profitable to plow it in.

Samuel Stevens and William Hall had the farthest advanced crops in Glastonbury and they will lose heavily. Mr. Stevens says he thinks there is close to 400 acres in the district that has been made almost worthless by the storm, and he estimates the damage done at $100,000.

A well-known tobacco buyer said yesterday that the portion visited by the hail was that in which the best tobacco in Connecticut was grown.

MR. SWAN THE SPEAKER.

Next Sunday's Young Men's Christian Association Wharf Meeting.

City Missionary George W. Swan will address the meeting next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock under the auspices of the local Young Men's Christian association.

This meeting will be the fourth in a series for the summer season, and so far each week has shown an increase in attendance and interest on the part of the citizens. The hearty co operation of so many hundred men is an evidence of appreciation of an aggressive effort on a broad basis to do good to the masses. The important truths presented informally at these out-door services accomplish much good, and our city missionary will take a front rank in his power as a speaker to illustrate and press home to the hearts and consciences of his hearers the consideration of themes which call for the attention of every man.

Comfort and pleasant surroundings are guaranteed to those who spend an hour on Sunday afternoon at this attractive resort on the Steamboat wharf.

A CHILD BURNED.

Jumped Over a Blazing Bonfire and May Die.

Seven-year-old Retta Oelholf, daughter of Mrs. George Oelholf, living at the extreme north end of Chestnut street, jumped playfully over a blazing bonfire near her home, just before noon yesterday, and may never recover from the frightful burns inflicted. The flames communicated to her skirts and in a moment the girl was enveloped in fire.

Her mother, attracted by the child's screams, ran to the rescue and smothered the flames. The girl was unconscious when Dr. R. W. Kimball arrived. He found fully one-third of her body seared and burned.

At a late hour last night the little victim was hovering between life and death.

THEIR DAY OF DAYS.

The Grocers and Friends Celebrate Their Annual Holiday.

The commercial quiet, peculiar to Grocers' day, reigned in Norwich yesterday. The meat markets, insurance offices, stove and hardware stores were closed out of sympathy with the occasion. Apparently most of the liberated help took in the excursion to Boston, fully half a thousand embarking in a body on the special cars at 6 o'clock. They arrived home at 11.45 at night, all agreeing that the grocers well sustained their reputation for good fellowship.

The New London Day comments happily on the day:

"The great annual holiday discounts Fast day, July 4th, and even pay day at the head of sloop navigation. Everybody drops work for the one day, closes up shop, knocks off and in all and several ways lets the world know that Norwich is bound on a good time for one day at least.

"It is a very sensible custom worthy of imitation as some people have to depend on that one day for their simple holiday of the year. The especial feature of the day was a monster excursion to Boston and Nahant, and that took hundreds of pleasure seekers.

"A great many Norwich people, endowed with more than average common sense, came down to New London and, walking about town and noting with pleasure the evidences of material progress on every hand, went off to Ocean Beach park, Bushy Point and other pleasure places. All hands got something out of the day and the holiday will endure."

PAST GRAND COMMANDERS.

Noted Knights Templars Hold Their Meeting in This City.

That distinguished body, the Past Grand Commanders' association, Knights Templars, of Connecticut, met in this city yesterday in semi annual reunion. The party comprised the following: Fred. Parmalee, wife and daughter of New London, Charles E. Billings, wife and daughter of Hartford; Fred. H. Waldron, wife and daughter of New Haven; William R. Higby, wife, daughter and granddaughter of Bridgeport; Ira L. Gardiner of Middletown; H. Wales Lines and wife of Meriden; Fred. A. Spencer of Waterbury; Eli C. Birdsey of Meriden; P. St. M. Andrews and daughter, Costello Lippitt and Charles W. Carter and wife of this city.

The guests arrived at 10.45 o'clock from New London, were forthwith taken in charge of President Carter and escorted to the Wauregan house. Dinner was served immediately. In point of cuisine and service, it was conceded the best in the series of meetings, and won golden words of praise for Landlord Parker and Chief Davenport. Following is the menu:

Little necks in the shell.
Tomato ketchup.
Baked Bluefish, broiled.
Tomato Sauce.
Julienne potatoes. Sliced cucumbers.
Steamed long clams, drawn butter.
Brown bread.
St. Julienne Punch
Roast ribs of beef, pan gravy.
Potato croquettes. Sliced tomatoes.
Deviled lobster.
Banana fritters. Sauce Benedictine.
Lobster salad, Mayonnaise dressing.
Tipsy pudding. Assorted cake.
Neapolitan ice cream.
Watermelon.
Edam cheese. Water crackers.
Coffee.

At the conclusion of the collation, the party embarked on a special car for Taftville, where Superintendent Eccles showed the sights of the mammoth cotton mill. Visits to other points of interest were precluded by want of time, and at 3 o'clock the return journey was begun.

At New London they became the guests of Mr. Parmelee, and were taken in the electric cars to White beach. Mrs. C. W. Carter accompanied the other members.

TAFTVILLE.

Thomas H. Webster is spending a few days at Block Island.

The Catholic societies of this place met Tuesday evening, and five members from each society were chosen to arrange for an excursion. They have chartered the steamer City of Richmond to take them to Block Island July 29.

William R. Boothe's father, of Providence, is visiting him for a few days.

The last meeting for the year was held by the Football club, Wednesday evening, in the club house, and the following members were elected as officers: President, E. Paisley; vice president, W. Sanderson; recording secretary, Thomas Dobson; financial secretary, Robert Barlow; treasurer, James Graham, Jr.; captain, John Brown; vice captain, J. Wood. Committee on players—Lee Heap, John Cluskey, W. Sanderson and Robert Barlow. The club is in a good condition and has a large membership.

THE COURT MARTIAL.

Testimony of Captain Johnstone of the Camperdown.

VALETTA, Malta, July 20.—The court martial appointed to examine into the loss of the battleship Victoria met again today. Capt. Johnstone of the Camperdown, which ran into and sank the Victoria, was re-examined today. He testified that he felt that he was obeying orders without knowing clearly how Vice-Admiral Tryon intended the evolution to be effected. To have hesitated would have been to disobey. His general feeling was that it was safest to confide in the ability of Vice Admiral Tryon. He had on previous occasions obeyed the vice admiral's signals during evolutions without knowing the object of the maneuver. He could not, however, specify instances when he had done this. Midshipman Ogilvie of the Camperdown testified that he was starboard telegraph at the time of the collision. He was certain that he placed the index full speed astern as he had been ordered to.

Seaman Heawood was next examined. He declared that Rear Admiral Markham ordered him to signal to the engine room three-quarters and not full speed astern. This he did.

Engineer Carter corroborated the testimony of Heawood.

Awaiting Cholera Reports From Naples.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Dr. Wyman of the marine hospital service is awaiting further reports from Naples, Italy, as to the progress of cholera with great anxiety. "If additional reports show that the disease was imported into Naples," said Dr. Wyman, "it will be to that extent encouraging, as tending to show that the inhabitants of Naples are free from the germs of the disease and that there is little fear of its spreading to other places. If, however, the outbreak originated in Naples, there is likely to be an epidemic there, and great precautions must be used against its introduction into other countries." A belief exists among the surgeons attached to the marine hospital that the cholera was not imported into Naples, and that further reports will show the existence of other cases in the city that were not reported to the authorities since Monday.

RUSSIAN EXHIBITORS' TROUBLES.

May Develop Into Serious Difficulty With Other Foreign Exhibitors.

THE BELGIANS WITHDRAW

On Account of a Delay in the Examination of Exhibits.

CHICAGO, July 21.—The trouble with the Russian exhibitors at the World's fair may develop into serious difficulty with all the other foreign exhibitors. The foreigners not only wish to sell articles, but wish to deliver them at once, and they complain that the existing arrangements prevent their making any money.

In the case of Russia the facts appear to be briefly as follows: Two agents of the treasury department went into the Russian pavilion in the Manufactures' building yesterday and demanded the keys of one of the cases. All the exhibits being in bond they had a perfect right to examine and were under orders to do so. The exhibitor refused to allow the officers to open the case, and demanded their authority for demanding the keys. Being threatened with arrest in case he refused, he surrendered the keys and the goods were examined. The exhibitor was, it appears, under orders from the Russian commissioner not to allow an examination in his absence, and, moreover, the treasury agents were not in uniform.

The Russian commissioner complains of discourtesy, and demands reparation; otherwise it is threatened that the exhibit will continue as it was yesterday and today, chiefly under cover. The head of the United States custom service at Jackson park, Captain Hall, says that the examination was proper and that several things were found missing.

This difficulty has started all the foreigners in loud complainings, and there is danger of a revolt against the established rule all along the line. The Belgians have written to John Boyd Thacher withdrawing their entire display from competition for awards. They allege as a cause that the exhibits were to have been examined by July 20, which is not yet done.

RACES AT WORCESTER.

Close of a Very Successful Week of Events

WORCESTER, Mass., July 21.—The July meeting of the Worcester Driving Park company closed this afternoon, after the most successful week of horse racing ever seen in this city. The 2.40 trot was a fighting race between Yankee Luck who won his race Wednesday, Joe Alcoyne and Daybreak. Yankee Luck was the favorite and he finally landed first only after dropping heats to Daybreak and Joe Alcoyne. Summary:

CHOLERA SEAPORTS.

Return of Dr. Wheeler from an Investigating Tour of Europe.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Dr. W. A. Wheeler, chief of the Ellis island staff, who has been in Europe for the past three months investigating the various seaports, returned here today on the steamship Britannic. Dr. Wheeler said he would go to Washington in a couple days to hand in the report of his investigation. He said he did not think cholera would come to this country this year, even though it should break out in Europe. Precautions should be taken by United States officials aided by the steamship companies.

Dr. Wheeler went over to Ellis Island and had a long talk with Commissioner Senner. He gave an outline of the condition of things which he saw at the ports of Hamburg, Bremen, Rotterdam, Antwerp, Naples and Marseilles.

In Bremen and Hamburg much care is exercised in sending over emigrants. Most of the Russian emigrants now go to Rotterdam and Antwerp. At Naples, a quarantine barracks was built on the mountain back of the city about a month ago. Emigrants are now held there five days before sailing.

Dr. Wheeler said he believed that the recent cases of cholera in Naples were imported into that city and that there is not much probability of an epidemic. Great care, however, must be taken in receiving emigrants from there.

The Ewen, Mich., Conflagration.

DULUTH, Minn., July 21.—Relative to the fire which nearly wiped out the town of Ewen, Mich., yesterday afternoon, the following dispatch has been received at the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic office here:

"Fire at Ewen at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon burned nearly every building north of the railroad track except a few scattering houses on the outskirts of the town. We had an engine there and saved all railroad property. The only buildings not burned are the depot, water tank and city water works, the town hall and a church."

Fight Between State Troops and Outlaws.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A special to the Evening Post from Ashland, Ky., says: "A report has just reached here from Wise county, Va., that a fight took place Wednesday between state troops and outlaws, and that four soldiers were killed and six outlaws mortally wounded."

Appointed Pension Examiner.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 21.—Dr. Thomas Riley of Adams has been appointed pension examiner for Berkshire county to succeed Dr. C. W. Burton.

A Laborer Found Unconscious.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 21.—John Condron, a laborer, who was found unconscious in a bath tub at the Allyn house barber shop yesterday, has remained unconscious for twenty-four hours at the hospital, and will die.

Boy Bather Drowned.

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Conn., July 21.—Willie Connors, aged thirteen, was drowned while in bathing today. Body recovered.

ONE-LEGGED BICYCLIST.

Rides From San Francisco to New York and Breaks the Record.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Frank S. Beedleson, the one-legged bicyclist who left San Francisco on May 15 to ride across the continent on a safety bicycle, reached the City Hall park at 7:45 Thursday evening, having consumed 66 days 9 hours 45 minutes in making the trip and creating a new record.

The time made by Beedleson lowers Nellson's record by twenty days, and the time made by Thomas Stevens in 1883 by thirty-seven days. The perilous ride, which was accomplished without a mishap, was all the more remarkable from the fact that Beedleson had his right leg amputated just below the hip eleven years ago.

A party of members of the Riverside wheelmen met the tourist at Yonkers, where he arrived at 3 o'clock, and accompanied him to New York. Through[out] his trip he met with very courteous treatment.

He arrived in Chicago on the afternoon of July 3, taking forty-nine days to reach that city from San Francisco. West of Chicago his riding was confined mostly to the railroad tracks, as the roads were unfit to ride upon. Beedleson claims to have ridden the entire distance, excepting twenty-seven miles through the snow-sheds in the vicinity of Blue canyon. He carried only a necessary change of clothing, which was strapped by a luggage carrier to the handle-bars of his wheel. His crutches were also strapped to his machine.

He reached Poughkeepsie at noon on Wednesday. To a reporter he said that he felt no ill effects whatever from his ride. He was confined to his bed at Elko, Nev., for a day on May 26 with grip, but his general health was good throughout the ride.

AERONAUT IN PERIL.

Mme. Karlotta Falls Into the Lake and is Picked Up.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 21.—Nearly three thousand people saw what came very near being Mme. Karlotta's last balloon ascension and parachute jump Thursday at Crystal Beach. At the time appointed for the ascension a strong wind was blowing from the shore across the lake. It was thought this might deter the aeronaut from making the ascent, but neither she nor her dog Columbia, which travels through space with her, appeared in the least nervous. Like an arrow from the bow the balloon ascended when the rope which held it was cut.

When it reached an altitude of five hundred feet it was caught by the wind and in a few minutes was drifting out over the lake. The dog dropped in safety within a few feet of the shore, but Karlotta appeared unwilling to let go. When about three miles from the shore she suddenly dropped, falling into the water.

A tug stood off the shore and started for the spot and found the aeronaut afloat. She had a life belt about her waist which kept her up, but she was in a terribly exhausted condition. Although much shaken up, the aeronaut has [illegible] of continuing her ascensions daily.

MAD DOG SCARE.

Darien Cattle Bitten—Over One Hundred Canines Drowned.

NORWALK, July 21.—Darien, five miles from here, has developed a hydrophobia scare. On June 10, a mongrel dog, supposed to have been owned by a Noroton railroad contractor, entered the village biting several dogs and cows. Subsequently the animal was shot.

Now it appears that the tramp dog had rabies and the various animals here bitten by him have become afflicted with the same malady and are biting every four footed animal that they meet. Several cows have been shot, and a number of others which show symptoms of the disease are closely watched. Yesterday the selectmen employed a Stamford veterinary surgeon, who pronounced the cases as being positively hydrophobia, and a strict quarantine was ordered. Dog owners of the vicinity are rapidly disposing of animals about which there is any suspicion, and it is stated that fully 100 canines have been drowned during the past ten days.

SUDDENLY LEFT TOWN.

Strange Act of a Willimantic Man—Message to His Wife.

WILLIMANTIC, July 21.—Charles A. Henry, a well known young man of this place, employed as a clerk in the shoe store of H. N. Potter, left home very suddenly last evening.

His departure is surrounded with mystery. His wife and daughter had been spending the day with Mrs. Henry's parents in North Windham. Upon returning home at about 8 o'clock last night, Mrs. Henry found a note from her husband awaiting her. It read:

"You may go live with your parents. You will never see me again."

Henry took the 7 o'clock train, and it has been ascertained that he went to New York. No cause is known for his mysterious departure. His finances, as far as known, are all right. He took no more money than was coming to him in wages when he left the store, and his wife says there was no domestic trouble.

Annual State Firemen's Festival.

NEW HAVEN, July 21.—The state firemen's festival was held at Savin Rock today. A large number of companies from all parts of the state were present. The great parade took place at 10 o'clock in the morning, all the companies participating. At noon an old-fashioned shore dinner was served. The remainder of the day was taken up by horse races and other contests.

Kicked in the Face by a Horse.

WINSTED, Conn., July 21.—Bert Munsell, a well-known young man, was kicked in the face by a vicious horse last evening. He will be horribly disfigured for life. His head and face were frightfully cut and five teeth were knocked out. He remained unconscious for several hours. He will probably recover.

Gunn's Defalcation Growing.

LIMA, Ohio, July 21.—The shortages of E. L. Gunn, the Connecticut school fund and insurance agent, who fled the city, leaving innumerable creditors in addition to debts to a large amount to the different companies he represented, will reach a much larger amount than was given in The Enquirer. A very conservative estimate is that his defalcations will amount to nothing less than $20,000, if it will not overreach that amount.

No Cholera in Italy.

LONDON, July 21.—Officials at the Italian embassy in this city state in connection with the report that cholera has appeared in Naples, that they are not aware of the existence of the disease anywhere in Italy. They add that if any serious cholera outbreak had occurred, they certainly would have been informed of it.

CONFIDENCE BEING RESTORED

In the Denver Banks and Commercial Houses.

BUSINESS TO BE RESUMED.

Financial Men Declare the Present Trouble is But Temporary.

DENVER, Colo., July 21.—Confidence in the Denver banks and the commercial houses is being restored in the east and at home with nearly the same rapidity that our people attended its destruction for the first three days of this week.

There has been no suspension of magnitude for two days and no more are expected. The banking houses have determined that they will push no creditor nor serve any attachment upon those who show an honest disposition toward settling. Times will probably be hard here until congress meets, and it is predicted that if silver then receives fair treatment it will not take long to place Denver and Colorado far in advance of where they were when this trouble came.

President D. H. Moffatt of the First National bank, has received a telegram from one of the leading banks of New York offering assistance if needed. Mr. Moffatt replied with thanks that he had more money than he needed. Other houses have had offers. It is understood that the German and State National banks have received large sums of money and will be ready to open their doors again within a very short time.

Comptroller Eckels' telegram to Bank Examiner Adams was opportune and did untold good. Mr. Adams is of the opinion that all the closed banks can settle in full and have a balance left. It will be some days, however, before he can prepare his statement. The commercial houses that went down with the banks are in equally good condition. The Halleck Sayre-Newton Lumber company, which assigned Wednesday with assets of $600,000, resumed business today. The Flanders Dry Goods company, which closed for $300,000, have also resumed. Many others will follow shortly.

The merchants and bankers today issued a card to the public in which they declare their faith in Colorado's future and that the present trouble is but temporary. They regret the violent utterances recently made by excited individuals and declare that they do not represent the people of this city or the state. They conclude by declaring for free coinage of silver and ask all members of congress to aid them in securing this at the coming extra session.

BASE BALL.

Boston 5, New York 4.

BOSTON, July 21.—New York's new battery showed up fine today. The feature of the game was the fielding of Carroll, McCarthy and Tiernan. Attendance 3083. Score:

Boston	0	0	1	0	1	3	0	0	0	—5
New York	0	0	0	2	1	0	0	0	1	—4

Brooklyn 6, Baltimore 5.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 21.—The Brooklyn made a great finish in the sixth inning, scoring four and won with nobody out. When they went to the bat [illegible] Baltimore's favor. Attendance 1,800. Score:

Baltimore	1	1	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	—5

Hits, Brooklyn 14, Baltimore 8; errors, Brooklyn 7, Baltimore 4; batteries, Haddock and Kinslow, Mullane, McNabb and Clarke.

Philadelphia 20, Washington 4.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—Washington had Graff, the new pitcher in the box today, and Philadelphia made 20 hits and 20 runs. Graff gave 13 bases on balls and hit one man. Keefe was almost as generous with bases on balls but his support was first class. Allen and Clements made home runs. Attendance 4,886. Score:

Philadelphia	3	0	2	3	0	0	3	3	6	—20
Washington	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	3	0	—4

Hits, Philadelphia 20, Washington 7; errors, Philadelphia 1, Washington 1; batteries, Keefe and Clements, Graff and Farrell.

St. Louis 10, Cincinnati 10.

ST. LOUIS, July 21.—St. Louis and Cincinnati played a dull ten inning game today. Darkness stopped the playing with the score tied. Parrott, Gleason and Clarkson were batted hard. There will be two games tomorrow. Score:

Cincinnati	1	0	2	0	2	3	1	0	0	1	—10
St. Louis	0	1	0	1	3	0	0	4	1	0	—10

Hits, St. Louis 17, Cincinnati 13; errors, St. Louis 4, Cincinnati 3; batteries, Gleason, Clarkson and Gunson; Parrott, Chamberlain and Vaughn.

Louisville 6, Cleveland 11.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 21.—By sharp playing and superior fielding, together with an elegant pitcher in the box, Cleveland downed Louisville today. Brown, Ewing and McKean made home runs. Attendance 1,800. Score:

Louisville	1	0	0	0	0	0	4	0	1	—6
Cleveland	3	0	0	0	5	0	0	3	0	—11

Hits, Louisville 11, Cleveland 12; errors, Louisville 3, Cleveland 3; batteries, Stratton and Grimm; Young and O'Connor.

Chicago 13, Pittsburg 9.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Gumbert's old comrades chased him out of the box in two innings today. He was succeeded by Colcolough who was effective in all but two innings. Delaney made a home run. Score:

Chicago	3	4	0	5	0	0	1	0	0	—13
Pittsburg	1	2	0	0	3	0	0	3	1	—9

Hits, Chicago 15, Pittsburg 12; errors, Chicago 3, Pittsburg 6; batteries, Hutchison and Kittridge, Gumbert, Colcolough and Snyder.

Second Company Governor's Foot Guard Reorganized.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 21.—The second company of Governor's Foot Guards held a special meeting tonight and reorganized, admitting 104 new members. The company will adopt battalion formation. Another meeting will be held Tuesday night, when officers will be elected. Captain Benjamin E. Brown, business manager of The Register, is mentioned for major.

Suicide at Waterbury.

WATERBURY, Conn., July 21.—James Walker, a baker, aged 53 years, of 265 South Leonard street, committed suicide by hanging this evening. He slipped a noose around his neck, threw the cord over a clothes hook and drew himself up until strangulation ensued. He leaves a wife and seven children.

House and Barn Burned.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 21.—A house and barn belonging to C. D. Warner were burned at South Hadley Falls this afternoon. Loss $5,000; insurance $2,000.

JEWELS ON A DROWNED MAN

Show that the Unfortunate Was a Mason of High Degree.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., July 21.—The body of a man, who there is every reason to believe was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, drifted ashore here Thursday morning. It had evidently been in the water for several weeks.

Charles Meakly, an attendant of Curtis' bath house, found the body drifting in on the flood tide at 7 o'clock. Identification was impossible and the coroner had it sealed in a metallic casket, in which it will be kept for several days in the hope that it may be claimed.

So far as could be judged in the disfigured state of the body the corpse was that of a rather heavily built man, about forty years of age. The skull was denuded of flesh, but there remained clinging to one side of the face the remains of a red moustache. The man evidently wore false teeth for there were no teeth in the upper jaw. Examination revealed no indications of physical injuries and the coroner came to the conclusion that death was due to drowning. This will be definitely determined by an autopsy before the body is interred.

The corpse was clad in a dark sack coat and vest and dark trousers and elastic gaiters, all of excellent quality. The underclothing consisted of a fine white shirt, in the bosom of which was a small ruby stud, white merino undershirt and drawers and black socks. The only article found in the coat pockets was a fine linen handstitched handkerchief, embroidered in one corner with the initial "D."

In the trousers were two badges, one of the Order Knights Templars and the other of the Mystic Shrine; fifty-eight cents in small change, including an old copper cent, bearing the date 1838, and a steel wire gauge. Neatly folded up in the fob pocket were five five-dollar bills. On the left hand was a large seal ring with the initial "D."

The Templar jewel was in the form of a maltese cross of black enamel bearing the motto, "In Hoc Signo Vinces," and a crown and cross set with rubies. The pendant was in the form of a helmet, with barred visor, and on the reverse was a keystone and circle in white enamel, bearing the letters "S. H. T., W., S., S., T., K."

The other badge was a small enamelled button, with a star and cimeter.

RAILROAD CHANGES.

The Philadelphia & Reading to Lose Control of Other Roads.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 21.—An apparently authentic rumor prevails that the Philadelphia & Reading railroad is to lose the Philadelphia, Reading & New England railroad "Old New England & Connecticut Western," August 1. It is stated that the engines of the Philadelphia & Reading have been ordered off the Philadelphia, Reading & New England road on that date. The Philadelphia & Reading acquired control of the other road by guaranteeing the interest on its bonds. It defaulted payment of the May coupon and the bondholders have apparently taken steps to oust it from control.

The road will probably pass into the control of the Central railroad of New Jersey which control by lease the Lehigh Valley & Hudson River road, the connecting link between the Central railroad of New Jersey and the Consolidated road. This report gains credence from the fact that W. E. Bailey, the new superintendent of the P. R. & N. E. road continues to hold his old position of master of transportation of the Lehigh Valley & Hudson River roads.

Decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on Freight Rates.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The decision of the United States supreme court in the case of the Union Pacific vs. Goodridge, just reported, holds that all shippers must be treated by carriers with absolute equality, and distinctly recognizes the right of law-making bodies to regulate railways through railway commissions, especially that feature of state and federal regulation which requires carriers to obtain permission of the commission before granting lower rates to persons and places.

The case was brought under a statute of Colorado which prohibits unjust discrimination in practically the same language as that employed in the interstate commerce law. The same rate, one dollar a ton, was in effect to Denver from Erie and Marshall, but while Erie coal paid the tariff rate Marshall coal was only charged 50 cents a ton, a rebate of 50 cents from the schedule rate.

Call for Protection.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 21.—As the state authorities seem to sympathize with the striking miners, the coal companies have dispatched an attorney to Denver to apply to United States Judge Rives for an injunction to restrain the miners from trespassing on their property or interfering with employes. The object is to place the strike district in charge of United States marshals, instead of running the risk of intrusting it to the state authorities.

The major general of the national guards has been sent to Pittsburg, to be in readiness to command the militia should it be ordered out.

$8,000 Fire at Rutland.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 21.—An old brick store at Center Rutland, owned by F. W. Shedd & Son, was burned this evening together with a large stock of groceries and meat. The loss on building $4,500; on stock $2,500; total insurance $3,500. The fire spread to a house owned by the Rutland Marble company, which was badly gutted.

An Exploding Oil Stove Causes Great Damage.

RUTLAND, Vt., July 21.—The Joseph Tower homestead house and five outbuildings, three miles south of this city, were burned this evening. Loss is estimated at about $5,000. The fire started by the explosion of an oil stove. The place is owned by F. M. Mellows and was occupied by Sarah Tower.

The Bride Is Over Sixty.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 21.—Mrs. M. J. Colbert, sixty-five years old, and W. M. Ingraham, sixty-seven years old, were married at a private boarding house here Thursday night. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of intimate friends and relatives. The couple are well-known pioneer residents of San Antonio. This is not their first matrimonial venture. Each has grandchildren.

Pain's Fireworks Pavilion Destroyed.

CONEY ISLAND, July 21.—Pain's fireworks pavilion, in the rear of the Sea Beach Palace hotel, at West Brighton, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. Loss, $11,000. There was a brisk wind blowing and the flames spread to the Sea Beach Palace hotel and to the building occupied as police headquarters, but neither of these buildings was seriously damaged.

WHOLESALE SWINDLERS.

Their Game Interrupted by the Pittsburg Police.

AN IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

Thousands of Farmers Were Victims of this Gang.

PITTSBURG, July 21.—The police department this afternoon made what is regarded as one of the most important and successful raids that has occurred in this city for many years, not only on account of the magnitude of the supposed swindle, but for the reason that it was perpetrated and carried on under the guise of a legitimate business, whereby it seems that thousands of farmers and small commission men from Maine to the Gulf, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific have been badly swindled.

It appears that for some months past complaints have been coming to the police department from persons all over the country claiming to have shipped valuables and produce to George D. Bohon & Co., produce commission merchants, No. 1006 Pennsylvania avenue, for which they had received no proper return or accounting.

The complaints finally became so numerous that the police department this morning decided to make an investigation, which they did, and which resulted in the arrest of George D. Bohon, senior member of the firm of S. R. Orr & Co., and George A. Grubbs.

About the first thing that greeted the eyes of the police on entering the firm's apartment was a huge pile of typewritten circulars, soliciting consignments of potatoes, apples, onions, peaches, grapes, butter, eggs, poultry, etc.

Besides them were found on the table a large pile of envelopes addressed to farmers and commission men in Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Virginia, and other states.

The police believe the prisoners are swindlers of the most dangerous kind, and will communicate with the authorities of other cities.

Orr is a native of Kansas City. Bohon says he comes from somewhere in New England, and Grubbs claims to be a Pennsylvanian.

ATTACKED BY A CATAMOUNT.

A Philadelphian's Thrilling Fight for Life.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 21.—As Samuel Merrill of Philadelphia was crossing the mountain near Batavia Kill, Wednesday, he was attacked by a huge catamount, which sprang from the branch of a tree and alighted on his shoulders.

The animal felled Merrill, who is a robust fellow weighing about 180 pounds. A desperate conflict ensued. Over and over the man and beast rolled, the claws of the latter deeply imbedded in Merrill's flesh. He finally managed to get a pocket-knife out and plunged it in the catamount's neck.

The warm blood which gushed from the wounded beast nearly blinded the young man. The fight was over, however, for the animal was soon dead. The catamount weighed thirty pounds.

CORBETT SUES FOR LIBEL.

Pugilist Wants $100,000 from The Chicago Evening Post.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 21.—James J. Corbett has employed an attorney and instructed him to begin a suit for $100,000 libel against The Evening Post, which has repeatedly referred to him as a two-legged brute.

The trouble arose over the efforts being made to oust Corbett from Midway Plaisance, where he is giving exhibitions. Corbett claims that The Post has persistently abused him, and that his character has been damaged.

Lightning's Funny Freak.

NEWARK, N. J., July 21.—During a thunder storm lightning struck the high tower of St. John's Roman Catholic church, yet carefully avoided the great gilded cross which surmounts it. After playing for an instant on the slate roof, which it badly damaged, it descended through the roof and the ceiling of the nave and transfixed the forehead of an heroic fresco painting of King David. The lightning struck King David's forehead at a point corresponding to that where Goliath received his fatal blow from David's sling 2,600 years ago.

There are many paintings of the Virgin and of the saints and martyrs on the walls and ceiling, but none of them, except that of King David, was injured.

Body of a Child Found in the Connecticut River.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 21.—The naked body of a female child, not more than a few hours old, was found this afternoon in the Connecticut river at Holyoke. Medical Examiner Tuttle found in his autopsy that the child had died from suffocation and that it had been in the water less than twenty-four hours.

Jumped 135 Feet "Just for Fun."

NEW YORK, July 21.—Matthew Rooney, a laborer of Kingsbridge, jumped from Washington bridge into the Harlem river Thursday afternoon, a distance of 135 feet. He was taken from the water alive and removed to Fordham hospital, where it was found he had a fractured spine and was injured internally. Recovery impossible.

When asked why he jumped from the bridge Rooney's only answer was "just for fun."

Commissioner Brennan Resigns.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Commissioner Thomas Brennan has resigned from the street cleaning department.

An Engineer and Conductor's Experience.

Mr. Wm Huston, of Weehawken, N. J., the oldest engineer of the West Shore R. R., a member of Unity Division, No. 233, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, suffered for years from an aggravated kidney trouble and dyspepsia.

In conversation with our reporter, Mr. Huston spoke in glowing terms of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy as the one medicine that does what it is recommended to do "For" said Mr. Huston: "I had been under the treatment of some of the best physicians, and used many preparations without deriving the least benefit. One day Conductor Fraser of our road said to me, 'If you want to get well and cure that kidney trouble and dyspepsia, just use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.' I acted upon Mr. Fraser's advice, and used Favorite Remedy but a short while, when my old troubles passed away and I have been sound and well ever since.

One of Norwich's physicians said "I prescribe Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy altogether now for dyspepsia, kidney or liver complaints, rheumatism, and all urinary diseases, instead of the old time medicines, as the results from its use are quicker and more satisfactory, and I believe every dyspeptic or rheumatic victim should use it." jy21waS

Fish Never More Plenty.

Never before have flounders been so abundant in the waters of Fishers Island sound and vicinity. The bottom of the ocean at Watch Hill is literally covered with the fish, and tremendous catches are reported every day. Bluefish are also abundant. Small mackerel are running well all along the Rhode Island shore, and blackfish are plenty. The season is one of the best for fishing for many years.

Through Connecticut Awheel.

J. Perry Worden, formerly of The New York Sun and now of The Outing Magazine, is touring on his wheel through Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont for material for magazine articles and lecturing and was in Hartford Thursday.

Mr. Worden made a trip of twelve and one half weeks in Europe last summer for $85. He carries a complete photographic outfit and does his own cooking. He is a brother of G. Minturn Worden, the racing cyclist.

Feeding the Troops at Camp Morris.

Colonel Doherty of the Second, Colonel Frost of the Fourth and Colonel Tyler of the Third regiment and General Haven, Adjutant General Bradley and Quartermaster General Harbinson met at the capitol Thursday afternoon to discuss the arrangements for catering at Camp Morris at Niantic, this year. Under the new military law there is much doubt as to whether or not each company will engage its own caterer, and the object of the meeting was to discuss the situation thoroughly. No definite conclusion was arrived at however. It was stated after the meeting that the state would probably engage caterers to look after the wants of the entire camp, but nothing had been decided on positively.

A Candidate for Warden.

The Middletown Herald remarks: "The friends of John I. Hutchinson are hustling around trying to elect him as warden of the state prison at Wethersfield. Mr. Hutchinson would make a most excellent warden. His many years experience as sheriff of this county especially fits him for this office. Mr. Hutchinson's election would please his many friends.

Peach Yellows.

J. M. Hubbard, commissioner on peach yellows, has completed his list of deputies by appointing E. J Hempstead of New London deputy for New London county. Inspections of all orchards in which peach, almond, apricot or nectarine trees are growing, must be between June 1 and July 31 of each year. A set of rules, approved by the state board of agriculture, has been issued by Commissioner Hubbard.

Base Ball Jottings.

The White Rock Base Ball club, with friends will arrive in the harbor on the steamer Martha about noon today. An exciting game is expected on the Greeneville grounds this afternoon.

Stafford, who was with the Putnam base ball team two years ago, is now with the New York Giants. He joined the Augusta, Ga., club, but the New York club secured his release by paying $800 to the Augusta club. The New York Tribune says: "Stafford, the new player, has done remarkable work, and Ward believes that if he can secure two or three more such players his team will be all right."

The Willimantic and Putnam teams play at Putnam this afternoon. Next week Saturday the Boston Reds will be in Putnam.

The Waterbury Republican is the authority for the statement that Capt. Bowers and Short-stop Murphy of the Yale nine that won the championship at Chicago last week, are to play on the Acme team of Waterbury this summer.

The Mystics play the Wood River ball team at Mystic today. This club recently defeated the Mystic by a small score and much interest centers in this game, which the home team expect to win. Lovett and Robinson will be the battery for Mystic.

NEED WATER BADLY.

The Protracted Drought Working Havoc Among the Crops.

This hot weather with the attendant lack of rainfall, beside breeding discomfort for the man about town, is working a great injury to the farmers. They are suffering much on account of the sun's hot rays, and because it doesn't rain their crops are slowly, but surely, losing their lease of life and are becoming prays to Old Sol instead of to hungry people's appetites. July thus far has been a hard month for the raisers of vegetables throughout the state. It wasn't warm enough during the early part of the month and the last of June for the garden stuff to obtain a good start. Rain also was almost an unknown quantity.

Here it is July 22 and for eight days hardly a drop has fallen and the farmers are consequently dropping into a condition of extreme despair. Potatoes, which now are scheduled to be doing nicely, present drooping vines, with a tendency toward being burned. Water is needed at once to alleviate the evil and if it doesn't come quickly it will not be surprising if potatoes bring a big price this fall.

All the brooks on Wauwecus hill are dried up, and every where the need of rain is keenly felt.

AN ADMIRABLE INSTITUTION.

What the Recently Improved Otis Library Offers to Citizens These Days.

There is probably no cooler place in the city during the hot weather than is the reading room of the Otis library. The wonder is that more people do not appreciate the fact! The library is open from 9 a. m. to 8 30 p. m. daily, and as late as 9.30 on Saturday evenings. All the local papers and the leading New York dailies, the standard magazines and different trades' publications are provided, and there is no restriction beyond that which forbids loud talking.

Miss Anna G. Rockwell, the industrious catalogue, will have finished her work by August 1. Indeed the catalogue proper is ready for the printers; but there have been delays in handling certain bulky government reports, and certain of the books which were nibbled by the mice when stored in the court house, have had to be rebound and classified.

Miss Ada Crandall has finished typewriting the reference cards, etc., and with the assistance of Mrs. Robinson and Miss Greenwood, Miss Rockwell has prepared catalogues so ingeniously that the 16,000 books are within the easiest possible access. The Dewey system of classification is followed; and except in the department of Fiction book seekers are allowed to go to the shelves and select volumes at will. Three volumes of Poole's Index down to 1892 furnish guide to those in search of particular subjects and an index to general literature furnishes further aid.

A bulletin of new books is placed near the entrance, with call slips and pencils, that readers may have the means at hand for noting the numbers of books desired. Fourteen hundred and seventy people now enjoy the benefits of the Library, the daily average of books given out reaching 150, and 350 on Saturday.

The librarian and assistants are not only willing but anxious to afford help or answer questions pertaining to books, and to make this as originally intended, not an institution for the privileged few, but for the people, the great middle class, whose aims and avocations lead them to desire such help as only the best books—embodying the best thoughts of the best thinkers—can afford.

Additions to the shelves are being made daily. As usual, a feature is the number and character of children's books, which are separately classed and catalogued.

A few wise readers take advantage of the cool room and the good electric light every evening and improve the advantages of the reading room, really one of the greatest advantages the city affords.

BOYCOTT UPHELD.

Important Decision by Minnesota Supreme Court.

END OF VERY CELEBRATED CASE.

Court Says a Man Has a Right to Refuse to Work For Any Man.

St. Paul, July 21.—A very important decision was handed down by the supreme court yesterday which has a wide bearing on labor and capital alike. It is in the case of the Bohn Manufacturing company of this city vs. W. C. Hollis et al., representing the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, which excited a great deal of interest a few months ago, when it first came.

The Bohn Manufacturing company was a member of the association, and the constitution provides that no wholesale dealer shall sell goods at any place at less prices than retail dealers. The Bohn Manufacturing company was accused of violating the agreement, and was notified by the secretary that a circular would be sent to all members notifying them of the fact. The Bohn company served an injunction on Secretary Hollis, on the grounds that its by such action. The lower court sustained the plea and granted a permanent injunction against the boycott.

The order of the lower court was reversed in yesterday's decision, for the reason that the Bohn company, being a member of the association, should conform to its rules, and hence had no ground for an injunction.

The supreme court holds that any man, unless under contract obligation or unless his employment charges him with some public duty, has a right to refuse to work for or deal with any man or class of men he sees fit, and this right, which one man may exercise singly, any number of Men May Exercise Jointly.

In his opinion, which is quite long, Judge Mitchell reviews the history of the case, and then says it presents one phase of a subject which is likely to be one of the most important and difficult which will confront the courts during the next quarter of a century.

"This is the age of associations and labor unions," continues the court. "Confined to their proper limits they are not only lawful, but laudable. Carried beyond these limits they are liable to become dangerous agencies for wrong and oppression. Beyond what limits these combinations cannot go without interfering with the legal rights of others is the problem which the courts will doubtless be frequently called to pass upon."

DRAGGED TO THE ASYLUM.

Wife Separated From Her Child and Taken to Insane Home.

Amityville, L. I., July 21.—Many citizens here saw yesterday a young wife and mother apparently sane dragged to the insane home, while her husband who had snatched her baby from her arms was deaf to her pitiful cries for its return. "I will go anywhere if you will only give me my baby," she cried, but the asylum attendants only tried to smother her pleading while the husband made no sign.

His name is Charles Hanburst of 420 East Forty-second street, New York, and his place of business is at 148 Maiden lane. All who saw the wife during her several hours' stay in Amityville, declare she acted rational. She was seized at her husband's instigation while standing with him on the platform of the railroad station waiting for a train to bring them back to the city.

GENERAL WALKER DEAD.

Accomplished Linguist Who Served Upon Several Special Missions.

Washington, July 21.—General John G. Walker died at his residence in this city yesterday from a stroke of paralysis sustained on Thursday last, in the 70th year of his age.

Before the war he was captain of a company of United States cavalry, but in 1861 resigned and went south to battle with the confederate forces, and was a distinguished figure in the battles of Sharpsburg, Manassas and all the fights around Richmond.

He was an accomplished linguist, and during Mr. Cleveland's first administration served the government upon several special missions in South America.

SERIOUS CONFLAGRATION.

Two Entire Blocks of Buildings Burned at Long Island City.

Long Island City, N. Y., July 21.—Two entire blocks of buildings in this city were destroyed by fire early this morning. The new St. Mary's Roman Catholic church just completed at a cost of $800,000, is totally destroyed. The parsonage was one of the first buildings thoroughly gutted by the flames. The costly new parochial school, which had never been used, was also destroyed.

The flames started in Gray's refrigerator factory in Fourth street, and spread rapidly through the large stock of dry timber. A southerly wind carried the flames, and soon the whole block, bounded by Jackson avenue on the west, by Vernon and Fourth streets on the south, and by Fifth street on the north, was in flames.

The fire department could do nothing to stop the progress of the flames. Help was asked from Brooklyn, but before it arrived the entire block in which the fire started was doomed. The other buildings burned are: On Vernon avenue, W. A. Mahkan's drug store, M. C. Rudolph's furnishing store, J. J. O'Connor's paint store; on Jackson avenue, Jacob Creter's hotel, a vacant store, Owen Clark's bottling establishing, Weindorf's barber shop, Scarborough's jewelry store, four tenement houses, and a four-story brick building; on Fourth street, Gray's factory and a row of small frame buildings. Governor Flower owned a row of tenements that were burned. The burned blocks included grocery, dry goods and paint stores and a number of tenement houses. The inmates of these escaped uninjured.

After burning nearly an hour the flames leaped across to the opposite building on Fourth and Fifth streets, and the firemen were powerless to check their progress.

The burned blocks made up the business portion of the First ward. More than 100 families have been rendered homeless. The loss is about $800,000. The water lasted until the fire was nearly under control, and then there was a shortage.

ITALY COMPLAINS

That Law Requiring Notification of Death is Not Complied With.

Concord, N. H., July 21.—Governor Smith has received a communication from Secretary of State Gresham, which says that art. 16 of the convention of May 8, 1878, between the United States and Italy provides that in the case of the death of an American citizen in Italy or of an Italian subject in the United States who has no known heir or testamentary executor designated by him, the competent local authority shall give notice of the fact to the consul or consular agent of the nation of the deceased, in order that the information may be at once transmitted to the parties interested.

The government of Italy alleges that the local authorities of the states of the Union fail in many instances to comply with the stipulations of this article.

Secretary Gresham asks the governor to bring the provisions of the article in question to the attention of the local authorities in this state, in order that its stipulations may be complied with.

COREY'S BLOCK DAMAGED.

Fire at Marlboro Does Serious Injury. Spectator Injured.

Marlboro, Mass., July 21.—Fire broke out in Corey's block at 7 o'clock this morning, and did considerable damage. Lampson & Robinson, hardware dealers, estimate their loss by fire, water and smoke at $4000; fully insured.

Bradley & Brigham, tinware and stove dealers, sustained considerable damage to their stock by water; insured. Brown & Larivière's stock of clothing was damaged by smoke to the extent of about $3000; insured. C. H. Stone, grocer, loses about $10; insured.

The damage to the building, which is owned by the Corey heirs, is estimated at about $500, insured.

The fire started in the basement, but in what manner is unknown. Laurie S. Brigham was badly injured by falling from a building while watching the fire.

One of Teck Family Dead.

London, July 21.—Princess Amelie, wife of Baron Paul Hurgel and youngest sister of the Duke of Teck, died today at Gratz, capital of Styria, Austria. The Duke of Teck started for Gratz immediately upon receipt of the news of his sister's death. The princess was an aunt of Princess May, wife of the Duke of York, who is now spending her honeymoon at Sandringham.

Knitting Mill Will Close.

Cohoes, N. Y., July 21.—The big Cascade mills on Adams island, operated by G. H. McDowell & Co., will shut down Saturday, July 22, and remain closed for an indefinite period. The Cascade mills are among the largest and best equipped knit goods manufactories in the Spindle City, and their suspension is caused by the depressed money market.

Iron Works Shut Down.

Plattsburg, N. Y., July 21.—The Chateaugay ore and iron company, whose mines and iron foundries are located at Lyon mountain, closed down yesterday, as did also the Crown Point iron company mines and ironmakers at Crown point. The cause given is dullness in the iron trade. About 1000 men are thrown out of employment.

Another Banking House Closed.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 21.—The banking houses of J. R. Wheeler & Co., at Colorado City and Manitou, whose branch at Aspen closed Wednesday, failed to open their doors yesterday. The assets of the Manitou bank are $114,000. The liabilities are $64,000. All depositors will be paid in full.

Missouri Bank In Trouble.

Harrisonville, Mo., July 21.—The First National bank of Harrisonville suspended payment yesterday, and is in the hands of the comptroller of the currency. The assets are between $80,000 and $90,000, and the liabilities between $30,000 and $40,000.

Will Be Curtis' Third Trial.

San Francisco, July 21.—The case of M. B. Curtis, charged with killing Police Officer Grant, called for trial in the superior court yesterday, was by mutual consent continued until July 31. This will be Curtis' third trial.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., July 21.—Michael Toole, a fish dealer of this place, while in a fit of despondency late yesterday afternoon, drank carbolic acid with suicidal intent. He is now in a critical condition.

Drowned While Bathing.

Millbury, Mass., July 21.—Arthur Aubuchant, the 9-year-old son of Richard Aubuchant, was drowned while bathing in Lapham's pond, Bramville, this forenoon. The body was recovered.

Studying Mackerel.

Woods Hull, Mass., July 21.—The fish commission steamer Fish Hawk is at Eastport, Me., with an expedition of scientists aboard, under the charge of Professor Rathbun of Washington. The party is collecting data relative to the whereabouts of mackerel and menhaden. The experts will call at the principal fishing points along the Maine coast and gather all the information possible as to the location of the mackerel, their habits, etc.

Depositors Will Not Lose.

Grand Junction, Colo., July 21.—The First National bank failed to open its doors yesterday. A notice posted on the door stated the liabilities to be $50,000, assets $100,000, leaving a balance of $56,000 in favor of the bank. The depositors were further informed that no one would lose a penny and that the bank would reopen as soon as it could realize upon its securities.

Yacht Aida Will Be Floated.

Vineyard Haven, Mass., July 21.—Captain William Buckley, diver, of this port, left here this morning with steamer Mayda to work on the steam yacht Aida, stranded at Cedar Tree neck. It is probable that an effort will be made to float her. The wreck has been given by her owners to George Lane, a resident of this island.

Robbed by Footpads.

Boston, July 21.—At a late hour last night, as Dr. Henry Hull of 382 Somerville avenue, Somerville, was passing through Myrtle street, he was set upon by three footpads. He was soon overcome and relieved of $43, which he had in his pocket, and a very valuable gold watch. The assailants made good their escape.

City Solicitor Bailey Better.

Boston, July 21.—City Solicitor Bailey, who was stricken with apoplexy yesterday, is reported much better today. A reporter received official assurance at the hospital that Mr. Bailey would be able to leave there within a very few days.

Church Free From Debt.

Lynn, Mass., July 21.—The First M. E. church, Lynn, is now free from debt for the first time in 31 years, $10,000 having been raised during the past year to lift the indebtedness.

No Cholera in Naples.

Rome, July 21.—The Naples newspapers contain no mention of cholera in the city, and correspondents profess inability to gain any information concerning an epidemic there.

New York's Mayor In Maine.

New York, July 21.—Mayor Gilroy leaves tomorrow for Poland Springs, Me. He will spend a large part of his vacation there.

Cashier of Mint Arrested.

New Orleans, July 21.—Cashier James M. Dowling of the United States mint was arrested yesterday on a charge of embezzling $25,000 from the government, made by the district attorney at the instance of the department at Washington. He was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. He is in custody awaiting the efforts of friends to get bonds.

In Middle Smithfield, Pa., there is a chestnut tree the trunk of which measures 19 feet in circumference breast high.

In Germany and Hungary magic qualities are attached to the lime or linden tree. In some villages it is usual to plant one before a house to prevent a witch from entering.

Attar of roses comes from the rose gardens of Ghazeepoor in India, where the bushes are planted in rows for acres. Every morning the blossoms are gathered and distilled with twice their weight in water. This is "att" for oil, and the oil is skimmed off and prepared for sale.

Lemon grass, known only in Ceylon, grows to a height of six or seven feet and ignites spontaneously. At first a single bright tongue of flame will be noticed. Soon, however, as the water runs down the stalks and mingles with the oil contained in the curious herb fierce fires burst into view, soon covering the whole mountain in a sheet of flame.

WAVES OF WATER.

Paris now gets its water supply from six great springs. The water travels through 88 miles of aqueducts.

DRESSING ROOM DON'TS.

Don't—cover your face with one of the purple veils. Very few colored veils are to be trusted as being becoming, while black and white are always in good style.

Don't—if your feet are short and broad—squeeze them with agony into the shortest shoes you can put on. If you wear a 2D, get a 3½A and see how much slenderer and better shape your feet will look.

Don't—if you are blond, brunette or medium—be afraid of wearing yellow. There is surely one shade of that color which will suit you and bring out all the pink in your skin. If you are sallow, it will make you look white.

Don't—if you are very thin or very stout, or if you even suspect yourself of a tendency either way—be beguiled by your dressmaker into having an empire gown. It is a style which suits one woman out of ten, and the other nine are simply foils to set off her charms.

Don't—if you have a pale complexion—wear a light gray or tan felt hat, because it will give you the effect of being sallow. If you must, have it a light shade to match your dress, and line the inside with dark velvet, which will make your skin look fair.

Don't—copy everything that you see in the fashion. Suit your own figure and face, and among all the varied designs you will find something that will give you an individuality of your own. Remember that the lovely ladies in fashion plates are all Venuses, which few of us are.

Don't—unless your arms are white and rounded—wear only a little puff on the shoulders in your party dresses. Have your sleeves made in one or two big drooping puffs to reach almost to the elbow, where they will meet the long gloves of the same shade. You will look quite as stylish and dressy.—Boston Globe.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning July 23.
Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Fellowship in work. Acts xviii, 3; John xvii, 20-23.

Fellowship is emphasized in the Scripture in all relations of life—fellowship in joy, "Rejoice with them that do rejoice;" fellowship in sorrow, "Weep with them that weep;" fellowship in burden bearing, "Bear ye one another's burdens." As Christian people are to unite in sorrow, joy and burden bearing, so there is to be co-operation in labor—fellowship in work.

1. An illustration of fellowship in work (Acts xviii, 3). Departing from Athens, Paul has come to Corinth. Here he becomes acquainted with Aquila, who had lately come from Rome because of the persecution of Claudius. Aquila was a tentmaker by trade, and so was Paul; therefore they abode together that they might ply their trade together—fellowship in work. It was a natural and pleasant thing for them to do, and their experience is often repeated. Men of the same trade work together. This was fellowship in physical labor, but there should also be fellowship in spiritual labor. Christ commended such fellowship, for He sent out the disciples not alone, but two by two. Paul always had a companion with him in his travels for upbuilding Christ's kingdom. Such examples may well be emulated. There is much that is pleasant and beneficial in work of such a character.

2. Fellowship in work—how made possible (John xvii, 21)? This inquiry may be answered by one sentence: Union with Christ. In the reference quoted Christ is praying for the disciples just before His crucifixion. He prays "that they may all be one, as Thou, Father, art in Me and I in Thee; that they may be also one with Us." Union with Christ is necessary to successful individual work. "As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine, no more can ye except ye abide in Me." If each member of the Christian church or community or organization abide in Christ, then they can work profitably and successfully together not only as colaborers, but also "as workers together with Him." Without personal union with Christ there cannot be this fellowship in work.

3. The result of Christian fellowship in work (John xvii, 21). It commends Christianity to men of the world and influences many to believe on Christ. Unity always adds strength. Division adds weakness. If there was more union of views, of affections and efforts among the disciples of Christ today, it would furnish increasing evidence of the divine excellence of His religion and lead increasing numbers to embrace it. Let us have, therefore, more fellowship in work.

Bible References—Ezra iv, 3; Ps. xlix, 3; lv, 14; Luke x, 1-16; John xv, 4, 5; Acts xiii, 1-4; Rom. xii, 4-16; II Cor. viii, 1-4; Gal. ii, 9; Phil. iv, 3; Eph. v, 11; II Tim. iii, 16, 17; Jas. iii, 17; I John i, 6, 7.

Senior Christian Endeavor.

In what sphere can the senior department be of use? It can make the midweek services of the church its special solicitude. It ought to do this without any accompaniment of machinery. Holding its meetings for business only, at other times its members can go to this service as any one else goes, and there unostentatiously but persistently apply the principles of the Christian Endeavor pledge to the opportunity of the hour. Where this is wisely done the seniors will not excite jealousies and antagonisms, but will create for themselves a welcome.

Beyond this special service it is not too much to hope and predict that the churches will gradually welcome the application of Christian Endeavor principles to all their activities. These principles underlie all Christian work and by the force of their inherent reasonableness have the right of general application. Our missionary women have realized the wisdom of reducing their organizations—one for foreign and the other for home work—into one organization, working at will in either direction, and the day draws on apace when the church will foster the Christian Endeavor society as a central organization, subordinate to itself and will do through it its manifold work.—Golden Rule.

The Spread of Christian Endeavor.

There is a Christian Endeavor society in almost every community in the United States and many in foreign countries. The constitution is printed in 11 languages, and the membership is increasing at the rate of 1,000 per day.

No Place For Religious Cripples.

An English Endeavorer says that one aim of the society is to do away with religious cripples.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

For two years the Lancaster (N. H.) society has supported a Bible reader in Sholapoor, India, whose salary is $36.

The Lima (O.) Presbytery Endeavor union voted awhile ago to raise $600 to pay the salary of a Presbyterian missionary to Chili. That amount has been raised by the societies, and $35 more.

In California the work has spread with wonderful rapidity, and the recent convention shows that there is no superficiality about the workers. Endeavorers in Oregon are not asleep, but growing at the rate of a 33 per cent increase each year.

God's love is a complete circle, one segment of which is His wisdom, another His power, another His justice, another His truth. Himself is love.

Tell the heathen world the story
Of the Christ who came to save,
How He showed the Father's glory,
How He, stainless, foiled the grave;
Till to earth's remotest bound—
The dead may live; the lost be found.

A Christian Endeavor society has been formed in the American church, Paris, Rev. Edward G. Thurber, D. D., pastor.

The German Lutheran Endeavorers have now two publications devoted to their interests. They are about forming a denominational union.

Be kind to a love. Your beauty was given,
Fair woman, that you might lift mankind above
The world and its woes. 'Twas sent you from heaven;
Be careful and constant and kind to a love.

For the heart that returns to a love long neglected
To hear the old story that never grows old
And claims the caresses so often rejected
Will sorrow to learn that that love has grown cold.

—Cy Warman in New York Sun.

LIZERUNT.

Somewhere in the register was written the name Elizabeth Hunt, but 17 years after the entry the spoken name was Lizerunt.

She worked at a pickle factory and appeared abroad in an elaborate and shabby costume, usually supplemented by a white apron.

Withal she was something of a beauty—that is to say, her cheeks were very red, her teeth were very large and white, her nose was small and snub and her fringe was long and shiny, while her face, new washed, was susceptible of a high polish.

Many such girls are married at 16, but Lizerunt was much belated and had never a bloke at all.

Billy Chope was a year older than Lizerunt. He wore a billycock with a thin brim and a permanent dent in the crown. He had a bobtail coat, and his collar was turned up at one side and down at the other, as an expression of independence. Between his meals he wore his hands in his breeches pockets. He lived with his mother, who mangled.

His conversation with Lizerunt consisted long of perfunctory nods, but this especial Thursday evening, as Lizerunt, making for home, followed the fading red beyond the farthermost end of Commercial road, great things happened, for Billy Chope, slouching in the opposite direction, lurched across the pavement as they met, and taking the nearer hand from his pocket caught and twisted her arm, bumping her against the wall.

"Garn," said Lizerunt, greatly pleased, "le' go!" For she knew that this was love.

"Where yer auf to, Lizer?"

"'Ome, o' course, cheeky. Le' go!" and she snatched in vain at Billy's hat.

Billy let go and capered in front. She feigned to dodge by him, careful not to be too quick, because affairs were developing.

"I sy, Lizer," said Billy, stopping his dance and becoming businesslike, "goin anywhere Monday?"

"Not along o' you, cheeky. You go 'long o' Beller Dawson, like wot you did Easter."

"Blow Beller Dawson; she ain't no good. I'm goin on the flats. Come?"

Lizerunt, delighted but derisive, ended with a promise to "see." The bloke had come at last, and she walked home with the feeling of having taken her degree.

She had half assured herself of it two days before, when Sam Cardew threw an orange peel at her, but went away after a little prancing on the pavement.

Sam was a smarter fellow than Billy and earned his own living. Probably his intentions were serious, but one must prefer the bird in hand.

There is no other fair like Whit Monday's on Wanstead flats. Here is a square mile and more of open land where you may howl at large. Here the public houses are always with you; shows, shies, swings, merry-go-rounds, fried fish stalls, donkeys, are packed closer than on Hampstead Heath.

Also you may be drunk and disorderly without being locked up, for the stations won't hold everybody, and when all else has palled you may set fire to the turf.

Hereinto Billy and Lizerunt projected themselves from the doors of the Holly Tree on Whit Monday morning.

But through hours and hours of fried fish and half pints both were conscious of a deficiency, for the hat of Lizerunt was brown and old, plush it was not, and its feather was a mere foot long and very rusty black.

Now, it is not decent for a factory girl from Limehouse to go bank holidaying under any but a hat of plush, very high in the crown and of a wild blue or a wilder green, carrying also an ostrich feather, pink or scarlet, or what not that springs from the fore part, climbs the crown and drops as far down the shoulders as may be.

Lizerunt knew this and would have stayed at home without a bloke, but a chance is a chance.

Billy, too, had a vague impression—muddled, but not drowned in half pints—that some degree of plush was condign to the occasion and to his own expenditure.

Still there was no quarrel, and the pair walked and ran with arms about each other's necks, and Lizerunt thumped her bloke on the back at proper intervals, so that the affair proceeded very regularly, although in view of Lizerunt's shortcomings Billy did not insist upon the customary exchange of hats.

Everything went well and well enough until Billy bought a ladies' tormentor and began to squirt it at Lizerunt.

For then Lizerunt went scampering madly with piercing shrieks until her bloke was left some little way behind, and Sam Cardew, turning up at that moment and seeing her running alone in the crowd, threw his arms about her waist and swung her round him again and again as he floundered this way and that among the shies and the hoky poky barrows.

"'Ullo, Lizer! Where are y' a-comin to? If I 'adn't laid 'old o' yer"——

But here Billy Chope arrived to demand what Sam Cardew was doing with his gal. Now, Sam was ever ready for a fight than Billy was, but the sum of Billy's half pints was large, wherefore the fight began.

On the skirt of the hilarious ring Lizerunt, after some small outcry, triumphed aloud. Four days before she had no bloke, and here she stood with two, and these two fighting for her! Here in the public gaze on the flats! For almost five minutes she was Helen of Troy.

And in much less Billy tasted repentance. The lust of half pints was dispelled, and some truth went with it.

Presently he rose and made a running kick at the other, but being thwarted in a bolt flung himself down, and it was like to go hard with him at the hands of the crowd. Punch, you may, on Wanstead flats, but alteration and worse is your portion if you kick anybody except your wife.

But as the ring closed the helmets of two policemen were observed working inward above the surrounding heads, and Sam Cardew, quickly assuming his coat, turned away with such an air of blamelessness as is practicable with a damaged eye, while Billy went off unheeded in the opposite direction.

Billy was all very well, but Sam was better. She resolved to draw him for a feathered hat before next bank holiday. So the sun went down on her and her bloke hanging on each other's necks and straggling toward the Romford road with shouts and choruses. The rest was tramcar, low music hall, half pints and darkness.

Billy took home his wounds, and his mother, having moved his wrath by asking their origin, sought refuge with a neighbor. His revenge he accomplished in two installments. Two nights later Lizerunt was going with a jug of beer when somebody sprang from a park corner, landed her under the ear, knocked her sprawling and made off to the sound of her bullaballoo. She did not see who it was, but she knew, and next day Sam Cardew was swearing he'd break Billy's back.

He did not, however, for that evening a gang of seven or eight fell on him with sticks and belts. (They were Causeway chaps, while Sam was a Brady's laner, which would have been reason enough by itself, even if Billy Chope had not been one of them.)

He lay at home for nearly four weeks, and when he stood up again it was in many bandages. Lizerunt came often to his bedside, and twice she brought an orange.

But the weeks went on. It was a month, and Sam had left his bed, and Lizerunt was getting a little tired of bandages. Also she had begun to doubt and consider bank holiday—scarcely a fortnight off.

For Sam was stone broke, and a plush hat was farther away than ever. And all through the later of these weeks Billy Chope was harder than ever on his mother.

There was a milliner's window with a show of nothing but fashionable plush and feather hats, and Lizerunt was lingering thereabouts one evening when some one took her by the waist, and some one said: "Which d'yer like, Lizer? The yaller un?"

Lizerunt turned and saw it was Billy. She pulled herself away and backed off, sullen and distrustful. "Garn," she said.

"Straight," said Billy. "I'll sport yer one. No kid, I will."

"Garn," said Lizerunt once more. "Wot yer gettin at now?"

But presently she approached less guardedly, and she went away with a paper bag and the reddest of all the plushes and the bluest of all the feathers, a hat that challenged all the flats the next bank holiday.

As for Billy, why, he was as good as another, and you can't have everything, and Sam Cardew, with his bandages and his grunts and groans, was no great catch after all.

This was the wooing of Lizerunt, for in a few months she and Billy married. And they lived with Billy's mother.—National Observer.

What Is Done With Old Shoes.

"What do we do with old shoes that are left here?" said a shoe dealer, repeating a customer's question. "Well, we never do anything with them. There's a pile in the yard now waiting for the ash man to carry off. If while it is there any old bum wants to be shod, we send him out and let him take his pick. But I know one shoe store that keeps all its castoffs for a collector. In fact, I'm not sure that he doesn't pay a little something for them. Haven't the least idea what he does with them, but shouldn't wonder if you could buy the best of them afterward in Hester street for 10 cents a pair, and, for all I know, some of them may be worked over into cheap stock."—New York Sun.

The Salvation Army.

Speaking in Exeter hall, London, General Booth said the Salvation Army is now established in 33 countries; its work is carried on in 31 languages; it has 40 newspapers and magazines, with an annual circulation of 43,000,000 copies; it numbers 8,070 stations or societies, controlled by 10,816 officers (excluding 19,738 non-commissioned officers and 12,329 bandsmen), and it reaches an estimated number of 7,000,000 persons every week.

That Accounts For It.

"How old is this wine, landlord?"

"That bottle has been lying eight years in our cellar."

"Indeed! Then isn't it rather surprising that the bottle is only three parts full, and there's actually a fly swimming on the top?"

A Benefactor of Bar Harbor.

The mother of A. Hardy, the novelist, was one of the first cottagers at Bar Harbor. To her belongs the honor of introducing the aborigines there to the mysteries of "raised" bread. Before her advent they had depended throughout all their previous lives on soda biscuit made fresh three times a day.

Putting It Gently.

"No, marquis, I would be unable to make you happy."

"Vy wooll you always persest to underestimate yourself?"

"Well, you see, I've been brought up to forget that I'm a millionaire's only daughter."—Life.

The Medical Profession.

Every new treatment, every fresh drug, every medicine that is discovered is one more drop from the great ocean of knowledge segregated that we may study it for the benefit of mankind. In it there are good and evil, but if we approach it with reverent earnestness and study that we may know we can assure ourselves that we are helping on the great science to which we have devoted our lives. This is reward enough, and this reward shall surely come to the physician who will work. The amelioration of the physical ills of man is the end and aim of our most noble profession, and it is pleasant to remember that even the enthusiasts aid in the great work by their devotion to their fads.—Cyrus Edson, M. D., in North American Review.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON IV, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, JULY 23.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xviii, 1-11—Memory Verses, 9-11—Golden Text, I Cor. i, 18—Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

1. "After these things Paul departed from Athens and came to Corinth." His testimony was not in vain at Athens, for some clave unto him and believed. See previous verse. He did not expect that all the seed would fall on good soil; neither are we so taught. But he did know that God's word would accomplish His pleasure and not return void, and that his labor was not in vain in the Lord (Isa. lv, 11; I Cor. xv, 58). His aim was "by all means to save some" (I Cor. ix, 22), and this he accomplished. The church of Christ is made up of an elect number out of all nations, given unto Him out of this world (Rev. v, 9; Eph. i, 4; John xvii, 6), and to this end we, like Paul, should seek to get the gospel everywhere.

2. "And found a certain Jew named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy with his wife Priscilla (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome), and came unto them." We cannot help remarking that after 1,800 years the Jews are still commanded to depart from cities and countries on the face of the earth. It is the same sad old story as in the days of Paul. It is the fulfillment of words spoken through Moses over 3,000 years ago. See Deut. xxviii, 63-68. But if the curse has come so literally and so fully the blessing shall also come, and "the days of their mourning shall be ended," "for He that scattered Israel will gather him," and the time is even now at hand (Isa. lx, 20, 21; Jer. xxxi, 10; Ezek. xxxvii, 21, 28).

3. "And because he was of the same craft he abode with them and wrought, for by their occupation they were tentmakers." While Paul believed and taught that they who preach the gospel should live of the gospel (I Cor. ix, 14), he also took pleasure in working at his trade that he might minister to his own necessities and give the gospel freely (Acts xx, 34; I Cor. iv, 11, 12; I Thess. ii, 9; II Thess. iii, 8). It is a great advantage under some circumstances to be able to do this now and thus stop the mouths of those who say of the preacher, "It is his business; he makes a good thing out of it." I am glad that I had three years' experience of ministering to my necessities by working seven hours a day, that I might freely give all the rest of my time to distinctively religious work.

4. "And he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks." He doubtless did as at Thessalonica and reasoned out of the Scriptures, opening and alleging that Christ must needs have suffered and risen again from the dead, and that this Jesus is the Christ (chapter xvii, 2, 3). From his conversion his one story was that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God (chapter ix, 20-22).

5. "And when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was pressed in the spirit and testified to the Jews that Jesus is the Christ." The R. V. says that he was "constrained by the word." This reminds us of Jeremiah, who, when the word of the Lord was made a reproach unto him and a derision daily, said he would not speak any more in His name, but the word of God was such a fire in his heart that he was constrained to speak (Jer. xx, 8, 9).

6. "And when they opposed themselves and blasphemed he shook his raiment and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean; from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles." It was his custom everywhere to preach the gospel to the Jew first (Rom. i, 16) and then to the Gentiles. Compare their conduct at Antioch in Pisidia (Acts xiii, 45, 46). When any one is duly warned of danger and refuses to take heed, his blood is on himself (Ezek. xxxiii, 4, 5). Those who obey not the gospel shall be punished with everlasting destruction (II Thess. i, 8, 9). As to shaking one's raiment see Neh. v, 13

7. "And he departed thence and entered into a certain man's house named Justus, one that worshiped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue." When one door is shut, another is sure to open, and sometimes, as in this case, next door to the one closed against us. When the Lord opens a door for us, no power can shut it, and when a house or city is closed against us or our message we have only to move on to His name (Rev. iii, 8; Math. x, 14). It is not us that they ill treat, but Him whose message we bear (Luke x, 16).

8. "And Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue believed on the Lord with all his house, and many of the Corinthians hearing believed and were baptized." The chief ruler cannot always control the other rulers, whether he be president of a nation, mayor of a city or only ruler of a synagogue, but the time will come when there will be a Chief Ruler to whom all others shall yield a perfect obedience. He will be this same Jesus whom Paul preached, but He will then be King of Kings and Lord of Lords. All kings shall fall down before Him; all nations shall serve Him (Rev. xix, 16; Ps. lxxii, 11). It was a splendid victory for the Lord and His servant to have the chief ruler and his household receive the despised Nazarene as Israel's Messiah. Many must have been helped by his example to do likewise. Here again, as at Athens, Paul is privileged to save some and help complete the church.

9. "Then spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace." He was probably being tempted like Jeremiah, to whom we have already referred. He says in I Cor. ii, 3, that he was with them in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling. His Master had observed this, and hence this vision and great comfort. Compare Josh. i, 9; Jer. i, 17. What exceeding great comfort there is in these "fear nots" of our Lord from Gen. xv, 1 to Rev. i, 17, but we get no benefit unless we appropriate them to ourselves. If we are the Lord's and in His service, we may take His promises right to our hearts.

10. "For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee, for I have much people in this city." One of the largest promises in the Bible, if not the very largest, is the "I am with you" of Jehovah. See how he gave it to Moses, Joshua, Gideon, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Haggai and the apostles (Ex. iii, 12; Josh. i, 5; Judg. vi, 16; Isa. xli, 10; Jer. i, 8, 19; Hag. i, 13; ii, 4; Math. xxviii, 20).

11. "And he continued there a year and six months teaching the word of God among them." He did not teach science nor philosophy, nor did he lecture upon the great men of the day. He did not try to prove that the books of Moses and the Psalms had many authors, and that there must have been two Isaiahs, but believing all things written in the law and in the prophets (Acts xxiv, 14) he taught the Scriptures. He preached the kingdom of God and taught the things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ (Acts xxviii, 31), saying none other things than those which Moses and the prophets did say should come (Acts xxvi, 22).

To a Would Be Medical Student.

A correspondent who signs himself "Duffy" asks, "Will you please inform me if there is a medical school in New York in which the lectures for the first year are given in the evening or any time after 5 p. m.?"

Duffy, you and dozens of other "would be doctors" think you can study medicine in the happy go lucky way the law pills study law—lectures in the afternoon; office work in the morning. You must give up that idea at once. Medicine requires 25 hours out of 24, and more on Sundays and holidays. The lectures in every medical school are given when the professors and lecturers can find time for them. They're given in the morning and in the afternoon and the evening, and some of the private "quizzes" begin at 10.30 or 11 p. m. and stop in time to get ready for breakfast if you dress quickly. Now, Duffy, if you ask because you think medicine is a snap like these afternoon law schools, you'd better keep out of it, but if you can stand the pace and ask simply because you're ignorant, why, go ahead, and with good health and hard work you may get your license to "kill, kill, kill, kill, kill!"—New York Sun.

A Wise Answer.

The shah once asked a group of courtiers whom they though the greater man, himself or his father. At first he could get no reply to so dangerous a question, the answer to which might cost the courtiers their heads. At last a wily old courtier said, "Your father, sire, for, though you are equal to your father in all other respects, in this he is superior to you—that he had a greater son than any you have."—Chatterbox.

A SILVER SYMPOSIUM.

The Literary Digest has submitted to the daily press of the country in cities of over ten thousand inhabitants the following questions to determine how the press of the country stands upon the silver question:

1. Does your journal favor the appeal of the Sherman silver law?
2. Do you favor the enactment of a bill providing for free coinage of silver at the present legal ratio?
3. Do you favor free coinage of silver on some other ratio?

One hundred and seventy-five replies were received, of which 135 favor unconditionally the repeal of the Sherman act, while six favor the repeal of the silver-purchase only. There are twenty-seven which favor the repeal of the act, provided free and unlimited silver coinage be substituted; ten are willing it should "go," provided some pet measure (generally providing for increased volume of currency) be substituted, and one is undecided. Those who unconditionally oppose the repeal of the act number six.

An analysis of the answers shows that of the 131 who favor unconditionally the repeal of the act (including the 6 who favor the repeal of the silver purchase clause only) 69 are opposed to the free coinage of silver upon any ratio whatever, 20 favor free coinage upon such a ratio as may be fixed by international agreement, 15 favor it upon the basis of putting a dollar's worth of silver (at market value) into the silver dollar, 4 favor it upon any ratio that will preserve bimetallism, 16 favor it upon the present ratio, 4 favor it upon some other (not specified) ratio than the present, and 3 are undecided. Of the 8 who unqualifiedly oppose the repeal, 2 favor free coinage at present ratio, 5 favor free coinage upon an international basis, and 1 is opposed to free coinage absolutely.

The tabulated result on the question of repeal of the act is as follows:

	Replies Received.	For Repeal.	Against Repeal.	Doubtful.

These replies show that the issue is non partisan, and if the position of the papers may be relied upon as an indication that the people are overwhelmingly in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act.

DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY.

The administration has entered upon a plan of economy that will not be approved by the people because it interferes with public convenience and prosperity. The short appropriations for the postal service have already embarrassed the post office department, and the increased business is not being met by the usual increase of letter carriers and clerks, because there is no appropriation from which to pay extra salaries.

In the pension department there is evidence of a short force of help, for it is reported that under the present secretary only 1,000 applications for pensions have been granted, while it is officially stated 5,000 have been suspended for sixty days under the new rule.

This policy is so unlike the policy of Cleveland during his first term that it is evident that he has put a "confederate" in the wrong place. During the last four years of democratic rule over 164,000 pensions were issued, an average of 41,000 a year; and in Cleveland's last year over 55,000, or 4,600 a month, were granted.

Hoke Smith's 1,000 in four months against Lamar's 18,000 in the same length of time, illustrates the difference between the feelings of these two secretaries. Secretary Smith thinks he can reduce the pension payments twenty millions by his policy this year. Any fair-minded man knows that twenty million dollars withheld from deserving pensioners and legitimate channels of trade is not helping business, but is one of the embarrassing factors which at the present time is distressing the country.

LOOK OUT, GENTLEMEN.

Two brethren of the quill are at odds about the habits of the hornet. They do not realize that next to the toy pistol and the dynamite cracker the hornet is a dangerous thing to fool with. While it is true that the hornet is a wasp, all wasps are not hornets. However, popularly speaking, every wasp gets to be a hornet. So when one of these gentlemen writes of the hornet's nest on the ground he has seen it there, and the other when he is sure the hornet's nest is always hung high above the earth has seen it there. The wasp tribe includes the paper-making wasps, the mason wasps, the sand wasps, and the wood wasps, and in nature these stinging "symbols of ugliness" are apt to pounce upon an intruder from above or below, or from any side. Both writers are right as to the observed habits of these stinging insects; but the hornet proper, vespa crabro, is not a ground nest builder, but he sometimes does build his paper castle low in the shrubbery and beneath overhanging limbs, and when the mowers mow they must look out for him. It is not at all likely the assaulted hay men stop to study their assailants closely, and the ground wasps may be by them called "hornets." These insects assault and sting like hornets, and it is natural to call them hornets. Whether the hornet builds high or flies low, he is less agreeable to meet than a highwayman.

IN THE NAME OF THE LAW.

In the name of the law in this country many outrages are committed which are sickening to the lovers of justice and believers in equity. The state of New Jersey in the name of the law charters mushroom trusts to fleece the people, and sends poor nine-year-old boys to state prison and sentences a colored boy less than fifteen years old to be hanged.

In Chicago a poor workman named Matthew Mauski was sent to jail for a month for eating a piece of a pig's foot worth a penny from the barrel in which he was packing it. His dependent invalid wife became insane, and the children were scattered. It cost the state twenty-five dollars to ruin this family in the name of the law, because, as the husband explained, "he unconsciously picked up the pig's foot and took a bite!"

In Philadelphia an undertaker refuses to bury the body of a woman whose husband committed it to his care because the bill for the funeral expenses is not paid; and in the name of the law a disgusting legal struggle has been begun for its recovery, and the remains must be above ground till August 7, when the rights of the parties are to be determined. In the event of the undertaker's winning he publicly announces he will sell the body for dissecting purposes.

It is apparent from the above specimens of the operation of law that all that is legal is not right!

TOUCH UP THE PRESS.

Democratic "Downs and Ups."

Down with the Sherman swindle and the McKinley abomination, and up with the democratic banner of free trade and honest money.—[Courier-Journal.

Surrendering to Spoilsmen.

There is a very active democratic guillotine at work in the Charlestown navy yard, and Secretary Herbert apparently has surrendered the yard to the spoilsmen.—[Boston Journal.

Must Bid High.

There is an evident intention on the part of the democratic senators to sell themselves as dearly as possible in the coming struggle over the Sherman law.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Real Problem.

Cleveland sits on his seacoast veranda nowadays and corrugates his brow with calculations as to how various federal offices can be disposed of to the best advantages in securing democratic votes for the repeal of the Sherman law.—[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

What Interests Democracy.

Postmaster General Bissell proposes to reform the postal card by cutting it down. The party of which Mr. Bissell is one of the representatives would be more interested in his intentions if they were turned in the direction of lifting the hair of some mugwump postmasters who have anchored themselves to several fat cribs.—[The Chicago Tribune.

Medicine for Working Democrats.

"There is nothing left to do but to reduce wages," declares ex-Mayor Abram S. Hewitt. "Ore cannot be obtained any cheaper; coal and everything else are as cheap as possible; so wages must come down." Such are the comments of a democratic on the outlook under a "tariff reform" administration.—[New York Press.

Those Roosters.

A story is told of a western manufacturer who, when asked by his operatives what they would live upon if the works shut down, replied: "The first thing I would advise you to live on would be those roosters that you carried last November." It is very doubtful if the people of this city would parade the streets with some of the mottoes and roosters they displayed in the last national campaign were a political parade to be gotten up at the present time.—[Lowell Mail.

A "Don't" for Mothers.

It is a great mistake as well as quite useless for mothers to constantly say "don't" to their children. It was once remarked by a learned man that many an otherwise good woman had ruined her boys by her fretful and oft-repeated "don'ts." It might as well be recognized at the start that the young of every species have disagreeable and trying traits as well as their inimitable frolicsome grace and charm.

Almost all puppies will at a certain stage of their doggish days chew up whatever comes within their reach and strikes them as desirable for that purpose. But puppyhood is brief, and it is easier to keep gloves and slippers out of reach than to set one's self the herculean task of changing the puppy's nature, or the cruel one of breaking its spirit.

It is child nature to make a noise and to keep in incessant motion. This serves as a sort of escape valve for effervescent animal spirits, and the fretful exclamation, "Don't make such a noise," can be effective only for the present moment, if at all. It is far better to have a place provided for the children, where they can make all the noise they please, and then insist that all noisy and cluttering games shall be played there and not elsewhere.

A child cannot be made to realize too early that each member of the household has rights which every member is bound to respect, itself no less than the rest. And to scrupulously respect a child's own right is to set it the example, which is better than precept.—[New York Recorder.

There is said to be only ten daily newspapers published in China, where the population exceeds 400,000,000 people.

A brick building one and a half stories high in the rear of the new Washington police headquarters is reputed to be the first jail occupied by the district government in that city. The building is at present occupied by six colored families.

The manager of the zoological gardens in Paris recently refused an offer of 30,000 francs for three young giraffes. This is not surprising considering that the market price of a full-grown, healthy giraffe is 25,000 francs. A first-class elephant, on the other hand, can be bought for 12,000 francs, and some, it is said, have been sold as low as 4,000 francs—[New York Herald.

Every spring the emperor of China goes to "the emperor's field," plows a portion of it, sows it with several kinds of seeds and superintends the ceremony while the princes and nine courtiers perform the same act in honor of the god of agriculture. The empress at the same time gives her ladies a lesson in silk culture.

In 1890 there were in Canada 7,913 post offices, which handled 94,000,000 letters, 19,000,000 cards, 10,000,000 papers, and 16,000,000 books and parcels. Newspapers, sent from the office of publication, are carried free. Their number is estimated at 60,000,000. Canada has a system of postal savings banks, with 112,281 depositors and $21,990,533 deposits.

A man's wife should always be the same, especially to her husband, but if she is weak and nervous, and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so too. Carter's Iron Pills equalize the circulation, remove nervousness, and give strength and rest. Try them.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

Laughter Lends a New Charm

To beauty when it discloses a pretty set of teeth. Whiteness, when nature has supplied this element of loveliness, may be retained through life by using the fragrant SOZODONT.

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."

Simply apply SWAYNE'S OINTMENT. No internal medicine required. Cures tetter, eczema, itch, all eruptions on the face, hands, nose, &c., leaving the skin clear, white and healthy. Its great healing and curative powers are possessed by no other remedy. Ask your druggist for SWAYNE'S OINTMENT.

Castoria.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation;
Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation;
Gives healthy sleep; also aids digestion;
Without narcotic stupefaction.

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles!

SYMPTOMS—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia.

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to the use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc., should try them.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pill may well be termed "Perfection."

The Bulletin.

JUNE'S NOONDAY.

Snow white and roses red,
Rose vines tangled overhead,
June her floral treasures flings,
While above a robin sings.

Drowsy bees hang on the rose,
Silently the river flows,
Scented is the air, and high
Flies a swallow in the sky.

Love knocks at my lady's bower;
Comes he with the regal flower;
Cries he, "Rouse ye, and away:
Know ye not 'tis roses' day?"

THE STOCK MARKET.

Dealings in Leading Securities in Boston and New York.

BOSTON, July 21.—In the outside market call money is quoted at 5 to 6 per cent, and time money is nominally 6 per cent.

The stock market opened this morning with Sugar as the weak spot. An object of irregular attack during the past ten days, the bears have evidently now concentrated their attention upon it. The first point scored against it is that Sugar has been slated for a place on the free list in the new tariff reform scheme. The other is that the demoralization in the raw sugar market has caused a heavy loss to the trust, which is carrying a big stock of raw sugars. With sugar to the front attention was directed from General Electric, the rumors floated against the company yesterday having lost their force. As against one of these reports, President Coffin says that the General Electric company has $1,750,000 cash on deposit in Boston and New York. He further says that the liabilities of the company amount to only about 25 per cent. of the quick assets.

London came from ¼ to ½ lower than our close, and promised to be only a light buyer. But despite this there is a more cheerful feeling in the street, and a greater readiness to discriminate between the reports which are circulated from hour to hour.

In the local market sugar and Atchison showed greatest activity. Sugar common opened ¾ down to 74¾ and slid down below 73. Atchison opened ½ weaker at 18¼, but rallied to 18¾, while Chicago, Burlington and Quincy declined from 78¼ to 77⅜. Union Pacific was ¼ stronger at 19¾ while Bell telephone declined 1 to 172.

THE FRENCH CLAIM.

Statement of What the Siamese Must Concede.

ANSWER EXPECTED ON SATURDAY.

England Carefully Watching Proceedings in an Amicable Spirit.

LONDON, July 21.—The Paris correspondent of The Standard mentions that M. Develle, French minister of foreign affairs, told the senate yesterday that he believed Siam would grant satisfaction, as he realized that France was able to exact compliance with the demands made. The correspondent continues: "The ultimatum was forwarded late on Wednesday afternoon. The substance, if not the text, was imparted to the British embassy before the ultimatum was dispatched. Diplomatic etiquet prevents the publication of it until the period granted to Siam has expired. I believe it is incorrect to say that France claims the left bank of the Mekong river from the point where it issues from the Chinese frontier.

What France claims is that within a reasonable period Siam withdraw from the fortified points held on the left bank, and from the islands to which France lays claim as having inherited the rights of Cambodia and Annam. The extent to which the left bank will belong to France must be settled by a boundary commission. This cannot be decided off hand

By a Diplomatic Note.

Further questions were asked in the house of commons yesterday in regard to the Siamese trouble.

Sir Edward Grey, parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, replied in behalf of the government. He rehearsed the events that have occurred in Siam since the relations between that country and France had become strained, and said that the British government had neither such sufficient nor precise information as would enable it to form a conclusion as to the merits of the conflict.

Sir Edward added that the only part of the French ultimatum to Siam which concerned Great Britain was that relating to territorial arrangement between France and Siam.

The government had determined to send Lord Dufferin, British ambassador to France, back to Paris, with a view to securing an immediate exchange of views with the French government on this point. The matter will be conducted in an amicable spirit.

REPLY OF SIAM.

Answer to Ultimatum of France Not Expected For Several Days.

PARIS, July 21.—Siam's reply to France's ultimatum is not expected to be given before Saturday next or Sunday.

It is thought that in case the reply be unfavorable, Rear Admiral Humann will await the arrival of M. Devilliers, a special commissioner sent out by the French government, before taking final action.

The Debats says this morning: The left bank of the Mekong river is the minimum of our claims. Afterward we must obtain on the right bank such a delimitation of the frontier as will prevent any conflict in the future. These are questions to be settled directly with Siam. They do not concern England.

Trouble Over Small Coin.

LONDON, July 21.—A dispatch from Rome to The Central News says: The report that Italy has proposed that the 2 1-2 franc pieces be no longer regarded as national coins has been confirmed. Belgium and Greece approve of the proposal. If France and Switzerland refuses to accept it Italy will withdraw from the Latin union.

SOUTH AMERICAN ROWS.

Latest Information Obtained From the Various Revolutions.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The Herald's special from Panama says: News has been received here that the expedition fitted out in Martinique against Venezuela has landed arms on the Goadjir peninsula, near the Columbian frontier.

Governor Fernandez has pressed many recruits into the service. Several prominent citizens have been imprisoned.

From Valparaiso it is learned that 800 soldiers under Chico Felice have arrived at Artigas, and will pursue Saraiva. Saraiva met 800 men under Pedroso, who is now on his way to Arroyo Grande. Saraiva captured 500 horses after his men had killed the guards.

Interruption of the telegraphic service continues, although a vigorous protest has been entered.

It is reported in Rio Janeiro that Saraiva has abandoned the siege of Yaguaron.

A Panama (Colombia) special says: News has just been received from Tegucigalpa that the Honduras troops threatened mutiny because they had not been paid. President Vasquez forced a loan from the merchants of the city and planters in the suburbs. With this money the soldiers were paid and an uprising prevented.

Reports of renewed revolutionary activity in the eastern provinces are again in circulation and create much apprehension. Vasquez has ordered all strategic points about the city strengthened, is recruiting new forces, and maintains a rigid censorship of mails and foreign and domestic telegrams.

Admiral Wandenkolk Shut Up.

LONDON, July 21.—A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says that the captured rebel ship Jupiter, with Admiral Wandenkold on board, has been brought into port. Wandenkolk, who deserted from the government naval service to join the rebels, has been shut up in Santa Cruz fortress.

Treasurer Kelley Resigns.

AMESBURY, Mass., July 21.—Charles W. Kelley has resigned the position of secretary and treasurer of the Amesbury Co-operative bank, and Porter Sargent has been elected by the directors to serve out the unexpired term. Mr. Kelley is cashier of the Ipswich National bank and has moved to that town.

Sixty Men Fighting Fire.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., July 21.—A large forest fire started this morning in Waterville, 10 miles from Campton village. McCoy's lumber mill and several hundred cords of pulp wood are burning. Help has been called from Campton village. Sixty men are fighting flames and more have been sent for.

Was a Swell Till He Burst.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 21.—A number of local business concerns are losers by the disappearance of William D. Meagher, until recently a clerk in a drug store here and a popular society swell. He went on a vacation a month ago, and failed to return. He is said to be in Kingston, N. Y.

New Constitution Promulgated.

CARACAS, July 21.—The new constitution has been formally promulgated. Dr. Feliciano Acevedo has been appointed minister of home affairs to succeed Minister Colona. Guzmgo Alvarez has been named as chairman of the federal council.

REPORT DENIED.

Boston and Maine Has Not Leased Concord and Montreal.

BOSTON, July 21.—Officials of both the Concord and Montreal and Boston and Maine railroads this morning denied the authenticity of the report from Nashua that a lease of the former road to President Frank Jones' corporation had been signed by the requisite number of directors of each railroad, and that the transfer would be made within 30 days.

C. E. Morrison, the only director of the Concord and Montreal, said that there was positively no truth in any rumor that any lease had been consummated.

A prominent member of the board of directors of the Boston and Maine made the statement that the directors had no knowledge of any lease of this kind, and the story to the contrary was untrue.

From another and authoritative source it was learned that the matter of a lease to the Boston and Maine had never come up at any of the meetings of the board of directors of the Concord and Montreal. The last meeting was held day before yesterday, and the subject was not discussed or even mentioned.

CHINESE STARVING

On Board of a Vessel Where There Is Plenty to Eat.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Sixty Chinese are starving on board a steamship at Portland, Ore., with plenty to eat at their disposal. This paradoxical state of affairs has been brought about in this way: The Haytien Republic, a steam passenger and carrying vessel, recently arrived in Portland with a large number of Chinese on board, and as 60 of these could not produce evidence that they were entitled to reside in the United States, they were forbidden to land.

At the same time the Haytien republic was libeled for smuggling opium and Chinese subjects, with the result that the owners abandoned the vessel, leaving the 60 unfortunate Chinese on board. Believing the owners had done this to make the government care for the Chinese, thus saving themselves from the expense of supporting and deporting the latter, the treasury department refused to interfere in the matter, and the 60 Celestials were left on board the vessel uncared for, foodless, and forbidden to land.

LYNCHING PROMISED.

Brutal Negro Assaults and Murders Planter's Daughter.

BRANFORD, Fla., July 21.—News has just reached here that a daughter of Kerr Elliott, one of the leading planters of Lafayette county, was assaulted and murdered yesterday on her father's plantation by a negro convict who was a "trusty" and allowed to go about on business and errands from the convict camp nearby.

The girl's head was severed from her body and hidden in a sink hole near where the deed was committed.

A posse has gone to the camp to demand the delivery of the negro to them. If they succeed in getting him he will be lynched before he is a hundred yards from the stockades.

Train Struck and Killed Him.

BOSTON, July 21.—An engineer on the Lowell division of the Boston and Maine railroad found Dennis Burke, a laborer, living at 40 Prentiss street, West End, lying on a track near the Mystic Junction. He was terribly mangled, evidently having been struck by a train. He was put aboard the train and taken to the Massachusetts general hospital, where he died.

Lieutenant Ogden Drowned.

FORT SUPPLY, I. T., July 21.—Lieutenant Charles G. Ogden, Thirteenth United States infantry, was drowned yesterday near Hamburg, Mich., at the home of ex-Governor Winans. Lieutenant Ogden was on his wedding tour, having been married on the 5th inst.

It Is District Attorney Hoar.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—It can be stated on unquestioned authority that a commission has been issued to Hon. Sherman Hoar as United States district attorney. Mr. Hoar will assume the duties of the office as soon as District Attorney Allen returns from Chicago.

No Idea of Shutting Down.

BIDDEFORD, Me., July 21.—The Messrs. Goodall, proprietors of the plush mills at Sanford, deny the rumor of a probable shut down of their mills. They say they have no idea of closing their factory.

King's Allowance Cut Down.

MILWAUKEE, July 21.—The Commercial bank has failed.

FOUR BLACK FLAGS

Carried by Women in Kansas Strikers' Conflict.

SEVEN PERSONS WERE WOUNDED.

Women Were Placed in Front Rank. They Fought Like Demons.

WEIR CITY, Kan., July 21.—In the conflict yesterday between strikers and the miners now at work the strikers were led by 100 women, and in the vanguard were also an equal number of children. They were evidently placed in the front rank in the belief that the guard and the men at work would not fire upon them. The men followed behind, and the whole body, men, women and children, was armed with sticks and clubs and some with firearms. In the front rank five flags were carried—one big United States flag and on either side of it two black flags. The latter was carried by German workmen.

When the men at work and the guards fired upon the strikers, the children fled, but the women entered boldly into the fight and fought with as much ferocity as the men. They wielded their clubs with vigor and precision, and many a sore head last night was caused by the Clubs in the Women's Hands.

The list of the wounded, so far as can be ascertained, is as follows: A boy named Betonder, shot in the foot; Alexander Gava, a striker, shot in the forehead; Joseph Burgundi, a striker, shot in the breast; an unknown woman, shot through the arm; Dick Reed, a strip miner, slight fracture of the skull; Simon Barga, a strip miner, shot in the leg; Simon Clemens, clubbed on the head.

The sheriff of the county has been appealed to to furnish guards for the miners, but he has declined to take any action. He is a Populist, and is in sympathy with the miners. He says he can do more to prevent bloodshed by the use of moral suasion than with all the armed guards in Kansas.

The mine owners do not take this view of the case, and will speedily place guards around their property at their own expense.

DID NOT REFUSE.

Archbishop Corrigan Explains the Burtsell Reinstatement Case.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The story that Archbishop Corrigan had been requested by Mgr. Satolli to reinstate Rev. Dr. Burtsell as pastor of the church of the Epiphany, but had refused to obey the order, was denied by the archbishop yesterday.

In support of this his grace makes public Mgr. Satolli's letter referring to the reinstatement of Dr. Burtsell. The letter is as follows:

> This afternoon at 3 o'clock a committee of 12 citizens of New York presented themselves to me with a petition that I should interpose my good offices for the purpose of obtaining the return and restoration of the Very Rev. Dr. Burtsell to the parish of the Epiphany or to another in the city of equal importance in a moral and financial point of view.
> I make it a duty to indicate this to your excellency, so that in your charity and prudence you may judge if, and how far and in what manner it may be expedient to condescend to your own authority to their request. It would perhaps make them more attached and deferential to you, as they desire to be. Please let me know your opinion and decision in the premises.

ADMINISTRATION PLANS.

What It Is Proposed to Do With the Silver Problem.

DENVER, July 21.—Captain Thacer of Aspen is back from Washington. He says personal talks with Secretary Carlisle and President Cleveland assure him that they will not try for unconditional repeal of the Sherman silver law. He says they have substitutes under consideration, as follows: One for free coinage at an increased ratio and retirement of all paper money under $5; second, free coinage of 4,000,000 ounces monthly, with seignorage for coinage of foreign bullion; third, the re-enactment of the Bland law, making the coinage of 4,000,000 ounces a month compulsory.

Thacher is thoroughly responsible, and positively asserts these views are direct from the president and secretary.

Caught In a Cyclone.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., July 21.—Letters from Captain Sparks of the whaling bark Emma F. Harriman, report that on May 4, off the east coast of Japan, he ran into a cyclone, carrying away foremast, bulwark stanchions on the starboard side and rudder irons; reached Yokohama May 22; was making repairs and would sail July 10, cruising.

Mysterious Disappearance.

PALMER, Mass., July 21.—John Joyce of Monson, aged 60, left house suddenly at noon July 11 and has not since been heard from. No cause can be given for his disappearance and his friends are much alarmed for his safety. He is about 5 ft. 5 in. tall and wore a black coat and hat and striped pants.

Cheyenne Banks Suspend.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 21.—The private banking house of T. A. Kent failed to open its doors yesterday. It is thought depositors will be paid in full. Following the failure of the Kent banking house the First National suspended at 2.30 o'clock, owing to a heavy run.

Bad Drainage In Brighton.

BOSTON, July 21.—Sixteen Brighton houses have been ordered closed, owing to defective drainage and pollution of the Charles river. The houses to be made vacant are on Western avenue, Ward 25.

Laundry Destroyed by Fire.

NEEDHAM, Mass., July 21.—The recently completed steam laundry of Augustus Dunn's on Hillside avenue, Highlandville, was totally destroyed by fire this morning.

HOUSEHOLD QUEENS.

Mme. Modjeska has educated and reared five nephews and nieces.

The children of Mrs. George Gould are rocked in a silver cradle, a gift from their late grandfather upon the birth of the first child.

Mattie Todd, a niece of Abraham Lincoln's wife, appointed postmistress at Cynthiana, Ky., by President Hayes, still holds the position.

Mrs. Jennie Northern of Princeton, Ky. died recently from an attack of measles. She was 110 years old and leaves a daughter who is 90 years old.

Mrs. Jesse Grant has one of the most valuable collections in the country of antique candlesticks, some of them gold, some of them silver and others of rare pottery.

Miss Cornelia T. Crosby of the recent congress of the press women at Chicago, is said to have been so expert in fishing that she once caught 53 trout in 54 minutes.

Mrs. Madeline Vinton Dahlgren has in the dining room of her home in Washington the mirror used by Dolly Madison in the White House and afterward in her own home as long as she lived.

Harriet Beecher Stowe is said to be living her childhood over again, cutting out paper dolls, singing the old time songs and hymns and nursery ballads. Her health seems to grow better as her mind loses itself.

Mrs. John Taylor of Cleveland, whose husband was at the head of one of the largest dry goods houses in the city, has inherited his fortune and now carries on the business in his stead, giving it her personal supervision.

Miss Florrie Bryan, a young English woman, has given up Christianity for an alliance with the Maharajah Patiala, India, to whom she was married according to Sikh rites after she had been received as a member of that community.

Mrs Cleveland's tastes in jewelry are very simple. Although she owns a number of rings, she rarely wears any except her wedding ring. A favorite ornament on dress occasions is a beautiful diamond star, which was one of her wedding gifts.

Miss Alice Rochester, who was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of the Earl of Craven, is a daughter of General William B. Rochester of Washington and a great-granddaughter of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, the founder of the city of Rochester.

CROWN AND SCEPTER.

The queen signs herself to her sons and daughters-in-law, "Always your affectionate mother, V. R. I."

Princess Bebe is the family pet name of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria's bride, Princess Marie Louise of Parma, owing to her high spirits and love of fun.

The Infanta Eulalie's name is pronounced in Spanish as if spelled a-oo-lah-lee-a, with the accent on next to the last syllable and the initial vowels run together. The name is Greek and means "well spoken."

Emperor William is one of the very few sovereigns now reigning upon whose life no attempt has yet been made. At least seven or eight attempts of this kind have been made against the life of his grandmother, Queen Victoria.

The Russians still retain their old barbaric love of splendor, and when the empress shows herself she is a vision of unmatched gorgeousness. She is one of the few monarchs of Europe who still make a practice of wearing a crown on great occasions.

Mad King Otho of Bavaria is steadily growing worse and now rarely enjoys any lucid intervals. His forty-fifth birthday occurred recently, and his family endeavored to offer him congratulations and gifts, but the unfortunate madman flew into a perfect fury when he saw them approach.

The shah has an unfortunate affection for Great Britain. He is always writing the queen offering to visit her majesty, who is thought, however, to have had enough of him last time. He not only drinks a bottle of brandy a day, but is also an opium eater and is a man of violent and irresponsible habits.

PULPIT AND PEW.

Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage, son of the noted Brooklyn preacher, has been ordained by the Presbyterians.

NOW ON THE ROYAL ROAD.

Rev. Bruce in the Straight and Narrow Way.

The Way that Leads to Health, Happiness and Long Life.

An Amherst Man Who Paid His Own College Expenses.

Happiness is so fragile that one risks the loss of it by talking of it.

It flies from him who deliberately pursues it, and shuns the hand that would seize upon it. Yet much unhappiness may be avoided by keeping well.

To the steady brain worker (and all are brain workers) it is important to be able to perceive the indications of the coming storm. The Rev. Charles C. Bruce, the well known pastor, of Somerville, Mass., preaches a very practical sermon to those who, from sickness, are unhappy. He was sick. He took Paine's celery compound, the wonderful remedy that makes people well. He is now on the royal road to health and long life. His own words are:

"I am nearly 58 years of age and weigh normally 186 pounds, at present my weight is 148¾. My sickness took me down to 134½, so that you can see that I am getting back to be myself, and, God willing, shall soon be there.

"I have been a very sick man, but owing to the goodness of the supreme powers and to a few good friends I am now on the royal road whose end is perfect health.

"I was born in Peterboro, N. H., and lived there until I was 16 years old. My father, who is a very noble man, sent me to the Appleton academy for three years, then he told me, 'If you want any more education you must get it.' So when I was 16 I went to Amherst college and earned every cent that paid my bills there for four years and graduated. Then I was persuaded to go to Andover seminary, and studied there three years, and took my degree as a clergyman in 1878, and went to preaching. I preached 11 or 12 years and then went back to college and studied two years for the Ph. D. degree.

"All these two years I was studying and supporting my family. This, as you will easily imagine, was excessive labor. At length I was elected to a position in a high school in Boston, but the work told on me and I grew ill. The illness lasted for about a year and a half. But now I am so that I can see the end, and a more thankful man you never saw. A gentleman who lived near me began to use Paine's celery compound and it built him up. I thought of this and soon I was led to use it, and it has been bringing me out all right.

"I am inclined to think that I will soon be herculean in strength."

Paine's celery compound is today prescribed by physicians in every town throughout the country. It has made thousands of over worked and worn out men and women well and thankful. There is not a profession or calling that has not sent testimonial after testimonial to the value of Paine's celery compound. It makes people well. Try it and be convinced. jy22d

CITY NEWS.

Miss Kate Pettit has given up her position in the Otis library.

Mrs. J. B. Shannon and children leave town today for Watch Hill.

Unfermented grape juice is a popular soda fountain beverage this season.

The steamer Ella will make her usual excursion to the shore resorts Sunday.

Mr. H. A. Tompkins of New York is the guest of his son, Mr. C. L. Tompkins.

Mrs. O. Chapman and daughter, Dora, are visiting friends in Litchfield county.

New fences have been built enclosing the yards of the High street school house.

Mr. J. J. Fields of N. S. Gilbert & Sons has moved into the Brewer block on Broadway.

Mrs. H. M. Love and son of Riverside, California, are the guests of Mrs. W. H. Birdwell.

Ex Governor Waller, who has been visiting the World's fair at Chicago, will be home today.

A Norwich drug store is selling from $18 to $20 of soda water daily during the warm spell.

Daniel McGarry, Frank Stanley and Frank Roarke have returned from a visit to Boston, Mass.

New desks and seats are being placed in several rooms in the Mount Pleasant street school house.

The physicians in attendance upon ex-Consul Tibbits announce no change in their patient's condition.

Though weak from his recent illness Mr. Everett J. Thompson was able to walk out yesterday afternoon.

Miss Hattie Noyes is the guest of Mrs. Charles Fiske, who, with family, are rusticating at the Fiske cottage, Niantic.

The Rockville Wheel club cleared $250 from its Saturday races. This is better than the management expected, considering the large expenses.

The Catholic societies of Taftville have completed arrangements for an excursion to Block Island Saturday, July 29, on the steamer City of Richmond.

Palmer G. Whipple has leased the cold spring for a term of three years and seven months. He intends to furnish the water for drinking purposes.

Patrick McMahon of Westerly, who figured in a tumble off Central wharf recently, was arrested in Greeneville Friday by Officer Matthews, for drunkenness.

Mr. and Mrs. Waterman R. Burnham have returned from a fortnight's sojourn at Watch Hill. Next week they leave town for Saratoga, where they will spend a month.

The steamer City of Worcester carried between 1,700 and 1,800 excursionists to Newport Friday. The special train arrived here on the return trip at 9 o'clock last night.

Little Retta Oulhoff died early Friday morning from the burns she sustained at a bonfire Thursday. She was the youngest of four children, and was a bright and favorite miss.

The family of George Edmunds of Rockfall will remove to Norwich this week. Mr. Edmunds has for several years been in the employ of the Rogers Manufacturing company.

Residents of West Thames street say that the new Laurel hill bridge is seen to best advantage from that part of the city, where its contour is viewed as it stands out in relief above the lower Shetucket.

Miss Agnes Mathilde Drusler, daughter of Prof. William Drusler of New York, is a guest of Miss Brewer, Washington street, for a short time. The Misses Nellie and Fannie Brewer, from Mystic, are also there.

The tame parrot of a lower Union street family made its escape from confinement yesterday afternoon, and installed itself among the branches of the Otis library elm tree. All efforts to dislodge it were unavailing, and the bird roosted on high all night.

Friday it was reported that the stone needed to fill the gap between the approach to the Laurel Hill bridge and the bridge itself had not been received on account of a strike in the quarry from which the material was ordered.

The black raspberry or thimble berry has about lost its usefulness in the market. The red raspberry is now beginning its brief reign. These berries both have their favorite buyers, but the red raspberry satisfies most the delicate palate. The raspberry season is only about a month longer.

The next bicycle tournament of the Eastern Connecticut Cycling association will be held in Norwich, September 8. William H. Saxton, Jr., of New London, has made application for admission to the Norwich club, that he may be eligible to take part in the races, as the New London club lately withdrew from the association.

Fred. P. Latimer, of the Academy class of '93, will train for the Yale athletic team this year, and expects to wear the "Y. A. A.," the emblem by which that college distinguishes her representative athletes. Mr. Latimer was prominent in the Academy field games for three years, winning nine prizes in that length of time.

Nicholas Tarrant, real estate broker, has sold the James Riley property, situated on the corner of Central avenue and Eleventh street, Greeneville, to P. H. Ethier of Taftville, who will enlarge and improve the buildings which are now on the premises, for business purposes, as the location is one of the best in Greeneville. Terms of sale private.

STRUCK DOWN, THEN DIED.

A Fatal Altercation in Preston—Victim a Stranger.

R. S. SHOLES, JR., ARRESTED.

Post-Mortem Examination Credits Death to Hemorrhage at Base of Brain.

A middle-aged stranger lies dead in the undertaking rooms of Henry Allen & Sons, and Ransom S. Sholes, Jr., of Preston is detained at police headquarters as responsible for his death. The tragedy is a peculiarly sad one.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Friday afternoon Sholes walked into city hall, and informed Policeman Irish, who was in charge in the absence of Chief Bowen, that he had killed a man in self-defense near his home on the Poquetanuck highway. Mr. Irish replied that he had no jurisdiction over an affray outside the town, and was consequently powerless to hold the offender. Sholes turned on his heel and left the vicinity.

Later in the afternoon a writ was made out by Attorney A. A. Browning at the request of Coroner Park, was signed by Justice Hugh King and by Grand Juror Harris of Preston, and placed in Sheriff Rogers' hands. The search for Sholes was unavailing until just before 10 o'clock, when the man was found on Laurel Hill avenue, near the residence of Lawyer W. H. Jennings, whom he had been consulting, and was driven to the lock-up in the sheriff's carriage.

The prisoner is a man twenty-five years old, about five feet, five inches in height. He is a plumber by trade, and has recently been employed in Torrington. He said: "At 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon I was talking with Agnes Congdon, daughter of our nearest neighbor, and a friend in front of her house. A man came along the road from the direction of Poquetanuck, and asked for a drink of water. He was apparently somewhat intoxicated. One of the girls directed him to a nearby brook, but he insisted on going to the house. He became so strenuous that I told him to get out. Then the man began to abuse me, and finally put on a warlike front and struck fiercely at me with his fist.

"To protect myself, I landed a heavy blow on his mouth. He staggered about a bit, and tried to walk away, but fell to the ground before he had gone ten feet. Seeing the man was hurt, I helped him from the highway to the shade of a tree on the roadside.

"He seemed to get no better, so after fifteen minutes I hurried to town and summoned Dr. Charles S. Perkins, but when we returned he was dead."

Both young Sholes and his father deny ever having seen the stranger before.

Coroner Park viewed the remains, and early in the evening they were taken to the undertakers. A very thorough autopsy last night by Medical Examiner Paddock, Drs. Cassidy and W. S. C. Perkins revealed that death ensued from a hemorrhage at the base of the brain.

The dead man's age is estimated at from 30 to 35 years; weight, 150 pounds; height, five feet, four inches. He has a curly brown mustache, and dark brown hair, and his general appearance is that of one who had tasted the woes of life. An antique derby hat, shabby black cutaway coat and vest, black striped trousers, heavy lace shoes and a dirty brown flannel shirt completed his wearing apparel. There was nothing on his clothes to establish his identity, and no particular distinguishing mark on his person.

City Court—Kellogg, Judge.

Charles Allen was in the city court for breach of the peace. The case was continued until Monday, under bonds of $100.

Charles Kimball was found guilty of drunkenness. He was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $11 66, which he paid.

The continued case against "Meechy" Brewer, accused of stealing a gold ring valued at $12 from Mrs. Ellen Rooney, was nolled on the payment of costs. Attorney Edward T. Burke appeared for Brewer.

Harriet Davis again came into court to answer to a charge of breach of the peace. Judgment was suspended for sixty days.

Backus Hospital Appointments.

The incorporators of the Backus hospital have made the following appointments:

Visiting physicians—Dr. W. S. C. Perkins, P. H. Harriman, Julian La Pierre and Anthony Peck.

Visiting surgeons—Drs. L. B. Almy, W. K. Tingley, Patrick Cassidy and George R. Harris.

Drs. W. K. Tingley and L. B. Almy are to be the obstetricians and gynecologists to the institution.

Dr. L. S. Paddock will be the consulting physician.

Labor Bills in the Legislature.

Labor Commissioner Vance has issued a pamphlet containing a recapitulation of labor bills considered by the general assembly, during the last session, with the action taken on them. The information is in a condensed form from data collected for publication in the next annual report of the labor bureau, and is issued in advance that the facts may be given promptly to all who desire them.

Department Commander Rogers a Guest.

Wilbur F. Rogers of Meriden, department commander of the Connecticut Grand Army, was one of the prominent guests at the reunion of the Thirty-fifth New Jersey regiment, which was held at Asbury Park Thursday. He was elected one of the vice presidents of the regimental organization.

Large Seizure of Liquor.

PUTNAM, Conn., July 21.—One of the largest liquor raids ever made in this vicinity was made today at noon. Officers Carver, Landon and Corbin raided Ladds Farley and found twenty-five barrels of liquor. The liquor is worth from $1,500 to $1,800. Mr. Farley claims to have had the liquor left over since Putnam had a license.

All-Round Athlete Charged With Larceny.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Duncan C. Ross, all-round athlete and expert swordsman, with hair standing on end and eyes decidedly bleary, appeared before Justice Tighe in the Adams street police court, Brooklyn, Thursday morning. He was charged with having abstracted $348 from the pocket of his friend, John McDougall.

DIED.

HOLDROYD—In this city, July 21, Job Holdroyd, aged 76 years.
Notice of funeral hereafter.

KELLEY—In Franklin, July 20, Julia M., wife of Fred. Kelley, aged 24 years and 5 months, formerly of New Haven, Ct.

Muslin Underwear.

The sample line of Ladies' Muslin Underwear was full of surprises. One Lady said: "Why, you must have courage to buy such fine underwear for Norwich." It didn't require much courage. We knew we could sell any grade of underwear for the prices we bought the goods. And our judgment was good. Already most of the finer grades have been sold. There still remain more than 500 garments, mostly medium grades.

All samples—no two alike—prices from one-third to one-half under regular prices.

Ladies' Garments.

Ladies' Shirt Waists 18c each, were 39c.

Saturday morning at 8 o'clock we will put on sale 7 dozens—just 84—Ladies' Good Quality Shirt Waists for the ridiculously low price of 18c each. Only 84 to be sold. Probably enough for one hour's lively trading.

Only two to a customer.

SURPRISE No. 2.—25 Boleros that were $3.50 to $7.50 each will go on sale Saturday morning for $2.49 each. If you are among the early buyers it may be your good fortune to get a $7.50 garment for $2.49.

Dress Goods.

1,000 yards genuine Scotch Zephyrs—width 32 inches—styles neat—stripes and pretty plaids—price 12½c a yard, reduced from 25c.

See large display window for styles.

Silks.

Six patterns—all light and handsome—Swivel Silk for 45c a yard.

There's nothing in the silk line prettier for a waist or evening dress.

Parasols.

We offer our entire line of Fancy Parasols for four prices, namely:

$1, $1.50, $2, $2.50.

Former prices were from $1.50 to $4.

Small Wares.

PAY DAY--RUM--RACE WAR.

Hungarians and Poles Make Things Lively at Priceburg.

THIRTY MEN INJURED.

A Reign of Terror Lasting Three Hours —Officers Driven Off

SCRANTON, Pa., July 23.—Yesterday was pay day at the mines at Priceburg and the Huns and Poles of the town began to drink heavily. Last night a Hun and a Pole engaged in a fight in a saloon and their countrymen took sides with them, a free fight resulting. The police arrived and jailed four Hungarians.

The Hungarians afterward held an indignation meeting and then paraded in a body to the jail where they overpowered the keeper and liberated the prisoners.

The Poles objected to the action of the Hungarians and a race war commenced, lasting three hours, during which there was a reign of terror, all the saloons in the town being taken possession of and the officers driven off.

Over thirty men were injured, ten fatally. Many windows were broken with stones and clubs. Shortly before midnight Deputy Sheriff Craig and an armed posse overawed the rioters and restored peace. Many arrests will follow.

SIAM'S REPLY.

Consents to a Delimitation of the Frontiers at Certain Points.

PARIS, July 23.—Siam's reply was handed to M. Pavie, French minister resident in Bangkok, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The 48 hours allowed by France's ultimatum for a reply had not then expired. The communication says:

"M. Le Ministre: In reply to the communication which, by order of your government, you handed to me on Thursday, July 20, at 6.45 in the evening, his majesty, the king, charges me to make to you the following declaration.

His majesty submits to the pressure of circumstances in order to restore peace to his people and security to the numerous commercial interests at stake in his country. He, therefore, consents to a delimitation of the frontiers between Siam and Cambodia. All the territory on the left bank of the Mekong river south of a line drawn from the most northly of the Siamese military posts recently occupied by the Franco-Annamite troops to another point situation in the same latitude—that is on the 18th degree, north latitude—will be regarded as Annamite and Cambodia territory, the river below the point indicated becoming the line of separation between the neighboring states as far as to the point which the river enters Cambodian territory.

The Bangkles will be liberated and other satisfaction demanded will, if necessary, be given, so far as compatible with ordinary justice and independence of the Siamese government, which the French government has declared its desire to respect. The four persons guilty of acts of personal aggression contrary to national or international law, against French subjects, will be punished, and where necessary, compensation in money will be made to the relatives of the victims.

The Reply Unsatisfactory.

PARIS, July 24.—At midnight it is stated that the Siamese reply to France's ultimatum is considered unsatisfactory. M. Pavie will probably leave Bangkok on Wednesday to go aboard the cruiser Forfait.

A NEGRO ASSAILANT CAPTURED.

Charles G. Fields Arrested for Assaulting S. Wilson Lawrence.

PALMER, Mass., July 23.—The negro who so brutally assaulted S. Wilson Lawrence on Wednesday, was captured last evening at Gilbertville. He gives his name as Charles G. Fields and his residence at no place, but lately on the California coast. The name is doubtless correct, as he has in his pocket a deed for a piece of property in Washington Territory, which he says he bought with his earnings before he started east last fall.

Joseph Jefferson Said to Be Failing—Afflicted with a Cancer.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The Press says: "Joseph Jefferson, the veteran actor, is near death, and a cancerous affection of the neck is the cause of it. Mr. Jefferson's physicians have been so far steadily baffled by his disease, which is attributed partly to an inherited intensity and partly to carelessness in treatment of a boil that appeared near his cervical vertebrae some time ago. However, the general mystery thrown about the malady renders an accurate diagnosis almost impossible to obtain.

Curiously enough the secret nearly leaked out a week ago and through a misunderstanding the comedian's warm friend, President Cleveland, was credited with cancerous trouble instead of Mr. Jefferson. Of course a skillful physician may stave off the worst for some time to come, but it can be stated positively that radical measures must speedily be resorted to if America's comedian is not soon to go the way of Edwin Booth.

Death of a Catholic Pastor.

FALL RIVER, Mass., July 23.—The Rev. P. J. Doyle, pastor of the St. Peter's and St. Paul's churches, this city, is dead, aged 47 years. He was ordained a priest in the Providence cathedral April, 1877. He has pursued his theological studies at the Grand seminary in Montreal. He was sent here twelve years ago to establish the parish of which he had charge at time of his death. He was formerly curate in Woonsocket, Pawtucket and Attleboro. The funeral will take place Tuesday morning and interment will probably be at Providence.

JOSEPH L. DILL.

The Body of the Drowned Mason Fully Identified.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N. J., July 23.—The body that floated ashore here has been identified as that of Joseph L. Dill, of 258 West Twenty-second street, New York, employed as a salesman at 107 Chambers street. He was a member of Chancellor Walworth lodge 271, F. and A. M., Triune chapter, R. A. M. and Columbia Commandery No. 1, K. T., Mecca Temple. He was unmarried, aged 27.

Dill was on a Pennsylvania annex boat from Brooklyn last Sunday night, and while attempting to obtain a seat on the rail he fell backward into the water. Lester Genung, his uncle; Edgar M. Ayers, John R. Davies and Charles A. Benedict, the Carmine street undertaker, and Chief Rabban of Mecca Temple, Mystic Shrine, identified the body and took it to New York.

The identification was considered complete in view of the wire guage, pocket-piece, and Masonic emblems found in the pockets.

A PAINTER FALLS 60 FEET.

An Awning Broke His Fall and Saved Him From Instant Death.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 23.—Henry Murphy, a painter, fell from a staging 60 feet to the sidewalk, on Main street, Saturday, but his injuries are not thought to be fatal, although he is internally hurt. An awning broke his fall and saved him from instant death, as he struck square upon his head. Murphy and two companions were painting just under the eaves of the Citizens' building, a four-story business block, and Murphy's fall was the result of the sudden loosening of ropes not securely fastened. His two companions were on the other end of the staging and clung to the ropes until assistance came.

GUNN'S SWINDLES.

Commissioner Olney of the School Fund Goes to Lima to Investigate.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 23.—Hon. Jeremiah Olney, commissioner of the Connecticut school fund, arrived at Lima, Ohio, this morning to investigate the affairs of the funds missing from Agent R. L. Gunn. One or two cases of Gunn's fraud on the fund have been discovered. In one case he received $3,500 from the Hartford office to take up a prior mortgage and appropriated it to his own use. Mr. Olney has telegraphed here that he does not think the school fund will be a heavy loser.

The Statement Denied.

HARTFORD, Conn., July 23.—Supt. W. R. Baily of the Philadelphia, Reading & New England railroad promptly and emphatically denied the statement made in The Hartford Courant this morning that the Philadelphia & Reading road was to give up the New England division and that it was to pass into the control of the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

Brakeman Killed on the Consolidated.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 23.—John V. Sullivan, aged 28, unmarried, resident at No. 62 Carlisle street, this city, was run over and killed by a train on the Consolidated road this morning between Rye and Port Chester. He was a brakeman on the Harlem river freight and is supposed to have fallen from the train. The body was badly cut up and was picked up and brought to this city this morning.

FIGHT WITH A SWORDFISH.

How a Block Island Sea Captain Worsted His Adversary.

The waters of the ocean around Block Island never were so filled with the monster swordfish as at the present time, and all the fishermen are having remarkable luck and some narrow escapes while pursuing this monster of the deep. One encounter which came to the knowledge of a Norwich gentleman while visiting the sea-girt island was very thrilling and exciting. Capt. L. R. Stadman, of the boat Bessie Fish, while hunting for swordfish came upon a large specimen and was successful in harpooning.

Then he went out in his small boat to secure the prize. While bringing him to the surface, the fish turned and drove his sword completely through the bottom of his dory, the sword projecting through the bottom about a foot. Captain Stadman did not lose his presence of mind, but grasped the sword with both hands and in his struggles the fish broke his sword off close to the bottom of the dory and dove for the bottom of the ocean.

Keenly alive to the peril of his position, the ready-witted Block Islander ripped off his vest, and plugging up the perforated boat, which had partly filled with water, put back to his larger craft. A canvas patch temporarily repaired the damage, and rowing again to the scene of the affray, the now defenseless, but infuriated fish, was landed safe on the deck.

Captain Stadman presented the fateful piece of sword to his Norwich friend, who prized it highly, not only as a memento of the peculiar conflict, but as a remembrance of one of the best and most careful of the Block Island captains. The wife of the gentleman possesses a sword measuring over four feet, taken from a 520 pound fish, also the gift of the captain.

PUTNAM.

Liquor Dealers Fined

Justice Johnson on Saturday heard the cases against Louis Chapdelaine, William Shepley and Nazaire Pellican for selling intoxicating liquors. They were found guilty. The three paid $40 and costs, amounting to $60 each. The cases against Peter St. George and Jerry Labby were adjourned until Saturday, July 29

WHITE CITY DESERTED SUNDAY.

All Buildings Closed—Gondolas Tied Up—No Apparent Life.

ALSO DULL OUTSIDE THE GATES.

Where the Crowd Was Small and the Side Shows Did Nothing.

CHICAGO, July 23.—The White City was deserted today and the sun shone upon desolate thoroughfares, lonely Columbian guards and a few inhabitants of Midway Plaisance, who had left that quarter early in the day to view the big buildings in the park.

All buildings were closed and the sign "closed today" placed on the doors on a few of the state houses were entirely unnecessary, as there were no persons in the park who cared to do any visiting or sightseeing. All the electric and steam launches and gondolas were tied up, no fountain was playing, the thousands of booths were barren of wares, their handsome saleswomen were absent, and altogether it was the most completely closed Sunday the World's fair has known. Only two gates were open, and they were for passholders.

There was no trouble of any kind from persons wishing to enter the grounds. The nearest approach to a disturbance was at 9 o'clock when a drink flushed individual mounted a box across the street from the Fifty-seventh street entrance and called vociferously for one hundred volunteers to aid him in tearing down a section of the fence to allow people to see the fair free. A policeman stopped the harangue, however, and took the old man away in a patrol wagon.

The crowds outside the gates along Stoney Island avenue were small during the entire day and the numerous side shows did nothing.

Toward noon today a man appeared at the 64th street gate and offered a ticket for admission and was refused. He then took the numbers of the gatemen who refused to let him in. It is supposed he was securing evidence for prosecuting the exposition for contempt of court, Judge Stein having granted an injunction to restrain the officers from closing the fair Sundays.

Doors of the New Hampshire Trust Co. Closed.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 23.—Late Saturday evening Bank Commissioner James O. Lyford served the papers closing the doors of the New Hampshire Trust company of this city. This action was taken after full consultation with the officers of the institution and for the protection of its depositors and creditors. The suspension will be but temporary. In an interview Mr Lyford says: "There is no occasion for alarm on account of this action taken by the bank commissioner either among depositors of the New Hampshire Trust company and the people holding its securities, or among people who are depositors of the savings banks of the state. The company has a paid up capital of $500,000.

Fatal Accident on the B. & A.

ASHLAND, Mass., July 23.—A fatal accident occurred on the Boston & Albany railroad at Cordaville station last night. During the shower a milk wagon attempted to cross the track and was struck by the New York express, due in Boston at 10 p. m. James Howe, the driver, was killed. The wagon and contents were demolished.

Shooting Affray at Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, July 23.—A shooting affray which nearly resulted in a murder occurred this morning. James Tuttle, better known as "Texas Jim," shot a young man named Thomas Ryan. Ryan and several companions were showing attention to Tuttle's wife, when the latter opened fire, hitting Ryan in the thigh. He has not been captured.

Yacht Capsized and Three Men Drowned.

BOSTON, July 23.—An unnamed yacht, owned by Thomas W. Johnson, was struck by a sudden squall about 3 p. m. while off Fawn Bar buoy, east of Deer Island, and three men were drowned.

Sloop Capsized Off Penfield Light.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 23.—Sloop Agent, hailing from Branford and bound for Perth Amboy, was struck by a squall off Penfield reef light this morning and capsized. Captain Proutt and crew were taken up by the tug Zouave of New York and brought to this city. She will be righted tomorrow.

South Carolina Pastor Called to New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 23.—The Congregation Mishkan Israel of Court street, this city, has extended a call to Rev. Dr. David Levy of Charleston, S. C., to assume pastoral charge. Dr. Levy has labored in Charleston for seventeen years and is said to be a very eloquent preacher and quite popular in the south.

Suicide at Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 23.—Harvey Custer, aged 25, committed suicide early this morning. Custer was deeply in love with Mamie Johnson, a young woman belonging to a fast house in this city. A letter was found on his person. It stated that he was tired of living and requested that he be buried just as he was in Potter's field. It is also said that he had a brother in Fort Smith, Ark. When the Johnson woman was informed of Custer's death this morning she refused to go to the hospital and took no interest in the affair. Custer was a popular young man. He has no relatives in Hartford county. He is supposed to have taken poison as he showed the Johnson woman two small vials yesterday and said he was going to kill himself.

Reported Loss of Life From a Sailboat.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., July 23.—It is reported here tonight that a sailboat with four persons was upset near Middletown this afternoon and that three of the occupants were drowned.

Death of a "Forty-Niner" at Middletown.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., 23.—Benjamin Starr, aged 83 years, a "forty-niner," who went around Cape Horn in a sailing vessel for the diggins, died in the insane asylum today. He was a private patient. Before his illness he was quite prominent in city municipal affairs. He leaves three nephews and a niece.

Father Kennedy's Generosity.

The choir of St. Patrick's church went to the Lake View house, Gardner's lake, Sunday, where they were served with one of Landlord Courtemanche's best dinners. The dinner was a complimentary one from the Rev. Father Kennedy, and was enjoyed by fifty persons. During the day the party was granted all the privileges of the place by the proprietor, and enjoyed all the pleasures to be found in that beautiful spot. The choir returned home in the early evening.

A DAY AT THE BEACH.

The Bathing Hour at Watch Hill and What It Afforded.

A trip to the shore resorts Saturday proved that in spite of the bugbear of business depression, the counter attractions of the World's fair, difficulty of obtaining the despised silver dollar, and the lateness of the arrival of the hot wave, the hotels are doing quite the average business for July, with prospects of a rich harvest during August.

The scene upon the beach at the bathing hour was a busy one.

Strand and sea were gay with life and color. A half dozen bright parasols marked a circle of gurgling girls surrounding a weary, lonesome man with the desperation born of despair. The everlasting, everpresent baby-carriage ran down some supercilious leader of cotillons from the hotel, who deliberately remarked to his companions as he surveyed the motley crowd in the water, "Gad! Wot a gang there is, anyway!" and guessed he'd bathe later on. The up-country jay—male and female—down to the shore for an outing, ran down the sands and plunged into the surf with every shrill variety of shriek and splash, and swallowing of unexpected waves, and horse-play generally.

Every variation of bathing suit, from the correct Asbury Park type surmounted by a lemon colored straw hat, that might do duty as a mandarin's umbrella, and tied down with red braid, worn by the day visitor, to the natty suit whose fit and finish said as unmistakably as though one had seen the label, "Redfern, Ladies' Tailor," lingered on the sands or bobbed up and down in the water.

The crowd was generous and did not laugh when the stout man with a scant suit and the lean man with a roomy one passed by in the procession to the waves; neither did it change countenance when the heavy female in a costume which, far from being 1890 might appropriately be dated 1812, grasped the rope desperately, and danced up and down in an ample depth of water for an hour, to return with chattering teeth and inform some inquiring companion that it was "L-l-l-lovely!"

It concealed its amusement at the porpoise-like antics of the crack swimmer, and only wearily thought "How long, oh, Lord, how long?" when the lanky girl loped along the beach at a gait that would eternally damage the reputation of a trotting horse.

It was quietly aware, too, of the presence of "Jack" and "Ethel" and their fond mamma; of the presence of the stock exchange; of the spectacled professor, of the fond girl graduates who, with arms about each other waists, went languidly along the beach, surveying the face of the waters, as if as Dickens would say, they were waiting for some Ark to come and take them off. The crowd smiled good naturedly at the zebra-costumed youths and overdressed maids who, with giddy infantile pranks sat upon the strand, as though fearful of wetting their suits, meanwhile "showing off"—as our New England phrase is—with giggles and antics and weak jokes innumerable. Files of dripping, forlorn looking objects came up out of the waters so completely disguised that their own creditors would not have recognized them, and the spectators secretly wondered if there were not some market landscape gardener courageous enough to petition congress to everlastingly suppress that offensive monstrosity—the hired bathing suit.

All these and more the crowd upon the beach saw Saturday. It saw besides some really good swimming, one Norwich young lady striking out gracefully from the raft and reaching the Block Island's dock in a manner and at a speed that excited both admiration and astonishment.

MERCURY STANDS AT 135 DEGREES

Wyoming Suffering from the Hottest Weather for Eight years

NO RAIN FOR NINE WEEKS.

Fires Raging and Fields, Pastures, Fences and Corrals Destroyed.

BUFFALO, Wyoming, July 23.—For some days at Fort McKinney the temperature has been 128 degrees, while the mercury in the sun stands 130 to 135. This is the hottest weather in eight years. Not a drop of rain has fallen for nine weeks and the range is completely desolate. To the south west for twenty miles, fire has been burning with more or less intermittent severity since July 7. The fire at one time came down into the valley destroying all the fields, pastures, fences, corrals, etc. By great exertions the fire was checked.

Up Clear creek canon the fire is burning fiercely. The cavalry troops from Fort McKinney went out to extinguish it but nothing can be done without rain. Ten thousand acres of choice timber are already destroyed just east of Buffalo.

Another fire broke out in the Red Hills and is burning some ten square miles of grass, which was the last range feed in the locality. When the fire came into the flats approaching Buffalo all neighboring ranchers and some citizens and firemen from town fought it all night, getting it out off.

John Hillsberry was arrested and fined heavily for setting fires on the mountain, he having carelessly left a burning camp. To the north another huge timber fire is seen in Sheridan county.

Ice Factory Burned.

ROCKAWAY BEACH, N. Y., July 23.—The ice factory of Jameson & Bond, their coal and wood yard, stables, with eleven horses and the residence of John A. Bond were burned today. Loss $30,000, with very little insurance.

SPECIAL.

BE ON YOUR GUARD.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you in place of the "Royal" it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

To insure the finest cake, the most wholesome food, be sure that no substitute for Royal Baking Powder is accepted by you.

Nothing can be substituted for the Royal Baking Powder and give as good results.

What 48 Cents Will Do

Question. If 1 bottle of Knapp's Rootbeer Extract costs 25 cents, 4 pounds of granulated sugar costs 5¼ cents per pound, 1 cake of fresh compressed yeast costs 2 cents, and the 6 gallons of water required costs nothing, how much will the 48 pints thus made of Knapp's Rootbeer cost?

Answer.

1 bottle Extract	$ .25
4 pounds sugar	.21
1 cake yeast	.02
	48) .48

1 Cent per Pint.

None so good. None goes so far.

Prompt Work of the Department Prevents a Fire at the Fair Grounds.

CHICAGO, July 23.—Hereafter the fireworks will not be permitted on the fair grounds, or they will have to be set off away from the buildings. Last night a bomb was sent up and before it had reached a great height it exploded and the shell falling on the manufacturers' building, crashed through the skylight and set fire to the curtains stretched below. Had it not been for the prompt work of the department the building, and perhaps other buildings, would have been consumed. The firemen climbed 100 feet up into the beams and tore the curtains down before it reached any considerable headway.

T. E. McClenathan takes inventory the last of this month. It's a tedious job, and as he doesn't like tedious jobs, he would sooner sell millinery without regard to cost. As a result, for the balance of this month millinery will be sold cheap at his store.

N. S. Gilbert & Sons are showing a large assortment of dining room furniture, parlor suits, hall racks, carpets, etc. Just now, too, they are having a special sale of rugs at reduced prices. Remnants of carpets and wall paper are very cheap. It is a splendid time to fit up the house at a low cost. See advertisement.

You can't miss the bull's eye when you fire at Porteous & Mitchell's bargain target this season. You bring down a bargain every time you fire. The ladies, the gentlemen, the children, are all included in the shooting match, and when you use greenbacks for wads and silver for shot, you are sure of big game every time. Just try your luck this week. The law is off and you commit no depredation on their preserves, but have the privilege of hunting night and day. Clever ain't it?

NORWICH AND VICINITY.

Not a Question of Expense.

The New London Telegraph says: It was simply a question of expense that caused the Pequot Wheel club to withdraw from the Eastern Connecticut Cycling association, and not any dissatisfaction in regard to the distribution of offices, as a Norwich paper had it. The New Londoners looked the situation over carefully and could not see a return sufficient from a meet to warrant the necessary outlay.

Park Church Calendar.

The Park Congregational church has issued a calendar for the months of July and August, which states the day and hour of public service throughout the week, together with the leaders of the the Sunday evening meetings of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. A good picture of the church ornaments the cover. The card is a neat and attractive one.

City Court.

Patrick McMahon of Westerly and John Halsey of Norwich were found guilty of drunkenness in the police court Saturday morning and fined $5 and costs each. McMahon's bill was $9 58, and Halsey's $10 58. The prisoners were short of funds and were committed to the Hotel Champlin.

The continued case against James Osborne, accused of theft, was called for trial. Probable cause was found for holding Osborne for trial at the next term of superior court. In default of a $500 bond he was committed.

James Finnegan paid $3 53 to settle a continued case against him for over driving a horse.

ISRAEL PUTNAM'S CANE.

An East India Walking Stick One Hundred and Forty Years Old.

A member of THE BULLETIN staff has just come into possession of an historic cane which was brought from Havana by Israel Putnam at the close of the hostilities between the English and the Spanish upon the island of Cuba in 1762.

When walking through the streets of the city one afternoon, Putnam, then a man more than 40 years of age, saw a Spanish planter in the act of striking a slave with an East Indian bamboo cane. Putnam, with his accustomed indignation at such treatment of a slave, wrested the stick from the hands of the Spaniard and, although pursued, reached his companions' tanks in safety. The negro whom he had befriended followed him, begging to be his servant for life. Putnam carried him home to Massachusetts at his own peril, emancipated him, and never after that, until the patriot died at his beloved home in Salem, did the faithful black desert his protector.

The details of Putnam's relation to the slave are recorded in a diary kept by the former. When the general died in 1790, at the age of seventy-two, the cane, at his wish, became the property of his faithful servant. At his death, several years later, the cane was reclaimed by the descendants of General Putnam, and after a lapse of ninety years was presented to its present owner by a great grandson of "Old Put."

In the general's diary, under date of Oct 8 1789, is found the following entry:

"Walked out today, supported by my Havana cane, which is a necessity in my present infirmity, and which I never carry without a recurrence of that day when I seized it."

General Putnam was at that time suffering from a stroke of paralysis, the disease from which he died.

The cane is well preserved, and has years more of wear in it. As a relic of one of America's greatest patriots it is indeed a cherished possession.

MODELS OF STEAMERS.

The City of Worcester in Miniature at the World's Fair.

In the Transportation building at the World's fair there is a collection of models of steamers, war ships and sailing craft such as never was brought together before. This collection also embraces large pictures of passenger steamers from the earliest period of steam navigation. There are pictures of the steamer United States, built in 1823, and which ran out of New Haven, and of the steamer C. H. Northam, and representations of the new steamers Hartford and the Nutmeg State.

Pictures of the steamer Rhode Island of 1836 Massachusetts of 1836 the Commonwealth of 1855 and the old Plymouth Rock, all of the old Stonington and New York line, belonging to the collection. The steamer Rhode Island of 1878 the Massachusetts and Connecticut (side wheels) and the propellers Maine and New Hampshire of the present Stonington and Providence steamship lines, controlled by the Consolidated road, are finely brought out in engravings. There are also engravings of the City of Worcester, City of New York and City of Lawrence of the Norwich and New York Transportation company.

One of the best things in this collection of steamers is a large model of the steamer Richard Peck of New Haven.

There is also a gilt model of the steamer City of Worcester, the flagship of the Norwich & New York Transportation company's fleet. This was the first palace iron steamer built in the United States. Its speed is twenty miles an hour and freight capacity 180 cars. The hull is 350 feet in length. She is driven by a surface condensing beam engine with cylinder ninety inches in diameter. The paddle wheel in the model revolves by some concealed power and a music box plays at intervals.

MAJOR J. A. TIBBITS DEAD.

Career of the Brave Soldier and Talented Lawyer and Orator.

The many Norwich friends of Major John A. Tibbits were pained to hear of his death at 8 o'clock Saturday morning, at his cottage on Pequot avenue, New London.

John Arnold Tibbits was born in New London in February, 1844. His mother survived his birth but a little while, and the care and training of his boyhood devolved upon his stepmother.

His school days were a record of creditable achievement, and later at Williams college, where, though his stay was but half the usual course, his abilities attracted the attention of the faculty and enlisted their good will and encouragement in the endeavor to win honors which were in easy reach to one so gifted by nature.

Like many other young men who were entering upon the serious business of life at the outbreak of the war, service to his country had the first claim, and though he had begun with Judge George Goddard the study of law, his chosen profession, it was interrupted for several years while he was at the front. His military record was one to be proud of and his comrades in the fighting Fourteenth were always his cherished friends in after life.

Major Tibbits' military career began with his enlistment in the Fourteenth C. V., which left the state August 25, 1862, and was in action for the first time September 17, at Antietam.

While crawling over a stone wall during the engagement Sergeant Tibbits, waving his sword in his right hand, was a mark for a sharpshooter and a minnie ball came whizzing through the air, striking the palm of his right hand and coursing up his arm to a point above his wrist where it came out. Nothing daunted by his wound he changed his sword to his left hand and was almost immediately struck by another ball which entered his left arm above the wrist and came out through the palm of his hand. These wounds placed him hors du combat. As soon after the engagement as possible he was sent home and for a long time remained there, until his wounds had healed and he was ready again to take up arms in defense of the country and his principles.

He was promoted to the second lieutenancy of Company F of the Fourteenth, and in that capacity participated in the battle of Gettysburg, where the Fourteenth bore a distinguished part and a full share of the glory of the day and the regiment was won by Lieutenant Tibbits. Subsequently he was appointed captain and commissary of subsistence and assigned to Custer's division under Sheridan, serving in the Shenandoah Valley. He was conspicuous for attention to duty and gallantry in action in this capacity as in the line, until the close of the war, and his term of service ended only with the end of the war after the terrible campaign of the Wilderness. He was brevetted major, a promotion he had earned, and his comrades in whatever branch of the service they had shared, sum up his qualifications and military career by saying he was a good soldier.

Mr. Tibbits' journalistic career was a long and brilliant one. The first newspaper work he did was for The Day and consisted of letters from Bradford, describing phases of English life as it came under his observation.

About 1866 Major Tibbits began the study of the law with the Hon. Augustus Brandegee and almost simultaneously entered the political field, making speeches in the campaigns and doing yeoman service up to and including the last political campaign.

His political life was eminently characteristic of the man. He was an ardent partisan, believing in the principles and destiny of his party with a faith that never wavered and admitted of no compromise in thought, word or deed. But though he entered the lists at every political tourney and fought with a zeal and energy unsurpassed, even his bitterest party opponents were free to say that he was an honest politician, a distinction that is all the more honorable for its rarity.

He was an accomplished speaker, ready, graceful and forcible and possessed the gift of rousing his audiences to enthusiasm. In this state he had spoken in every town and hamlet.

In 1884 he made the campaign of Indiana with James G. Blaine and received many compliments from that gentleman on his ability, which were well merited, and could be classed as praises from Sir Hubert Stanley.

There has been no movement of importance to the city of New London in the past thirty years in which Major Tibbits did not have a hand, and he was wise in counsel and active in work for the city's good. He bore his share of municipal service, having been judge of the police court, a member of the board of education, city attorney, and twice he has represented the town in the general assembly, the last time in the session of 1885, his town and himself having been honored by his election to the speaker's chair, in which place he won the praise of the press of the state without distinction of party, for his able and impartial management of the affairs of the house.

Major Tibbits' first federal office was the gift of General Grant's administration, an appointment as Pacific railroad director on behalf of the United States government. This was early in the seventies and in 1877 President Hayes appointed him collector of the port of New London. At the expiration of his term he was reappointed by President Arthur. His administration of the trust was businesslike and acceptable to all who had any connection with the office.

The last office filled by Major Tibbits was United States consul at Bradford, England, a position he had but recently vacated. This appointment to such an important consulate was a source of much pride and gratification to his friends, who had felt that the party had never before adequately recognized the long and valuable services of Major Tibbits. A brilliant career was predicted for him in England, which was but partially realized owing to his ill health, which continued during his entire stay abroad.

In Bradford the public appearances of Major Tibbits stamped him in the English mind as an accomplished speaker, and his administration of the consular office was exceptionally good and satisfactory to the Bradford merchants. They took pleasure in testifying to their esteem for the American consul by paying unusual honors when the time came for his departure for home, and his family have souvenirs of his residence in Bradford that show the affection and regard of their English friends.

It is rather a singular commentary on politics that as prominent a factor as was Major Tibbits in all the political moves in Connecticut, yet he was never a candidate on the state ticket. In 1886, however, he was brought forward as a candidate for governor on the republican ticket, but coming late into the field, already occupied by two candidates of unusual strength, he had but one chance in the possible division of the convention so evenly that neither of the prominent candidates could hope to win, in which case the prize would have gone to the major without dispute and he would have been elected by the people beyond a doubt, as he had numerous assurances of support from the younger element of the democratic party that would have materialized on election day and made him the choice of the people.

The several occupations of Mr Tibbits' busy life at times divorced him from the law.

After he was admitted to practice he formed a law partnership with ex-Governor Waller, his life-long friend, which was mutually satisfactory and closed only on account of other duties absorbing the major's time. When ex Governor Waller's turn came to leave the practice of the law to serve the government abroad as consul general at London, he instinctively turned to Major Tibbits to fill his place in his law firm, which became Waller, Tibbits & Waller, and continued in successful practice until the major left for his own post in Bradford.

His wife and one son survive him. Mr. Tibbits was half brother to Miss Kate and Messrs. Henry W. and Edward H. Tibbits of this city.

WILLIMANTIC.

Merchants' Day Celebration—Mr. Henry Returns Home—Silk Mills to Run on Half Time.

A meeting will be held in the town hall on Tuesday evening to see what action will be taken in relation to celebrating merchants' day, which comes the first Thursday in August. A number of citizens have expressed themselves as being in favor of having the excursion to Watch Hill or some nearby resort, which always means an early start and a late return.

The remains of Harry, the little son of Mr and Mrs. E. M. Dorman, who died in Niantic Thursday, were brought here Friday and the funeral services were held Saturday afternoon, Miss Annie Tingley officiating.

Charles A. Henry, who left his home in this city so suddenly Thursday night, returned early Saturday morning and is now at home with his family, who have returned also. Mr. Henry says he does not remember a single thing he did the day he went away, and when he came to a sense of realization he was in New York city. It was then that he turned around and made rapid progress homeward. It is thought that he was suffering from a temporary aberration of the mind. We are all glad to see him back again, and wish him a speedy recovery.

A special borough meeting will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock to see what action will be taken relative to the boundary lines for the new Murray block. It is a pity that certain people should interfere with Mr. Murray, or any other man who buys up an old piece of property that adds anything but beauty to Main street, and erects a handsome and substantial structure in its place.

Commencing this week the Natchaug Silk company will run their mills on half time for several weeks.

Assistant Postmaster Wm. B Avery is enjoying a ten days' vacation and spends the most of the time at the sea shore.

EXPERIMENT TRIED IN NEW YORK.

Croton Water Made Drinkable by the Electrical Fluid.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The continuing agitation of the purity and the flavor of the water supply is bearing fruit in the current experiments of the health board with new methods of filtration. For two weeks past Dr. Cyrus Edson of the board has been making laboratory tests of an electrical process for purification, discovered by Dr. Albert Wolff, a pupil of Dr. Doremus, and he professes himself so far convinced of its efficiency as to counsel further experiments on a large scale at some cost to the city. The Wolff process is not designed to purify any water however foul, but rather to improve the condition of an ordinary supply like that furnished by the Croton system, making it clear, sparkling, palatable and harmless.

The purifying liquid is obtained by the passing of a strong electric current through a reservoir of salt water. Ten drops of it, says Dr. Edson, are sufficient to make a gallon of Croton from any trace of nitrites. Tests show that the liquid seems in no wise harmful to the water treated and that fish, for example, are unaffected by it.

If the municipal authorities undertake an experimental plant, a station will be built and equipped with engines, dynamos and the like at a cost of $5000 or $6000. For the brine, pure water will be obtained from springs or by filtration. This, placed in great tanks traversed by coils of wire, will be treated by electricity and in due time after the chemical action by which the purifying properties are obtained, be discharged in very small proportion by force pumps into the water to be cleansed. The estimated working expense of the process when once the plant is set up, is declared to be only $4 and an engineer's wages per day. Dr. Edson will make further tests before he submits a final report, and already he speaks warmly of the worth of the new process.

BRAVE KING CARLOS.

Saves a Young Man From Death at Hands of a Ruffian.

LONDON, July 22.—The Lisbon correspondent of The Times says that while driving from the Cintra railway station to the Pena palace on Thursday evening, King Carlos saw a powerful man trying to kill a young man whom he had thrown to the ground. The king was alone with his aide-de-camp. He jumped from the carriage and seized the arm of the large man, at the same time calling to the young man on the ground to make his escape.

The aide-camp ran to the king's assistance when he saw there was danger of a fight. The big man knocked down the aide and turned back on the king, who dealt him a hard blow on the head with a walking stick. The ruffian tried to draw a knife and a revolver, but he was overpowered by the king, who delivered him 10 minutes later to the police.

The fight took place on a lonely road, almost untraveled at the late hour when the king and aide were riding over it. The king was uninjured. His aide was badly bruised.

COLOMBIAN PIRATES.

Rob Schooner, Captain and Passengers of All Valuables.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A special from Panama to The Herald says: Advices from Curacoa, W. I., say that the Clamascia, a small Venezuelan schooner from Maracaibo, was recently blown up on the Colombian coast of Goajira, near Punta Arenas. She was finally floated off the rocks and proceeded to Curacoa.

Her captain reports that the schooner was attacked by about 200 men who were supposed to be Indians. They were armed with rifles and compelled the captain and four passengers to surrender their valuables, and also took off the entire cargo of the schooner.

WORKING ON THE MESSAGE.

President Cleveland and Secretary Lamont With Coats Off.

GRAY GABLES BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., July 22.—President Cleveland and Secretary of War Lamont are said to be at work preparing the message which is to be sent to congress when it comes into special session in August. The two statesmen denied themselves to all callers Saturday and nothing could be learned as to the report circulating in New York in regard to federal appointments.

It is generally believed that the appointments will be delayed until congress meets. After luncheon the president and Secretary Lamont went on a fishing trip with Dr. Bryant.

MINISTER QUINBY SAYS

Money Is Scarce Because People Are Hoarding to Visit World's Fair.

NEW YORK, July 22.—William E. Quinby, late editor of the Detroit Free Press and present United States minister to the Hague, left this city yesterday on the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm II for his post of duty. In answer to the question of a newspaper representative as to the present depression in the country he said it was largely a money panic. Business men in the west, especially retailers were doing a good business. The depositors were the frightened people.

"I can cite," he said, "a good instance in my city to illustrate the panic among depositors. Some time ago a safe deposit vault was advertised extensively, but the patronage amounted to almost nothing. But now the small vaults or pigeon holes are all taken and the demand is for more. The pigeon holes are filled with money taken from the banks by frightened depositors. They are willing to lose their interest if they can only keep their principal safe. Once confidence is restored the banks will have plenty of money.

Another thing, I think, that is making money scarce is the fact that many thousands of people are saving their money to go to the World's fair. Perhaps 2,000,000 are saving, say, $100 each, which will make the enormous sum of $200,000,000 temporarily hoarded. When this money begins to circulate it will help to relieve the financial situation." The minister said the people in his section favored the repeal of the Sherman law.

SAME OLD STORY.

Affairs in South America Still in Serious Condition.

NEW YORK, July 22.—A cable dispatch to The Herald from Managua, Nicaragua, says: Hope for the settlement of the trouble in Nicaragua without bloodshed has been abandoned. President Zavala's overtures for peace were answered yesterday by the revolutionists in a way that could not be misunderstood. The steamer seized by the insurgents of Leon Friday bombarded Mateare, where the government troops are encamped. Their fire was returned and two steamers were struck by shells from the government battery. Reinforcements are now marching to Mateare, and General Aviles will today conduct the field operations.

It is reported that President Ezeta of Salvador has discovered a conspiracy against him. Twenty-three of the conspirators were shot, among them General Aviles.

General Bonilla of Honduras is here awaiting an opportunity to go to Honduras and organize another revolt against General Vasquez.

PAYMASTER DOESN'T PAY.

So Uncle Sam Will Court Martial Him For His Negligence.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Failure to pay his debts has brought Major J. W. Wham, paymaster U. S. A., into trouble. A court martial will follow, if the recommendations of the paymaster general are approved by Secretary Lamont. General Smith is forwarding a score or more of unpaid bills to the secretary of war, recommended that charges be formulated and a court martial ordered for Major Wham's trial.

The bills are accompanied by numerous letters from Major Wham's creditors complaining of their repeated unsuccessful efforts to collect the money due them, some of them alleging that the debts were contracted on the strength of his position as an army officer.

The papers are now waiting the action of the secretary of war, and there is little doubt that he will carry out General Smith's recommendations, for in similar cases he has brought several officers to prompt account for repeated failures to pay their debts.

WATER FAMINE FEARED.

Orders Will Be Issued to Cease Using for Lawns and Gardens.

MILFORD, Mass., July 22.—There is fear of a water famine in Uxbridge. The continued dry spell shows conclusively the need of an increased water supply, which leading citizens tried strenuously to obtain a few months ago. The water in the reservoir has been lowered five inches in 24 hours, leaving only five feet yesterday. At this rate of depletion, it will take but a short time to use all the water.

The water commissioners will soon issue orders to cease using water for lawns and gardens, in order to spare it for domestic purposes; and should the dry weather be much longer protracted, the supply will have to be curtailed for domestic use.

Ultimatum With a Threat.

BANGKOK, July 22.—M. Pavie, French minister resident, handed France's ultimatum to Prince Devawongse, Siamese minister of foreign affairs, on Friday, and informed the Siamese government that in case France's demands should be refused, he would at once leave Bangkok to board the gunboat Forfait. The blockade of the Siamese coast, he added, would be declared at once.

Church Partly Burned.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 22.—The Summerfield Methodist Episcopal church on Barnum avenue, East end, was partially burned early Saturday morning. The structure was a large one of wood, and was built in 1872 at a cost of $15,000. The present pastor of the church is Rev. W. S. Manahip. The loss will amount to $3000 and is covered by insurance.

Consumers Must Be Saving.

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., July 22.—The Whitin Machine Works company has posted notices to be saving of spring water, as the supply is getting low. A new reservoir was built about a year ago, and the supply is now coming from that. As soon as the water reaches a higher mark, it will be turned on from the old reservoir.

The English Miners Firm.

LONDON, July 22.—A conference was held here between a deputation appointed by the Miners' Federation at Birmingham and representatives of the Mine Owners' association. The conference was fruitless, as the miners' deputation refused to either accept a 25 per cent. reduction of wages or to submit the question to arbitration.

Germany Sends War Ships.

BERLIN, July 22.—The German government will send several men-of-war to Siam to protect the German residents and their interests. This step is taken partly in response to the urgent request of the Hanse cities, which have commercial relations with Siamese ports.

Cholera Infantum Raging.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22.—Cholera infantum is still raging in Buffalo. During the last three days, 31 deaths have occurred. The total number of deaths from the disease for the week ending Friday is 81.

THROUGH BLINDING SMOKE.

Guests of Hotel at East Pepperell Make Their Escape.

EAST PEPPERELL, Mass., July 22.—An Alarm of fire was pulled in from box 27 at 3:40 Saturday morning for a fire discovered by the night watchman in the basement of the new Prescott.

The 40 guests in the building were promptly aroused by the watchman, several being obliged to rush through the blinding smoke partially dressed.

Both the main building and the annex were threatened with total destruction, but the fire was got under control by the fire department after a stubborn fight. The new Prescott is a large 4-story building, built two years ago, and is the principal hotel of the place. It is owned by George H. Johnson, and with its contents is valued at $40,000. The loss will not exceed $1000, and is covered by insurance.

INDIANS REMOVED.

Men Condemned to Be Shot at Red Oak to Prevent Rescue.

MCALLISTER, I. T., July 22.—The nine condemned Choctaw Indians, who were to have been shot July 7 and were respited to Aug. 4, have been removed from the Gaines county jail to Red Oak, in Sugar Loaf county. They are now confined in a private house there under a strong guard.

It is not known why they were removed, but it is believed the action was taken to checkmate an attempt to rescue them by the Jackson-Locke faction. A large number of Indians have been in town for a number of days—all members of the Jackson crowd—and they are believed to have been in war council planning the rescue of the condemned men.

Maharajah of India Arrives.

NEW YORK, July 22.—His Highness Yegatjit Singh, Maharajah of Kapurthala, reached this city by the steamer Paris. He is accompanied by one of his wives and quite a distinguished suite. The Maharajah is 21 years old and very muscular. He is a Sikh, and wears long hair concealed beneath a turban. Mrs. Singh—that is, the Mrs. Singh who is with his highness—is but 17 years old, and dresses like an English girl. After remaining a few days in this city his highness will go to Chicago.

Senator Stanford's Successor.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—A local paper states that Governor Markham has decided to appoint Irwin C. Stump to succeed the late Senator Stanford. Stump was chairman of the Republican state committee during the late campaign. He is a wealthy man, has large mining interests and is one of the executors of the estate of the late Senator Hearst.

Said the man to the Irish boy: "What are you fishing for?" "Frogs," said the boy. "What do you bait with?" "I bate 'em wid a stick," replied the boy. Frogs and some people's ideas about paints are the same as they were a hundred years ago. The Chilton Paint Co. is trying to convince the public that given the proper materials, mixed and ground by the proper machinery, the result can but be a better paint than it is possible to make by hand. Does it not seem reasonable that where the materials used in making a paint are seven times passed through machinery that does not vary in its action, the mixture is going to be more perfect than where a man or boy stirs them with a stick, adding a little oil, stirring a few times, then a little more lead and color, a few more stirs with the stick, until he gets tired and says he guesses it will do. Think this over. You must see that the man cannot do the work of a machine. We have the latest and best paint machinery that can be bought.

TOMB OF THE PROPHET DANIEL.

To Judge From Its Size the Great Man Was Eighty Feet Tall.

Since Samarcand has been a portion of the Russian dominions it has become easy to visit. The traveler from Europe can reach the old capital of Tamerlane by the Transcaspian railway, which the Russian government has constructed across the Toorkoman deserts with so much boldness and which was finished as far as Samarcand six years ago. Less than three miles to the northeast of Samarcand and outside of the extreme limits of the ancient city is a tomb which is called Khodja-Daniar. This tomb, according to the Mussulman legends, is the burial place of the Prophet Daniel. The spot where this tomb stands is called Afrousiab, and there are seen ruins which are very probably those of the ancient city of Maracanda, destroyed by Alexander the Great.

This was an immense town, whose walls, we are told, had a compass of 90 stadia, or about 10 miles. It is separated from Samarcand by a naked hill, the soil of which is one vast cemetery. The sepulcher of Khodja-Daniar is built on a sort of terrace or cornice. A half dozen great masts, from the tops of which hang some sacred rags or tougs made of horse tails, the height of which is proportioned to the importance of the saint, rise above the sarcophagus, which stands in the open air, sheltered by no building of any kind. This sarcophagus is constructed with heavy masonry. The saint who reposes there is beyond a doubt really dead, but his mode of behavior is more than curious since, though dead, he continues to grow constantly in his sepulcher.

Every two or three years the mollahs, who are the guardians of the palace, determine by a learned calculation, the data of which I was not able to learn, how much it is proper to lengthen the sepulcher in order to make its dimensions correspond to those of its tenant. To judge from the present length of the tomb, the height of the Prophet Daniel was or should have been at the date of my visit in 1891 about 80 feet. His height must be a little more now. It should be observed that the growth of the saint is in length only and not in breadth. The development of the breadth of his shoulders is not in proportion to that of his height.—Revue des Deux Mondes.

The Value of Condiments.

Peppers and peppery substances, salts, etc., were destined to occupy a place in the history of edible foods—a supplementary one, it is true, but no less important than the position of executive officer on a ship which has a captain in command. The normal digestive fluids furnish the means for disposing of foods taken into the system—that is, for those those which are of a character necessary for the actual nourishment of the body. They do not, however, have sufficient strength to use up the superfluous matters in their ordinary flowing. A condiment stimulates the secretions of the glands and lends such an activity to digestive powers that there is a remarkable contrast between a condimental and a natural meal. Peppers are not to be recommended to any great extent, neither is common salt alone to be advised. A proper mixture of salt, pepper and celery powder makes a very good seasoning, with sufficient pungency to secure what is desired in the way of a relish.—Jenness Miller Magazine.

Securing the Honey From Bees.

The labor of honey raising has been materially lessened for the bees by modern improvements, and they seem proportionately grateful. The bees no longer make their own cells, which are produced by machinery out of wax. These artificial cells are placed in the hive, and the bees seem to be glad to get rid of the labor of making them. Immediately they get to honey making. This business they conduct alone. When the cells are full, the hive must be watched from without, lest the bees begin to seal them up, which they do in order to lay up their winter's food.

To guard against this, additional cells are put on top of the hive called supers. In these the bees deposit their extra store, and this is reserved for their winter outfit. When the bees begin to seal the cells, the box is removed, a small machine is put inside which is set vibrating, and this empties the cells of their honey, which is drawn off, and the cells having been drained are put back to be refilled.—Exchange.

A Story About a Story.

Mrs. E. P. Terhune (Marion Harland) tells a curious bit of fact in connection with one of her earlier novels, "Ruby's Husband." The novelist was living in Newark at the time of its writing, and on her frequent trips over the Jersey flats to New York her attention was often centered upon a long, low roofed white house visible in the far distance from the cars. She knew nothing of it nor of its inmates but its isolation, and on late winter afternoons its single eye of light streaming eerily across the stretch of marshland attracted her storytelling instinct, and she wove the tale about it.

Long afterward she found that it was occupied by a squatting character very similar to the horsy Nick Sloane and actually having his initials, and he had, too, a young daughter, whose beauty was as remarkable for her environment as was that of the brilliant and unscrupulous Ruby. In the story Nick Sloane is killed in a runaway accident, and out of it the tenant of the meadow house came to a violent death by the cars, several years after "Ruby's Husband" became popular.

Thank Offerings.
